The Putnam water question has slowly faded to the background during the past month and now is only occasionly mentioned when someone wishes to compare the people of Putnam to those of California. In a Putnam local paper a correspondent wishes to know "If Putnam people are trying to build something to destroy themselves like the people of California?" Many articles and questions similar to this one have appeared and have caused much merriment on the part of the backers of the steel tanks and little disgust from the supporters of the concrete reservoir plan. A public statement came from the office of City Engineer George W. Perry last week and was signed by him. Engineer Perry stated in his open letter that he had been many times misrepresented by the supporters of the concrete reservoir plan and that it had hurt him considerably in the public eye.

Mr. Perry has been city engineer in Putnam for over eighteen years and during that time he has built up an honest reputation as an engineer in Putnam, but in many instances he has been misquoted, recently in handbills that were circulated urging the people of Putnam to vote for the concrete reservoir previous to the special city meeting.

City Engineer Perry stated in his open letter that the figures contained in the circular issued by the mayor and common council were obtained by the water department and they (the mayor and council) of course assumed that the statement was practically correct. Mr. Perry further states that the distribution of anonymous circulars accusing the mayor and council of untruthfulness was to express it mildly, "most discourteous and inexcusable."

The Putnam lodge of Elks is now planning for its annual "Ladies night" and the following committee has been appointed to make the necessary arrangements for the annual Elk event: James E. Murray, chairman; Henry Wheelock, Louis Girard, Iver Nelson, and Lawrence Backus of Putnam, A. J. Dery of North Grosvenordale; Joseph Berht of Dayville; Allen Mospik of Moosup; E. M. Bartholmew of South-bridge; William Wheatley of Danielson. No date has been set as yet by the committee.

The last weekly card tournament between the Quinebaug lodge of Masons and the Putnam lodge of Elks will be played this Monday evening at Masonic club. During the winter months these two social and fraternal organizations have been playing a tournament over the tables that has caused the public eye to keep focused upon it, even though the Elks have won nearly two thirds of all the contests played. The tournament was started two years ago and was highly successful in its first year that it was made an annual affair by the members of both clubs. Last year the Elks were victorious and they successful repeated their deed this season, by a overwhelming score.

On Monday evening April 2, the Masons will serve the Elks a turkey supper in the Elks banquet rooms, the price they agreed to pay if they lost the tournament.

The state highway department is again under the obligation of repairing the highway fence on cemetery curve at the south end of Grove street near the Grove street cemetery as the result of a high speed motorist who tried to round the curve at a comparatively high rate of speed but failed and went through the fence that has so many times bowed to the force of automobiles sailing through. The owner of the car was not known and the occurence was not reported to the police. The car was not damaged from jumping off the highway.

James F. McKenna formerly of Mechanicsville and Putnam and now of Trenton, N. J., has been appointed to the New Jersey state police department. He has been a resident of New Jersey now for a period of three years and during that time he has appeared in many of the Trenton rings, previous to his appointment to the state constabulary.

Many members of the Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows left Putnam by bus on Saturday evening to attend a first degree session of the order in Springfield. Members from the Israel Putnam lodge reported that the trip was most pleasant and that the initiative ceremonies were very impressive. Officers of the grand lodge were present from Connecticut, Massachusetts and New York.

WESTERLY

BROKE INTO RESTAURANT, MACCIONE HELD AT JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 25.—Samuel Maccione, 19, son of Antonio Maccione of 5 Smith street, Pawcatuck, having admitted his complicity in the breaking and entering and theft of $23 from Crist Home Lunch restaurant of Crist Ferraro, off West Broad street, about 2.15 a. m. Saturday, was taken into custody Saturday morning by Patrolman C. Wilson Brown of Pawcatuck. Statements made at a late hour the previous night led the proprietor to inform Night Police Officer Adin R. Sheldon and a visit was made to Maccione's home where he was found in bed. On complaint of Prosecutor George R. McKenna he was given a hearing before Judge William A. Wilcox in Stonington town court on a breaking and entering charge in the night time and larceny. Dr. James H. Weeks was appointed the youth's guardian ad litem. He was found probably guilty and bound over by Judge Wilcox to the May session of the New London county superior court. In default of $1000 bonds required, Maccione was committed to the county jail in New London by Officer C. Wilson Brown.

As in a previous break entrance was gained at the rear of the lunch room and some of the food was devoured before the thief took his departure.

Dominic Negrelli, proprietor of a fruit store across the street, also complained that his place of business was entered and cigarettes and cigars stolen. This reported break remains unexplained.

Mrs. Mary Nichols Clark, 82, died on Saturday afternoon at her home, 33 Lester avenue, Pawcatuck, following one day's illness. She was the widow of Charles A. Clark. Mrs. Clark, who was born March 22, 1846, at Kingston, observed her 82nd birthday last Thursday. She spent much of her life at Hope Valley, where she was married August 17, 1862, just a week before her husband went to the Civil war. Mrs. Clark was the daughter of William Henry and Hannah Maria Caswell Carpenter. She was a member of Hope Valley Baptist church, Budlong Woman's Relief corps and Amos P. A collision occurred on West Broad street, Pawcatuck, between the 11.50 a. m. outward bound electric car for New London Sunday as it pulled onto the Pawcatuck river bridge and an Oldsmobile touring car owned and driven by Ellery D. Crumb, of 205 Main street, Westerly. The electric car in charge of Motorman Christopher Sylvia and the Crumb automobile were proceeding in opposite directions. In attempting to pass between the moving trolley car and a fruit truck of Domenic Nigrelli, parked near the drinking fountain, the auto was squeezed by the rear bumper of the electric car and a metal guard strip on the trolley punched the forward left-hand mudguard and ripped the metal strip and wood away from the trolley car bumper. No one was injured and with little delay both car and auto were able to proceed.

NOANK

Allen Lane, eight year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lane, after his school work is done early in the evening with a pen knife is making a schooner about 8 inches long just like an expert. The 40 blocks that hold the ropes were all made by hand. Two masts are in the boat. The young ship builder is working on steps that go over the side of the boat and even cut out the port light. The cabin is finished. Several of his friends went to his home and saw the ship. It was taken to an expert in Mystic who said he never saw anything like it. Young Lane has never spent much time on boats but reads a great deal. Cutting is his hobby and he can name every part of a boat as well as any sea captain. It will be a week or so before the ship will be ready to be put on exhibition.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gauthier of Montville is spending a few days in Noank.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Chapman of Norwich were at Groton Long Point on Friday.

Real spring days Friday and Saturday brought cottage owners from Hartford, Springfield and Boston down to Groton Long Point to see if the cottages were safe and to see if the winter storms did any damage to them or the high tide had carried away anything.

About forty were down. To see the autos going over to the point reminds people of a busy day in summer. Mr. Rugg of Westfield, Mass., was looking over his new cottage being built on the shore road. It is all framed on one side. The work is being rushed by Foreman Walter H. Wolverton to have it ready by the last of May. Elliott Bennett bet his foreman, Walter Wolverton a shaving outfit against a box of cigars that he could not make it by that date.

Bennett got the carpenter's horse laugh from his fellow workers over the bet, but he smiled and said "Time will tell!"

Ye Olde Tavern on Smith court for many years has been idle. Every window broken and the building looking as though a hurricane had hit it. At one time it was the leading hotel around this section and had 400 guests. The building is back from the water but it overlooks the harbor. It seemed a shame to let such a beautiful building rot away and not make it over to be used by the public. So four young men went down and looked over the hotel, found out who owns it and the property changed hands in less than a week. It was reported that they will make a basketball hall, 40x60 on the second floor, also use it for dancing. Big owner Roy Abate said that he would like to see every young fellow have a place to go for amusement. It is a great thing for the village people to realize that it is to be an up-to-date building.

Aunt Sarah Peabody club, known as "No Tobacco Users," held a Leap year party recently in their club rooms on Water street. The room was decorated with signs telling about leap year, also with red and black crepe paper. About 75 attended, members and their guests and one game was played to see or find out who was engaged in the room and the one hit or came the nearest received a prize of ladies' silk socks or a gentleman's smoking outfit. Everyone had three guesses. Billie Fitzgerald was first on the list and he looked everybody over and was five minutes before he said anything and then came the answer: "I think Arthur DeBlasi is engaged to a girl in Arkansas." Then it was Miss Mary P. Johnson's turn: "It was reported that Stretch Morrison is engaged to a girl in Lowell, Mass." and the crowd came out with a big laugh. Judges Dr. Williams, Harry Johnson and Jeff Seward gave Billie Fitzgerald the smoking outfit for he guessed right. Miss Mildred Ferguson then gave a saxophone solo. Miss Elizabeth Johnson was Miss Leap Year with a sign on her hat, "Look before you leap, Aunt Peabody members." Stretch and Eddie Morgan with Billie Fitzgerald all dressed like hobos, with Miss Marion McDonald at the piano san "Three Wise Men." Dancing was enjoyed to music by Bracci's Melody boys singing orchestra and the girls asked the oung men for the dance because it was leap year. In the large kitchen the table was set for a Blackstone chowder, put on by the club cook, Carl Ashcraft. Cake and ice cream was the desert. Songs were sung. A collection for the good of the order was taken up and $5 was in the hat. A soft shoe dance was done by William Crowell.

Expressions of regret are heard on every side for the passing of Charles B. Montgomery, familiarly known as The Clou' Digger. He is resting at his own request in the little cemetery in Packerville, where he spent the happiest years of his life.

Those who have been looking forward for spring are not enthusiastic over its beginning. Altogether March has been a very disagreeable month for dwellers in the country. The deeply rutted dirt roads are a menace to automobile travel and the automobile is equally as bad, for the horse-drawn vehicles. Autoists criss-cross over the road to avoid the bad spots and horses get their feet caught in the deep frozen ruts.

THE VETERANS' HOSPITAL

After a long and hard struggle the house world war veteran committee has given its approval to the plan for the building of a million dollar hospital for World war veterans in southern New England. The opposition centered on the location of the institution, although additional construction would be authorized throughout the country. The opponents took the position that the care of the veterans should be met by the cities and states instead of having the government put more money into such work, inasmuch as there are some institutions under heavy expense with but few inmates and in ten years the government will have spent $193,000,000 on hospitalization.

Connecticut has displayed deep interest in and given strong support to this measure. There is need for taking care of the veterans in this state who are entitled to such institutional care as would be given by such a hospital. There is no hospital of this character in Connecticut or Rhode Island and for that reason both states have been working for southern New England, and so far as the committee is concerned their efforts are successful.

Just what "southern New England" means will be a matter for future decision for though Rhode Island would like to have it located within its borders, and probably will make efforts to such an end, the same thing is desired by Connecticut and report has it that it has been tacitly agreed that it should be in Connecticut.

Either of the two states would comply with the requirements, but in order that it might best serve the greatest number in the two states a central location as between Connecticut and Rhode Island should be sought and that ought to bring it into eastern Connecticut. There are many desirable sites available in this part of the state which would be easily accessible from all directions and all points in either commonwealth. It is not too soon for setting forth the merits of some of these in anticipation of the time when the selection will be made and it is well to bear in mind that unless some effort is made other localities will get the decision.

THE WOOD RIVER BRANCH

The decision of the New Haven road to continue to operate the Wood River branch from Wood River Junction to Hope Valley will be learned with much satisfaction in the Rhode Island towns of Hopkinton and Richmond. This line of a few miles furnishes the transportation for southwestern Rhode Island north of the main line of the New Haven road but in recent years it cannot be said to have been a money maker. There has been so much money lost and the outlook for the future was so unpromising that the New Haven had gotten to the point of wanting to abandon it.

Apparently this attitude brought the people of those two towns to a recognition of what the road really means to them and steps taken give assurance that a different attitude is to be manifested toward the railroad even to the extent of exemption of taxes in order to make certain that needed service will be continued.

Under the arrangements which have been definitely made the New Haven will resume the operation of the line about the first of the month using a gasoline motor instead of an engine for the hauling of the freight, for the road will henceforth be only a freight line. As on much larger branches the passenger service has long since dwindled to practically nothing.

With the branch line resuming business under these curtailments and with the Wood River Junction agent handling the affairs of the line an attempt is to be made to keep the line going. All will depend upon the business that is done, and this should make it apparent to those who look to the road for service that it rests with them to a large degree on what the outcome will be.

If they are really desirous that the line be kept in operation they should make certain that they give it their business. Highway transportation has killed the passenger service and it can hardly be expected that a railroad will survive under minimum expenses if it is obliged to compete with serious motor vehicle opposition. The railroad is apparently willing to chance further sacrifices in order to provide service and leave the final decision to the cooperation it gets.

MUSCLE SHOALS

Among the matters which are looked upon as important for congress to wrestle with at this session is Muscle Shoals. No definite decision has been reached in regard to it since the close of the war. There have been various propositions put forth but none has satisfied. Millions of dollars have been poured into it which will never be gotten out, but the question now isn't so much about how to get the expenditures back as it is to come to some definite decision about what disposition to make of the development.

It hasn't proved thus far to be a good thing for the government. It was started when we were using great quantities of nitrates and were dependent upon outside resources. We wanted to be independent, but the war ended before we had a chance to get any real benefit from Muscle Shoals. Since the end of the war other methods of making nitrates much cheaper have been discovered which makes the Muscle Shoals plant less desirable either from a nitrate or an economic standpoint.

There is still the possibility of utilizing it for power purposes but that is a matter in which the government should have no interest as long as it would not be advisable to use it, even in a case of emergency, for the producing of nitrates.

The demand that it be operated by the government has been blocked in the house by the holding up of the senate bill. What the house committee plans to urge in the bill, which it is drafting to take the place of several which it has killed, ought not to be kept under cover very long if action is to be taken at this session.

Disposition of Muscle Shoals to the best possible advantage has been advocated, while various offers for long term control of the development have been turned down. Whatever legislation dealing with it has been presented in the past no action has followed. Whether it can be put through in the remaining few weeks of this session is a question, but it may hinge upon the character of the bill which the house committee is wrestling with. If congress will sell it is will end a perennial stumbling block.

FLYING THE ATLANTIC

How willing people are to take the chance which may mean success or death is revealed in many ways. Just now attention is being directed to the efforts to complete a successful flight across the Atlantic from Europe to the United States. Several have crossed the ocean in the air going east but all those who have attempted to fly across it westward have sacrificed their lives.

In spite of this and the seemingly apparent fact that there are greater dangers involved in a westward flight there is no dearth of fliers ready to make the try. This is disclosed by the report to the effect that there are now ten flights being arranged from France to the United States while a similar number of attempts will be made from other European countries.

It is fair to infer that some of these will never start but if the crossing is possible some of that number should be able to complete the hope if they bring together that combination of ability of aviators, stability of machine and favorable weather conditions.

Westward bound aviators will sooner or later get the coveted honor and from the preparations being made the present year promises to furnish much interest in the various attempts. Those who make the effort will do so without any assistance on the part of pioneers. They must in fact face the discouraging fact that others, some of the best among the fliers, have failed for unknown reasons which, though unrevealed, they must figure out and guard against.

Setting a new pace in aviation is not so different from doing stunts in much safer undertakings as far as the willingness of aviators is concerned.

NO ADVANCEMENT

Geneva has produced another disappointment so far as any material progress concerning naval limitation is concerned. The preparatory commission has gotten no where. Time has been spent discussing impossibilities but that is about all.

With the nations assembled unable to come to any understanding in regard to what should be considered in the way of limitations it could hardly be expected that there would be a willingness to plunge into such a plan of complete disarmament as was advocated by Russia. Russia was in fact told that it was not believed that it had made a sincere proposal. Distrust was manifested, because of the very character of the idea. It was a case of outdoing the most radical and it was quite evident that the nations were not ready for any such thing. Its second proposal wasn't acted upon but will be thought over.

The breaking up of the conference doesn't necessarily mean the end to an effort to bring about further limitation, but there is no telling what form it will take or when it will get underway. In the meantime it can be expected that there will be efforts made to sound out the various nations as to their attitude concerning steps in the desired direction. Through that it will be possible to ascertain in advance what moves might or might not succeed in a get together.

That the British are already giving thought to the day when the Washington agreement will be ready for renewal or other action was indicated by the plea that the nations included thereunder consider the reduction of the size of capital ships and the extension of the age limit of such vessels.

There is nothing about those alleged unsinkable lifeboats which gives promise of regular transatlantic service being established.

Does Senator Borah regard the response to his effort to repay the $160,000 to Harry Sinclair as a very enthusiastic endorsement of his plan?

When General Nobile takes the Italian dirigible to the north pole he plans to land men, but they will not waste any time looking for Doctor Cook's footprints.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Bran used as a substitute for soap will keep the hands soft and white.

Addition of a beaten egg improves pancakes.

A little nutmeg improves creamed cabbage.

A scum will not form on cocoa if it is well beaten.

Currant jelly is good served with codfish cakes.

Your roast will be juicy if it is basted often.

Stale bread, browned in the oven and crushed with a rolling pin, makes fine material for breading chops.

One-dish baked dishes of meats and vegetables are not only delicious but save fuel.

Quick application of ammonia, diluted with a little water, will stop the action of battery acid spilled on rugs or clothing.

Old stockings make excellent dust cloths, as they leave no lint.

A cut lemon rubbed over the new shoes before polishing will make them take a better polish.

A small double boiler is certainly a joy for saucemaking, custards and small quantities of puddings.

If the tinsel, lace or gold braid is badly tarnished sprinkle with Fuller's earth and then rub with a stiff nail brush.

Dip the ends of the shoestrings into mucilage and let them dry when the tips come off sonny's laces. They are always off before the laces begin to wear out.

The mouthpiece of the telephone should be disinfected each day by wiping with some strong disinfectant such as carbolic acid water.

Regular flower pots can be made highly decorative to a room by lacquering them in gay Chinese red, orange or yellow.

LEFTOVER BACON ENDS

Left-over bacon, end pieces, etc., are all precious adjuncts in flavoring other food combinations. A plain bread stuffing is much improved by the addition of chopped bacon. Add one-half cup of the bacon to two cups of bread crumbs. Lessen the amount of salt called for in the recipe.

UP-TO-DATE KITCHEN CABINET

A kitchen cabinet that contains every innovation possible is comparatively small in size but most complete. It is painted a cheerful yellow, following the modern trend of color in the kitchen, and has a light placed so that it is possible to see every process. There are also plugs for percolator and electric stove, and a shelf that slides out far enough to form a breakfast table.

SENSIBLE CLEANING

With the splendid mops on the market it is a foolish woman who scrubs her front porch floor on her hands and knees during the winter weather. One can get just the same result without the sacrafice of chapped hands and cold throughout the body.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

A bath hot in salt and water will take all the soreness out of those aching, tired feet and will strengthen them.

Always wrap a rubber hot-water bottle in soft cloth before placing it in a patient's bed. Place the bottle near, but not against the patient's flesh. If placed too close the patient may be burned before realizing it.

For the manipulation massage, place both hands firmly on your head and rotate the scalp with the thick part of the palms in such a way as to make the scalp itself move. The good effects can be intensified by applying first a little tonic lotion that has a balsamic content. Or, if your hair is thinning out, apply some scalp food, paying particular attention to the receding hairline and the part.

In caring for the nails make a strong lather of pure, mild soap jelly, using a cup of jelly to a quart of luke-warm rain water if available. Immerse the hands in this prepared water for five minutes or more. Remove, and, with a soft linen towel, rub the nails with gentle force, pushing back the loosened cuticle until the white crescent is well defined. File the nails properly, replace the hands in weaker suds for another five minutes, remove and rinse in a clear, cold water. Dry the nails with a piece of chamois skin. No polishing powder is needed.

HOUSE PLANTS

The best time to feed plants with liquid fertilizer is from April to November, the growing months. Feed plants once a week.

To make liquid fertilizer, add three heaping spoonfuls of cow or sheep manure to a quart of water and mix well. Fill up pot with liquid once a week. This strengthens the plants.

Use kerosene emulsion only when insects are on the plants.

Dissolve one-inch square block of laundry soap in a pint of hot water, add a tablespoonful of kerosene, mix well, then wash leaves top and bottom.

Do not let the emulsion run into the soil, as it will burn the roots.

Do not let the sun shine on the leaves for a day or two, then wash the leaves with clean water.

SOAP SCRAPS

Let toilet soap scraps accumulate until they are many. Stand the dish holding them in hot water until they melt. When slightly cool, wet the hands and mould into a bath sized cake.

THEY CAN BE WASHED

The small Oriental rugs may be washed very readily at home and should not be allowed to harbor dirt and thus spoil their beauty. Rub the rugs with a lather of pure white soap. Then rub off as much soap as possible and rinse with cloths dipped in clear cold water. Dry thoroughly.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Quite the newest thing in town is the hat of cire satin, black of course, trimmed with felt or a touch of fur.

A new bracelet of platinum has for its motif a Persian hunting scene, worked out in emeralds and diamonds.

The fitted skirt yoke of a coffee bean brown angora jersey dress is emphasized by the bloused back of the blouse.

Colored umbrellas can be kept clear colored if one scrubs the dirty streaks off with a soft brush dipped into sweetened hot black tea.

Following in the wake of the colored satin slippers, there are now to be had fascinating evening slippers of velvet in all the high shades.

One's bed jacket, coverlet and boudoir pillow must all be of the same quilted taffeta in pastel shade, if one heeds the latest whim of Fashion.

Yokes grow more popular on dresses, blouses, coats, pajamas, night-gowns and now beach costumes are utilizing this seasonable smart touch.

Nothing pleases children more than pictures of themselves. Trice their silhouettes on a plain lamp shade to make a cute shade that they will love.

Huge pearls, graded in size, are used for the new "Hallelujah" chokers, some of which are baroque; others introduce oval and cylindrical shaped pearls of smaller size, with huge pearls posed across the front of the throat.

Some of the smartest of the new prints for spring are of tones of brown, to wear with the new tweed coats in beige or natural color. These silks are quite lovely when the colors are worked out in leaf designs.

A FOUR-PIECE COSTUME

The classic sport costume of the year is the four-piece ensemble, according to a current magazine. "A topcoat without fur, a plaited skirt, a cardigan and jumper," says the women's monthly, "from the working principle of all these smart outfits, with the variance in the details. The ensemble is usually beige and brown tweed, with a beige jersey pullover. There are envelope pockets, with buttoned flaps on cardigan and coat. The latter is worn in the new way—not wrapped but open — and it is longer than the frock, for, to whatever lengths other types go, dresses are short for sports."

WARM BED JACKET

For the invalid or the woman who enjoys breakfast in bed there is a delightful little bed jacket, designed to offset a cold room. The jacket is of pink crepe de chine, lined with a loosely knitted lining of white angora wool.

SLIPPER BAGS

Very clever are the bags to hold gold and silver slippers when not in use. They are of black moire, with initials of the owner in one corner and a silhouette of a slipper in either gold or silver in another corner.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Soak mildewed linen in buttermilk; after an hour, sprinkle with salt and lay in the sun. Repeat until the spot is removed.

Soak a tar stain with pure lard, then remove with turpentine and clear spot with gasoline. Never use soap. It sets tar.

If your table linen contains spots of chocolate or cocoa that refuse to come out in laundering, try Javelle water on them.

To wash a flannel shirt, soak it in cold water over night, so it will not shrink. Then wash it in warm water and put in a very little borax. Rinse in cold water and dry in a good wind. When almost dry, iron on the wrong side.

When washing white silk blouses, dresses, ties, etc., for the first time, put a dessertspoonful of powdered borax dissolved in enough cold water to cover the article, leave it soaking for half an hour, then wash in the usual way. This prevents yellowing of the silk.

TO TEST COLORS

Make a strong soap solution and heat till it is warm, but not hot; rub and squeeze a piece of the material in this 10 minutes; rinse in cold water and leave in the water 15 minutes; wring out and dry. If color of material is not changed and water not colored, it is reasonably fast for washing. For a more severe test, add some washing powder to the soap solution.

TO STRETCH CURTAINS

When washing lace curtains, if no curtain stretcher is available, hang them while wet on curtain rods, pin them to the casing under the window sill and in the cracks on the sides of the window and they will dry perfectly.

BAKING A HAM

The best oven temperature for baking ham between 250 and 275 degrees Fahrenheit. This gives a most delicious ham which slices well. If a glazed appearance is desired, use a leftover sweetened fruit juice for basting the ham. This also adds to the flavor.

WAXED PAPER KEEPS BRUSH SOFT

A housewife who likes to decorate her furniture writes of her experience with keeping her brush soft. "While doing some work in lacquering last spring I had considerable trouble keeping the brush soft (lacquer hardens quickly). On one occasion I was called to the telephone and returned to find the brush hard. Recently I lacquered my kitchen chairs and discovered that if the brush is wrapped in heavy waxed paper (I used a bread wrapper) it will remain soft and pliable between coats—and even over night and longer. This makes but one cleaning of the brush necessary."

CONCERNING WOMEN

There are more women workers than men in the factories of Spain.

Figures from Wellesley college for the 10 years from 1919 to 1929 show that 60 per cent. of the graduates are married.

A recent survey shows that 126 women are now being carried on the rosters of the various state legislatures in the United States.

At a recent church wedding in London the bride was attended by her pet Pekingese dog, wearing a large white satin bow.

Miss Gertrude Benham, an English naturalist, has just returned home after a four years' walking tour in search of rare flowers. Her tour included many long journeys in Asia and Africa.

Dr. Susan M. Dorsey, who has been re-elected to a six-year term as superintendent of schools in Los Angeles, is the highest salaried city school superintendent in the United States.

Senorita Lia Encalada Fleury is the first woman to pass the final examinations at the University of Buenos Aires for the degree of agricultural engineer, a title which is of great importance in an agricultural country such as Argentina.

PLANTS' BATHS

If your ferns, Jerusalem cherry trees and other plants look peaked, put them in the bath tub and turn the shower on gently. Plants need baths as much as humans.

LETTER CLIPPINGS

Your letters to your friends will be more interesting if you keep an index into which you slip clippings, notes or other items—to retail to them.

RECIPES

Prune Charlotte: Wash, soak and stew one pound of the largest prunes and when cold remove the stones and chop fine; whip to stiff froth two cups of cream and four tablespoons of sugar and fold in the chopped prunes. Line glass dish with lady fingers or sliced sponge cake, add the prune mixture and set in the icebox to harden. Serve very cold.

Baked Sausages, Rice and Pineapple: Place a layer of boiled rice in the bottom of a shallow baking dish. Arrange sausage meat in fingers on the bed of rice so they radiate from the center like spokes of a wheel. Put a spoonful of crushed pineapple in the center of the dish and between the sausages. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for one-half hour, then place under the broiler flame for a few minutes to brown the sausages. The pineapple will brown slightly, too, making a pretty and appetizing dish. Hominy is excellent instead of rice, if you prefer it.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Fairgrounds Fire and the Fair

Mr. Editor: Never in all the years in which the New London County Agricultural society has been in existence, some 75 I believe, has the property of the society been visited by such a disastrous fire as that which swept the grounds last Saturday afternoon and had it not been for the timely assistance of the Norwich fire department, there would not be a building standing on the grounds today.

One year ago a similar condition faced the officials of the society when several buildings were destroyed by fire and a loss of several thousand dollars to the society was the result.

This is the second loss the society has had to face this year. In January an unusually high wind blew down several hundred feet of fencing and wrecked one of the exhibition buildings. These visitations to the New London County Agricultural society of the various elements of destruction mentioned are no other than those that have visited nearly every other county fair society in the state, in the past, and every fair ground throughout the United States. To be sure in most cases there is a reasonable amount of insurance carried by the society on all buildings but in nearly every instance where such a fire breaks out a decided loss to the society in building values is the result and in the $12,000 or greater loss at the fair grounds Saturday, such will prove the case. Over in Kingston, R. I., some six years ago a much greater loss was sustained when fire destroyed the grand stand and many other buildings beside.

Because of the financial condition of the New London County Agricultural society, this double loss this year in buildings proves double hard but with all these losses, we believe the society has much to be thankful for, and we are confident that it may prove a blessing in disguise. In the first place it will afford a new arrangement and grouping of buildings more in keeping with the future plans and growth of the society. It will clean up a condition more or less unsanitary, at a point where space is badly needed and where the throngs of people attending the fair congregate. It will focus the eyes of the agricultural, industrial, and educational interests of the county to the needs of the society and we hope will prove the means by which this splendid old institution may rise phoenix like from its ashes to become onef of the greatest recreational fields in the state.

According to those who attended the fair last year New London county had one of the best county fairs in the state and greater interest in the county was the result. The leading newspapers of New London county spoke of the fair as being one of the best ever held on the grounds. In other words it was a successful fair. Not only did the cities, towns and patriotic, fraternal and social organizations help make the fair but they turned out great crowds to see the fair. It was proven beyond question that the people of New London county still had interest in their old fair institution and stood ready to support it through attendance when its directors showed them. For one reason and another our county fair has been going steadily down hill during the years prior to 1927. It is not my purpose here to criticize or place the blame for this condition upon the officers in charge or upon the Almighty but it is my purpose in writing this letter to you Mr. Editor to call attention to facts that exist and in my mind a partial remedy.

First I wish to admonish all interests in New London county to stand by this splendid old heir-loom of our ancestors, of ours, of our children and our children's children.

The fair last year demonstrated conclusively that the association has the moral support of all interest in the county but that is not enough. Financially the society is in a bad way and when a financial disorder has developed to an acute state moral support is not a strong enough tonic. What the New London County Agricultural society needs right now, in the face and eyes of this latest relapse is enough public spirited, generous, and active men and women to get behind the board of directors and officers of the society in helping to carry out the recommendations of the old and new board. I will quote from the secretary's report at the annual meeting held in the town hall, Norwich, Wednesday evening, Dec. 7th, 1927.

"The executive committee have had the matter of raising funds to clear the society of debt under advisement for the entire year and many meetings have been held to discuss the matter but not until now, was a plan reached that had the unanimous support of the committee, that a drive for funds be conducted by a professional to raise enough money to retire the bonds thereby saving $1,500 each year in interest.

"To develop a recreational field.

"A large building for automobile and other industrial exhibits and demonstration. A poultry building large enough to house all branches of that important industry. A horse barn that will care for 100 horses. A bungalow for the caretaker. The committee had arranged to go forward with the movement but as time was so near the annual meeting it was thought wise to defer action until the new board of officers were elected."

It is my understanding that the new board has endorsed the recommendations of the old and that a drive for funds for the fair will be launched April 1st. A caretaker's cottage is of the greatest need. The grounds have ever been a congregate place day and night for persons who have not always had the interests of the society foremost in mind. Buildings are being broken open and entered for immoral purposes. Property has been destroyed and stolen time and again. Fire risks are greater because of these depredations and premiums will mount because of same. A new cyclone fence will greately reduce the costs for policing grounds during the fair and the grading of the land at the northern approach will assist in the parking of cars and go far towards relieving the congestion that has long been observed at the main entrance and inside the grounds.

There are many other improvements that are vitally necessary. The condition of the track is rapidly nearing the point where it will be necessary to rebuild it if neglected longer. The old condemned grand stand ought to be removed and its place taken by a building that could be used for general purposes, and so I might go on and on.

Let's pause a moment to study the personnel of the executive officers—just what type of men are guiding the affairs of the society? Are they men of experience? Have they proven themselves to be successful in their own business affairs? Are they men we would trust to manage the affairs of the society and are they giving as much time as they should without remuneration, to its success? Well! I will leave that to your readers Mr. Editor to determine. Personally, I believe there is no agricultural society in Connecticut that has a better or more capable business set of officers than has the New London County Agricultural society, right now! If that be true and all other things stated in this letter proven true, then let's get behind this drive for funds that starts in April and help to put it across.

H. R. BRANCHE.

"The Power of Good Will"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "Peace on earth, good will among men" (Luke 2:14).

Read: Romans 12:9-21.

MEDITATION: This has been translated "Peace on earth through men of good will." This is the heart of Christian teaching. Good will is the greatest force in the world. The Will at the heart of the universe is good will and they who practice good will are simply falling in line with the eternal good Will and using this mightiest of forces. St. Paul calls this good will, love. "It beareth all things, endureth all thing." There is nothing which will overcome and disarm opposition and hostility like the spirit of good will. It will conquer any foe. It will make us sufficient for all the annoyances and irritation that the day can bring. If one doubts the value of good will, let him try it and see for himself what wonders it will accomplish.

PRAYER: O God of all goodness and grace, fill our heart, we beseech Thee, with love toward our fellowmen. Give unto us the spirit of brotherliness that we may have faith and trust in all those with whom we shall have to do this day, and thus become mighty through our good will. Amen.

YOUR HEALTH

Overeating

By L. H. Newburgh, M. D., Ann Arbor, Mich., Professor of Clinical Investigation, Michigan University.

From the earliest of times man has believed that an abundance of food caused increased vigor. This is one of those comfortable doctrines that justify the unrestrained gratification of the appetite as a means of strengthening the body. Closely associated with this idea is the widespread conviction that eating meat strengthens the muscles and that the hard-working man needs much meat. With the progressive increase of wealth in the United States more and more of our people have been financially able to adopt a habit which has made us an overfed nation.

But recent studies from many parts of the world have shown that an excess of food does not improve health but is, on the contrary, the cause of a number of serious illnesses. Persons who eat more than they actually need grow fat and fatter. Obesity, in addition to being a great hindrance to the free movements of the body, very stealthily produces changes in our organs which eventually make themselves known in the form of diabetes, heart disease, hardening of the arteries, or apoplexy. The insurance companies are pointing out that people who are overweight die at an earlier age than those of normal weight and that for every ten pounds excess weight there is a definite lessening of the chance of reaching old age.

Many persons who do not seriously overeat in a general way take too much animal food such as meat, eggs and fish. The very thorough researches of Dr. Hindhede, food commissioner of Denmark, show that such persons are in great danger of dying of kidney disease, liver disease or apoplexy in the prime of life. Many others suffer from indigestion for many years.

Many laboratories in this country have been observing the effect of diets rich in animal food (protein) on rats. It is very clear that such food causes serious kidney and liver disease in these animals.

Everyone should now accept the fact that overeating is one of the most important causes of chronic fatal disease in persons between the ages of 40 and 60 years.

Stories That Recall Others

Once.

A minister was calling on the unchurched people of his community. One woman said: "I seldom go to church, as I have six children to care for. When I go I always put $1 on the plate, and if the sermon does not suit me, I go to that church only once."

"Have you ever heard me preach?" asked the dominie.

"Yes, once," was the reply.

Not Responsible.

An old resident tells a true tale of a woman who lived in the community many years ago. Her husband, a stone cutter, died and left a $100 grocery bill unsettled. Upon his death, she with the family moved out of town. Three years later, while she was visiting back in the town, her husband's creditor asked for a substantial payment on the debt.

"Faith, sir?" said she, "and I'm not doin' business for Pat now."

A reel on Bethlehem was full of interest as places connected with the life of Christ were shown. A brief talk was given by Secretary Edwin Hill.

LENTEN VESPER SERMON BY PASSIONIST PREACHER

The final sermon in the lenten vespers services at St. Patrick's church was delivered Sunday evening by Rev. Conran Kane of the Passionist monastery at West Springfield, Mass., who has been heard so acceptably in the services on preceding Sunday evenings. He spoke upon the sufferings of Jesus, particularly of the crown of thorns placed upon the head of Saviour by the Roman soldiers as they mocked him before his crucifixion. The soldiers remembered, the preacher said, that the helpless prisoner in their hands had been accused of ambition and seeking kingly honors and with fiendish thought they devised the crown of thorns, thinking this a fitting punishment. Yet he bore it all willingly to atone for certain sins in mankind. As man uses every member of his body to insult God and commit sin, so Jesus meant that no part of his body should escape the pain of propriation. This crown of thorns was born, the preacher said, for our sins of thought and desire, and the cruel mocking by the soldiers for the sin of pride. We must first think of a thing before we can have sin and the mind is the avenue through which sin can rush in and overwhelm the life. Among nations the sin of pride is to blame for international calamities and among individuals it leads to other sins. The preacher urged those in his congregation to consider whether they were putting the thorns into the cross of Christ by their sins of thought or desire or pride. For each one the prayer should be "Lord, teach me to know thee and to know myself."

The Mercadante's vespers were sun by the choir with Miss Sadie Driscoll, Mrs. Bernard Coyle, Horace F. Corning and Walter La Fontaine, as the soloists, all being in exceptionally fine voice.

The service closed with benediction in which O Salutaris (Wiegand) was sung by Miss Blanche La Fra very effectively.

Two of the nine were colored and the other seven white.

ESTIMATE $15,000 FIRE LOSS IN BUILDINGS AT FAIR GROUNDS

The greater part of the horse barns and cattle sheds at the Norwich fairgrounds were destroyed by flames which swept through the wooden frame buildings Saturday afternoon. The loss, estimated at over $6,000, is covered by insurance. All but two of the new cattle sheds are gone. The old horse barns at the southerly end of the grounds escaped the flames, as did the new concession building, located close to the burned buildings. The men's lavatory building went down in ruins, all of the fixtures being totally destroyed.

The fire broke out shortly after 2.30 o'clock and spread with great rapidity through the wooden barns and sheds. Don Harris, a trainer, had his sleeping quarters in one of the barns and it was there that the fire started. There had been a fire in a small stove in the sleeping quarters during the day and Mr. Harris believing that the fire in the stove had gone out, left his quarters to look after some horses in a nearby barn. On his return he was greeted with a dense volume of smoke when he opened the door.

A telephone call was sent in to the fire department and the Yantic fire company, Engine Co. No. 5 and Deputy Chief Henry R. Taft responded. Over 1,500 feet of hose was laid and two streams were directed on the flaming buildings. The fire had gained so much headway that it was impossible to save the buildings. The Yantic pumper was pressed into use to force water through the long line of hose. The firemen prevented the flames and flying sparks from spreading to the new concession building and the old line of horse barns. Avery Gallup, Frank Lamb and a Mr. Raymond rendered valuable assistance in saving the barns at the southerly end of the grounds. The last named received a severe burn on the face.

Officials of the New London County Agricultural society, owners of the fairgrounds, visited the scene of the fire Sunday.

Ebenezer DeWolfe of East Great Plain lost a quantity of farm implements which he had stored in one of the barns for the winter. The implements were valued at about $50.

Louis M. Crandall, secretary of the New London County Agricultural society, stated Sunday night that there is about $4,000 insurance on the burned sheds and barns, and, although he did not know the exact loss at that time, he said it would amount to about $15,000, partially covered by insurance. In all a dozen or 15 sheds and barns were destroyed. Mr. Crandall stated that the agricultural society will without doubt rebuild in time for the fair next September.

RECITAL BY PUPILS ON VIOLIN AND PIANO

A violin and piano recital of unusual merit, by advanced pupils of Mrs. A. H. Manes, pianist, and Dr. Frank Drago, violinist of Hartford, was heard by a large and appreciative audience in the Buckingham Memorial Sunday afternoon. The program was well selected showing the individual attainments of the performers to advantage.

Lillian Hirsch, violinist, played the first movement (allegro non troppo) from the Concerto No. 2 by Seitz and the Meditation by Bach-Gounod in which number she was assisted by Dr. Drago who played an obligato arranged by himself. The playing of this 12 year old girl was a real surprise to the audience. Her tone was broad, yet of beautiful quality and her style very convincing. The Bach-Gounod Meditation, arranged for two violins and piano, which was played for the first time anywhere is a work of rare tonal and harmonic beauty and was enthusiastically received. Mildred Weisinger, a little pianist, 13 years old, called forth much favorable comment with her playing of Rondo Ture by Mozart. The oriental rhythm was well accentuated. Miriam Gordon, a young violinist, rendered Gavotte by Lully with refreshing clarity charged with antique grace and the Chanson Polonaise in expressive lyric style. The chord work was well brought out.

Dorothy Miller, pianist presented the difficult Chopin Valse No. 14 and the Aragonaise by Massenet. She displayed a facile technique, a musical touch and a musical temperament. Earle Swan, a popular young violinist, was warmly received. He gave a very expressive rendition of the popular Souvenir by Drdla and he played the Gavotte by Gosser in spirited manner. His playing proved him both versatile and sincere. Dr. Drago played a second violin part to the Gavotte.

Muriel Hynd, pianist, played the Butterfly by Lavallee, a composition of unusual difficulty with comparative ease. She displayed a delicate touch, and good interpretative powers. Dorothy Maynard is violinist of charm and musical address. She gratified her hearers with her rendition of the Intermezzo by Mascagni and the Deutscher Tanz by Dittendorf. Her tone is expressive and her bowing sure. Helen Lewitz, pianist, was enthusiastically received for her taste and skill in the Alice Transcription by Ascher. This very difficult composition was played without apparent effort, rhythmically correct and with the melody well brought out against a background of difficult variations.

Aranka Greene, violinist, rendered the Chacone by Durand and Dumba by Friml, two compositions of widely different character and age. These she delivered with a sound appreciation of their historic values. Her tone is very smooth, yet large and her technique adequate. Her double-stopping was unusually good. The concert was brought to a successful conclusion with two violin quartettes, "Waltz" by Ambrosio-Brahm and "Cradle Song" by Brahms-Drago. These arrangements were highly effective and were rendered with affinity. Good training was in evidence throughout.

The piano accompaniments were skilfully played by Rose Shirley Hirsch, for Lillian Hirsch and by Mrs. A. H. Manes, for M. Gordon, E. Swan, D. Maynard, A. Greene and for the quartette.

ORGAN IS REDEDICATED AT UNITED CONGREGATIONAL

In a service that was deeply impressive to the good sized congregation attending, the organ at the United Congregational church was rededicated on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The instrument was originally presented to the church about 65 years ago by William Alfred Buckingham of this city, then governor of the state, and it has now been renovated by the church in loving memory of the late Frederick William Lester, who for over 35 years was organist of the church.

The musical part of the service was conducted by the organist and choir and the address was by the pastor of the church, Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, whose thoughtful words reflected the impression which Mr. Lester made upon the community, both through his artistry and by the kind of life his was. The speaker indicated that he looked upon the service as the outpouring of the affection of the community on the life of a man who had meant so much to it for so long a time.

The order of service was as follows: The Organ, Vision, Rheinberger; Melody in D-Flat, Faulkes; Pilgrim's Chorus (Tannhauser) Wagner; The Prayer of Thankful Memory; The Anthem, Jubilate Deo in A-Flat, Foote; The Scripture; The Organ, Meditation Prayer (Gothic Suite) Boellman; The Address; The Hymn, Spirit of God Descend; The Prayer of Dedication; The Anthem, The Radiant Moon, Woodward; The Faith of The Congregation; The Twenty-Third Psalm; The Organ, Marche Religieuse, Guilmant; The Prayer of Benediction.

The choir, whose work made the musical part of the service so significant comprises J. Lawrence Erb, organist and choirmaster; soprano, Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard; alto, Miss Doris Myott; tenor, George A. Turner; bass, J. Benjamin Brown.

The organ has been renovated at expense of about $5,000 through contributions made by the congregation in memory of Mr. Lester, the work being carried out under direction of a committee consisting of Walter F. Lester, Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr., and Archibald Mitchell, 4th.

OBITUARY

Mrs. L. Henry Saxton

Following a long period of declining health, Mrs. Minnie E. Hayman Saxton, wife of L. Henry Saxton, passed away shortly before midnight Saturday at her home at 327 Broadway. Although Mrs. Saxton's condition had been considered serious for some time her death was unexpected.

Born in Webster, Mass., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hayman, she came to Norwich to live and has resided here for the past 37 years. On June 17, 1896, she was united in marriage with L. Henry Saxton, who, with one daughter, Mrs. Edwin H. Sevin, survives her. She also leaves a grandson. There are four sisters, Mrs. Emma Davis of Webster, Mass., Miss Carrie Hayman of Webster, Miss Maud Hayman of Worcester, Mass., and Mrs. Ruth Richards of Lewiston, Me., and one brother, Winfield Hayman.

George L. Kies

The ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic were depleted for the third time within as many weeks on Sunday morning in the death of George L. Kies, 88, a Civil War veteran, of 79 Fourth street, who passed away at his home at 3 o'clock Sunday morning. Mr. Kies had been seriously ill since last August, during which time he had suffered four shocks, the last one occurring on March 15.

Mr. Kies was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kies and was born in Plainfield, May 17, 1840, coming to Norwich about 65 years ago, where he has since resided, in the Greeneville section of the city. His marriage to Miss Julia Martin took place May 25, 1865, in the parsonage of the Greeneville Congregational church, Rev. R. P. Stanton performing the ceremony. Although Mr. Kies had been retired from active work for several years, he was employed at odd work at various times. He was a woodworkmen, having conducted for several years the Windham Type shop at Windham; also being employed in the Page tyne shop at Greeneville, which has been out of existence for several years. He had also worked in the H. B. Davenport Arms company.

Mr. Kies enlisted in Company F, 11th Connecticut Volunteers, at Hampton, Conn., in September, 1862, and served a long time with the regiment. He saw active service in the battles of Roanoke, Va., South Mountain, North Carolina, and took part in the battle of Antietam. Although he did not receive wounds in these battles, bullets had passed through the hat and blouse he was wearing. He became seriously ill while in service and was sent home and discharged just before the war ended. "When I was discharged from the 11th Connecticut Volunteers, I was nothing but skin and bones," said Mr. Kies in a statement to the press for use in an account in The Bulletin in May, 1927, regarding the remaining members of the Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R.

Mr. Kies was a member of Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., and at the time of his death was junior vice commander of the post. He was also a member of Shetucket lodge, No. 27, I. O. O. F., and of the Greeneville Congregational church. Surviving him are his widow, two nephews, Charles Kies, Frank Kies and six nieces, Mrs. Ida Whiteley, Mrs. Alice Chase, Mrs. Hattie Watson, Mrs. Julia House, Mrs. Carrie Williams and Mrs. Lillian Armstrong. He was the last of his immediate family.

Mr. Kies was well known in the Greeneville section of the city and took a keen interest in current events.

SINGS FIRST MASS HERE AFTER HIS ORDINATION

Rev. Anthony J. Murphy, who was ordained to the priesthood Saturday morning at St. Joseph's cathedral, Hartford, sang his first solemn high mass at the 10:30 service here Sunday at St. Mary's Memorial church, where the congregation of over a thousand which filled the seating capacity of the church included a large delegation from Sacred Heart parish, Taftville, where the young priest was born and spent his boyhood. As his mother, Mrs. Abbie Murphy, of 10 Robbins court, is now a member of St. Mary's parish, he came here to sing his first mass.

At the mass, Sunday, Rev. Father Murphy was assisted by two of his close friends, Rev. Raymond J. LaFontaine, of Hartford, as deacon, Rev. William Murphy, of Chicago, as subdeacon, and by Rev. F. M. Coholan as master of ceremonies. Rev. William A. Keefe, pastor of the church, was seated in the sanctuary. During the singing of the mass, the parishioners were pleased to observe that Father Murphy possesses a very fine and well-trained voice.

REV. ANTHONY J. MURPHY

The sermon was by Rev. Patrick J. McCormick, D. D., of the Catholic university, Washington, D. C., a cousin of the new priest. He preached from the text: "Great is the mystery and dignity of a priest, for to them is given that which is not granted to angels, for priests alone, rightly ordained in the church, have power to celebrate and consecrate the body of Christ." The preacher spoke of the joy which the parish and the relatives of the young man could feel in his ordination to the priesthood and went on to speak of the dignity and duties of his high calling. He concluded with an exhortation to the congregation to assist the newly ordained priest with their prayer for a long and fruitful ministry.

After mass, Father Murphy gave his blessing to the members of the large congregation who came down the center aisle to the altar rail. The ushers who were in charge of escorting the congregation to seats were Joseph A. Donnelly, Cornelius J. Downes, John T. Sullivan, Simon J. Fahey, Napoleon B. Lanoie, Patrick J. Sullivan and Thomas J. Sullivan.

An excellent musical program under the direction of Mrs. Michael J. Farrell, organist, was given by the senior choir, which consisted of Kyrie by La Hache, Credo by La Hache, Ave Maria by Wiegand, Sanctus by Gounod and Agnus Dei by Gounod. The soloists were Mrs. John Marshall, Nicholas Spellman, Michael J. Farrell and Edward Connelly. During the individual blessings by Rev. Murphy, Mrs. Farrell gave an organ recital.

Check Flu-Grip By Using Vicks at First Sneeze

Health Authorities Urge Precaution to Prevent Epidemic

If all colds were checked at the beginning, influenza, pneumonia and grip would be greatly reduced.

It takes quick action to get ahead of the germs of these dread diseases. Many cases of flu start from germs breathed in. The effective way to attack them is direct—with vapors of Vicks VapoRub.

When rubbed on the throat and chest the ingredients of Vicks are released in the form of vapors which, being breathed in, carry medication to the inflamed air passages and lungs direct and instantly. In addition, it acts like a poultice and helps the vapors inhaled to break up the congestion.

While grip and influenza are so prevalent local people are urged to keep Vicks VapoRub ready at all times for instant use.

ACADEMY TAKES CITY TITLE, BEATING C. F. C. QUINTET FOR SECOND TIME

The Academy today stands out as the leading basketball team within Norwich's confines, (that is, the city, for the Taftville Crescents are yet to be heard from, next Saturday.) Saturday night at the Y gym the Red and White, although facing a much better C. F. C. quintet than that of last week managed to fight its way through to a well-deserved 30 to 29 decision and clinch the city championship in two straight games.

There was nothing of the runaway of a week ago, to be sure, but the C. F. C. showed that same weakness of faltering at the last minutes. Although in the lead nowhere near as much as the Red and White, still the Baptists were able to keep dangerously close all the way and had they had any kind of a scoring punch in the last quarter they would have won. They managed to get one point ahead at 29-28 with three minutes to go which they held for about half of this time. However, there was Les Pingree still to be figured. He had bothered the C. F. C. all night and now with the seconds fast slipping away he decided that it was time for a bit more of his bothersome work.

So, he took the ball on an "off" up near his own basket and went almost the length of the floor before dropping it in to push the score up to 30-29, where it remained. The C. F. C. battled desperately in that last half minute but the Academy tied them up on "held balls" and generally made their slender margin safe.

For the winners Les Pingree and Lloyd Jarvis showed exceptional games with Pingree also leading the scorers with 12 points. The C. F. C. had Ray Yerrington and Nell in the lineup as reinforcements over last week but the Academy was once again better, this time, a little bit.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

The Academy-C. F. C. tilt was some wind-up to a big basketball day at the Y Saturday.

The Red and White again outpointed the C. F. C. in matters of supporters.

Whaples again took a lot of booing but when a man referees five or six times during a day, as Randy did Saturday, there are bound to be a few mistakes.

The Academy had but two subs, Goldblatt and Henschel, the rest of the squad having played with the Emps.

LOMSKI-SEKYRA BOUT THIS WEEK'S FEATURE

NEW YORK, March 25.—(AP)—Leo Lomski of Aberdeen, Wash., and Joe Sekyra of Dayton, O., rival contenders for Tommy Loughran's light heavyweight crown, clash in a main ten round attraction in Madison Square Garden Friday night.

The Pacific coast boxer came within an eyelash of scoring a knockout victory over Loughran in a title tiff several months ago and is campaigning for another opportunity to meet the champion.

Supporting bouts include three eight-rounders. Sunny Jim Williams of California faces Benny Ross of Buffalo, Andy Divodi opposes Jimmy Finley and Georgie (Kid) Lee of Worcester, Mass., stacks up against Nick Testo of Troy, N. Y.

Mike McTigue, ring ancient and former world's light heavyweight champion, tilts with Tony (Young) Marullo of New Orleans in a 10-round feature at the St. Nicholas arena tomorrow night.

DAVIS CUP TEAM BREAKS CAMP TO LEAVE FOR MEXICO

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 25.—(AP)—America's Davis cup training squad today completed practice and prepared to depart immediately for Mexico City to meet the Mexican team in the first round of American zone which is expected to lead to a challenge by the team led by William Tilden, II, making a renewed effort to recapture the trophy now held by France.

In the final practice games today, Tilden won from W. F. Coen, Jr., of Kansas City, who is being carried on the squad to Mexico. The match went five sets, the veteran finally winning out, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5, 2-6, 6-4.

Coen, during the final sets, played big Bill on even terms, often out maneuvering the former national champion. Tilden is suffering from a slightly sprained arm.

In the other two singles matches of the day Johnny Hennessey, Indianapolis, featured in both. He defeated Frank Shields of New York in straight sets, 6-2, 6-1, 6-2, and then turned around and duplicated his easy victory in winning from Tamio Abe, Japanese national champion, 6-2, 6-1, 6-4.

The Davis cup squad, comprising Tilden, Hennessey, Arnold Jones, of Providence, R. I., and Wilmer Allison, University of Texas, accompanied by Coen, who is being carried along for the experience to be gained, was to depart at 1.10 a. m., tomorrow for Mexico City.

ORDERS ALL A. A. U. SHOWS SUSPENDED

BRIDGEPORT, March 25.—(AP)—Suspension of all amateur boxing contests in this state sanctioned by the Connecticut A. A. U., was ordered this afternoon by William J. Kennedy, of East Porchester, Conn., president of the Connecticut A. A. U. in connection with the investigation which he is conducting into the death of 17-year-old Horace Aliff, of 37 Britannia street, Meriden, who died Saturday at the St. Vincent's hospital, as a result of injuries he received in a bout with Tommy Carroll, 32 Wells street, Wednesday night, at Red Men's hall.

Goes Into Effect Friday.

The suspension will go into effect Friday night and will continue throughout the period during which President Kennedy conducts his probe.

"This suspension will absolutely not be lifted until the New Haven Harriers hold their state championships in New Haven in mid-April, and perhaps it will continue for a longer period," declared President Kennedy.

The decision to suspend amateur boxing in Connecticut came about at a meeting at the Cygnet A. C., in Portchester, N. Y., which was attended by Joseph Wirtz, of New Haven, chairman of the A. A. U. registration board, around which the present probe is centering, Louis McAvoy, New Haven member of the registration board, Joseph Dwyer, of this city, member of A. A. U. boxing board and A. A. U. commissioner, and President Kennedy. President Kennedy, it is reported, was anxious to clamp down the lid on amateur boxing immediately, but he was prevailed upon to allow the Norwalk Health school to hold its show tomorrow night, to let the New Haven Arena run its contests on Thursday night, and to allow the local Elks to put on their show Friday night.

The amateur boxing contests scheduled to be held this week in Danbury, Naugatuck, Waterbury and at the Red Men's hall, were prohibited.

The ban placed upon the Red Men's show Wednesday night, has necessitated the cancellation of the benefit program which the Red Men's Athletic association planned to conduct for Aliff's family.

"As for the Waterbury club that was scheduled to conduct a show this week, it is not a member of the A. A. U. and has been operating on a sanction granted by Joe Wirtz," declared President Kennedy.

"Bootleg" Clubs Not Effected.

"This does not mean that there will be no amateur boxing in this state, as there are several clubs in Connecticut which do not belong to the A. A. U. and put on bootleg amateur boxing shows, we have no authority over them."

WILLIMANTIC EMPS CAPTURE TITLE IN INTERMEDIATE COURT TOURNAMENT

The Willimantic Y Emps won the first annual intermediate basketball tournament for teams of eastern Connecticut held Saturday at the local "Y" downing the Norwich Emps in the final game, 17 to 14. The Thread City crew won four games to reach the finals, two very handily while although hard pressed by the local outfit, still they had enough to spurt at the close and gain a well-earned decision.

The tourney was a decided success, attracting much interest and good crowds throughout the day while the hall was packed for the night game, which also was featured by the Academy-C. F. C. contest. Ten teams, from eastern Connecticut competed during the day. There were eight tournament games in all, one being sliced off the required nine because of a default.

The tournament was a little late in opening, starting shortly after 10 o'clock with the Norwich Emps getting a close decision over the Lebanon 4-H club, 17 to 14. The visitors were not conceded any chance to beat the locals before the game, but once things got under way they began to give Capt. Swartzburg and his gang a tough tussle. In fact, they outplayed the locals for the majority of the distance but a few baskets in the last quarter were a bit too much for Lebanon which had seemingly shot its bolt in the preceding three quarters.

The Woodstock Hi Y came out and bested the Old Lyme Comrades in the second game, an interesting one, 30 to 25. Woodstock was a little too smart for the down-the-liners. Sheffield featured the loser's play with pretty shooting while R. Childs led the scorers.

The first afternoon game in the preliminary round, saw the Willimantic Emps wallop the Noank Intermediates 50 to 16. It was a very one-sided affair with the outcome never in doubt.

Stonington trimmed Baltic, 31 to 14, in a rough game in the next start. Baltic's inability at amateur rules gave Stonington a decided edge. Le Clair led the scorers with 15 points while Roever shot seven fouls for the winners.

The Fitchville Rovers gave the Mystic All-Stars a merry battle all the way, losing 27 to 24 in the last few minutes. They lost two regulars on fouls but managed to cope with the play put up by the more experienced Mystic bunch until Brown and Walsh made things safe in the last couple of minutes.

The first game of the quarter-finals saw Woodstock, brilliant in its first start, crumple up and fall easy prey to Willimantic Emp's losing by 23 to 5. Woodstock scored but one basket from the floor and scored but one point in the last half.

The second semi-final found the Norwich Emps showing fine form to eliminate Stonington. The score was 40 to 16. Practically all of the local boys showed well on this time out.

The final has already been related. The Mystic team and Norwich Emps drew byes. Mystic for the semi-finals and Norwich for the finals.

Tourney Notes.

Pre-game odds favored Norwich, but the boys that laid those odds seemingly didn't know that Willimantic had a team.

Fagan played a strong game for Norwich, cavorting at center.

The referees, Ray Yerrington, Randy Wharples and Aubrey Brown did exceptionally fine jobs during the day and night.

Edwin Hill, general secretary of the local association presented the trophies to the teams directly after the final, while before this last tournament conflict William C. McKean, Y physical director, told the crowd about the prizes, and the tournament in general.

Although Norwich didn't cop the title still they got something for playing before the big crowd at night. Both the winners and runners-up were presented shields.

A gun was brought into play for the timer for the first time this year hereabouts. It stopped the game and a lot of people's hearts.

Trant of Mystic pulled the most sensational shot of the game with a running one-hand toss in his game against Fitchville.

Joe Belair withdrew his Mystic team from his semi-final game with Willimantic because of the strain of the tourney on his squad of youngsters. They had a hard game with Fitchville and prospects of two more if they would gain the title so Joe wisely decided to call quits rather than bring any injury to his squad.

Homack of Fitchville qualified early for the biggest player prize.

Chubby Gibbs, Academy baseball player, showed a nice game for Fitchville.

The victory for Woodstock Hi Y over Old Lyme was the first for these boys this year. These players made up the Woodstock Academy five this season and they went through without getting a solitary decision.

Tomorrow The Bulletin will publish its All-Tournament selections.

'BOUT SPORTS

President Bill Kennedy's edict that stops all A. A. U. boxing shows for an indefinite period gives the many newly sanctioned clubs in eastern Connecticut quite some setback. The ban on the amateurs does not go into effect until Friday which will give the Duwell A. A. a chance to get in their show for Tuesday night. Willimantic will run another show this week and Danielson puts one on Wednesday night. Stonington has billed one for tonight. Then comes the layoff for an indefinite period. Of course the outlaw shows welcome President Kennedy's ruling as it will give them practically everything their own way. How it will it effect the amateur boxer? Of late these amateurs have been fighting three and four times a week, really more than was good for them. Now they will have to stand by and watch the unregistered boxer get all the work. There is no question that if the ban is held on long enough that many of the boxers will quit the A. A. U. for the "bootleg" shows.

The death of a Meriden amateur boxer has started an investigation by the president and his investigation committee into the affairs of certain amateur clubs in the state. It seems a shame that it had to be the death of a boy to start action where it has been evidently needed for some time.

BIG BOY BURLAP FACES STIFF TEST

EARL CHAMPLIN
(Big Boy Burlap)

Close to a quarter of a ton of beef will pound the boards of the Duwell ring at the armory tomorrow night when the final bout of the show goes on. Earl Champlin (Big Boy Burlap) of Westerly, 215 pounds, for the first time in his career will meet a man his weight in Charlie Morgan of Springfield who tips the beam at the same figure. Morgan, who replaces "Big Boy" Fielding, the man originally slated to mix with the Westerly colored boy, but who had to scratch because of a bad eye, comes here with a reputation earned in both Massachusetts and Canadian rings. A part of the Brightwood team, recently returned from a successful invasion of the Dominion. Morgan won the praise of Canadian sport writers who saw him topple the best of their favorites in Montreal, Quebec and Three Rivers.

Burlap, who himself is in the midst of a knock-out space that has seen four of the beefers tumble in less than a week's time, is confident that he can dispose of the Springfield boxer in the same short order that he drove Bell of Hartford, Jones of Waterbury, Turello of New London and Scarbole of Boston into oblivion.

Although not in the best of condition judging from his appearance, Burlap possesses a devastating punch that travels not more than six inches and usually spells "finish" upon arrival at its destination. Bob Phelps, handler of Massachusetts outfit has seen the Rhode Island mauler in action and is confident that his entry will put an abrupt stop to his winning streak. The remainder of the invading Springfield team includes Charlie Pepe, Italian featherweight and who has won 100 fights and lost 19, Frankie Povelack, 130 pounds, height 5 feet, 10 inches, and a pair of welterweights whose numbers will be announced later in the day.

In addition to the above men the Duwell matchmaker will have six other teams to pick his bouts from. Two Danielson teams, the Louis Peloquin stable and the Service Battery five, the Jack Potts stable of Jewett City, Saleminio outfit of Westerly, the Duwell A. A. team and a number of unattached boxers have already filed entry. The Peloquin stable will have with it the Bouillard brothers, Al Goellet and the flashy Rene Peloquin who returns to action after a three week lay-off caused by a fractured rib.

Benny Salinski pride of the Jewett City team who also has been on the shelf with stomach trouble returns to duty as will Joe Russo, Rhode Island welterweight king who has been out with a damaged hand.

Bobby Pretends Not to Believe

Some people always will pretend
And care not if they may offend.
—Peter Rabbit.

Bobby Coon had just caught a minnow. Peter Rabbit had watched him. Peter had sat a long time watching Bobby, and Bobby had sat a long time watching the minnows in the Laughing Brook. But now that Bobby had caught his fish Peter knew that he wouldn't interfere by showing himself. So Peter hopped into view and down to the edge of the Laughing Brook.

"Hello, Bobby Coon!" called Peter.

Bobby looked up. He had just swallowed the last of that little minnow and as he looked at Peter he was licking his lips. "Hello, Peter!" said Bobby, good-naturedly, for having caught his fish he was feeling good-natured. "What brings you over here at this time of day?"

"I was looking for a friend of mine," replied Peter.

"And who might that friend be?" inquired Bobby.

"A fisherman," replied Peter, and grinned.

"Do you mean Billy Mink or Little Joe Otter?" inquired Bobby Coon, looking as innocent as if he didn't know all the time who it was Peter meant.

"Neither one," replied Peter. "I came looking for the one you are looking at."

Bobby grinned then, for he had happened to be looking at his own reflection in the Smiling Pool. "All right, Mr. Curiosity," said he. "What is it you want to know this time? If you came over here looking for me it wasn't just to see me."

"I want to know what you know about your cousins who live 'way down South," said Peter.

"Who says I have any cousins living away down South?" answered Bobby.

"Scrapper the Kingbird," replied Peter. "Scrapper says you have some cousins who look a good deal like you and that you have some who don't look a bit like you; and they all live down in that warm country where he spends the winter. Anyway, they are in some country that he goes to on his way to his winter home. He says that one of them has a long nose and a long tail and another has a very long tail and a very long tongue. And he says they all belong to the Raccoon family. Is that true, Bobby Coon?"

Now that was a hard question for Bobby. You see, this was the first he had ever heard of those cousins. He didn't really believe in them, yet he didn't dare say that Scrapper's story wasn't so, because it might turn out that it was so.

"Did you ever seen a Coon with a long nose?" he demanded of Peter.

Peter shook his head.

"If you met one with a long nose and a long tail you wouldn't believe it was a Coon, would you?" persisted Bobby.

"I-I-I, don't know," stammered Peter.

"Well, let me tell you this much," replied Bobby. "I never yet have seen a Raccoon without black bars on his face, rings on his tail and with a nose longer than my own. So I don't take much stock in what Scrapper the Kingbird says. It's a very easy matter to tell strange stories about places where you know your hearers never have been and never will go. I may have some relatives down there, but I doubt if I have any such looking relatives as you have told me about. Do you know what I think?"

"What?" demanded Peter.

"I think," replied Bobby, "that Scrapper the Kingbird has just been stuffing you."

MONTVILLE

About 70 attended the card party given by Mr. and Mrs. Chapman at their home in Palmertown Thursday evening, including guests from Norwich, New London, Quaker Hill and Montville. The was affair for the benefit of the Montville League of Women Voters. The evening proved a delightful one as the hostess had made arrangements for the guests to choose their favorite card game to play. This resulted in 14 tables in order, eight of pinochle with honors being awarded to Mrs. Florence Perry of Uncasville, Fred Kingsley of Norwich, Mrs. William Forsberg of Quaker Hill and C. Everett Chapman. There were two tables of straight whist with Mrs. Hubert G. Dart and Robert Paton, both of Montville, capturing the honors. Four tables of bridge whist were enjoyed with Mrs. George Eltters of New London, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Kirschoff of Quaker Hill and Jack Lewis of New London receiving the honors. The party broke up at a late hour, all agreeing to a highly enjoyable evening.

Miss Natalie G. Gridley was hostess to the Pinochle club Tuesday evening at her home in Palmertown, with six tables of pinochle in play. The honors for the evening ewre captured by Miss Irene M. Blaisdell, Mrs. Robert L. Page, C. Everett Chapman and Harry C. Bogue. The club is considering a visit to Quaker Hill on its next meeting night.

Montville post, No. 112, American Legion, met in regular semi-monthly meeting Thursday evening at the Uncasville school house with 12 members in attendance. Considerable business was transacted at this time and plans were made for a smoker to be held at the Gair plant at the next meeting; several committees were appointed for various work.

Mrs. Harry C. Bogue of Palmertown was hostess to the Ladies' Aid society of the Union Baptist church at her home Thursday afternoon with a large number present. A pleasant afternoon was enjoyed and refreshments were served by the hostess after the business and work of the day was dispensed with. Mrs. Mark T. Ruber extended an invitation to the society to meet with her at her home for its next meeting. Those present were Mrs. James Sawyer, Mrs. Edward Chappell.

CONSIDERABLE IMPROVEMENT NOTED IN THE BUSINESS WORLD LAST WEEK

NEW YORK, March 25—(AP)—The upward trend of American business continued gradually last week, although handicapped by irregularities here and there. The advance of spring has brought considerable improvement, particularly in retail lines, and some of the so-called heavy industries again made satisfactory strides.

The steel industry maintained its leadership of the entire field, its business holding up at such an extent that it is now certain that the first quarter showing this year will exceed that of 1927 by a substantial amount. Buying for the accounts of railroads, automobile manufacturers and structural concerns has been the major factor in the forward movement of this branch of trade. Operations were particularly strong in the Chicago district where 95 per cent. of capacity was reported. Eastern centers varied from 80 to 85 per cent. The western market reported a further marking up of finished steel prices, coincident with a good volume of orders from makers of oil tanks.

Further expansion of the motor trade reflected continued steady demand. A statement by John J. Raskob, hairman of the board of General Motors corporation, predicting record-breaking earnings in the first quarter, inasmuch as production has been running well ahead of last year's first quarter, was an outstanding feature. This explained, in part, the remarkable advance of General Motors stock in the New York market.

Car loadings tended downward a little from the preceding week, and because of enormous coal shipments at this time last year, the 1928 figures continued to fall far behind those of 1927.

Some slight improvement was shown in the textile division, notably in cotton goods, where a steady demand was reported for current and nearby requirements. Woolens and worsteds, however, continued to move slowly. Prices on some fabrics for women's wear were increased moderately as quotations for fall lines were opened. A sharp decline was reported in Japanese silk prices.

In nonferrous metals, further advances in zinc prices featured the week, although copper was a shade lower. Cheerful reports from the Pacific northwest created new optimism in the lumber trade, although some of the hardwood markets in the Mississippi valley were rather quiet.

The stock market continued to boil with activity, sales exceeding 3,000,000 shares for 11 consecutive full days, and surpassing the 2,000,000 mark on two straight Saturdays. As a barometer of the business future, however, the stock market is hardly reliable, the enormous activity and strength being influenced by the operations of powerful pools against the short interests, and the attraction of a flood of "outside buying" as the public sought to reap harvests in quick profits in the booming market.

In utilities, the $235,000,000 merger of the Mackay companies with the International Telephone and Telegraph company, into a communication system covering most of the civilized world, was the undisputed feature.

Bank clearings increased materially over the preceding week, as well as the corresponding period of 1927.

His cheery smile and kindly ways are pleasant to recall.
He had a pleasant smile and word for everyone,
And died beloved by all.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

Water—falling drop by drop—will wear its way through stone.

Believing that minute worries affect the human nervous system in the same way that water affects stone and in the end, bring on the dramatic outbursts which result in tragedies, Victor Schertzinger has built George Bancroft's first starring picture for Paramount, "The Showdown," upon this theory; now showing at the Palace theatre.

The story takes place in the oil fields of Tampico where Bancroft has gone in an effort to retrieve his fortunes by a last desperate gamble.

In this environment comes a delicately nurtured girl from New York. She is warned by Bancroft that the stealthy menace of the jungle, its loneliness, its dangers all the more deadly because hidden under flowers and greenery, will, in the end, break down her morale. She scoffs at him and then——with dramatic suddenness she goes to pieces and Bancroft finds himself faced by the necessity of fighting to save her from the dangers of her own desires. In addition, he stands as her only protector from the passions of three other men, blind to every sense of decency.

The working out of this dramatic situation in "The Showdown" has been accomplished with consummate skill by Schertzinger. Heading the cast which supports Bancroft are Evelyn Brent, Neil Hamilton, Fred Kohler, Arnold Kent and Leslie Fenton.

Tomorrow a double feature program will be the attraction. Helene Costello is the star of "Burning Up Broadway," a thrilling story of the New York underworld, and Bob Custer has the stellar role in "The Border Whirlwind," a western drama full of life and action.

Tomorrow night will be gift night at the Palace and twenty-five dollars in gold and ten valuable gifts, including a forty-two piece dinner set will be given away absolutely free.

Strand Theatre

Showing for the last time tonight at the Strand is "Casey Jones", the greatest of all railroad melodramas. And it's packed with every thrill that the mind of man could devise. Here is the last word in gorgeous, glamorous, glittering entertainment. You're going to love it. On through the night careening wildly from side to side fore "No. 39" with Casey Jones at the throttle. What a maddening ride for the passengers of that wild express, the brave engineer never faltered in his duty—but when the night express took from him that which he loved most, his little daughter, then Casey Jones was broken hearted, on through the inky blackness thundered "No. 39" with Casey Jones apparently dead at the throttle, then— but see this stirring melodrama and see for yourself. In the cast are Ralph Lewis, Kate Price, Al St. John and many other stars.

"Trail of a Ranger" is an interesting and colorful Tiffany color scenic, that you will enjoy.

"Her Big Adventure" is a sunshine society melodrama with an exciting mystery plot that keeps you in suspense, until the story unfolds as a delightful romance. There are some brilliant scenes and gorgeous gowns. The leading stars are Herbert Rawlinson and Grace Darmond, and they have the support of an all star cast. If you like a real society picture with plenty of action, be sure to see this tonight at the Strand.

Breed Theatre

Olive Borden, the world's youngest film notable in dramatic parts, scored in the title role of "The Joy Girl," at the Breed theatre last night. This is a Fox picture directed by Allan Dwan from the Saturday Evening Post story by May Edginton and it sets out to glorify modern youth with all its jazz. How well it succeeds is best attested by the enthusiasm of last night's house.

The story tells of a poor girl who aspired to wealth and position at almost any cost. A bit of a snob, in her young ignorance, she deliberately sought after rich men. But, thanks to innate fineness and a lucky stroke, it turns out that a certain young chauffeur in whom she is really interested, is actually Prince Charming in disguise.

Dwan presents the brilliance of New York and Palm Beach in a series of remarkable shots for which he took the entire company to the scenes. While there is none of the exaggerated splendor that sometimes accompanies pictures of society, nothing of the real luxury is omitted.

Aside from being a picture that defends modern youth, "The Joy Girl," also is an argument for realism on the screen, which is something for which Allan Dwan has long been noted.

Neil Hamilton plays the leading masculine role as the wealthy young scion posing as a chauffeur. Other well known names in the cast are those of Marie Dressler, famous on stage and screen; Mary Alden, William Norris, Helen Chandler, Jerry Miley, Frank Walsh, Clarence Elmer, Peggy Keller and Jimmy Grainger, Jr.

NEW LONDON'S TAX RATE ESTIMATED AT 31 MILLS FOR THE COMING YEAR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 25.—Due to increased municipal expenses a tax rate of 31 mills is predicted for the coming year, according to a statement of Mayor James A. May made Saturday, following a meeting of the city's financial committee, held Friday night. This tentative rate is an increase of approximately three and one-half mills over last year. Every municipal department shows increased appropriations over last year and the increased rate is necessary if the city's finances are to remain on an even keel.

FORMER NORWICH GIRL IS FOUND WITH SAILOR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 25.—Doris Chapman, about 18, of a Norwich family, and who has been residing at the Central house, 6 Starr street, together with Richard Garvin, a sailor, were presented in the police court Saturday morning on charges of lascivious conduct. The Chapman girl's case was continued to Monday and Garvin was fined $25, but execution of the sentence was suspended. The girl, who is employed by a Water street manufactory, and Garvin were observed Friday midnight to enter the rooming house conducted by Thomas Hamrah, on Main street and which is patronized almost entirely by sailors. A short time afterwards, Patrolmen Dennis Murphy and Henry Sylvia entered the house and going to one of the rooms found the girl and Garvin occupying it. There was nothing for the officers to do but to arrest the couple, although at first the girl denied any act of immorality. Afterwards, however, she admitted conduct that warranted the charges made against her and the young man. The girl is a former resident of this city, but moved to Norwich with her family several years ago. About a month ago she decided to return to New London and obtaining employment, continued to reside at the Starr street house.

PECKHAM, FATHER OF EIGHT, JUSTIFIES BOOKLEGGING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 25.—Howard Peckham, 211 Howard street, was presented on two charges of the liquor law, actual sale and keeping with intent to sell. He pleaded guilty, not even retaining counsel and was fined $200 and costs on each of the counts, the aggregate amount that Peckham paid the court being $418. Peckham was arrested Friday night when a squad of police went to his home where it was known Peckham was dispensing home-made liquor, after numerous complaints had been made against the booze distributor. Two stills were found there and a small quantity of liquor, which was seized. Peckham is an exceptional type of bootlegger for when the police arrived at his home he greeted the officers cordially and said that he had expected a visit from them and in reality was surprised that they had delayed their coming. He courteously showed them where the stills were located and where he stored his supply. Peckham also produced his truck and after assisting the officers to place the seizure on it drove the liquor and stills to police headquarters. He then informed the officers that he would plead guilty. When he did so Saturday and paid his fine, Peckham remarked that he was undecided whether he would discontinue the manufacture and sale of liquor. He said that he was married and was the father of eight children and because of the size of his family he found it compulsory to engage in the illegal business. Peckham has been arrested on one previous occasion at which time he was one of a dozen captured in raids and at that time was fined $200 and costs, on two counts.

The continued case of Elbert Chapman, of Poquonoc road, Groton, charged with reckless driving, was again continued in the city court Saturday, this time for three months. Chapman, who is employed by the Yellow Cab company, was driving one of the cabs on State street last October and struck Patrolman Walter Rehn, who was off duty as the officer was crossing the thoroughfare. Officer Rehn, sustained a fractured leg, which injury has incapacitated him since. The officer is able to navigate now with the assistance of a crutch and by the time that the case is again called in court it is believed that it will be disposed of, for the officer should be able then to testify against Chapman.

Charles Manchester, 12 Colt street, employed by the New Haven railroad, was presented on a charge of non-support of his wife, Grace Newell Manchester. He pleaded not guilty, but the evidence introduced was such that left no doubt in the mind of the court that Manchester was not properly contributing to his wife's support. Manchester was arrested last December on a similar charge, for he and his wife have been estranged several years. Manchester when presented in court was ordered to contribute a specified sum and was placed in custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield. Manchester failed to comply with the order of the court and his arrest Saturday was the result. He was again ordered to contribute weekly to his wife's support and the amount he will pay to her weekly will be one-third of his weekly compensation. The court also imposed a sentence of 30 days in jail, which will become operative in the event that Manchester fails to pay his wife the sum ordered by the court. Manchester furnished a surety on his bond of $500 to carry out the court's order.

Salvatore Mugovero, proprietor of "Sol's" restaurant, Railroad avenue, was presented on a charge of conducting a gambling machine in the eating-place. Although the machine was found there, judgment was suspended and the gambling device was confiscated. Mugovero purchased the gambling machine about a year ago for $65 and had since permitted it to be played. Money was not used in the playing of the machine, but instead tokens were deposited in the slot. The machine would pay tokens, which could be converted into cash or taken in trade and the amount the machine paid, if the player was lucky, was from 10 cents to $1. Several weeks ago, Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin instructed the police to cause every gambling device taken from stores where they were being played and there were many business places that were using a device of some description. Friday night the police received the tip that the slot machine was in operation at the restaurant. Acting Sergeant William Graham and Patrolman Elwood Bailey went there and found the device on the lunch counter, in position to be played by patrons of the place.

Edward Poulin, 29 Meadow street, Hartford, was arrested this morning charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving his automobile while under the influence of liquor. He furnished a surety on his bond of $100 and will be in the police court Monday morning. Poulin was arrested at 1:30 o'clock by Patrolman Dennis Murphy who detected Poulin intoxicated and at the wheel of the automobile on Main street.

James E. Norman, R. F. D., No. 2, Waterford, was arrested Saturday by Patrolman Edward Riordan charged with violation of the city's traffic ordinances in blocking a driveway on Huntington street. Norman parked his car in front of the driveway leading to the rear of the residence of Mrs. Julia Sawyer and the latter made complaint to Officer Riordan.

Joseph Francis, 177 North Bank street, was arrested this morning by Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray charged with breach of the peace. He furnished a surety on his bond of $50 and will be presented in the police court Monday. Francis was on Douglass street where he engaged in an argument with Max Rogovin, North Bank street junkman, the argument resulting in Francis striking Rogovin a blow in the region of the heart. Rogovin made complaint to the police. He was attended by a physician.

An automobile driven by Vincent Trasco, of Oakdale, struck and damaged a "no parking" sign in the rear of the Soldiers and Sailors monument, State street, Saturday night. Trasco informed the police of the damage he had caused and stated that he would pay up any time that he got the bill.

Patrolman Lawrence Fardy reported at police headquarters this morning that a cement mixer, sand and gravel, etc., were stored in the highway of West street and that there were no lights on the material Saturday night to warn auto drivers of the danger spot. The material is being used by Thomas Occhilini, contractor and he was ordered to place lights on the outfit in the future.

Leon Kaplan, of 55 Prest street and Mrs. Grace Little, 4 Pacific street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday.

Mrs. Rose S. Williams, 72, widow of Charles S. Williams, of 94 Thames street, died at Lawrence-Memorial hospital Saturday morning. She had been a patient at the hospital but a short time, although she had not been in sound health in many weeks.

The funeral of Albert J. Miller, formerly of New London, who died at Newport, R. I., several days ago, was held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Elmer J. Page, 80 Raymond street. The services were conducted by Rev. Charles E. Spaulding, pastor of the Methodist church. The bearers were members of Nonowantic Tribe, I. O. R. M. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Robert McQueen, 78, died Saturday night at his home at Station 7, Waterford. Mr. McQueen's death was hastened by a fall four weeks ago, which resulted in a fractured hip and which had kept him confined to his bed. He is survived by three sons, Robert McQueen, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; and John and Daniel McQueen, of this city and by two daughters, Mrs. Jennie Kennie of this city and Mrs. Christina Wilson, of Waterford. Mr. McQueen was born in Scotland, but had resided in New London and Waterford many years. He was for a long time employed as blacksmith by the former Morgan Iron Works.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel has ordered the cancellation of the driver's license of Fred King, 8 Starr street.

Over two thousand persons attended a dance held at the state armory Friday night in honor of Commander R. W. Dempwolf, of Section Base 4 of the U. S. Coast Guard. The armory was elaborately decorated and the assemblage presented a brilliant spectacle after the ball was in progress. Admiral F. C. Billard was invited but was unable to attend and sent his regrets from Washington headquarters by O. M. Maxson, chief of the division of material. Although the dance did not begin until 8:30, guests began to arrive as early as 7 o'clock. By first intermission, which was held at 10 o'clock the ballroom was crowded.

At 11:30 a. m. Saturday the Y. W. C. A. campers and councilors opened an all-day meeting and re-union at the association building. Drucilla Fielding, president of the camp club presided. After a short business session reviewing the work of last year an open discussion of 1928 work was held. At 1 o'clock there was a luncheon in camp style. It was decided at the meeting to hold this year's encampment at Gardner lake for a month.

A decided interest on the part of the high schools in southern New London high schools in southern New London county has been manifested in the matter of College Choosing Day, being promoted by the Boy's division of the New London Y. M. C. A., according to statements made by Rev. Arthur F. Wagner, chairman of the committee. Five schools have responded with a total of 484 cards signed by their students on which they have indicated a desire to know more details about one or more school of higher education. These cards have come from the following schools: Stonington high, 40; Bacon academy, Colchester, 11; Williams Memorial Institute, 11; Bulkeley high, 81, and Chapman Tech, 341.

The committee has drawn from the cardsthe totals of those who are interested in the various schools, and has invited 42 institutions to send representatives to this city for the afternoon of Friday, March 30th, to interview the groups and answer their varied questions. It is hoped to begin the conferences at 2:00 p. m. and these are planned to be held in the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. They will be so planned that it will be possible for one interested in as many as three colleges to spend sufficient time in each of these if the representatives are present to get further information. Not only upper classmen are welcomed to these conferences, but also those in even the first year of high school, it being the experience that many are stimulated to higher grades throughout their school years and definitely set their mind upon college training by getting this touch with actual college details in their first years of secondary school study.

The institutions of higher learning which have been invited by this committee to send representatives are United States Naval academy, Annapolis; Bay Path institute, Boston university, Bryant and Stratton Commercial college, Columbia university, Connecticut Agricultural college, Connecticut College for Women, Cornel university, Dartmouth college, Harvard university, Katherine Gibbs Secretarial school, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Middlebury college, Mount Holyoke college, New Haven Normal School of Gymnastics, New London Business college, New England Conservatory of Music, New York university, Lawrence Memorial Hospital Training School for Nurses, Home Memorial Hospital Training School for Nurses, Northeastern university, Pratt institute, Princeton college, Radcliffe college, Rhode Island School of Design, Rhode Island State college, Simmons college Tufts college, University of New Hampshire, University of Pennsylvania, Van Rensalaer Polytechnical institute, Wellesley college, Wesleyan college, West Point Military academy, Miss Wheelock's School for Kindergarten Training, State Normal school, Willimantic; Worcester Polytechnical institute, Yale university, Yale Art school, Yale School of Forestry, and the International Y. M. C. A. college, Springfield.

RAID PALITZ CLUB ROOM—BUT LITTLE BOOZE FOUND

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 25—Albert Palitz, proprietor of the club room at 5 Pearl street, was arrested tonight charged with violation of the liquor law. He was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $1,000 and will be given a hearing in the city court Monday morning. Palitz was arrested by Detective Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh and Acting Sergeant William Graham. A search warrant, signed by Judge S. Victor Prince, was issued upon information furnished by Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin. The officers went to the club room and had little difficulty in gaining admission, but they were not successful as they believed they would be in obtaining a supply of liquor, although a search did reveal a small quantity of booze which was taken as evidence against the proprietor of the club room. The club room has been raided before, in fact, three times within a year.

Francis Sullivan and Albert De Rocco, youths about 17, were arrested this morning by Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith, charged with theft. The boys were attempting, at a local junk shop, to dispose of loot they are alleged to have stolen. The officer spied the boys at the shop of Reuben Lubchansky, proprietor of the New England Iron & Metal company place, and upon questioning them decided that the youths had stolen the junk at the plant of the Groton Iron Works. Captain Andrew McCarthy, of Groton police, was communicated with and when acquainted with the statement of the boys, came to New London and took charge of them.

John Levantic, 19 Pratt street, was arrested tonight by Patrolman George Perkins charged with reckless driving and will be in the police court tomorrow morning. Levantic was driving his automobile on Crystal avenue and at the corner of Main street, the speed of the car was such that the driver was held up by the officer and arrested. He furnished a surety on his bond of $50 for his appearance in court.

James Brennan, of Waterford, was arrested tonight by State Police Officer John Smith, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, and will be in court Monday morning. Smith was doing patrol duty in an automobile and observed the course taken by the car driven by Brennan When the officer had Brennan bring his car to a stop, the driver was in almost a helpless state of intoxication and was arrested.

A force of city employes was at work today, making new connections of water mains on Bank street, where preliminary work toward the widening of the street is in progress. It is the intention of the highway department to rush the work as rapidly as possible so that the entire work will be completed before summer traffic starts.

A cover to a catch basin, corner of Huntington and Jay streets, was discovered broken Saturday by Sergeant Samuel Hick. The danger spot has been reported to the highway department.

There was a rehearsal today of the passion play, The Upper Room, which is to be presented under the auspices of the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service, Rev. Raymond J. O'Callaghan is coaching the players. The Upper Room is the story told by the persons who followed the Master through the sorrows of His passion and death. The scene is laid in the upper room at Jerusalem where Our Lord has just celebrated the Paschal supper and ordained His first priests. The parts of Peter and Longinus will be played by Jack Whiteside and George L. Pero. Throughout the performance there will be the singing of hymns by a chorus of mixed voices. The hymns will be O Come and Mourn with Me, Stabat Mater, Pange Lingua, Vexilla Regis and Tristus Est Anima Mea. Members of the chorus are Mrs. Hugh Lena, Mrs. Edward Murray, Miss Gertrude Smiddy, Prof. Edward S. Hand, James McIninch, John Leverone, Mrs. Katherine Hickey, Helen Ganey, Loretta Murnane, Edward Murray, Raymond Rondamanski. Miss Mary Rondamanski will play the violin and Zygmund Rondamanski the 'cello, in accompaniment to the singing.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Connecticut College Concert

Music alone is not enough to fill an artist's life, declares Jascha Heifetz, violinist, who will play at the New London state armory next Wednesday evening.

"Music is not sufficiently engrossing to fill a man's life," said Heifetz. "One must add to it all the other interests he can. For myself—books, travel, people, sports—but not politics.

"Politics are not for the musician," he continued. "Fortunately I can speak through music to people of all opinions and races. I do not need to know their convictions, and they do not need to know mine.

"When I studied at the conservatory in Leningrad, we were not considered properly taught if we know only our own instruments. We violinists, for instance, had to study some of the piano, the harp and of course, the viola. We were required from time to time to play in different sections of the orchestra, for the benefit of our sight reading, and we had to know the theory and technique of performance in duets, quartets and all forms of musical ensemble.

"I do not play the cello. That is very different and difficult. But I can play just one scale on it—the scale of C. Sometimes I can bluff on that with people who ask me to try their instruments. I dash through it with as much nerve as I can and then quickly give the instrument back again saying, 'That's a fine cello you have there'—and get away with it!"

Home Exhibit in Hartford

The Home Progress Exposition opened at the State Armory Saturday and will be on view to the public daily for a week. Included in the apparatus which will be on exhibition will be a miniature reproduction of the "New Haven" railroad system occupying 20 square feet, a regulation size trolley car, several airplanes, a giant refrigerator and seagoing motor boats. A nominal admission price will be charged.

Colonel Hunter who is chairman of the exposition and his associates have made every effort to place on view the newest things in mechanical apparatus that are of special interest to the younger generation. In addition to the modern types of general apparatus which will be shown, space has been made in the armory for showing the latest models of airplanes and radio and water craft. "It will really be a cross section of our modern industrial life," according to Colonel Hunter.

The exhibit will be interesting to all Connecticut people and is well worth a trip to Hartford to see.

World War Pictures

An official record of the most comprehensive panorama and closeups of that gigantic conflict ever witnessed by man may be seen at the Breed theatre, under the auspices of the R. E. Hourigan Post, No. 594, V. F. W. of Norwich on Wednesday and Thursday, March 28th and 29th.

Before this country entered the World war a certain famous motion picture director in making a war picture decided he must have the real atmosphere of the battlefield and he therefore packed off a battery of cameramen to France and the trenches to take photographs of troops actually under fire. They returned within two weeks with the comment that they could make better or more thrilling war scenes at Hollywood. Their idea of war was a picture of massed troops piling out of trenches behind color bearers with flapping flags and buglers blowing triumphant calls to attack. A few dirty men sitting around a machine gun pumping lead into a thick and wet fog; straggling pollues crawling out of a trench and in a manner ambling toward an unseen enemy in the gray or pitch black darkness of very early dawn; a battery firing a couple of rounds into the air and then going back to sleep, was not war to them. They wanted shells bursting in mid-air, lots of clean sunshine and Red Cross nurses dashing daintily among tangled wire to aid the wounded. That was war, that was what the public conceived war to be, and that was what the producers were going to give the public. After the war there came to light these official Signal Corps motion pictures. While these films may not furnish the thrills or glory as do those manufactured at Hollywood, they picture war in all its grim reality.

While the scenes are scattered and cover a great deal of ground, everything is in chronological order, scenes of the last maneuvres of the German Imperial army in 1914 just before the war by the kaiser and his war lords are shown first, then the film goes through Belgium's part early in the war. The war in the Balkans and on the Russian frontier with France, England and Italy entering the great struggle down to America's part and the ending of the conflict. The scenes of the fighting in Poland show what great dangers the camera men must have gone through, of which 1400 were killed during the first year of the war. A Cossack officer is blown from his horse in the sudden bursting of a shell before the eyes of the audience. A German cavalry sweeps by the camera with every sixth man falling with great violence to be trampled on by the horses of his companions and a bayonet charge against a battery is carried on within 100 yards of the camera, a number of men fighting from within a shell hole suddenly vanish in a cloud of smoke and when all is cleared again one sees nothing but a few struggling forms which had been men but a moment before. The shelling of St. Peters and Pauls cathedral, Belgrade and the actual battle staged at the entrance way of the famous church was taken at a very close range, men were cut down in the cathedral doorway as the walls tottered and praying nuns who performed heroic work with the wounded are accurately pictured. The sinking at sea of ships by Germany's most famous sea raider, submarine U-35, are never to be forgotten, ships will be seen as they are shelled, bombed or torpedoed until completely shattered and sunken.

The United States furnished 69 per cent of all chemicals and allied products imported by Canada in 1927, while Great Britain, nearest competitor, supplied 12 per cent. The year's imports were valued at $36,430,000.

PLANT'S FARM IN GROTON TO BE STATE AVIATION TRAINING FIELD

A state aviation field for a training area for the 118th observation squadron, C. N. G., is to be provided at Groton on the Morgan farm owned by the Morton Plant estate, according to an agreement that has been signed by the Plant estate trustees and State Commissioner of Finance Edward F. Hall, which gives the state the use of this 141 acre farm. This land represents about one-half of the tract on which the state has an option extending to May 30, 1929, secured recently as a possible future airport to be used in connection with the four-day trans-Atlantic steamship line.

The price of $450 an acre has been set by the trustees for the property on which the state now holds an option. The tract includes, besides the Morgan farm, the Fish farm of 134 acres. This represents a cost of $123,750 in addition to the $1,000 option price that the state has already paid.

The state has agreed to pay $250 to the Plant estate as compensation for the hay which could have been raised on the Morgan farm this summer.

The state is given permission to remove the fences, grade the Morgan property and to erect two runways. It is said that very little grading work is necessary and that it will cost approximately $3,000 or less.

The Morgan farm is along the shore, the southernmost of the two tracts, and borders on the Poquonock river, where suitable arrangements can be made for a hydroplane landing station.

Further consideration of the price asked by the Plant trustees reveals its unusual attractiveness, inasmuch as there are two complete sets of farm buildings included in the sale price. These could be sold by the state should it be finally decided to acquire the property.

There is a large concrete warehouse on the Morgan farm, with solid bronze doors, said to have been built at a cost of approximately $90,000. This warehouse will be used as the administration offices of the 118th observation squadron this summer as well as a mess hall and kitchen. The personnel of the unit will occupy tents adjacent to the building.

Major Ladd announced that the squadron would be at the Morgan farm from July 8 to 22. During the first week, artillery problems will be taken up in conjunction with the 245th coast artillery corps of the New York National Guard that will be in training at the same time at Fort Wright. The second week will be devoted to liaison work with the 169th infantry, C. N. G., scheduled to go to Niantic on July 3 for a two weeks' training period.

SPECIAL SERVICES HERE BY BRIDGEPORT PASTOR

A series of special services to run six nights this week was opened Sunday evening at the Central Baptist church by Rev. Charles H. Heimsath of Bridgeport, who is exchanging pastorates for the week with Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D. The service which opened at 7.30 o'clock, lasting about an hour, was well attended. Previous to his sermon Rev. Mr. Heimsath remarked on the size of the congregation as an "excellent evening congregation." He also stated that the aim of the meetings is to win people to a Christian decision and church membership. He spoke of the systematic method used in his church to bring people into church membership stating that Sunday morning 17 were received, and that on the previous Sunday 9 were received by the church. So far this year 70 new members have been received and during the past two years 175 new members have come into his church.

His sermon Sunday evening was based on the story of the conversion of Cornelius which he said marked a crisis in the expansion of early Christianity. He said it was impossible for the early disciples to comprehend the inclusiveness of Christ's message. It took years before the Christian church realized that Jesus was the saviour of both Jews and Gentiles. So you can see what a step forward it was when this Gentile, Cornelius, was received into Christianity, said the preacher. For this man to be converted and to be received meant that Christianity must go outside of Judaism. It was a victory for the church.

Christianity is hungry and its hunger cannot be satisfied while there is a man, woman or child outside the church. Our interest centers first on Cornelius himself. We see in him the religious need of a good man. Cornelius was a religious man and his religion was effective. The Scriptures say Cornelius was a devout man. His religion achieved for him practical results. This religion of Cornelius was acceptable in the sight of God. This religion Cornelius had and his goodness was no substitute for Christ. Some people feel they have a kind of goodness that will take the place of Christ.

The voice told Cornelius, a Roman officer to go to an outcast for spiritual advice. Cornelius needed help or he would never have gone. Cornelius realized that he needed something he didn't have. The preacher said that at the time Cornelius had the vision, Peter had a vision also. Peter didn't understand his vision. He didn't understand how Christianity should go outside the Jewish race. He would never have understood his vision if he hadn't answered Cornelius' knock at the door.

Peter needed two things before he could meet the need of Cornelius. He needed a new vision of services. We've got to be prepared for service. We've got to let God enlighten us and inspire us. Sometimes we've got to get rid of a great deal of prejudice. We never will understand the fullness and depth of our religion unless we practice it.

Both Cornelius and Peter realized that it was a crucial time. These two men sat down at a table to talk about Christianity. Here, I believe, we had the first International Christian conference. Here, I think, was the beginning of all of our international conferences. What did this conference find. First that all men are alike; second that God honors all righteousness and third, that Jesus Christ is the fulfillment of the needs of men and of the world. The profound lesson we ought to gain from this city is that our religion is more effective than we know. The supreme aim of the church is to transform people into servants of their fellowmen and to feed them on the bread of life.

Rev. Mr. Heimsath will preach each evening this week, except Saturday, at 7.30 o'clock.

DREW FINE FOR CYCLE STANDING WITHOUT LIGHTS

Albanie Lapanne of Montville, was found guilty of a charge of parking a motorcycle without lights on the curve of a highway at night and was fined $5 and costs of $9.86 by a justice of the peace in Montville.

Lapanne, was arrested by State Policeman Peter P. Busch, on March 19. It was alleged that a motorcycle of which he had been riding, broke down on a curve, south of Perry's garage in the Quaker Hill section of Waterford, and that Lapanne, while repairing machine, had turned the motorcycle's lights off.

Former State Senator Frederick A. Johnson of Montville was driving north along the highway. An unidentified automobile was proceeding south. Mr. Johnson, coming suddenly upon the unlighted motorcycle, swerved to his left, grazed the side of the motorcycle and narrowly avoided a collision with the southbound automobile, which disappeared.

CONTINUANCE IN CASE OVER QUAKER HILL CRASH

Although Charles J. Kelly, alias George Gould, of Boston did not appear in Waterford town court Friday afternoon to answer to a charge of reckless driving set for trial then, bonds of $1,000 posted for his appearance in court were not called, for Prosecutor J. James Floyd said that he had received no communication from either Kelly or his attorney and that rather than call the bond he would recommend continuance of the case for one week. The recommendation was sustained by Judge Fred N. Dimmock.

Kelly was arrested on Feb. 29 after an automobile, which the state police say was operated by him, turned over on the Norwich road at Quaker Hill. Patrick Sullivan, of Medford, Mass., was seriously injured in the accident and on two occasions the case against Kelly was continued to determine Sullivan's condition, for it was thought there was a possibility of a manslaughter charge.

Mr. Sullivan, who is an employe of the internal revenue department, is now greatly improved and it is planned to dispose of the case against Kelly next Friday afternoon.

DROVE PAST SIGNAL; HAD NO OPERATOR'S LICENSE

At the city court sesion Saturday morning Tony Caldrelo, New London, was fined $25 and costs, on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without having an operator's license. The fine was remitted, the costs amounting to $10. The accused was arrested Friday afternoon as he attempted to drive past the signal beacon at Shannon corner when the red light was set against him. He failed to produce a 1928 license, although he had licenses for other years. On being released on bonds he immediately returned to New London and secured a 1928 license at the motor vehicle office there. He produced the license in court Saturday morning, but it was marked 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, which was after his arrest.

BROKE SEDAN WINDOWS TO GET AT BLAZE

At 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon the fire department was called out for a small fire in a Chevrolet sedan, parked near the Chelsea bank, Main street. The owner, John Bennett of Pawcatuck, had parked the machine, with the doors locked. Squad A responded and the fire was extinguished with three gallons of chemical. It was necessary to break one of the door windows in order to get at the seat of the fire which was in the upholstery. The cause of the fire is thought to have been a dropped match and cigarette butt. The damage was small.

CONTRACTORS TURN DOWN LABORERS WAGE DEMAND

The local contractors have refused to meet the demands recently made by the local laborers and hod carriers union for a new agreement to become effective April 1st. The new agreement seeks for a rate of 75c an hour for common laborers and 85c an hour for concrete workers and mason tenders. The present wages rate is 62 1-2c an hour for common laborers and 72 1-2 hour for concrete workers and mason tenders. The reason for the refusal of the contractors to meet the demands is understood to be lack of work. The union will meet in the near future to discuss the matter.

WILL PLANT 1,892 TREES ALONG STATE HIGHWAYS

Beautification work along Connecticut highways will be continued with renewed vigor this year with the planting of 1,892 trees along various roads as part of the program, according to plans announced by Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald. In order to avoid unnatural effects, the trees to be planted will be typical New England growths, such as, elm, sugar maple, pin oak, red maple, and white ash. Approximately half of the trees will be planted this spring while the remainder will be set out in the fall.

The roads in this part of the state upon which tree planting will take place this spring are route 10, Middletown-Haddam; route 111, Middletown-Meriden, Marlboro - Hebron; route 12, Norwich-New London, Mohegan Trail (Plainfield); route 141, Scotland-Canterbury, South Woodstock-East Woodstock; route 142, North Woodstock-Massachusetts state line; route 366, Amston-Hebron, North Windham-Chaplin.

The tree planting, however, is by no means the major portion of the beautification work to be undertaken this year, for the creation of road parkways and picnic spots, the pruning and trimming of existing growths to afford views of natural scenery, and the general improvement of roadside shrubbery form an ambitious part of the program.

In many places in the state the department has been devoting attention to high rough slopes lining the highways, many of these were seeded last fall with grass. In roadside slopes which were too steep for planting or upon which the soil was not sufficiently fertile to warrant planting, small patches of fertile soil were inserted and in these various vines, including Japanese honeysuckle, rambler rose, and woodbine, were planted, so that in a few year's time the once hideous sand banks should be covered with blossoms and greenery.

In announcing his beautification plans for the current year, Commissioner Macdonald stressed the necessity of securing the cooperation of the people of the state. Connecticut people in general are proud of their state, he said, and desire to see its highways beautified, but active cooperation will serve to increase the speed with which the beautification program can be developed. Cooperation of the towns in the care of trees within the limits of the highways and the cleaning of unsightly spots, together with the active aid of clubs and civic organizations, will greatly speed the planting and landscaping work. Cooperation of this sort has already been offered by many individuals and associations, but more will be helpful in the future.

DIOCESAN HEAD SPEAKS TO GIRLS' FRIENDLY

The Girls' Friendly society of New London archdeaconry, met at Christ Episcopal church Sunday afternoon at 3:30, conducting the devotional service and winter meeting, followed by a supper at 5:30. The hymns used in the service were written by members of the Christ church branch. The rector, Rev. C. M. Budlong, welcomed the guests, numbering about 125, in the social room at 4 o'clock, and the diocesan president, Mrs. C. E. Dimock, conducted the business meeting, giving several reports on the branches in Connecticut. Mrs. C. M. Budlong, vice-president of the New London archdeaconry, with other officers, assisted at the meeting.

Mrs. James Southouse, branch president, was in charge of the reception committee, and the special speaker for the afternoon was Miss Anna Pratt, of Hartford, who took as her keyword "Adventure" as she spoke of what the Girls' Friendly stands for. Songs and club cheers enlivened the supper hour. The dining room was decorated in yellow and lavender, with bunches of pussy willow.

The next New London archdeaconry meeting will be held in St. Paul's parish, Plainfield.

NORWICH TOWN

WORDS OF ETERNAL LIFE PREACHED BY MISSIONARY

The week's mission at the Sacred Heart church, which has been attended by such unusually large congregations at all the services, was brought to a close Sunday evening. Rev. Father Seraphin, who conducted the mission has proved a powerful and convincing preacher, impressing the parishioners of this church and other attendants as well. The church auditory several times during the week has been filled to capacity, it having been necessary to place chairs in the isles. Father Seraphin's sermon themes for the latter half of the week, were as follows :Thursday evening, God's Mercy; Friday evening, The Passion of Our Lord; Saturday evening, The Blessed Virgin Mary, Mother of God. In the last sermon he laid especial stress on the word "mother," Sunday morning, Father Seraphin spoke impressively on The Blessed Eucharist, also the Holy Sacrifice of the mass. The church was filled at both masses, the first mass having the larger attendance, when nearly every one present, elder children as well as adults received communion.

The children's mission closed at the 7:30 mass Saturday morning, at which time all those who had received first holy communion received communion in a body. After the mass all renewed their baptismal vows. When addressing the children, Father Seraphin impressed on their minds that they should be good children, especially should they be obedient to their parents, and he expressed the hope that the blessings of the mission would remain with them always. His closing sermon Sunday evening was at 7:45, this was followed by the adults renewing their baptismal vows. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament which has taken place each evening, brought the most successful mission to a close. This Franciscan mission father has left a sweet and lasting impression on all who were priviliged to hear his eloquent sermons, and comforting words.

When the supper committee of the League of Service held a sale of aprong, etc., in conjunction with a recent supper in the First Congregational chapel, Mrs. Frank Skinner and Miss Jennie M. Case were in charge of the aprons, instead of Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington, as stated, she having been unable to be present, due to illness.

Loaves and Fishes

In Lenten days again we see
That miracle at Galilee,
When Christ upon the mountain fed
A multitude with fish and bread.

The good Disciples of our Lord
And thousands seated on the sward
Surround Him who so soon will be
In Garden of Gethsemane.

We see our Saviour bless the food
And feed that hungry multitude;
Then unto His Disciples say,
"What they have left take ye away."

In Lenten days we hear again
The voices of excited men:
"This is that Prophet we behold Whose coming has been long foretold!"

—By Charles Nevers Holmes

I Love to Go

I love to go downstairs and gaze
With loving, lingering glance within
The magic hope of Winter days
The common people call a bin;
I love to go below, to see
How much there is of that last ton—
Could there a greater pleasure be?
Could any sport be greater fun?

O dusty haven of Winter hope,
Tucked there behind my lock and key,
What bliss it is to go and grope
In what the gods have brought to me!
I love to go, when life looks blue
O Comfort's Bin, to look at you
And count again your store of coal!

With tender touch I count them o'er—
One lump, two lumps, three lumps of coal!
Aha! Another! That is four!
And five, and six! Upon my soul!
And what is this, snug-tucked between
The springing boards? . . . Some more, oho!
When Winter prospects look so lean,
'Tis to the bin I love to go!

I love to go downstairs and count
The lumps of inky jewels there!
My sinking spirits seem to mount
As on some golden mystic stair!
Riches! . . . No Croesus ever knew
The richness of my feeling when
I find four more concealed in you
And know, O Bin, that there are ten!

—Henry Edward Warner, in Richmond Times-Dispatch.

THREE GERMANS TO START DUBLIN-NEW YORK FLIGHT

Junkers Airplane, Piloted by Captain Herman Koehl, is at Airdrome Near Dublin—The Start of the Perilous Flight is to Be Governed by Weather Conditions—The Venture is Not Viewed With Great Enthusiasm in Germany as the Experts Are Convinced That a Plane With One Motor is Inadequate For the Flight—The Flight Probably Will Start Early Wednesday Morning.

DUBLIN, March 26—(AP)—Setting out in secrecy on the first stage of the perilous flight to America, the Junkers airplane Bremen landed at Baldonnel airdrome, near Dublin, this evening, and its occupants immediately took refuge behind another wall of silence.

Piloted by Capt. Herman Koehl, who had the benefit of an unsuccessful start on a westward trans-Atlantic flight last year, the Bremen came humming over Dublin to find Commander Fitzmaurice aloft in a Free State plane, waiting to greet the arrival of the Germans and furnish an escort to guide them to the air station.

As soon as Captain Koehl and his two companions, Baron von Huenefeld and Spindler alighted, they began to stretch themselves; the Free State authorities closed the gates to newspapermen and declined to give information of the German airmen's intention.

It was learned, however, that the crew of the Bremen expect to observe weather conditions and launch out when these are favorable on their adventurous journey over waters where numerous daring spirits, including two women, have found unmarked ocean graves.

The plane was left in position ready for a quick resumption of its flight, and it is believed that Koehl and his companion will take off early tomorrow if wind and sky are not too forbidding.

While the Free State officials professed surprise today when informed that the Germans were on their way to Baldonnel station, there are indications that they were acquainted with the Junkers plans and had agreed to respect the request of the Germans for secrecy. It is reported that several German mechanics arrived in Dublin several days ago and have been awaiting at the airdrome the coming of the Bremen to re-groom the heavily laden ship for the strain of the great adventure over the Atlantic.

Owing to the extreme secrecy attending the flight of the Bremen, its arrival at Baldonnel was practically unnoticed. Knowledge of its arrival was confined to a very few persons, and even those who should have had information were disinclined to admit that they knew anything whatever of the coming of the plane or of its ultimate destination.

The weather was ideal as the Bremen circled over the city and took a southerly course for the Baldonnel field. There it made a perfect landing.

Captain Koehl and his associates said they had a fine flight from Germany and they are confident of the ability of their machine to accomplish the east-to-west crossing which has resulted so tragically for all who have attempted it hitherto.

While the fliers are reticent to the point of dumbness so far as their plans are concerned, it was learned unofficially that the flight proper probably will start Wednesday morning and that the hop-off will take place about 5 a. m.

STARTED FROM BERLIN UNDER STRICT SECRECY

BERLIN, March 26—(AP)—Eluding the vigilance of both the Lufthansa and aerial police, Captain Herman Koehl, Baron Von Huenefeld, sponsor of the flight, and Arthur Spindler, a war aviator as mechanic, took off shortly after eight o'clock this morning from Tempelhofer airdrome on an attempt to span the Atlantic, with New York as the final objective.

The single-motored plane Bremen carrying the intrepid fliers, reached the Baldonnel airdrome, in Ireland, this evening and thus the first leg of the long stern air journey from Germany to America has been accomplished.

Captain Koehl took off from the airdrome in utter secrecy, in the face of the opposition of German aviation circles, especially Lufthansa, the national organization, with which he had been identified, and which reiterated its contention that the east to west air voyage was not practicable.

The successful non-stop flight to Baldonnel represents a distance, as estimated here, of 992 miles, which was accomplished in about 9 1-2 hours, or an average of nearly 106 miles an hour.

The venture is not viewed with great enthusiasm in Germany because aviation experts are fully convinced that an airplane with one motor is inadequate for a trans-ocean journey. The Vossiche Zeitung sends an unkind critisism after the departing aviator—"After Captain Koehl has again attempted to cross the ocean with a one motor machine, one can only hope that he will not repeat the example of last summer."

STORY OF DESPERATION OF THE ADVENTURERS

NEW YORK, March 26—(AP)—The New York Evening Post in a copyrighted story says that a 12 cylinder engine and a revolver are the only equipment of the German Junkers monoplane which flew from Tempelhoffer field, Germany, to Dublin, Ireland, today on the first leg of a projected flight to Mitchel field, N. Y.

The motor was used in establishing a new world's endurance flight record and the revolver is a symbol and an instrument of desperation which animated the three men of the plane's crew, Baron Von Huenfeld, Captain Herman Koehl and Mechanic Walter Spindler. The pistol is wrapped in oil cloth to keep it dry and is being taken instead of swimming belts, rubber boat, emergency rations or a radio set.

The plane is the property of Baron Huenefeld and to buy it he gave the last pfennig of his personal fortune and borrowed from 14 friends enough to make up the $50,000 required to cover its cost and insurance. It is a low decked monoplane of corrugated duralumin with a 55 foot wing spread and a fuselage 35 feet long. On its silvery gray sides it carries its name "Bremen" and the government license number "1,197," and on the rudder is the dagger-shaped emblem of the Junkers Airplane company.

With its Junkers "L-five" water-cooled motor, developing a maximum of 360 horse-power, the Bremen can fly 120 miles an hour, although 90 miles an hour is said to be the most economical speed for an ocean flight. The motor now installed in the Bremen was used in the plane's sister ship Europa last summer in establishing the duration flight record of 52 and one half hours by two German fliers.

The Bremen is a stock model mail and freight carrying machine. Only the cockpit is covered with transparent celluloid and in its freight room are three reserve fuel tanks.

The ship will carry 2,500 pounds of benzole, primed with ether for the projected Dublin-to-New York hop. This is said to be sufficient fuel to keep the plane in the air 40 to 45 hours, giving a flying radius of 4,500 miles, which is about 1,000 miles more than the distance from Dublin to New York.

DISCORD AT MINNESOTA FARMER-LABOR CONVENTION

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 26—(AP)—A stern rebuke from the chair balked an effort late today to force United States Senator Henrik Shipstead to notify the Minnesota farmer-labor convention whether he will file for re-election on the party ticket.

"The motion's out of order—that's republican propaganda," shouted William E. McEwen, of Duluth, permanent chairman, as he banked his gavel following a motion by Emil Youngdahl of Minneapolis, to wire the senator regarding his plans.

With the Minneapolis delegate still on his feet calling for recognition, Chairman McEwen ordered the convention adjourned until tomorrow while scores of delegates yelled and clapped their hands.

Twice during an otherwise listless day of quiet, preliminary organization work, mild outbreaks centered around mention of the name of the senior Minnesota senator, whose status within the party caused considerable speculation both within and without the convention hall.

The endorsement of the Minnesota senator was considered a foregone conclusion with seven of the ten members of the nominating committee purported Shipstead men.

The convention will consider the report of the nominating committee as one of the last acts of the closing session tomorrow.

CHARLEMAGNE TOWER IN TOURS COLLAPSED

TOURS, France, March 26—(AP)—The Charlemagne tower, one of the sights of Tours, collapsed this evening with a roar that alarmed the entire city. Two houses near the tower were seriously damaged and the streets in the vicinity were blocked with rubble.

Nobody was injured because a large crack was noticed in the tower this afternoon and neighboring streets were roped off and buildings within a radius of fifty yards of the tower were evacuated.

The ancient structure, which formed part of the old basilica of St. Martin, dated from the twelfth century. It was supposed to have been built over the tomb of Charlemagne's wife Hildegarde.

The Charlemagne tower and its twin, the tower of St. Martin, together with a renaissance cloister, formed the ruins of the basilica of St. Martin. The church was constructed in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. It was pillaged by the Huguenots during the religious wars of the sixteenth century and finally was demolished in 1802 to make room for a street extension.

CONTEMPT SENTENCE FOR BELLIGERANT PRISONER

NEW HAVEN, March 26—(AP)—Judge Walter M. Pickett in common pleas court today, denied a petition for a writ of habeas corpus presented by counsel for Anthony Corallo who was sentenced to six months in jail by Judge Stanley Dunn in city court Thursday, for contempt.

Corallo drew the wrath of the court on himself when he engaged in a fist fight with detectives who were attempting to lead him to the prisoner's pen in the city court for the purpose of removing the clothing which he was said to have stolen. Although ordered to stop his resistance he continued to do so with the result that the contempt sentence was imposed.

He was later bound ove rto he superior court on the several charges of burglary and theft on which he and six other men were originally arraigned.

Judge Pickett in denying the petition said that the proper action in the case would be to apply for a writ of error in the supreme court.

GOV. SMITH SUGGESTS THAT NYE APOLOGIZE

ALBANY, N. Y., March 26—(AP)—Governor Smith in a letter tonight to Chairman Gerald P. Nye of the senate Teapot Dome committee, suggested that the senator apologize publicly for alleged false statements made on the floor of the senate regarding campaign funds received by the governor from Harry F. Sinclair.

"It is an insult to the public intelligence for you to suggest that in order for you to accomplish the proper purposes of a senate committee. It is necessary for me to submit without resentment to a false and unjust statement from you, sa idthe governor's letter. "You made this mis-statement, you admitted you made it and you publicly stated that I had demonstrated its falsity.

"The next step for you to have taken was a letter of apology and not a tirade of abuse."

SEN. DENEEN' SHOME IN CHICAGO BOMBED; NO ONE WAS INJURED

CHICAGO, March 26—(AP)—The home of United States Senator Charles S. Deneen at 61st street and Normal avenue was bombed tonight.

The bomb struck the front of the house, damaging it badly, the report to Englewood police said. No one was injured. Whether Senator Deneen was home was not known. He was in Chicago today for the funeral of Diamond Joe Esposito, the 25th ward Italian leader, who was a candidate for ward committeeman under the banner of the Deneen republican faction.

Police ascribed the bombing to political warfare.

The bombing was the fifth since the first of the year involving persons of high political connections. It was the first, however, directed against any persons openly opposing the city administration.

Previous bombings were at the homes of City Comptroller Fitzmorris, Dr. Reid (a political associate of Mayor Thompson), Judge Sbarbaro, and L. Cuneo, secretary to State's Attorney Crowe.

Less than 15 minutes later a bomb was exploded at the Crandon avenue home of Circuit Judge John A. Swanson, Deneen candidate for state's attorney against Crowe.

PICTURE OF POLICE CONDITIONS IN MIAMI

MIAMI, Fla., March 26—(AP)—Graphic pictures of alleged collusion between a chief of police and his officers to mistreat and shoot to death a Negro prisoner were drawn today by two former city detectives testifying at the habeas corpus hearing for Chief of Police H. Leslie Quigg.

Quigg has challenged the legality of the grand jury which returned indictments charging him and three other officers with slaying H. Kier, a Negro bellboy.

E. W. Pierce, former city detective told the court that Quigg personally ordered him and another officer to take Kier to a lonely spot and beat him on the night the Negro was slain. Kier was charged with making an insulting advance on a white woman.

Pierce said he "begged off" from the order.

W. M. Beechey, former city detective whose testimony three weeks ago first connected Quigg with the slaying said he (Beechey), Lieutenant M. A. Tibbitts and Detectives John Caudell and Tom Nazworth, the latter three now under indictment took Kier from the police station. He declared Nazworth shot Kier, the first shot going wild and wounding Tibbits.

Beechey said when Nazworth "jerked the Negro out of the car and drew a pistol," he took out his own revolver because he feared Nazworth would try to settle "an old score with me with a stray shot."

Beechey said Quigg was told of the shooting and quoted the chief as saying, "somebody will have to go back there and move that Negro's body where it won't be found for several days or you will have to agree on a story to fix your presence somewhere else."

Beechey said all the officers except Tibbits went to a Negro baseball park where they agreed on a story that Tibbits had been wounded at the park by an unidentified Negro who escaped.

SERGEANT OF MARINES WOUNDED IN NICARAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 26—(AP)—Sergt. Edward F. Rowe of Malden, Mass., was wounded slightly in the left arm last night at Condega when a rebel slipped out of the jungle, fired at him and then vanished into the jungle again. Sergt. Rowe was inspecting the outskirts of the camp at the time.

Another rebel was seen by a sentry but owing to the darkness the marines were unable to pursue them.

Marine flying patrols are uncertain as to the whereabouts of the rebel leader, Augustino Sandino, although rumors persist in locating him in the northeastern part of Nueva Segovia. Many marines think now that they never will catch him because he never appears when ground troops make contact with his followers but remains some distance away in the jungle.

The belief is prevalent that if he is eliminated from the situation at all it will be by bombs dropped from airplanes which may discover his camp. Sandino's headquarters, however, are moved so frequently that this possibility is acknowledged to be only a chance.

ANXIETY CAUSED BY THE RISING OF RIVERS

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 26—(AP)—The moderate rising of certain small tributaries of the Connecticut river in this vicinity under the influence of the warm wether of the week end, ras led to inquiries regarding the possibilities of seasonal high water in that stream this spring and in view of the flood of last November there has been considerable anxiety among those who would be affected by high water.

It is believed that there is less likelihood of damaging flood conditions this spring than for several years, in view of the unusual winter with little snow.

4,176,000 Shares Sold in the Market

Speculative Enthusiasm at General Motors $9 a Share.

NEW YORK, March 26—(AP)—For the second time in a week, total sales on the New York Stock exchange today exceeded the 4,000,000 mark, setting a new high record at 4,176,200 shares, as General Motors, soaring $9 a share to $199, fanned to a fury the flames of speculative enthusiasm.

Meanwhile, the price of memberships on the exchange jumped $25,000 to $375,000, or $85,000 above the year's low, with growing predictions that the half-million mark would be reached before the end of the year. This brings the aggregate value of the 1,100 memberships to $412,500,000.

While speculators throughout the world have joined the big parade of stock purchasers, the grand marshals are the Fisher Brothers, Cutten, Durant and Raskob interests, whose names seem to lend magic to any security with which they are coupled. Wall street is convinced that their paper profits run into hundreds of millions, but there was a wide divergence of opinion as to how much of this has been converted into cash.

General Motors opened today with a block of 7,000 shares at $194, a week-end gain of 14 a share. The next sale was slightly lower, but word was quickly passed around brokerage houses that "Durant was buying Motors" and the wild scramble to buy the stock was on. By mid-day the price had reached $197.50. Profit-taking sales came into the market and forced a moderate recession, but a fresh upturn took place in the final hour which carried it up to the new record price just before the closing gong sounded. In the wild confusion around the General Motors post at the close, the stock was reported "200 bid" but no sales were arranged at that figure, the final quotation being officially recorded at $198.75.

The "General Motors crowd" with which the Raskob and Fisher interests are identified also were reported to be heavy buyers of their own stock but there was no way of confirming these reports. William C. Durant is credited with having engineered the driving in of the "short" interest in Chrysler Motors, which advanced nearly $9 a share to a new peak price at $72. Arthur W. Cutten, who headed the recent successful pool in Montgomery-Ward, was named today as a heavy buyer of Sears Roebuck, which jumped more than $12 a share to a new top price at $110.

The speculative mania in Wall street has reached such proportions that the mere mention of a successful pool operator's name with any stock is sufficient to cause a wild outburst of buying on the part of small speculators. Nearly two-fifths of the entire volume of business today was in ten stocks believed to be under the manipulation of powerful pools.

SERIOUSLY WOUNDED WIFE AND THEN KILLED HIMSELF

WOONSOCKET, R. I., March 26—(AP)—John Prawer, a 41 year old textile worker, shot and seriously wounded his divorced wife in her home tonight and then ended his own life with another bullet.

Mrs. Prawer obtained a divorce on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment two months ago and since that time Prawer had been living in Manville, where he worked in a mill. He made several visits to this city in an attempt to induce her to return to him but she refused.

Tonight he appeared at her home unexpectedly, armed with a revolver and fired two shots, one of which lodged in her shoulder and the other in her left breast. He then fired one shot into his own head.

Mrs. Prawer was removed to the Woonsocket hospital, where it was reported her wounds might prove fatal.

POSTMASTER HAS BEEN MISSING SEVERAL DAYS

BOSTON, March 26—(AP)—Chief Post Office Inspector Park D. Colvin announced tonight that Benjamin F. Newhall, postmaster at Danvers, had been missing for several days. An audit of the missing official's accounts is in progress.

The chief inspector said that Inspector James F. Casey, of alem, had been informed by telephone Saturday night that Newhall had been absent for several days. The assistant postmaster at Danvers and one of Newhall's relatives reported to Inspector Casey that they had found a letter stating that the postmaster had discovered a shortage of $1,800 in his accounts and had decided to go away.

McNary-Haugen Bill Reported in House

Agricultural Committee Approved the Farm Relief Measure by Vote of 15 to 6.

WASHINGTON, March 26—(AP)—The house agriculture committee today reported the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill. The vote was 15 to 6.

Chairman Haugen said that no last minute changes of any consequence had been made in the measure and he and Representative Purnell of Indiana, the ranking republican member, both declared that the measure was the best farm relief bill ever presented to congress.

The measure, as approved, is a material revision of the bill passed by congress last year and vetoed by President Coolidge.

Haugen and Purnell said that the bill was drafted to meet all objections raised by President Coolidge in his veto message except as to the equalization fee. They explained that mandatory provisions had been written into the bill to compel the federal farm board, which would be created, to endeavor to stabilize the agricultural industry by the use of loans and other means.

Only in the event of failure of these, they said, would the board resort to use of the equalization fee machinery.

The bill would authorize an appropriation of $400,000,000 to be used by the board in its effort to stabilize the farming industry. Of this amount $25,000,000 would be available for loans to cooperatives for the acquisition of equipment and facilities needed in the marketing of agricultural products.

SUSPENDED POSTMASTER KILLS WIFE, CHILDREN, SELF

LOWDEN, Iowa, March 26.—(AP)—Suspended as postmaster of Lowden because of a slight shortage in his accounts, Lamber Meier, shot and killed his wife and three small children today and ended his life.

Meier was 20 years old, and had been postmaster for four years. It was only a few days ago that he was ordered suspended by the Washington authorities, after the shortage was uncovered.

Relatives and friends were not advised of the order removing him, they said. When he went to his home last night he appeared to be cheerful. Sometime during the night he turned the pistol, found clutched in his hand this morning, on his wife and three children and then sent a bullet crashing into his head.

No note of explanation was found by the coroner who was called from Tipton to conduct an investigation. Two notes were found, however, both directing the finders to safety deposit box keys.

This morning, however, Mayor Alfred Mensing received notice from the post office department that he had been appointed acting postmaster. He had not previously known, he said, that Meier was suspended. No reason for the suspension has been received here but the postal department at Washington advised a small shortage had been discovered in Meier's accounts and he had been suspended.

GOV. TRUMBULL'S GOOD FRIDAY PROCLAMATION

HARTFORD, March 26—(AP)—The following Goo dFriday proclamation has been issued by Governor Trumbull:

"From time immemorial Good Friday has been regarded as a time of spiritual inventory; a day when we may take stock of ourselves and our accomplishments; an occasion when we may pause in the pursuit of physical comfort long enough to give especial thought to the growth of the less tangible but not less important asset of character. Good Friday is set apart for this purpose because the day is sacred to the great majority of our people as commemorating the supreme example of sacrifice for an unselfish ideal. I therefore appoint Friday, the sixth day of April, next, as a day of fasting and prayer.

And I urge that all of the men, women and children of Connecticut gather wherever possible in their several places of worship, there to gain that spiritual refreshment and inspiration necessary to moral growth and effective service. Only by such means will the world become a better place in which to live.

Given under my hand and seal of the state at the capitol, in Hartford, this 23rd day of March, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and fifty-second.

JOHN H. TRUMBULL,
By his excellency's command,
Francis A. Pallotti, secretary.

TESTIMONY OF TERRORISM ALLEGED TO HAVE BEEN COMMITTED BY KLANSMEN

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 26—(AP)—Acts of terrorism alleged to have been committed by members of the Ku Klux Klan in Ohio in recent years and a charge that the secret order was closely associated with units of state government were related to Attorney General Arthur L. Gilliom today by James R. Ramsey, of Gratiot, Wis. The testimony was taken in a deposition in Gilliom's suit to oust the Klan from Indiana.

"The Buttalion of Death," of the Klan and the Knight Riders of Ohio were branches of the Klan formed to carry out "a program of terror, including public whippings, burning churches and theatres, making threats, illegal liquor raids and engaging in guerilla warfare," Ramsey said. He lived in Dayton, Ohio, while a Klansman, he added, having entered the organization at Springfield, Ohio. Ramsey said he was banished in March, 1927, and since had moved to Gratiot, Wis., where he was engaged in the amusement business.

Men were kidnaped and beaten for drunkenness, a Catholic priest was whipped, illegal liquor raids were made and other acts of terrorism committed by Klansmen who were affiliated with the Knight Riders of Ohio and the Battalion of Death, Ramsey told Gilliom. The priest lived in Dayton, and the alleged beating occurred in the summer of 1926.

Ohio national guardsmen in uniform 1926 attended the state meeting of the Ohio Klan at Buckeye Lake Aug. 29 and 30, 1925, Ramsey said, and added that some of the guard officers were affiliated with the order. On one occasion at Dayton, he said, national guard rifles were provided the grand dragon's guard. Ramsey testified that he was commander of the guard and the Knight Riders.

Lieut.-Col. Don Caldwell, Cincinnati, 147th infantry, was a past exalted cyclops of the Klan, Ramesy said. A Lieutenant Ketcham, of Akron, Ohio, also was associated with the Klan, according to the witness.

The real purpose of the state intelligence department of Ohio was principally "to control sheriffs, prosecuting attorneys, police chiefs and snoopers in general," Ramsey testified. Members of the grand dragon's guard were members of the intelligence department, he said.

"Radicalism" of some Klansmen brought about the riot in Niles, Ohio, in 1924, Ramsey said. Several persons were killed and others injured.

Among the statements Ramsey made were that the Klan in Ohio collected approximately $10,000,000 and did not spend any of it for charitable purposes; that between $200,000 and $250,000 were collected for a state home which never was constructed and that the Klan in Ohio at its peak had more than 400,000 members but that it had shrunk to about 250,000 in

1,874,050 PERSONS ARE OUT OF WORK IN THIS COUNTRY

Secretary of Labor Davis Predicts Prompt Relief Through Elaborate Building Programs By Federal, State and Municipal Governments—The Report Estimated That There Are 23,348,692 Wage Eearners Today Compared With 25,222,742 in 1925—Situation is Considered "Serious" But Not "Grave".

WASHINGTON, March 26—(AP)—Almost two million persons are out of work in this country—1,874,050—the senate was informed today by Secretary Davis, of the labor department, in response to the resolution of Senator Wagner, democrat, of New York, asking for a labor report.

Mr. Davis in his letter to Vice President Dawes said this situation was "serious" while "not so extensive or grave as the estimates which have been generally circulated." He predicted "prompt relief" through the inauguration of elaborate public buildings programs by the federal, state and municipal governments but otherwise made no predictions.

The department report estimated that there are 23,348,692 wage earners today compared with 25,222,742 in 1925 which was accepted as an average year and used as the basis for computations. This constitutes a shrinkage of 7.43 per cent in employment.

The downward trend in employment started in April 1927 the secretary reported, and continued until January of this year but he said that the figures for February, just made available, showed a turn upward.

Causes for the shrinkage were named by Mr. Davis as the floods in the Mississippi valley and in New England, the Florida tornado, the temporary closing of certain industrial plants and a "disturbance" in the bituminous coal fields lasting over several months. He also called attention to the immigration of 252,023 persons into this country last year, describing most of these as laborers, and further noted that 2,000,000 boys and girls reach the working age every year.

Only a single typewritten copy of the voluminous report, which was compiled by Commissioner Ethelbert Stewart of the bureau of labor statistics, was brought to the capitol by Secretary Davis. It was impossible for senators to read this during the day and Senator Wagner announced he would discuss it after he had had an opportunity to study it. Senator Smoot, republican, tah, had the report printed.

Commissioner Stewart had detailed figures only for the manufacturing and railroad industries. He estimated that in January of this year there were 7,739,907 employed in manufacturing compared with 8,383,781 in 1925. In the railroads he estimated there were 1,643,356 employed compared with 1,752,589 in 1925.

"It can only be assumed," he explained, "that the groups of agriculture, mining, clerical workers, domestic service and trade have been affected in a like degree."

Mr. Davis insisted that he had "sounded warning in ample time" to permit the inauguration of public buildings program to help meet the situation. He asked for additional funds if he was to obey the suggestion of the senate for making accurate and all-inclusive reports on employment.

The unemployment was classified into persons temporarily out of work and those displaced by changes in industrial and commercial methods. Former depressions, the secretary said, were caused almost entirely by the first reason. He thought the public buildings work would assist in that connection but held out little hope for any diminution in the development of labor saving devices.

The calculations on unemployment were based entirely on estimates, it was explained, with the use of 1925 as a basis because it was felt that was a normal year and virtually without unemployment. Secretary Davis recalled that Commissioner Stewart once before had submitted an employment survey to congress and that it had been found as nearly accurate as estimates will permit.

UNEMPLOYMENT OF UNION LABOR IS STATIONARY

WASHINGTON, March 26—(AP)—Unemployment among union workers in 23 representative cities remained stationary in January and February, the American Federationist, official organ of the American Federation of Labor, will say in its April issue, giving average unemployment as 18 per cent in both months.

LINDBERGH HAD 1,100 AIR PASSENGERS IN SIX DAYS

WASHINGTON, March 26—(AP)—High hats, spats and canes were left behind in embassies and legations today as members of the diplomatic corps slipped into flying clothes for a ride over Washington with Colonel Lindbergh.

The diplomats went to Bolling field in their private automobiles but once on the ground they jostled as eagerly as did the congressional group last week for the opportunity of getting into the plane with the famous flyer at the helm.

That Lindbergh's Pan-American good will flight had aroused interest in aviation seemed to be emphasized by the preponderance of Central and South American diplomats who asked for cards to fly. European and Asiatic nations, however, were amply represented among the more than 100 passengers who availed themselves of the ten-minute air derbies.

The ambassador from Cuba, the minister from Austria, the Chinese minister and his wife and Mme. Claudel, wife of the French ambassador, were among those who flew, along with dozens of charge d'affaires, secretaries and attaches from nearly every embassy and legation.

Before beginning his flights this morning, Lindbergh appeared before a house committee to endorse the Swing bill under which the congressional franking privilege would be extended to the air mail service. He told the committee that the bill would increase interest in aviation and added that the air mail was, in his opinion, a secondary line of defense and should be given every encouragement.

He said he did not know when he would leave Washington.

Today's passengers numbered slightly more than 200 in 22 sets, making a total of approximately 1,100 who rode with him in 100 flights during the past six days. His flights averaged 15 minutes each, were made at about 90 miles an hour, and totalled about 2,400 miles above Washington and the Virginia side of the Potomac river.

"Aside from the retirement from business of John Shepard, Jr., there will be no change in the management of the two stores."

AFFIRMS MILITARY STATUS OF BRITISH SOUTH AFRICA

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, March 26—(AP)—Reaffirming his recent declaration that South Africa had the right to remain neutral if Great Britain were at war, Premier J. M. Hertzog in the house of assembly today in the continuation of the debate on his motion for ratification of the report on the imperial conference resolutions of 1926, dealt with the question of neutrality and South Africa's constitutional position.

He declared that if General Smuts' statement in the house on March 15, when the former premier strongly deprecated Premier Hertzog's attitude on the neutrality question meant that the imperial conference should be called upon to say whether South Africa had a right to be neutral, then he did not share that view.

Given independence and freedom, said the premier, the right to be neutral followed night. He emphasized that in his statement in the house on March 8 that by law and equity the right of a British dominion to neutrality, if Great Britain were at war, would not be rejected, he was simply dealing with the right to be neutral and purposely had refrained from dealing with the question of neutrality itself.

EMPTY SEATS IN SENATE ANGERED SENATOR BLAINE

WASHINGTON, March 26—(AP)—The usual vista of empty seats in the senate chamber evoked the ire of Senator Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, today while he was continuing the opposition which has assumed filibuster proportions against the Norbeck migratory bird refuge bill.

Norbeck, the South Dakota republican, who is author of the bill under consideration, objected to Senator Blaine continually calling "for the attention of the senator from South Dakota" when he reached a point in his speech which he wanted noted especially.

"I don't see why the senator from Wisconsin has to call on me to listen to every argument against this bill which he thinks important," Norbeck said.

"Well, I don't see how I could call on empty seats," Blaine replied.

A survey showed that only three senators were in their seats and one was walking across the chamber toward an exit. Of the three, two were reading.

One other senator occupied a seat but he was tied down to a certain extent—Senator Sheppard, democrat, Texas, was in the chair presiding in the absence of Vice President Dawes.

MOTHER OF MRS. COOLIDGE RALLIES FROM RELAPSE

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 26—(AP)—Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, mother of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, rallied late today after a sudden relapse of an illness which had its origin last December. Dr. J. E. Hayes, her personal physician, who early in the day described the condition of his aged patient as immediately critical, said tonight that her life might be prolonged for several days.

Mrs. Coolidge, who left Washington this afternoon for Northampton, was expected to arrive here at midnight. Early reports from the Dickinson hospital, where Mrs. Goodhue has been a patient since she was stricken with influenza last December, expressed doubt that she would live until her daughter reached her bedside. Dr. Hayes' report after his third visit to the hospital late today, held more hope.

PROTEST AGAINST BAN ON AMATEUR BOXING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 26—A brief telegram, advancing no explanation, that was received here today from Mr Dunn, secretary of the Connecticut A. A. U., by the Willimantic A. C. promoters of amateur boxing bouts, forbids the staging of scheduled bouts next Thursday night and has been met with a storm of protest. It is assumed that the order to suspend the bouts becomes effective during the probe by state authorities into the death last Saturday of a Meriden boy in Bridgeport during a boxing contest. While fight fans admit the possibility that amateur boxing may have been conducted in a haphazard manner in some sections of the state it is strongly affirmed that every precaution has been taken with the bouts held under the auspices of the Willimantic A. C. Every fighter was given a physical examination before entering the ring and doctors were on hand for any emergency during the bouts. Inasmuch as these precautions were taken and the cards were conducted in an orderly manner and under police supervision, local fans feel that they share rather unjustly in being deprived of bouts while state-wide conditions are under probe.

Much filling with gravel and dirt by the street department has put Chapman street into the best traveling condition it has enjoyed in years and possibly in its entire history. Chapman street has been the bone of contention and the jinx of the street department for many years. It is an old and heavily populated street, with most of the buildings erected directly on or at angles to the street lines that would have to be adopted to take the kinks and curves out of the street. There are no sidewalks. Just before the strike in 1924 it looked as if the thoroughfare was about to be remedied by the American Thread company cooperating substantially with the city in building new lines and grades. The work was abandoned however, during the strike and has not been resumed.

TO START WORK ON PROSPECT ST. SEWER TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 26—Alderman William E. Jackson stated this afternoon that ground will be broken Tuesday morning for the laying of sewers on Prospect street, from a point about 75 feet from Mansfield avenue to connect with the Birch street sewer. This work will complete the sewer circuit on Prospect street and will be under the general supervision of the city sewer department with David P. Ahern as foreman. The sewer job will be followed by the laying of 2,500 feet of water pipe on Tingley street, from Main to Prospect streets and of 600 feet as an extension to the city water service on High street. These contracts will give much needed employment for a period of about two months to about 40 men and the work is being done early in the spring purposely to afford work. Other contracts to be done early in the spring will include the grading of Tingley street and the construction of sidewalks, the latter work being about six weeks earlier than in previous years.

DANIELSON

ESCAPED INSANE PATIENT RETURNED TO MASS. HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, March 26—Ernest Aspinall, 20, who escaped from the Worcester State hospital, was wished back onto Massachusetts today after a physician who talked with Chief John McFarland from the institution advised that he be re-examined here as to his sanity and committed to the Norwich State hospital. The suggestion made no progress at all with Chief McFarland. The net outcome of the telephone conference was that Aspinall at a suggestion of the Worcester institution be given $2, put on a bus and headed north. This plan was carried out by Chief McFarland, who arranged with police in Putnam and Webster to see that Aspinall kept going. As a matter of fact the young man admitted he was willing to return. He and another young man named Norman Parloux walked out of the institution Sunday afternoon and hitch hiked to Danielson. Night Officer John Gebert espied them about 1 o'clock this morning on Lower Main street and stopped to inquire about their business. Parloux beat a hasty retreat and is still among the missing. Officer Gebert locked up Aspinall, who was committed to Worcester from Lowell and because he proved difficult to manage. There was particular surprise in official circles here because the Worcester state institution showed no greater interest in getting back two escaped inmates and of the suggestion that Connecticut should take Aspinall over. Parloux when last seen here was heading in the general direction of Willimantic.

SERVICE BATTERY WILL GO TO TOBYHANNA AGAIN

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 26—Again this year, according to announcements that Captain F. O. Armington received today, the Service battery will do its annual tour of field service at Tobyhanna, Pa., this location affording an ample range for the use of the artillery of the 192d Field Artillery, of which the local batteryq is a part. The Danielson command will be out from August 13 to September 1, this year. The Headquarters troops of the 43d division, of which the Headquarters detachment under command of E. L. Darbie of Danielson is a part, are to have their summer period of field service at Niantic, from August 5 to 19.

It is presumed that the Service battery will make an overland trip, taking along the big fleet of motor trucks that is part of its equipment, this having been done for several years past.

Henry Charon and Emil Anger came to court this morning to answer to a charge that they broke the lock on a garage on Franklin street sometime late Saturday night, took out a new Nash sedan owned by Mrs. Elizabeth Regis and started off on a joy ride. They were generous about the matter, too, stopping near the Puritan restaurant to invite four other youths to join them on the trip, these latter presumably neither knowing nor caring whence Charon and Anger obtained the car. In any event Charon, who appeared to be the ring leader, and Anger were the only ones to be haled to court, Sergeant Gardner of the state police department being in charge of getting them in there.

Though they might have been charged with breaking and entering and the theft of the machine and left liable to serve a prison sentence for their activities, they were let off with the minor charge of taking a car without permission of the owner. Charon was fined $50 and costs and Anger $25 and costs. They are also to pay damage to the amount of about $50 that they did to the machine in trying to drive it from the vicinity of East Killingly, which was their first calling point, through a cross-road leading onto the state highway for Providence, which city they decided to visit. With the car mired, the wheels of the machine were repeatedly spun about in a fruitless effort to free it. Finally, the party had to seek the aid of a wrecking crew from a local garage, the car being brought back here during Sunday. The investigation that followed resulted in the appearance of Charon and Anger in court this morning.

William R. Hill, 11, son of Mrs. Mary Hill of Wauregan, died today at the Backus hospital in Norwich. The body was brought here in charge of Undertaker L. E. Kennedy and this evening removed to the home of the mother in Wauregan. The boy died of a fractured skull, an injury sustained about a month ago when he was kicked in the head by a horse at the Charles A. Benham farm near Wauregan. There were no eye witnesses of the accident. The Hill boy had come to the farm from the village on his bicycle just as another boy on the farm was putting one of a pair of horses in the barn. The presumption is that the Hill boy was kicked while the other boy was in the barn with the other horse, for William was found lying on the ground when the other boy emerged. Mr. and Mrs. Benham were away from home at the time the accident occurred.

This morning the funeral of Mrs. Rosalie Grennon was held from her home in Moosup, with funeral services at All Hallows church in that place at 9 o'clock, Rev. J. E. McCarthy officiating. Numbers of relatives and friends attended the service. Burial was in St. John's cemetery at Plainfield. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements. The bearers were Frederick Tetreault, Ernest Tetreault, Odore Champagne, Peter Cantere, Peter Lavallee and Alfred Blanchard.

All traffic through Main between Academy and Reynolds street was being detoured this afternoon while the work of moving the old Burlingham home along Main street was underway. Still later in the afternoon traffic was detoured off Main from Reynolds to Broad street, as the house moved northward toward a new location upon which its new owner, F. A. Davis, is to place it beside the state highway on Elmville road. Taking the house away involved the temporary removal of certain wires, which were promptly replaced by service crews.

The many Elks in Danielson and other sections of the town of Killingly who are members of Putnam lodge will turn out Tuesday evening for the big class initiation and social session to be held at Putnam. Of special interest, as told in the Putnam news this morning, will be the presence of a delegation from Providence and Willimantic lodges of the organization.

Some 75 boys and girls of the Goodyear schools made such a success of presenting the little operetta The Maid and the Golden Slippers in the Community house there last Friday evening that they have been invited to reproduce it at the high school auditorium Wednesday evening of this week, and they have accepted. The operetta proved a tuneful production, with numbers of pretty instrumental and vocal numbers.

A retreat for the English-speaking members of St. James' parish will mark the opening of Holy Week. The sermons each evening are to be preached by Rev. F. T. Ledwith, M. S., an eloquent missionary of the order. This retreat will complete a series that have been given during Lent, and which have been largely attended and productive of much devotion and religious thought.

It is forecasted that there will be a larger acreage of Brussels sprouts grown in this territory this year than ever before. This crop has been gradually developed in towns in this section of Windham county, largely by Finnish and Polish farmers, during the past few years and is a fine revenue producer during years that happened to be favorable for growth of the sprouts. The great bulk of the product is sold in the Boston and Providence markets, shipments continuing daily after harvesting begins into cold weather.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock at the undertaking rooms of L. E. Kennedy funeral services were conducted for Oliver Chase of East Killingly by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Baptist church. Burial was in the Chase cemetery at East Killingly. Relatives acted as bearers. During the funeral service Earle F. Winslow sang Asleep in Jesus, and Rock of Ages.

PUTNAM

LIZOTTE COTTAGE DAMAGED WHEN RANSACKED BY THIEVES

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 26—Many Putnam cottage owners and summer residents of Alexanders lake suffered from the recent burglaries at their cottages. The largest loser from Putnam probably will be Armand Lizotte, who has a cottage on the southerly side of the lake. Mr. Lizotte stated that the burglars destroyed much of the furnishings that were in store at his summer home, and did much damage to the inside of the cottage. Noel Dupre, of Putnam, who has a cottage at Alexanders lake, was more fortunate than was Mr. Lizotte as little ransacking was done at this place. County Commissioner Arthur C. Keith, who has a cottage on the north shore, did not suffer any damage.

The state police officers from the Danielson barracks are now working on the case.

Malcolm Tourtellotte, of Chapman street, received a serious injury to his hand Saturday while he was working about his home. Tourtellotte fell against an electric light fixture and the glass cut his hand. He was taken to the Day-Kimball hospital, where an operation was performed to draw severed tendons together. He was discharged shortly after by the hospital authorities.

Many attended the "friendly evening" services at the Second Congregational church Sunday evening and enjoyed the comic film, "Private Izzy Murphy." The services will come to a close next Sunday evening when the church society will screen a movie of the Civil war, entitled "The Heart of Maryland." The "friendly evening" services commenced in November and have continued through the winter months, proving to be a success. Rev. James F. English, pastor of the church, announced at the services Sunday evening that Holy Week services will open next Sunday and will continue through the week ending Sunday, April 8, when the choir will sing the Easter cantata.

Sunday's ideal spring weather continued to prevail Monday and the mercury shot up two degrees higher at noon than on the previous day, it reaching 65. Many of the "oldtimers" were recalling Monday, the March 25th of 40 years ago, when the city was just emerging from the great blizzard of '88, after being under the weather for many days. The merchants are greatly pleased with the spring's early arrival as the exceptionally warm days have brought many a dollar into Putnam over the week-end.

Shedding the heavy overcoats that have been in use all winter has brought many cases of colds and grip to town and a great number are laid up from the effects. School health officials are carefully examining students for symptoms of the spring diseases that are contagious. A general check-up of the students in the schools of the city by Dr. G. T. LaMarche, school physician, has not restricted any from attending their studies yet. Dr. LaMarche has urged the children of the schools to especially safeguard themselves during these balmy spring days when disease is so easily contracted.

Monday evening, the Putnam grange gave a children's program in the Odd Fellows hall. Many of the grangers' youngsters presented clever musical numbers. Surprised!

Artists say there's not a prettier profile in Manhattan, but ordinary people compliment her more often on her wonderful mass of soft, gleaming brown hair. She's Adra Adams, lovely New York City girl who lives at 130 East 57th Street.

"I was certainly surprised," says Miss Adams, "to see how easy it is to keep my hair soft, shining and easily manageable by the new method so many of my girl friends are using. I don't have to shampoo mine more than once a month now, Danderine keeps it so clean. It makes my scalp feel just wonderful and I never have a sign of dandruff any more. And Danderine is so simple to use. All you do is put a little on your brush each time you fix your hair."

Danderine quicly removes that oily film from your hair and restores its natural color and lustre. It keeps bobbed hair in place without showing. It stops dandruff. It isn't sticky or oily. All drug stores have the generous $50 bottles.

CUTTING THE TAXES

When this session of congress opened it was made clear that it depended upon the action of the national legislature in making appropriations as to what could be done in the way of tax reduction.

After the house had got busy and begun to disregard warnings as to how far it should go in the way of eliminating taxes, it was decided to wait until a better idea could be gained in regard to the probable revenue.

That delay has been made, that information has been obtained and once again the president is telling congress that there is an opportunity for the cutting of taxes but it will depend upon the way in which appropriations are kept within bounds as to what can be done. The president still thinks that it will be possible to make a reduction amounting to $225,000,000 unless the money is spent in other ways.

There are instances in which congress has paid no attention to budget figures. It has already spent $26,000,000 more than budget estimates and in the opinion of treasury department experts it cannot be seen how it will be possible for a tax reduction of $225,000,000 as estimated at the opening of the session.

This is the situation as congress should be settling down to the last two months' business. It becomes evident that there is a chance for tax cutting at this session provided congress will make provision for it while disposing of its other business. It cannot have its cake and eat it. It cannot exceed estimates when it comes to expenditures, then vote for heavy tax cuts without regard for the revenue that can be anticipated and expect to keep away from a treasury deficit. Neither is it good business to take big chances that revenue will exceed estimates to a sufficient extent to make up for reckless legislation.

The time for congress to give heed to warnings is now rather than after adjournment. If it wants to fatten the appropriations it should become reconciled to the fact that such will mean just that much less for taxation reduction. If it wants to cut taxes it should give heed to the budget estimates.

CHANGING DAWES PLAN

From time to time the question is asked as to whether the Dawes plan can be changed. The reason for this is apparently the fear that Germany will not be able to maintain the obligations thereunder.

Up to the present time Germany has been doing as it promised. The increased obligations have been met as they came due but the peak has not been reached. It is there the rub comes and there are those who are already figuring on what the situation will be when that time does come.

It was a few months ago that the agent in charge of the financial details gave warning to Germany about keeping in mind the added obligations which it faced and to keep down its expenditures in anticipation thereof.

There is a feeling of pessimism among some that Germany faces the impossible and will not be able to provide for the top payment amounting to nearly two thirds of a billion in the autumn. In order to be ready to meet such a situation other plans are being discussed even to having Germany issue bonds for such an immediate lump payment as could be agreed upon, eight billion being the amount mentioned.

It is because of this discussion and anticipation that talk has arisen about the possibility of changing the Dawes plan. If it could be shown that there is need for a change there is every reason to believe that one could be agreed upon, but it would of course be necessary for any such claim to be unconvincingly presented.

The demands made upon Germany since the close of the war have undergone various changes. Under the Dawes plan Germany was greatly helped and it was believed no greater burden had been placed upon it than it was able to stand. Whether different conditions have so changed the situation will be subject to proof. If it can be shown that there should be a modification, or if it is possible to present another plan that will be more satisfactory all around for the future under stabilized conditions it may be possible to effect changes but it hasn't as yet been shown that the Dawes plan cannot be carried out.

THE RADIO MEASURE

After prolonged efforts a radio bill has finally been gotten through congress which provides for the continuance of the radio commission. Just why it was necessary to take so much time and not produce any better measure will require considerable explaining to many, but in view of the need of such work as the commission should do it is to be expected that the bill will get the sanction of the president.

The commission faced a busy year even if the new bill had not been loaded down with some of the amendments. That it will be obliged to shoulder larger burdens under the amendments is apparent and it doesn't appear that there is any certainty that it will produce any more satisfactory results from the standpoint of the radio listeners.

As to that it will be best perhaps to wait and see, although the modification of amendments brought about in the conference between house and senate representatives has helped to relieve the difficulties.

By the amendments as adopted the broadcasting licenses are limited to three months and other classes of licenses to a year. At the present time these respective terms are three and five years. This will mean a lot of additional detail to be taken care of. According to another amendment equality of radio broadcasting service is called for in each of the five zones and it is intended that the commission shall strive to provide such a redistribution as to accomplish it. This obviously means much additional work for the commission for it must redistribute power, wave lengths and licenses in order to bring it about.

Just what effect this new idea may have upon the established stations and those which are regarded as rendering the best service in the respective zones is for the future to disclose. It will mean a period of much uncertainty for the broadcasting stations and likewise for the listeners. For the commission it gives promise that it will experience many more instead of less troubles in its work.

REPLACING TREES

In the carrying out of necessary work in the widening of the much used road between Apponaug and East Greenwich the Rhode Island highway board has found it necessary to remove about 50 trees. That means a real sacrifice in most instances for they were old and stately trees which it will require many years to replace.

Inasmuch as it was found necessary to part with them in order to keep up with the demands of progress, the board has taken the right view in setting out new trees which will in time take their place. It will require a long term of years but the time for the start is now.

This action is in keeping with a policy which is being quite generally followed in a number of states for the improvement of highways in which the state is becoming more and more interested. It would be well if it were practiced even more than it is. The setting out of new trees in the place of those removed is commendable but there is equally good opportunity for putting out trees where none exist.

Whether it is on the highway of the state or the streets of the city, if it becomes necessary to cut down a tree for street widening purposes or because the tree is decayed it would be a fine thing if a new tree was set out as near as possible to such location provided the new conditions would permit it. In any cases the idea of setting out the equivalent of the number of trees removed during a year must be regarded as a capital one. It is a plan which some cities follow, without being governed entirely by the number removed, and it would be of great benefit to other cities if such a policy could be adopted.

GIVE LINDBERGH A REST

The glamor of a big welcoming crowd, fetes, presentations, banquets and the like has a strong appeal for many. Nothing in his career has indicated that it was eagerly sought by Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. He has been the center of attraction at receptions in many countries, and at many points in his own country, but it has been evident that he would have been perfectly satisfied at much less. He never really liked to have such a fuss made over him so continuously.

Thus when it is stated by one of his close friends that he is through with such efforts there can be no great surprise. If he doesn't like to be stampeded by crowds, if he doesn't like to have his belongings stolen, if he doesn't like to be bowled about by backslappers, if he doesn't like to be constantly yielding to curiosity and curio seekers there can be no surprise. He is constituted no differently than a lot of other people.

Lindbergh has been spending a lot of time in meeting the popular appeals. He has done so willingly, generously and skillfully. He is a national hero but he doesn't like the hero stuff. He wants to engage seriously in the business of flying and he has a right to do so. It is only fair that he should get the chance unhampered by bothering crowds.

It is quite certain that there are those who would take just the opposite view to what Lindbergh is doing, for there couldn't be too much in the way of public receptions and hero worshipping to suit them. It is because Lindbergh is different that he has gotten such world wide recognition and it is time to recognize him for what he is and give him the rest he seeks.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, March 26—Like the song of a couple of decades ago, out here it's Up in a Balloon Boys, Up in a Balloon; Up Among the Little Stars, Sailing 'round the Moon" for Col. Lindbergh's offer to fly with senators or members of congress as his guests has kept the colonel on the wing practically the entire week just passed. Nine hours in the air every day, with the constant landings and getaways is said to have told heavily on the aviator, but he was game to the last.

Senator Bingham helped set the pace for not only did he fly, but he cajoled Senator McLean to be an air-tripper, in order that he might qualify for a little dinner Mr. Bingham was to give for Lindbergh, and none were invited except those who had flown with the distinguished aviator.

The way the "flying with Lindbergh" fad gained headway was a psychological study. Lindbergh sent a courteous invitation to senators and members, but days went by with but one reply from the house and none from the senate. Then Victor Berger, socialist, accepted. After some hours, one by one came hesitating acceptances, until a few trips had been made, then came a perfect avalanche of "I want to go" until practically the entire congress, with its sisters, its cousins and its aunts, after the fashion of Pinafore, had climbed into the airplane, and been "up with Lindy." Most of them came down a little "white 'round the gills," as one old seafaring man expressed it, but with few exceptions said they had enjoyed it immensely. One Ohio member of the house, frankly said that though he was glad he went, after this he preferred "to do his work with one foot on the ground". Three women members of congress took advantage of the invitation, and all declared themselves delighted with the trip. But all the same few had cared to be the ones to set the pace.

Among the human interest stories told of Col. Lindbergh is one that also brings to light the kindly traits and love for unfortunate little children by men in high official life, who may be regarded as hard boiled by those who see them only during routine of official life.

I have in mind Col. Lindbergh, Senator Metcalf of Rhode Island and little sick and crippled children out at the Children's hospital in Providence. Col. Lindbergh, so the story runs, had invited Senator Metcalf to fly with him one day in Providence. The senator declined, but added, "I wish you would do something for me that would bring much happiness to the little folks out at the Children's hospital, in which I am greatly interested. Instead of taking me up, will you fly over the hospital so those poor little shut-ins can see you with their own eyes?" Lindbergh was immensely pleased with the suggestion, and in less time than it takes to tell it, Senator Metcalf had phoned the hospital to have the children taken to the lawn to welcome Lindbergh and Lindbergh had begun his flight, eager to gratify the children.

When he sailed over the hospital, out on the lawn in their little white nighties, were scores of crippled and sick little ones, for white was the garb of honor, and some of them were too ill to be dressed. Some were standing, some in arms of nurses or on stretchers, but all were wide eyed and excited over seeing the world hero, who swooped down over them. "Oh, its our Lindy" shouted the children.

And "folk says" Lindbergh never enjoyed homage from kings more than he did that of the sick children, which came about through the warm sympathy of Senator Metcalf for those little shut-ins.

The hot fight over the proposed veterans hospital for southern New England, has left scars in the New England delegation that old time will have to step lively to heal. Mr. Luce of Massachusetts chairman of the sub committee of the veterans committee was dead set against the proposed measure, while representatives of several states made a hot fight to secure it for their home state.

When the sub-committee voted against the advice and urgent objection of Sub-Chairman Luce, he became incensed and at once resigned from the chairmanship, leaving Mrs. Rogers congresswoman from Massachusetts, who is next in rank on the committee, to succeed him. Mrs Rogers is able, tactful and a diligent advocate of increased hospitalization

In the work of increased hospitalization, which is understood to fix the site of the new Southern New England hospital in Connecticut Floor Leader Tilson, Congressmen Freeman and Fenn, together with senator Bingham and other members of the delegation worked unremittingly to have the proposed institution made a part of the bill and to make Connecticut the state in which it shall be located. The favorable report of the committee which came on Saturday, indicates that the Connecticut men have won the victory and Major McCook and others who came on for the purpose of urging such a location have reason to rejoice that the delegation from Connecticut proved so influential in a just cause.

The department of agriculture expects New England will get a far better grade of milk from Canada, under the recent regulations for tests, than has ever been furnished by that section. Hereafter all milk and cream coming in from Canada must meet the standards of the United States and additional inspection stations will be established along the border. So now not only bootlegging but milk inspection will be guarded against. The work of enforcing the milk and cream inspection involves supervision of not less than 15,000 dairies and 3000 shipping plants, also the examination of approximately 12,000,000 gallons of milk and cream every year. According to Dr. Dunbar, assistant to the chief inspector, the quality of the milk and cream will be raised in order to keep it within the high standard set by the United States.

From the pre-revolutionary period to the present day New England has taken the lead and the highest place in clock-making with Connecticut and Massachusetts in the front ranks.

So New England may be interested to know that the treasury department has recently unearthed an ancient time-piece, that not only keeps time, but knows when leap-year comes and does its duty in adding a day. The clock has an uncanny way of not only fixing dates, but of marking correctly the months that have 30 days and the months having 31 days. Many Colonial clocks mark the days of the month on the same dial as the time-hands, but the treasury clock has a separate dial for the days of the month. The dates of patents are 1854, 1860 and 1862, dimly showing and the name of the maker is practically obliterated.

The treasury clock, in its separate dial, indicates not only the day of the month, but the month and the day of the week.

The turnspit dog was known in all large households in Great Britain something like a century or so ago. The animal was used to turn the spits on which hung the joints of meat roasting for dinner.

HANDY ME!

Mrs. Tittleworth glanced across the reading table at her husband. "I went to a lecture on art today." Mr. Tittleworth rattled his paper, but made no reply.

"And I learned what's wrong with our pictures."

"Twenty years ago you said mine was a lood likeness of me."

"I'm talking scenery pictures, not personal pictures. They're hung too high."

"Lots of work to change them."

Mrs. Tittleworth sewed a few moments in silence.

"Coming home from the lecture," she observed, "Mrs. Snorf was telling me what a handy man is Mr. Snorf around the house."

"I never heard Abel Snorf brag about it," replied Mr. Tittleworth. "What's he done that's so handy?"

"This and that. If it isn't one thing it's another. With a hammer he's wonderfully handy."

"What's he ever performed with a hammer?"

"Mrs. Snorf said he could drive nails faster'n scat."

"Funny," mused Mr. Tittleworth. "Not that I can remember has Abel made brags to me over how he drives nails."

"Modest, is Abel Snorf," said Mrs. Tittleworth. "That's his way. Modest. But strong."

"He's a nice feller, is Abel. But I never knew he was so powerful like. He don't look it. Why, I bet I weigh sixty pounds more than he does. And around the chest I measure three inches more."

"And quick!" continued Mrs. Tittleworth. "Would you believe it? Mrs. Snorf told me he was so quick with a hammer it sort of made her dizzy to watch him."

"Light-headed, she must be. I never saw Abel do anything so quick."

"He's not the kind to show off, but give him a hammer and some nails and you wouldn't believe what you saw. Just one bang to a nail he takes. Never misses. And he always drives them in straight."

Mr. Tittleworth pondered in silence.

"When Mrs. Snorf said she thought her husband could take down all the pictures in the house and hang them lower in less than fifteen minutes," proceeded Mrs. Tittleworth, "I didn't say anything. But I thought to myself—and who could blame me?—how nice it must be to have a handy man like that around the house."

Mr. Tittleworth flung down the newspaper.

"Handy man!" he exclaimed. "And who says I'm not handy around the house? Do you want the pictures hung lower?"

"Yes, but it takes a handy man."

"Then get me the hammer and a kitchen chair to stand on. If that little shrimp of an Abel Snorf can take down and hang over again the pictures in his house in fifteen minutes or less, it's Herman Tittleworth as can do the same for the pictures in this house in ten minutes or less. And I figures we has more pictures than the Snorfs. Strong, is he? Quick, is he? Modest? Never misses? Get me the hammer!"

Next day when Mr. Tittleworth met Mr. Snorf on the way to work each looked long and curiously at the bandage around the other's left thumb.

"What happened to your thumb, Abe?" asked Mr. Tittleworth, solicitously. "The thumb on your left hand?"

"And what happened to the thumb on your left hand?"

"I asked you first. Between friends there should be no secrets."

"Well," said Mr. Snorf, "last night my wife was telling me how handy you are with the hammer. Seems like she wanted our pictures took down and hung lower. So I did the same."

"And what did your wife say about me?"

"Several things."

"That I'm strong?"

"Yes."

"And quick?"

"She did."

YOUR HEALTH

DRIVING OUT DISEASE

By William H. Peters, M. D. Cincinnati, Health Commissioner.

March 17 we celebrated the feast of St. Patrick. His praises and the fame of Ireland were broadcast through the land. The legend that St. Patrick drove the snakes from the Emerald Isle has a parallel in every modern health department.

Yellow fever has been banished from our shores, and we pause for a moment to pay tribute to those medical martyrs, Carroll and Lazear, who staked their lives to make the tropics safe for mankind. Cholera has disappeared to the vanishing point; malaria is making its last stand, and typhus fever has been robbed of its terror, through the triumphs of preventive medicine. Throughout the world, health departments report the decline of communicable diseases and the fall of the general death rate.

Not a vestige of smallpox should remain, and the disease will disappear entirely when vaccination, as advocated by all health departments, becomes universal.

The battle against typhoid fever has been won in most cities and in many rural districts as a result of the vigorous campaigns for safe water, pure milk, and the proper disposal of sewage. The immunity of our soldiers in the World War should teach our people that "vacation typhoid" can be avoided by vaccination against this disease.

Before the discovery of antitoxin in 1890, the annual death toll from diphtheria was frightful. This sovereign remedy has brought the disease under control, and for years health departments have been advocating its administration early and in sufficient dosage. But why have diphtheria when we have the means of determining susceptibility to the disease, and a harmless method of safeguarding children against it? And the immunity is lasting. If all children under six years of age were immunized with toxin antitoxin, the mortality from this scourge of early childhood would be negligible.

Tuberculosis, once the leading cause of death in our country, is gradually yielding to combative efforts. The tuberculin test and the condemnation of tuberculosis cattle, proper pasteurization of market milk, diagnostic chest clinics, hospitalization of incipient and advanced cases, observation of contacts, and a higher standard of living are largely responsible for the market decline in the death rate that has taken place in the last ten years. While these factors have been at play an educational movement of national significance is assuming an important role in the elimination of the Great White Plague. Making children free to gain in health and mental vigor is a delightful occupation of the public health nurses and physicians. By weighing, measuring and examining children and looking after those who are underweight, by correcting physical defects, and by the inculcation of good habits we are striking at the root of the tree. Malnutrition is the arch enemy, conspiring to keep up to full strength the army of susceptibles to tuberculosis.

NEW BOOKS

The Sword Peddler. By Thomas Grant Springer. Cloth, 276 pages. Published by Cosmopolitan Book Corporation, New York. Price $2.

The lighthearted autobiography of a liar, a braggart and an upstart makes easy and laughterful reading. The hero and narrator, born in the days of James First, rose from his father's smithy to the peerage by every artifice and trick he could command, but, throughout his career, he held the naiver belief that he was an altogether worthy and splendid personage. He cheated, lied, stole and even became a pirate. He set these facts down with what are to him plausible excuses for everything. He believed himself to be irresistible to women, yet every woman whom he came in contact with found some means to make him her dupe.

There are several possible explanations of the motives which underlie the author's creation of The Sword Peddler. It is obvious that he is a humorist and ironist who is tired of the "hero" stuff and has, by travesty, changed the hero's virtues into vices, his omniscience into conceited blindness. It is possible the sword peddler himself represents the typical man with his deceits, his suspicions and his vanities. As such, this droll person will be a delight to women readers, who will see in him a caricature of their husbands and male friends and relatives.

The Crime In The Crypt. By Carolyn Wells. Cloth, 204 pages. Published by J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia. Price $2.

What would we expect to find in a stone coffin deep in a mediaeval crypt? Surely a knight in armor—not an American in a business suit. Yet it was Warren Glynn—an American tourist—that Mott Oakley found. Murdered and not a sign of a struggle. Yet the man had been killed after he was put in the coffin—every evidence showed that. And Glynn had left a note saying that Scotland Yard should drop the case—it was better that he should die. This suited Mott—he hated not seeing murder solved, but he was returning at once to the states as secretary to John Clevedon. In the Clevedon homestead—with John's patrician mother—and his charming fiancee—Mott breathed a sigh of relief that he was at last far from the memory of those glazed and staring eyes. He never suspected that the fiend that had wrecked his vengeance on Glynn had followed him across the seas.

It was months later that Fleming Stone investigated the death of Mrs. Clevedon, pried the clue from the dark crypt and ended the plotting of a cunning master mind. This is another clever detective story by the author of All at Sea and There's Emily?

The Way of Power. By L. Adams Beck. Cloth, 255 pages. Published by Cosmopolitan Book Corporation. Price $2.

In this volume which is crowded with fascinating anecdotes of observed and tested feats of fakirs and students, Mrs. Beck has set down the principal tenets of the Yoga philosophy. She herself is a disciple of the creed. She is also a world traveler an authority on the far east.

The book gives an outline of Yoga, its system of physical training and its manner of thought. Unquestionably it will be of immense interest to the rapidly increasing number of people whose attention has been focused on the psychological discoveries made in India centuries ago. It is with surprise that the reader finds himself drawn into a calm and logical discussion of the powers of the mind over matter, of incidents wherein plants were forced to grow within a few hours and individuals raised themselves bodily from the ground.

One of her latest novels, The House of Fulfilment, was a romantic love story based on the conversion of a European to Yoga. The magic of that novel becomes in The Way of Power a series of facts and theories that will appeal to thoughtful persons.

The Poisoned Loving Cup. By Charles Grant Miller. Cloth, 224 pages. Printed by National Historical Society, Chicago. Price $1.

The author is an American of the tenth generation, a talented and experienced newspaper editorial writer and author and appeals to the public with rare skill.

He aims this volume against history perverters and shows how histories have been revised or newly written in a spirit of contemptuous hostility towards heroes of the Revolution and other founders and defenders of our republic. The charges are specifically presented. Mr. Miller has for years been in the vanguard of the movement to rescue our school histories from the conspiracy to poison the minds of young Americans. That is the purpose of his volume.

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

"The Irresistible Life

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me" (John 12:32). Read: John 12:24-32.

MEDITATION: This is John's way of saying that Jesus was irresistible. There is in that life a power to draw and lift men up that is to be found nowhere else. There is no power comparable to the attractive power of a beautiful life. It lifts one up as the sun lifts up the sea. It is an unanswerable argument for good. Recall Browning's "Luria." The military leader, maligned by jealous rivals, went his noble way. By his dignity and purity of conduct he slowly disarmed his critics and changed them into admirers, until at his tragic death Tiburzio says, thinking of Luria,

"Keep but God's model safe,
New men will rise to take its mold."
If we lift Christ up before us, He will lift us up.

PRAYER: Grant, we beseech Thee, that Jesus Christ, our Hope of glory, may be formed in us, in all humility, meekness, patience, and surrender of our souls and bodies to Thy holy will. Conduct us safely through life's changing conditions. Keep us faithful to truth and beauty that we may be clothed in Thy garments. In the name of Jesus. Amen.

Little Talks on Thrift

Thrift an Essential of Success With Most of Our Presidents

If you would learn a lesson in the constructive values of thrift, study the lives of our presidents.

John Adams taught school as a young man to obtain money for his education in the law; Zachary Taylor labored as a boy on his father's southern plantation and had practically no early educational advantages; Millard Fillmore worked as a village school teacher and borrowed money to enable him to study law.

The early struggles of Abraham Lincoln and the disadvantages under which he became one of the greatest men of all times, are known the world over. As a boy Lincoln, "the rail-splitter," worked for ten years on his father's farm, and it is said that all of his schooling amounted to only one year. Andrew Johnson came from a poor family in North Carolina and as a boy was apprenticed for ten years to a tailor, during which time he taught himself to read and write.

James A. Garfield had practically no educational advantages as a young man and was compelled to maintain himself early in life by the hardest of farm labor. At one period he earned his livelihood by driving a team of mules for a canal boat.

Warren G. Harding started life doing chores on a farm in Ohio. For several years he earned his livelihood as a typesetter, school teacher, insurance agent and newspaper reporter.

Calvin Coolidge's first job was a chore boy on his father's farm. He worked his way through college part of the time. His vacations all were spent in earning money.

One might easily add to the list of our presidnts who have learned the value of thrift as an element of success. Hayes, Cleveland, McKinley and Wilson learned its value out of the book of their own early struggles.

These are not new facts. Every schoolboy should know them. Every young man beginning a business career should be reminded of these splendid examples of obstacles overcome.—American Society for Thrift.

Stories That Recall Others

Impolite

A little girl lives near a dog which is loved and cared for by a childless woman. The owner of the dog came to call upon the little girl's mother.

"Mrs. Blank," she said, "I think Mary is changing so much. I don't want to have any hard feelings, but I really thought you ought to know I overheard her being very impolite."

"Sure, I want to know and thank you for calling my attention to the matter. I shall speak to Mary about it. What did Mary say?" asked the agitated mother.

"My dog was out in front as she went to school and she said, 'You dirty cur, don't you dare touch me.'"

Strong Wind

Little Frank's mother was in the habit of sending him out in the back yard to play so he would get fresh air and exercise. One morning a strong wind was blowing and Frank objected very much to going out, but his mother insisted. While out in the yard his dog came along and in their romping Frank pulled a button off his waist. When he came in his mother noticed he had lost a button and asked him how it happened. He said, "you made me go out in the wind and it blew that button off."

When a Man Goes in for Washing Dishes

"THE best housekeeper I ever had," said a young married woman the other day, "was a man.

"It was in a little village down in Maine where we lived for two years. Maids were scarce and I prevailed upon Joe to help me in the house. Joe had been in the Navy, and later had had his own fishing schooner.

"I have never known a woman who was so scrupulously neat as Joe. The way he washed dishes, for instance, was a lesson in efficiency.

"First he scraped and piled them all according to size. He used Lux for the suds in the dishpan, because, he said, Lux made better suds in half the time of anything else, also because Lux was easier on his hands.

"Sailors, he said, use Lux because their hands are often badly chapped and broken and Lux is soothing.

"Now I myself follow Joe's plan in doing dishes, and I always use Lux. The difference it has made in the looks of my hands is really amazing. Lux keeps them so white and smooth, that I've passed on the hint to my friends."

Because Lux contains none of the harmful alkali found in many household soaps, whether flakes, chips or cakes, it never irritates even the most sensitive skin, never dries the delicate oils of the hands.

And the big package of Lux washes 6 weeks' dishes.

HEALED HIS VARICOSE VEINS NO OPERATION

"For many years I suffered from varicose veins; and to such an extent that in order to keep on my feet at all I had to have my legs continually bandaged. Doctors advised an operation as the only relief. About a year ago I heard of Rabalm. Although without faith in it at that time or any hope of help from any such source, I tried it, and had used it only a short time when I was relieved of the intense pain, and the bunches of knotted veins were almost entirely reduced. Today, one year after use of Rabalm, there has been no recurrence of varicose veins, although I am on my feet continually about my store. I am pleased to offer this testimonial that others who are suffering from varicose veins may know of this wonderful Rabalm." Mr. Henry A. Mayer, Grocer, 274 Washington Street, Gloucester, Mass.

WILL CALL FOR TAX CUT OF NOT MORE THAN $200,000,000

WASHINGTON, March 26—(AP)—Barring unexpected developments, Secretary Mellon's revised tax recommendation to congress will call for reduction of not more than $200,000,000.

This became known today at the treasury in corroboration of the previously expressed opinions of administration tax experts, who estimated the new recommendations would fall in between $180,000,000 and $200,000.

Back-tracking from the original treasury estimation of $225,000,000 cut in taxation, treasury officials contend, was made necessary by the overstepping of appropriations by congress, which they claim, already have exceeded the estimates of the budget bureau. In addition, officials point out, an appropriation of at least $30,000,000 for flood relief stands in the offing with the probability of other appropriations that have not yet appeared.

He was ordered to appear in the Waterford town court.

The automobile operated by Williamson, who had as occupants Robert L. Brady and Edward C. D. 3, Norwich, which was traveling up the hill. William's car pushed the other to the side of the road and then continuing its erratic course, crashed into a sedan operated by Miss Anna Creighton of 47 Boswell avenue, this city.

The car owned by Miskgul was operated by George Bizinsky, 459 North Main street, this city, who had as passengers Miss Josephine Poreda, 9 Cliff street, New London, and Miss Eleanor Poreda, 3 Golden street, this city. BEGINNING WORK ON NEW HIGHWAY SOUTH FROM LAUREL HILL ROAD

Work on the new road construction on the Military highway, southerly from the city line along Laurel Hill road and as far as the beginning of The Pines, has just been begun by the Rhode Island concern to whom the contract has been awarded. The contract calls for about 8,766 linear feet of bituminous macadam to be laid.

The contractor has put a steam shovel and a gang of men at work where the new layout cuts through the hill opposite the home of Mrs. Cecelia Lester on Laurel Hill road. Further south at the hill just above the state hospital grounds, where the sharp point of the hill is to be taken off by the new lings of the road, trees have been cut where the new road is to run and a quantity of large drain pipe which is to be used has been delivered.

At the state hospital grounds, where the line of the new road runs to the east of the present highway, a number of telephone poles have been delivered to be set up along the new road, while on Monday the first of the 19 or 20 pine trees which will have to come down south of the Hebrew cemetery, were felled. A motor truck was used in the operation to make the trees fall the right way so that they should not come down across the highway and make a blockade in the road. When the trees had been chopped and sawed through near the base, a motor truck hauled the tree over in the right direction by the use of a block and tackle. Seven of the trees were taken down Monday afternoon.

Farther south on the Military highway, when the new bridge is in process of construction over Poquetanuck cove the seven pairs of steel girders have been placed in position and the riveting work has been partially completed.

REPORT FARM PROPERTY BURNED IN VERSAILLES

Early this (Tuesday) morning a report was received at The Bulletin office that a farm house, barn with cattle in it, and other buildings was on fire in Versailles.

It was said to be the same place where a woman was tortured last summer by robbers in order to compel her to show up her money.

TUBERCULOSIS CLINICS ARE FOR PUBLIC GOOD

A tuberculosis clinic is held every Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 4 at No. 9 Washington street. These clinics are fostered by the Connecticut state commission of tuberculosis, under the supervision of Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of Uncas-on-Thames, and are for the purpose of affording a chest examination to people who cannot pay a specialist's fee. These clinics are at the disposal of any of the physicians of Norwich who care to refer cases there.

Children of tuberculous parents or children who have been in contact with tuberculous people are given periodic examinations and are under the health supervision of the public health nurses. Twenty-one attended one of the recent tuberculosis clinics and were given thorough examination.

The National Tuberculosis association points out that to procrastinate with tuberculosis is to gamble with death. The hope ultimately of conquering this disease lies in our ability to take action promptly. This, in turn, depends upon efficiency in discovering all cases of tuberculosis before they have had opportunity to spread the infection.

These facts have been shouted from the housetops for the past twenty years. But doctors still report that most cases of tuberculosis which come to them for their first examination are found to be in an advanced stage of the disease. A recent census of patients in tuberculosis sanatoria in the United States shows that only 16 per cent are diagnosed as early cases on entrance.

Perhaps the educational barrage of the past two decades has been too scattered. Perhaps a new generation untouched by the old message has arrived. At any rate, this seems to be the strategic time to consolidate the scattered gains of the past and to concentrate public attention on the important fundamentals about tuberculosis.

During March, 1928, tuberculosis and health associations of the United States, led by the National Tuberculosis association, has been an intensive publicity campaign to emphasize the importance of the early diagnosis of tuberculosis.

The aim of the campaign is twofold, first to focus the attention of the public at large upon the danger signs of early tuberculosis and to urge them to go to their doctor for examination; and second, to stimulate renewed interest on the part of the medical profession in the recognition of early signs of tuberculosis.

Louis J. A. Stefon has been reappointed postmaster at Baltic for another term of service. He was first appointed to the office on Feb. 9, 1924, and the reappointment is pleasing to patrons of the Baltic postoffice.

Speaking of the service which Mr. Stefon has given, one of them said: "During the four years just passed, Postmaster Stefon has fulfilled his duties to the satisfaction of all, having won the esteem of everyone with whom he came in contact, by his kindness and goodwill. He has tried at all times to give to the public the best service possible, sparing neither time nor energy in doing so. The old as well as the young have received the same kind attention, listening to their postal troubles and then advising them to the means necessary to render them satisfactory. At all things, regardless of whether it was office hours, before or after holidays or not, day or night, whenever anyone had any special business to transact they always found him ready to attend to their needs. So by these little acts of charity he has won the hearts and 'ofe of all.'

LOUIS J. A. STEFON

The various postal officials who have visited his office, have remarked on the good manner in which this office was trying to be run, especially the inspector whose duty it is to examine the postmaster's work has always commented on the neatness of his work.

Mr. Stefon is a member of the Connecticut Association of Postmasters, National League of District Postmasters and the National Association of Postmasters, which organizations are working to make the postal service the best possible.

SHIP RACED TO PORT WITH 22,000 BAGS OF RIO COFFEE

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—Arrival of a steamship which had successfully raced against time to deliver 22,000 bags of Rio coffee before the closing off today of March contracts, caused a break of more than a cent a pound in prices on the New York coffee and sugar exchange. Most of the loss was recovered, however, while the closing price of other contracts was improved.

The supply of Rio aboard the steamship enabled sellers to issue notices that 24,000 bags of Rio were available, and increased the total for the month to 131,000 bags, the largest single month's tender in several years.

Prices for March contracts, which had opened at 13 cents a pound, dropped to 14.89 cents, and others sagged in sympathy. When strong interests stopped the notices, however, prices steadied. March contracts closed out at 15.70 to 15.75 cents as compared with Saturday's final quotations of 15.87 cents. The closing price for May was 14.88 cents, as compared with 14.60 at Saturday's closing, for September 13.92 cents as against 13.65.

When a Man Goes in for Washing Dishes

"THE best housekeeper I ever had," said a young married woman the other day, "was a man.

"It was in a little village down in Maine where we lived for two years. Maids were scarce and I prevailed upon Joe to help me in the house. Joe had been in the Navy, and later had had his own fishing schooner.

"I have never known a woman who was so scrupulously neat as Joe. The way he washed dishes, for instance, was a lesson in efficiency.

"First he scraped and piled them all according to size. He used Lux for the suds in the dishpan, because, he said, Lux made better suds in half the time of anything else, also because Lux was easier on his hands.

"Sailors, he said, use Lux because their hands are often badly chapped and broken and Lux is soothing.

"Now I myself follow Joe's plan in doing dishes, and I always use Lux. The difference it has made in the looks of my hands is really amazing. Lux keeps them so white and smooth, that I've passed on the hint to my friends."

Because Lux contains none of the harmful alkali found in many household soaps, whether flakes, chips or cakes, it never irritates even the most sensitive skin, never dries the delicate oils of the hands.

And the big package of Lux washes 6 weeks' dishes.

HEALED HIS VARICOSE VEINS NO OPERATION

"For many years I suffered from varicose veins; and to such an extent that in order to keep on my feet at all I had to have my legs continually bandaged. Doctors advised an operation as the only relief. About a year ago I heard of Rabalm. Although without faith in it at that time or any hope of help from any such source, I tried it, and had used it only a short time when I was relieved of the intense pain, and the bunches of knotted veins were almost entirely reduced. Today, one year after use of Rabalm, there has been no recurrence of varicose veins, although I am on my feet continually about my store. I am pleased to offer this testimonial that others who are suffering from varicose veins may know of this wonderful Rabalm." Mr. Henry A. Mayer, Grocer, 274 Washington Street, Gloucester, Mass.

WILL CALL FOR TAX CUT OF NOT MORE THAN $200,000,000

WASHINGTON, March 26—(AP)—Barring unexpected developments, Secretary Mellon's revised tax recommendation to congress will call for reduction of not more than $200,000,000.

This became known today at the treasury in corroboration of the previously expressed opinions of administration tax experts, who estimated the new recommendations would fall in between $180,000,000 and $200,000.

Back-tracking from the original treasury estimation of $225,000,000 cut in taxation, treasury officials contend, was made necessary by the overstepping of appropriations by congress, which they claim, already have exceeded the estimates of the budget bureau. In addition, officials point out, an appropriation of at least $30,000,000 for flood relief stands in the offing with the probability of other appropriations that have not yet appeared.

THREE AUTOMOBILES WERE IN QUAKER HILL CRASH

In a three-corner automobile crash at Quaker Hill, Waterford, Sunday night at 7:25 o'clock, Mrs. Mary Perrone, 30 Lake street this city, received severe injuries but seven other persons escaped unscathed. The three cars were damaged considerably and William Williamson, 30 Allyn street, Groton, operator of the automobile which was said to have caused the collision, was arrested by State Policemen John Smith and Peter Busch of the Groton barracks, charged with reckless driving. He was ordered to appear in the Waterford town court.

The automobile operated by Williamson, who had as occupants Robert L. Brady and Edward C. Brooks, coast guardsmen, stationed at the state pier, careening down Quaker Hill at a rapid rate of speed, crashed into a coupe owned by Agnancy Mielguj of R. F. D. 3, Norwich, which was traveling up the hill. William's car pushed the other to the side of the road and then continuing its erratic course, crashed into a sedan operated by Miss Anna Creighton of 47 Boswell avenue, this city.

The car owned by Milguj was operated by George Bizinsky, 459 North Main street, this city, who had as passengers Miss Josephine Poreda, 9 Cliff street, New London, and Miss Eleanor Poreda, 3 Golden street, this city. Mrs. Perrone, who received deep lacerations about the head and bruises about the body, was a passenger in the car operated by Miss Creighton. Mrs. Perrone was removed to the nearby home of John E. Morin, where Dr. Charles Kaufman of New London treated her injuries, after which she was removed to her home in this city.

Arrested and Then Released

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 26—John Sauthai, employed by the Central Vermont railroad as a laborer, was arrested this afternoon by Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray charged with breach of the peace upon request of the Norwich police, but Sauthia was later released at the request of the Norwich authorities. Sauthia was presented in the Norwich city court recently and was fined. He was minus $10 of his fine and costs, but he assured the court of the amount he was supposed to pay. He didn't keep his promise and he was arrested at his employment. He deposited $10 at police headquarters and was then released.

BEGINNING WORK ON NEW HIGHWAY SOUTH FROM LAUREL HILL ROAD

Work on the new road construction on the Military highway, southerly from the city line along Laurel Hill road and as far as the beginning of The Pines, has just been begun by the Rhode Island concern to whom the contract has been awarded. The contract calls for about 8,766 linear feet of bituminous macadam to be laid.

The contractor has put a steam shovel and a gang of men at work where the new layout cuts through the hill opposite the home of Mrs. Cecelia Lester on Laurel Hill road. Further south at the hill just above the state hospital grounds, where the sharp point of the hill is to be taken off by the new lings of the road, trees have been cut where the new road is to run and a quantity of large drain pipe which is to be used has been delivered.

At the state hospital grounds, where the line of the new road runs to the east of the present highway, a number of telephone poles have been delivered to be set up along the new road, while on Monday the first of the 19 or 20 pine trees which will have to come down south of the Hebrew cemetery, were felled. A motor truck was used in the operation to make the trees fall the right way so that they should not come down across the highway and make a blockade in the road. When the trees had been chopped and sawed through near the base, a motor truck hauled the tree over in the right direction by the use of a block and tackle. Seven of the trees were taken down Monday afternoon.

Farther south on the Military highway, when the new bridge is in process of construction over Poquetanuck cove the seven pairs of steel girders have been placed in position and the riveting work has been partially completed.

REPORT FARM PROPERTY BURNED IN VERSAILLES

Early this (Tuesday) morning a report was received at The Bulletin office that a farm house, barn with cattle in it, and other buildings was onfire in Versailles.

It was said to be the same place where a woman was tortured last summer by robbers in order to compel her to give up her money.

TUBERCULOSIS CLINICS ARE FOR PUBLIC GOOD

A tuberculosis clinic is held every Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 4 at No. 9 Washington street. These clinics are fostered by the Connecticut state commission of tuberculosis, under the supervision of Dr. Hugh B. Campbell of Uncas-on-Thames, and are for the purpose of affording a chest examination to people who cannot pay a specialist's fee. These clinics are at the disposal of any of the physicians of Norwich who care to refer cases there.

Children of tuberculous parents or children who have been in contact with tuberculous people are given periodic examinations and are under the health supervision of the public health nurses. Twenty-one attended one of the recent tuberculosis clinics and were given thorough examination.

The National Tuberculosis association points out that to procrastinate with tuberculosis is to gamble with death. The hope ultimately of conquering this disease lies in our ability to take action promptly. This, in turn, depends upon efficiency in discovering all cases of tuberculosis before they have had opportunity to spread the infection.

These facts have been shouted from the housetops for the past twenty years. But doctors still report that most cases of tuberculosis which come to them for their first examination are found to be in an advanced stage of the disease. A recent census of patients in tuberculosis sanatoria in the United States shows that only 16 per cent are diagnosed as early cases on entrance.

Perhaps the educational barrage of the past two decades has been too scattered. Perhaps a new generation untouched by the old message has arrived. At any rate, this seems to be the strategic time to consolidate the scattered gains of the past and to concentrate public attention on the important fundamentals about tuberculosis.

During March, 1928, tuberculosis and health associations of the United States, led by the National Tuberculosis association, has been an intensive publicity campaign to emphasize the importance of the early diagnosis of tuberculosis.

The aim of the campaign is twofold, first to focus the attention of the public at large upon the danger signs of early tuberculosis and to urge them to go to their doctor for examination; and second, to stimulate renewed interest on the part of the medical profession in the recognition of early signs of tuberculosis.

Hannon of West Haven, Edward L. Hess of Waterford has brought a damage suit in the superior court against the West Haven woman for $20,000, according to papers filed with the clerk of the superior court.

Louis J. A. Stefon has been reappointed postmaster at Baltic for another term of service. He was first appointed to the office on Feb. 9, 1924, and the reappointment is pleasing to patrons of the Baltic postoffice.

Speaking of the service which Mr. Stefon has given, one of them said: "During the four years just passed, Postmaster Stefon has fulfilled his duties to the satisfaction of all, having won the esteem of everyone with whom he came in contact, by his kindness and goodwill. He has tried at all times to give to the public the best service possible, sparing neither time nor energy in doing so. The old as well as the young have received the same kind attention, listening to their postal troubles and then advising them to the means necessary to render them satisfactory. At all times, regardless of whether it was office hours, before or after holidays or not, day or night, whenever anyone had any special business to transact they always found him ready to attend to their needs. So by these little acts of charity he has won the hearts and love of all."

The various postal officials who have visited his office, have remarked on the good manner in which this office was trying to be run; especially the inspector whose duty it is to examine the postmaster's work has always commented on the neatness of his work.

Mr. Stefon is a member of the Connecticut Association of Postmasters, National League of District Postmasters and the National Association of Postmasters, which organizations are working to make the postal service the best possible.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(AP)—Arrival of a steamship which had successfully raced against time to deliver 22,000 bags of Rio coffee before the closing out today of March contracts, caused a break of more than a cent a pound in prices on the New York coffee and sugar exchange. Most of the loss was recovered, however, while the closing price of other contracts was improved.

The supply of Rio aboard the steamship enabled sellers to issue notices that 34,000 bags of Rio were available, and increased the total for the month to 121,000 bags, the largest single month's tender in several years.

Prices for March contracts which had opened at 16 cents a pound, dropped to 14.89 cents, and others sagged in sympathy. When strong interests stopped the notices, however, prices steadied. March contracts closed out at 15.70 to 15.75 cents as compared with Saturday's final quotations of 15.87 cents. The closing price for May was 14.88 cents, as compared with 14.60 at Saturday's closing, for September 13.92 cents as against 13.65.

INTENTIONAL SECOND EXPOSURE

BURLAP-MORGAN BOUT IS FEATURE OF DUWELL AMATEUR CARD THIS EVENING

Unaffected by the recent order of President William Kennedy of the Connecticut association placing the ban on amateur boxing under A. A. U. sanction in the state, the Duwell A. A. will present its amateur boxing show at the state armory tonight as originally scheduled. Advised late yesterday afternoon that the Kennedy order was meant for non-members of the A. A. U. who have been operating under A. A. U. sanction, the local organization, which has held actual membership in the Connecticut association since 1926, will proceed with all of its details and will attempt to stage a bill equally as good if not better than the one witnessed by a record-breaking crowd two weeks ago.

Strong in its support of the A. A. U. president, the Duwell A. A. will obey any of his orders should he desire to place it on the suspended list after Friday. Otherwise, the club will continue to run amateur boxing shows as in the past.

Tonight's show will be featured by the Big Boy Burlap-Daniel Morgan heavyweight tilt and a number of other clashes in the various classes from 110 pounds to the unlimited division.

The main attraction will find the big colored Westerly boy fighting a man really his weight for the first time in the history of local amateur boxing. Morgan, 215 pounds, according to all advance dope from Springfield, should make Burlap extend himself for once. Other features of the bill is the appearance of Morgan's team-mates, the return of Benny Salenski of Jewett City, Joe Russ of Westerly and Rene Peloquin to local rings after forced absences due to injuries and a number of scraps in the 145 and 150-pound classes. The entry list is as follows:

Heavyweight division—Earl Champlin, Westerly; Daniel Morgan, Springfield.

The Duwell members worked at the armory after the drill session of the military company last night and everything is in readiness for the show which it is expected will draw another record-breaking crowd. There are seats for 1,200 people and everyone that attends the bill will be comfortably accommodated. Previous to the boxing, which starts at 8:15 o'clock, the Duwell orchestra will render a half hour concert.

PITT'S RECORD IN ALL SPORTS HARD TO BEAT

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 26—If any university has grabbed more than its share of athletic honors this year it's the University of Pittsburgh.

The Panther football team was undefeated during the regular season and dropped a post-season game to Stanford by a single point. It scored 255 points to 27.

The Pitt basketball quintet was undefeated in 21 starts, downing the best teams of the east and middle west and scoring 992 points to 662.

The Pitt swimming team was likewise undefeated, winning from Army, Notre Dame, Wooster College twice and Carnegie Tech twice.

Coach Frank J. Shea's track and field team, captained by Gibby Welch, All-American football halfback, and one of the best discus throwers in the country, is another potential champion. Coach Shea has the best material in Pitt track and field history and Welch, Don Gwinn, hammer-thrower, and Victor Pickard, pole-vaulter, are Olympic games candidates. Pickard represented Canada in the 1924 Olympics and probably will again this year at Amsterdam.

PRELIMINARY GAMES IN HOCKEY PLAYOFFS TONIGHT

NEW YORK, March 26—(AP)—Preliminary matches in the annual world's championship hockey classic—the professional playoff series for the historic Stanley cup—will open tomorrow night in New York and Ottawa between the second and third place finishers in the two divisions of the National Hockey league.

Interscholastic Sports

The Academy now has won 10 and lost 11 basketball games. The game Saturday night with the Taftville Crescents will afford a chance to even things up.

The Chicago tourney starts Monday with two Connecticut teams entered Naugatuck and Bristol.

Meanwhile, Wilby is going up to Glens Falls for the annual tourney there. Both prep and high schools will compete in this meet.

The Academy, after a successful season on the track last year, is going out with renewed confidence this year.

Last season, the Red and White won its first dual meet in six years, when it beat Chapman Tech.

Coach Sheridan has a none too strong list of material to choose from.

NEW BRITAIN TO PRESENT STRONG LINEUP WEDNESDAY

The New Britain Guards will use their strongest lineup for the opening game of their state championship series with the Plainfield Pros Wednesday night at the Plainfield Community House, according to reports coming out of the Hardware City Monday evening. In the lineup submitted as their representative for the important conflicts, the New Britain management is sure giving the Pros a tough nut to crack.

At forwards will be Rubenstein and Sloman with Zakzewski and Holst at center and Leary, Kilduff, Shean and Sturm at guards. Rubenstein, Zakzewski and Leary were members of the Fordham university quintet last season, champions of the east.

New Britain last year's state champs, have been going great guns all year and only Saturday night clinched the second-half title of the state league.

Plainfield and New Britain have met twice this season and split even, both games being played at Stanley arena, New Britain. Plainfield copped the first one by 31 to 30 while New Britain tied it up with a more decisive victory in the second game, although here Plainfield, because of a mix-up, had but two regulars in their lineup.

That both teams greatly respect the other's ability can be seen by the preparations being made for the series. The Plainfield lineup has not been definitely announced as yet, but in all probability it will be Kasper, Mondi Normandin and Brusso at forwards, Whitey Bernot at center and Benson, "Hap" Madden and Roy Dissinger at guards.

In the preliminary Eddie Nichol's All-Stars from Willimantic will play the Plainfield Buddies. The Thread City quintet will be composed of this year's Windham high team for the most part while two Conn. Aggie players will bolster them for the expected strong attack of the Buddies.

A large crowd, in fact, the largest turnout of the year, is expected as interest in the series is running high all through the state and preparations have been made by the management for such.

PUTNAM HIGH BATTERYMEN HEAR FIRST PRACTICE CALL

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 26—Coach F. L. Noyes of Putnam high school called candidates for the school baseball team battery last Friday. Over 16 boys reported for a workout. Monday afternoon Coach Noyes gave the boys an early outdoor practice on the school diamond. Only a few of the regulars graduated last year and the nine will practically be a veteran team this season.

A Good Show With Plenty of Action

'BOUT SPORTS

Soccer, which had a fairly successful time of it during the mid-winter months, now seems to have faded out of the picture rather early. No teams are now operating in Eastern Connecticut and it is practically certain that they will not do so again until the next fall or winter. There was talk of forming an Eastern Connecticut league the past season but then it was decided to shift this plan until the 1928-29 season. Whether this project will bear fruit then it is but a matter of conjecture.

GOV. TRUMBULL WOULD HAVE COMMISSION RULE AMATEURS

HARTFORD, March 26—(AP)—Governor Trumbull will recommend that the 1929 general assembly enact a law putting all amateur boxing matches in the state under the control of the state boxing commissioner, or will see that such a bill is recommended. Governor Trumbull said today following a conference with State Senator Charles A. Wheeler, of Stratford, at the state capitol.

The conference was held at the request of Senator Wheeler following the death Saturday of Horace Aliff Ferguson, of Meriden, caused, it is believed, by injuries received March 21 in a bout with Tommy Carroll, of Bridgeport.

Senator Wheeler asked that the governor prohibit all amateur boxing matches in Connecticut until a thorough investigation of amateur boxing conditions in the state has been made. In spite of the urgent request from the Stratford senator, Governor Trumbull took no immediate action, saying that there is no statute that gives him jurisdiction over amateur boxing.

"I regret that no action can be taken," he said, "and I will recommend that the next legislature take steps to put the amateur boxing under the state commissioner, or will see that such a step is recommended."

SLUGGERS NOT SATISFIED WITH RECENT DEFEAT

The Smith's Sluggers started off the local baseball season Sunday by losing a close game to the Fast Fliers. They held them down well during the first few innings. But sometimes the best team does lose. Bill Connell got knocked out of the box. They challenge any team in the state ranging from 10 to 15 years of age. They also challenge the Fast Fliers to another game but they want a fair umpire. Smith featured with his wonderful pitching, but his team was still better. Answer this add through the Record. Our lineup will remain the same, except for a few new players. Catch, Angelone; pitch, Smith; first base, Quinn; second base, Ziberisky, third base, Renaldi; short stop, Peroney; left field, Billy Casey; right field, Cappilozlky; center field, Cornelius Smith.

AROUND THE RING

By EDWARD J. NEIL.
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK—(AP)—A few days ago, Tommy Loughran, the good-looking young Irishman from Philadelphia who tamed two of the most boisterous challengers for his light heavyweight championship within a month, blandly announced to the cauliflowered gentry gathered in Madison Square Garden that he was ready to fight heavyweights just for glory—if necessary.

Joe Jacobs, parked deep in one of Tex Rickard's most luxurious divans, gasped with such vigor that his two-pound cigar fell down between his vest and blue silk shirt, doing irreparable damage to both. Jacobs handles the destinies of Jack Delaney, now vainly jousting with the heavyweights, and other industrious laborers in the ranks of the chin-chucklers.

Never has a warrior under the Jacobs banner struggled merely for glory. What is more never will one until spectators cease paying in hard cash for the privilege of ringside seats.

As soon as Joe could get his breath, recover his cheroot, and extinguish the smouldering fires without his breast, he made a match for Tommy with Delaney. Jack was to get the gate receipts and Loughran a big American flag, symbol of all that is glorious, for his part in the fisticuffing.

Tommy was agreeable but Joe Smith, manager of the light heavyweight king, and co-owner in the dividends accruing thereby, put a summary veto on the idea.

"Tommy," he said, "you're a nice boy and you've always been normal. But when you start talking of fighting for glory you're thinking of tennis, or something. You can scrap for a principle if you want to, but my share must be paid in gold. I'll take no cut in an American flag."

There's method in Loughran's madness in attempting to lure outstanding heavyweights into the same ring with him. As Tommy points out, there are but two big fellows of definite repute left as a result of Tex Rickard's heavyweight elimination tournament, Johnny Risko and Tom Heeney.

And the way Tommy disposes of each is quite interesting.

Heeney, Loughran says, was training at the St. Nicholas gym one day last fall for his first fight in America against Charley Anderson, Chicago negro. The big New Zealander was a rough hairy animal, unknown, and the boys who take their leather pushing seriously were not inclined to mingle with the invader. Due to the paucity of sparring partners, Loughran agreed to box Heeney a round.

"Well, sir," said Loughran, "Heeney meant nothing to me and I wasn't taking chances that day. He wanted a workout and he got it. Before that round was ended I had him blinded with head punches and he hadn't touched me. Heeney suddenly stopped and walked to his corner, demanded that the gloves be taken off his hands and declared 'befuddled.' That takes care of Heeney.

"Risko? I've whipped him twice. Look at the record books. The last time was in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Feb. 13, 1927. Furthermore I'll guarantee to knock out either Heeney or Risko in 15rounds. Sure I'll fight them for glory alone, but it will be an investment too, for after those two fights I'd be the only man left to fight Gene Tunney."

Only eight months ago, the silvery thatch of Leo P. Flynn gleamed in the corner of Jack Dempsey as the old man mauler knocked Jack Sharkey onto the greased chute that leads to the fistic junk heap. In September, Flynn led his "champ" to the battle of Chicago's lakefront and a valiant effort to regain the heavyweight title.

A few weeks ago, one Jack McCann, a heavyweight from St. Paul, carried Flynn's banner into the Garden against Pierre Charles, the Belgium champion. Gus Wilson, Dempsey's trainer and partner with Flynn in the reconditioning of the former champion, piloted Charles.

Less than a round had elapsed before Flynn's heavy head was bowed in a most undignified posture, his arms wrapped around McCann's chest, as he dragged his fallen warrior from the canvas. Across the ring, Wilson danced and patted Charles, possessor of a terrific right.

SIX MEETS SLATED FOR ACADEMY TRACK SQUAD; PRACTICE STARTS

Four meets already listed and two more pending constitute the track schedule for the Academy announced Monday evening by Coach Matthew J. Sheridan. Four of the six meets that are intended to make up the slate are on home territory.

Five dual meets are planned with opponents of eastern Connecticut while the annual Interscholastic league meet, at New London, rounds out the number of contests for the Red and White tracksters. Bulkeley, ancient rival, comes here May 25.

Practice for this stiff slate started Friday with about 40 candidates reporting. There is not an over-abundance of veterans upon which Coach Sheridan can build his club although "Clint" Robinson, Lyons, Holdridge and Weisgraber still remain. However, it is doubtful if the last named will be in condition to represent the local school this year as he is now recovering from a broken ankle, sustained two months ago.

It is planned to put the track in condition at the earliest possible moment and prospects for a successful season, both in attendance and victories, look good for the Red and Whitesters.

The following is the schedule:

May 2—Chapman Tech at New London.
May 7—Stonington here.
May 11—Plainfield here.
May 16—Interscholastics at New London.
May 25—Bulkeley here.
June 1—Westerly here.

DANIELSON SHOW TO GO ON AS PLANNED

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 26—It was definitely stated here this afternoon that the temporary ban on amateur boxing in Connecticut will in no way interfere with the show to be staged at the town hall in Danielson Wednesday evening of this week.

This show was arranged for prior to the ban that has been put in force, and, it was said by a promoter, will be allowed to go through, as will other scheduled and advertised bouts in various sections of Connecticut during the present week.

The Killingly A. A., a new organization here, is staging Wednesday night's bouts. As will be indicated by the list of bouts and boxers, the show holds promise that it will be of real merit.

NEWSPAPER IS MISSILE OF ANGRY HOCKEY FANS

CHICAGO, March 26—(AP)—The pop bottle, long the missile of the irate baseball fan, has been replaced with the newspaper by the equally irate hockey enthusiast.

Every dyed-in-the-wool hockey fan here brings along his favorite newspaper. He holds it, rolled tightly, and when the referee does something that particularly displeases him, hurls it with great gusto at the official.

Next in popularity as missiles are orange peelings.

SPORTING NOTES

The Grand National Steeplechase to be run over the Aintree course near Liverpool on March 30 is generally regarded as the world's hardest race. The course is four miles 856 yards long, and there are 30 fences to be jumped.

On March 26 and 27 the Arena rink in New Haven will be the scene of the annual championships of the United States Figure Skating association. The first day will be devoted to the title competitions and the second day to exhibitions.

Mr. A. Wardle of Manchester, the new amateur billiards champion of Great Britain, is one of the youngest men to hold the title. He is now 27 years old and has been playing the game ever since he was a youth in school.

As the hotel accommodations of Amsterdam are rather limited it is expected that hundreds of visitors to the Olympic games this summer will find it necessary to put up at the North Sea resort hotels, many of which are within an hour's ride of the city.

Light and dark blue have been the colors of the Cambridge and Oxford crews, respectively, since 1836. In the first boat race between the two universities, in 1829, the Cambridge oarsmen rowed in white shirts with pink sashes, while the Oxford men wore dark blue jerseys.

HEENEY MUST SIGN TODAY OR RISKO WILL GET TITLE BOUT

NEW YORK, March 26—(AP)—With but 24 hours remaining before the New York State Athletic commission considers the case of Champion Gene Tunney and the sturdy seven who have filed challenges for his heavyweight title, Tex Rickard today swung the club he hopes will beat his contenders into line. Through Matchmaker Jess MacMahon, the Madison Square Garden promoter ordered Tom Heeney to agree to a match with Johnny Risko or lose whatever chance he has of meeting Tunney for the championship.

MacMahon informed Charlie Harvey, manager of the New Zealand blacksmith, that unless Heeney accepts the match tomorrow Risko will be named as Tunney's challenger. The Cleveland baker boy tentatively has agreed to a contract that will guarantee him a title shot in the event that he wins one more bout. With Heeney out of the picture, Risko probably would be called upon to "eliminate" Paulino Uzcudun, the Spanish heavyweight, who has not yet lost his full quota of tournament engagements.

Heeney has refused to consider a bout with Risko on the grounds that he already had defeated the doughnut maker in Detroit and through Risko's victory over Jack Sharkey was fully qualified to fight Tunney for the title. Little doubt is felt that Heeney will fall in line with Rickard's ultimatum. The match probably will be staged here early in June.

Sudden activity on the part of the Garden matchmaker lent strength to the report that a bona fide opponent must be named for Gene Tunney tomorrow to prevent suspension of the champion by the New York State Athletic commission. Tunney failed to choose a definite challenger when requested recently by the commission at the expiration of the six months grace allowed a titleholder.

ACADEMY HAS FIRST PRACTICE; STIFF SESSION EXPECTED TODAY

The Academy baseball team held its first outdoor drill Monday afternoon at the campus with about 35 reporting. Little was accomplished, first because the call came too late in the day to bring out many would-be candidates and second because of the lack of equipment.

In the squad that reported were Capt. Mace Goldblatt, Johnny Greene, Bill Tirrell, Chubby Gibbs and Eddie Hamil of the lettermen. Lloyd Jarvis and Les Pingree, the remaining veterans available for this year's nine, were absent but are expected this afternoon.

Coach Earle E. Brigham gave the players a short talk, stressing particularly on the eligibility of candidates and hoping that all would live up to training rules during the year.

This afternoon the first real drill of the year for the state champions is expected with a practice game carded. A much larger turnout is expected so that things can get a real start toward that big 23-game schedule.

M'TIGUE LOSES DECISION TO MARULLO

NEW YORK, March 26—(AP)—Tony (Young) Marullo of New Orleans won a judges' decision over Mike McTigue, former light heavyweight champion of the world, in a ten round bout at St. Nicholas arena here tonight. Marullo weighed 172 pounds, his opponent 174.

Marullo piled up a big lead on the veteran Irishman in the early rounds to take the verdict which was met with an outburst of jeers from the fans. McTigue put on a spectacular rally in the ninth and tenth sessions but it was not enough to offset Marullo's performance in the preceding rounds.

Marullo and McTigue roughed up the bout with frequent flurries of hard punching but there were no knockdowns. The New Orleans scrapper had the best of the struggle in six of the ten stanzas.

SAMMY WILLIAMS GETS VERDICT OVER MIKE RICK

NEW YORK, March 26—(AP)—Sammy Williams of New York scored a decisive victory over Mike Rick of Philadelphia in the 112-pound division of an intercity amateur boxing tournament at the New York Athletic club tonight. Rick was on the verge of taking a count on several occasions but managed to last the full three rounds.

The summaries:

126-pound division:

Frank Lowry, New York, defeated Joe Sullivan, Boston, by decision (three rounds).

Ray Strong, Hartford, Conn., defeated Samuel Taylor, New York, by decision (three rounds).

Jimmy Walker, Philadelphia, defeated Willie Muzelak, New York, by decision (three rounds).

Goldberg Wins On Foul

Fuller Beats Suggs

BOSTON, March 26—(AP)—Sammy Fuller, of Boston, decisively defeated Chick Suggs, of New Bedford, here tonight in a bout to decide the featherweight championship of New England. Fuller carried all but two of the ten rounds.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 26—(AP)—Eddie (Kid) Wagner of Philadelphia, won the decision over Joe Trabon, Kansas City, in a fast ten round bout here tonight. Wagner weighed 137 and Trabon 140.

Canada Lee, Negro welterweight of New York City, punched Canastota Bob, of Syracuse, all over the ring to win the decision in the six round semi-final.

Joe Glick Is Victor

NEWARK, N. J., March 26—(AP)—Joe Glick, Brooklyn junior lightweight, was awarded a referee's decision over Al Bryant, Negro boxer, in the main ten round event at the Laurel A. C. boxing show tonight. Both boxers tipped the beam at 134 pounds.

In a semi-final of the same distance, Eddie Nugent, 158, of Nutley, N. J., and Abie Bain, 184, of New York boxed a draw.

Mike Dundee Wins

PITTSBURGH, March 26—(AP)—Mike Dundee, Rock Island, Ills., featherweight won an 8-round decision tonight over U. S. Carpenter of Pittsburgh.

Glimpses of Sports of Other Days

CHAMPIONSHIP N. F. A. TEAM

In connection with present success of athletics at the Academy, it is interesting to note just what was going on at the local school a decade or so ago. In 1908 the Academy had its best football team in years, winning nine games, tying two and losing one, getting the championship of the league.

The following story is from the files of the Bulletin of Nov. 28, 1908:

One more championship pennant to hang upon the Academy walls and smaller individual pennants for each man of the eleven will be the reward of the Norwich Free Academy football team, which won the championship of the Eastern Connecticut Interscholastic Football league and finished up its season with the Thanksgiving day victory over Bulkeley, its ancient rival. Besides the pennants, it is about decided that the team will have other substantial reminders of the season in the shape of sweaters, for Manager Jewett has also made a record in a financial way and will have a comfortable balance in the treasury to report, which it is probable will be used to furnish sweaters bearing the Academy letter.

Up to date football in all departments of the game, well drilled into them by the coach, Dr. F. S. Bunnell, has turned out the best team the school has had in several years, and they have well deserved the highly successful season they have enjoyed. In Russell Welles for captain has been found an admirable gridiron leader and the harmonious spirit prevailing has brought out the best of individual and team play. The heaviest man on the team, he was invaluable, both in offense and defense, playing at left guard when the ball was in the enemy's hands, as well as acting as a valuable cog in the Academy machine when taken into the backfield for a run with the leather or to heave the forward pass.

Of the twelve games played, the Academy won 9, lost 2 and tied 1. Hartford High school was the only team to win from the local boys. As champions of the league to which they belong, the Academy won every game of its schedule but one, which was a tie, 6 to 6, with Westerly High. In their twelve games they scored 193 points to 36 by their opponents.

The following was the season's record,

Sept. 23—Academy 0, Jewett City 0.
Sept. 26—Academy 6, Manual Training 0.
Oct. 3—Academy 0, Hartford High 23.
Oct. 7—Academy 6, Westerly 6.
Oct. 10—Academy 23, Windham High 0.
Oct. 16—Academy 20, Westerly High 0.
Oct. 24—Academy 6, Open House 0.
Oct. 31—Academy 20, Manual Training 0.
Nov. 7—Academy 5, Bulkeley High 2.
Nov. 14—Academy 64, Windham 0.
Nov. 20 — Academy 21, Open House 0.
Nov. 26—Academy 12, Bulkeley High 0.

In weight the Academy has made a team average of 155, the line averaged 159, and the backs 148. The weights were as follows — Welles 183, Ricketts 169, Wulf 165, Murphy 170, Leavenworth 145, McKay 137, Gallivan 142; backs, Hendricks 138, Noyes 158, Donohue 145, Beere 154; substitutes, McCormick 135, Lowden 115, Allen 139, Lawlor 143, and Schutz 160.

In the business department Manager Jewett and Assistant Manager Bushnell have well backed up the team's record on the gridiron. The innovation of having score cards at the games, which they introduced, has been greatly appreciated by the spectators and they have at all times had the field well marked out and well policed. The most receipts of any game was on Thanksgiving day, when the gate yielded $146. This put the right finish to the most successful season in recent years.

TAFTVILLE CRESCENTS TO USE REGULAR LINEUP

For their game with the Academy at the Y gym Saturday night, the Taftville Crescents will use all of their regulars, including Mondi Normandin, Jimmy Murphy, Roland Harris, Aubrey Brown, Rabbit Gauthier, Capt. Eccleston, etc. They intend to halt the winning streak of the schoolboys at any cost and close the season hereabouts with one more win for their already healthy list.

The Academy is expected to use the same lineup that has shown so well in the last month in an effort to wind up the last of these "town-and-gown" tilts in the right way.

THREE-MAN TEAM TO CARRY MEXICO'S DAVIS CUP BURDEN

MEXICO CITY, March 26—(AP)—Mexico will have a three-man team in the Davis cup contests with the United States here. It will be composed of Robert G. Kinsey, former Californian; Alfonso Unda, and Ricardo Tapia.

Tapia is only 18 years old but Kinsey, who has been coaching him for several years, considers him the most promising player in Mexico. He and Kinsey are expected to team up against the United States doubles team. Unda and Kinsey will appear in the singles.

Schaaf-Touchstone April 2

BOSTON, March 26—(AP)—Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, will meet Benny Touchstone, of Florida, for the third time here on April 2, the Suffolk A. A. matchmaker announced today. Their first bout, staged in the Polo Grounds, was a draw and Schaaf gained the decision in their second meeting here several weeks ago.

TO BE CALLED BEFORE TEAPOT DOME COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, March 26—(AP)—More republican party leaders are likely to be called before the senate Teapot Dome committee to give their testimony as to the financing of the republican party after the lease of Teapot Dome to Harry F. Sinclair early in 1922. While a decision as to what witnesses are to be called will await the return here of the committee prosecutor, Senator Walsh, of Montana, who is attending the funeral of Senator Ferris in Michigan, some committeemen indicated today that the subject of political party financing has by no means been exhausted.

Among those the committeemen now are considering calling are John T. Adams, of Iowa, former chairman of the republican national committee, who is abroad, and Charles D. Hilles, republican national committeeman for New York.

Adams succeeded Will H. Hays as national chairman in 1921 when Hays was appointed postmaster general, and some of the senate investigators declare that his testimony will be essential before the inquiry is closed, which Chairman Nye said, probably would not be for some weeks.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND GOVERNS COAL INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON, March 26—(AP)—The human side of the troubles within the soft coal industry was subordinated today to a discussion of the economic laws binding that industry as the senate investigation committee turned its attention to the West Virginia situation.

George Anderson, executive vice president of the Consolidation Coal company, said that supply and demand governs the bituminous fields inexorably, describing this as "a law of the jungle," but he conceded that this meant a struggle which would result in the "survival of the fittest."

"What we are trying to do," broke in Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, "is to bring Christianity into the economics involving the coal industry, but I don't know whether the operators will help us or not."

Senator Gooding, republican, Idaho, declared that European countries had already taken steps to have the Christian ideal govern some major industries, as opposed to the jungle law mentioned by Anderson. This meant, he said, the execution of agreements between countries to fix a price for their products to assure protection for the public, the laborer, and the investor alike.

POTASH BROOK, VERMONT, OVERFLOWS ITS BANKS

BARRE, Vt., March 26—(AP)—Memories of the disastrous Vermont floods of last November, in which Barre suffered severely, were evoked today, when Potash brook overflowed its banks as a result of recent warm weather, flooding cellars and basements at Depot square and Main street. Water two feet deep flowed over the street at Depot square.

The rapid melting of the winter's snow had caused a swift rise in the water of the rivers and streams, the Winooski river going up more than two feet in five hours today. Little damage was reported as most of the goods had been removed by merchants from their basements before the overflow came.

ONE LOCAL BOY ON TOURNEY QUINTET

First		Second
Stefanski (Stonington)	lf	R. Childs (Woodstock)
Greene (Willimantic)	rf	Brown (Mystic)
Fagan (Norwich)	c	McSweeney (Willimantic)
Macomber (Willimantic)	lg	Swatzburg (Norwich)
Gibbs (Fitchville)	rg	Roever (Stonington)

Honorable mention — Kozersky, Fitchville, Sheffield. Old Lyme, Haggerty, Willimantic, Economous, Norwich, Foster, Lebanon. Tigar, Norwich, Trant, Mystic, Andrews, Baltic, Robertson, Noank.

After every sport happening of importance, that is, where numbers predominate, there comes the hue and cry, nowadays, for some poor soul to single out certain players for an All-team. Today, The Bulletin presents its All-Tourney selections, the tourney of course, being the Intermediate championship one held last Saturday at the local Y.

The first team carries two from the championship Willimantic Emps, and one each from Norwich, Fitchville and Stonington.

At the forwards, Greene of Willimantic and Stefanski of Stonington were supreme. Greene was a big part of the Thread City team's play, throwing in points when most needed and generally being a most useful performer. Stefanski, a rugged type of player, helped the faltering Stonington quintet through to about as far as it could possibly go and still he went down before the Emps only after giving a nice exhibition.

"Red" Fagan at center, a newcomer to the local Emps, was a big help at all times. He led them in scoring while holding his own with the best of them on the jump. At the guards, Macomber, another husky lad, proved a big part of Willimantic's defense, while he also scored at opportune moments. "Chubby" Gibbs, the other selection, didn't have much chance to show himself but while in the lone game that Fitchville played he looked good.

These selections were made, it must be remembered, only on play in Saturday's tournament, no pre-tourney work being taken into consideration.

A Cadillac automobile of Frederick R. Lamb, 42 Cross street, was damaged late Sunday afternoon when it moved down Cross street without an operator and crashed into a stone wall at the foot of the hill. While parked near the top of the hill the owner observed too late that the brakes had become loosened and its unguided trip down hill began.

Charles Elias of Pawcatuck attempted to crank his Velie touring car, parked in front of the Saunders and Wells shoe store at 22 Main street while the car was in gear. As it gathered headway he stepped aside just in time to avoid being struck. The car crashed into the rear of a Ford touring car of Probate Judge Edward M. Burke, parked just ahead and the rear left mudguard was forced into the tire which was blown and a large dent made in the back of the car body, by the tournig car spring. A broken headlight and twisted spring was the damage to the touring car. A broken headlight and twisted spring was the damage to the touring car. The two autos also rammed a truck of Milos market just ahead, but without damage. Officer Robert M. Kessel who came to investigate took no action, as Elias admitted his responsibility and readiness to pay for the damage. It was his opinion that unknown to him, he had kicked his car into gear as he had alighted as short time before.

JEWETT CITY

"THE UPPER ROOM" PROVES IMPRESSIVE SACRED-DRAMA

JEWETT CITY, March 26—This evening at the Finn theatre, a large audience saw one of the best interpreted dramas by amateur players, ever put on the local stage. The Upper Room, a sacred drama of Christ's passion, was presented by the Dramatic guild of St. Mary's parish for the benefit of St. Mary's new parochial school. The new scenery, the electrical effects both direct from New York, also the specially constructed stage settings, were attractive contributions to the play's general success. Nothing in the line of presenting the scenes in this wonderful story was ever attempted here before, and the accurate and reverential interpretations of the Bible characters by local people merited the sincere commendation they received. The entire play was enacted in the upper room with slight changes in setting as the drama progressed. Through the broad arch in the farther wall and over the parapet, was to be seen Calvary in the far distance against the sky, which was also lighted by stars and the waning moon, with streaks of cloud below. Over the domes of the city, and in bold relief beyond the nearer view, was to be seen the three crosses of the crucifixion.

The first act, at the time immediately following the last supper, set forth the memorable incidents concerning directly the betrayal and arrest. The second act, had to do with the night and morning of Holy Thursday and Good Friday with the scenes impressively presenting the trial, the fate of Judas, the passion begins, the way of sorrows and the crucifixion scene. During the second act, nothing locally was ever so realistically portrayed as the march to Calvary, with the muffled tread of the Roman soldiers and the passing crosses and shining spears. The third act reproduced the evening of Good Friday and served to portray in proper sequence the sorrowful mother, the repentance of Peter, the instrument of the passion, the vernacle and the message. The tableau at the close, in its silent beauty, with its wonderful portrayal of the original scene at Calvary, with color and setting true to sacred history's finest detail was a presentation of most realistic art. A feature of the drama was its beautiful musical setting by St. Mary's choir under the direction of the chorister, James Olsen.

Beginning with the opening chorale, I Come and Mourn, there were heard the hymns, Pange Lingua, Vexilla Regis, Stabat Mater, the Reproaches (Manzetti) with Stabat Mater again to close. Two other splendidly sung choruses were What a Sea, and Now Are the Days.

The cast selected showed especial fitness for the parts assigned. The characters were impersonated as follows: The doctor, John F. Hennon; Achaz, (a lanlord of the Upper Room) Theodore Boule; Samuel (his servant) Francis Liberty; Joseph of Arimathea, Hector Le Claire; Peter, Richard J. Dudkowski; John, John B. LeClaire; Judas, John F. Hennon; Longinus, Benjamin Kolbus; Mary, Mrs. Eudor Le Claire; Mary Magdalene, Miss Valeda Boule; Veronica, Miss Anna Ruszenas.

At the request of the managing committee there was total absence of applause.

Special credit is due to Francis Liberty for his faultless interpretation of the character of Samuel.

The prologue was recited by the doctor admirably impersonated by Mr. Hennon.

The costumes throughout were especially prepared and were of plain strong colors with absolute white and all light tints avoided.

The music during the play was all with organ accompaniment.

The effective selections given between the acts included The Palms, a violin trio, by Miss Beatrice LaMotte, Stanley Miss and Miss Margery Leyden, with Mr. Olsen at the piano. Ave Maria (Mascagin) solo by George LeFleur; Agnus Del, for the violin, Miss LaMotte, and The Holy City by Frank R. Murdy of Norwich, accompanied by Henry J. LaFontaine. The sacred tone of the impressive drama was much enhanced by these beautiful selections. To Rev. Nicholas Caron, is due the commendation he is receiving for his part as coach and manager of the production. The general committee of arrangements were Rev. John J. McCabe, Chester L. Dudkowski, Edmond J. Jodoin and John F. Barnett.

First Selectman D. F. Finn, Town Clerk John Welsh and Tax Collector U. E. Jodoin were in Hartford Monday to attend the conference of state tax collectors, called by Commissioner W. H. Blodgett. The meeting was called for the purpose of explaining the new stringent laws. Whereas delinquent taxpayers here have seldom been subjected to interest on overdue taxes, it was pointed out wherein this year it will be absolutely necessary to collect interest, after thirty days from due date of taxes. Collector Jodoin says that under the new tax lien law any "poor" or "unable" property holder, who cannot pay their taxes within the allotted thirty days must file their intentions in writing to him before May first, for due consideration. This applies to owners of real estate not of automobiles. There were one hundred and thirty tax collectors present and as many selectmen and town clerks.

Ida Benjamin, five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Benjamin, who has been very ill for several days, was taken to Backus hospital Saturday.

Ethel Chamberlain, who is ill with pneumonia is able to sit up for a short time.

Richard Brisson fell on the road near St. Mary's convent Monday noon, injuring his nose, causing the story to arise that he was struck by an automobile. Another boy was chasing him and he ran almost into an approaching machine, driven by Maurice Goodman, of 22 Maple street, Norwich. Seeing the machine, he whirled around, falling on his face. The driver swerved his machine to the left at the same time and did not strike the child.

The annual Methodist church conference will begin in Fall River today (Tuesday) Rev. J. W. Carter, pastor of the local church will attend the entire session. Meetings Wednesday evening and next Sunday, April 1st will be omitted.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. James Flannery of New Britain, died early Sunday morning. The child was but four months old and was named for his father. Mrs. Flannery was Miss Alice McBroome, a native of Jewett City. Upon the receiving of the information here by the McBroome family Miss Mabel, Mrs. Flannery's sister went immediately to New Britain.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE-AWAKES

Lily of the Valley

Down by the river of Adona her soft voice is heard,
And thus her gentle lamentation falls like morning dew.
* * * Why fade these children of the spring, born but to smile and fall?
Ah! Thel is like a watery bow, and like a parting cloud,
Like a reflection in a glass, like shadows in the water,
Like dreams of infants, like a smile upon an infant's face,
Like the dove's voice, like transient day, like music in the air,
Ah! gentle may I lay me down, and gentle rest my head." * * *

The Lily of the Valley, breathing in the humble grass,
Answered the lovely maid, and said: "I am a watery weed,
And I am very small, and love to dwell in lowly vales;
So weak the gilded butterfly scarce perches on my head.
Yet I am visited from heaven; and He that smiles on all Walks in the valley, and each morn over me spreads his hand,
Saying, 'Rejoice, thou humble grass, thou new-born lily-flower,
Thou gentle maid of silent valleys and of modest brooks;
For thou shalt be clothed in light, and fed with morning manna,
Till summer's heat melts thee beside the fountains and the springs,
To flourish in eternal vales.' Then why should Thel complain?
Why should the mistress of the vales of Har utter a sigh?"
—William Blake, in "The Book of Thel."

The Dandelion

O Dandelion, rich and haughty,
King of village flowers!
Each day is coronation time,
You have no humble hours.
I like to see you bring a troop
To beat the blue-grass pears,
To scorn the lawn-mower that would be Like Fate's triumphant shears.
Your yellow heads are cut away,
It seems your reign is o'er,
By noon you raise a sea of stars
More golden than before.
—Vachel Lindsay.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES

How many of the Wide-Awake Circle of writers can tell the age of a dog? Of course, those who have had dog pets since they were a day or week or month old puppies can tell just how old the dogs are. Otherwise they would, in many cases, be unable to tell how old their dogs are.

Though dogs occasionally live to the age of fifteen years, the average lifetime is only about ten years. Add to this the fact that a large percentage of dog owners do not know their pets' ages, and there is a combination of circumstances that often spell unhappiness of the canine. Some dogs may act quite "frisky" at the age of six—and be easily mistaken for young fellows of three years. Under this impression, the owner would expect the vigor and responsiveness of middle age (five or six years) when the dog was really nine.

Since a year is one-tenth of a dog's life, and only a fiftieth of a man's age, these two are not going to remain on equal footing very long. The boy of five who is given a puppy as a playmate will be at the vigorous age of fifteen when the dog is ten; and the boy will make the dog miserable if he continues to expect as much as ever from his pal.

If you know your dog's age, keep track of it. If you purchase an adult dog, ascertain his age as exactly as you can. When there is any reason to expect advanced age, watch for evidences of weakness. Though the falling of his teeth and the dulling of his hearing are both good signs, there is no one indication that can be absolutely relied upon.

Failing efficiency, if the animal has always before been strong and willing, is the most dependable guide. Even if his teeth and ears yet seem normal, a persistent disinclination to respond and join his master in sport may mean the weakness of age—it is either that or illness.

Don't be too exacting. Remember that the dog is old mentally as well as physically, that he is nervous, perhaps a little deaf, and not exact in his sight. He does not get your meaning as quickly as he used to, but be patient with him and he will do his best. His vitality is not what it used to be, and he requires warmer quarters in winter. Blanket him if necessary, for bad colds in aged canines frequently end seriously.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE-AWAKES

A Trip to Europe

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written you. I am going to tell you about my trip to the British Isles. We left Norwich July 16 and arrived at New York the next morning. At 12 o'clock we boarded the Cunard liner Cameronia. The Cameronia is a 16,000 ton boat.

On the boat I met many boys and girls that were going to Glasgow also. We played many games such as jump rope, dominoes, checkers, snake ladders and others.

At night whist parties and concerts were held. The crew formed a band. They dressed as clowns, Scotch lads, old men and women.

In the early morning of the 28th of July we got up to see the Irish passengers get off. In the distance we could see little white houses and green pastures. That was one of the prettiest sights I ever saw.

Later we crossed the Irish channel toward Scotland. At Greenock the pilot came aboard and steered the boat up the Clyde. We saw many pretty sights along the riverbanks. We had to have a tender in front of the boat and one in back to keep the boat in the channel.

At Glasgow my uncle and grandfather met us. The next morning we left for Dunfermline. Here I spent two weeks with my grandmother and grandfather. Next time I will write and tell you about my stay in Scotland.

JANET GIFFORD, Age 12.

My Pets

Dear Uncle Jed: I have something to tell you and the Wide-Awakes about a pet rabbit and my cats.

My rabbit was staying outdoors in a coop which my dad thought was not warm. So he made a place in the barn for her. She runs around and seems content with her new home.

When I feed her sometimes I mix up grain in a tin. She eats it and then carries the tin in her mouth across the barn floor.

If a dog or stranger comes in the barn she knows it and she thumps about three times with her hind foot and runs into some cornstalks or hay out of sight but if any one goes in she knows and whistles she runs out so happy to see them.

My big bob-tail cat sleeps with Bright Eyes. That is my rabbit's name. Every night he is real cross to the kittens which stay around the house, but the rabbit he loves. The kittens names are Lindy and Topsy. Mother lets Topsy into the dining room every morning. From there he can come up the stairs to my room. As soon as he starts up the stairs he begins to cry and keeps crying until he jumps on my bed and then he sings. Of course when he comes up I know mother sent him and it is time for me to get up.

Helping My Grandmother.

Dear Uncle Jed: One day I was at my grandmother's. I was playing with some children. My grandmother called and said, "Wash the dishes." I said I would. First I let the water get hot. Next I poured the water in a big pan. Then I got the dish strainer, the soap and the wash rag. Then I began to wash the dishes. When I finished washing the dishes I poured hot water on them. When I wiped them I broke a plate.

DOROTHEA PERKINS, Age 9.

Cotton

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. Cotton is a very important product in the United States. There are five kinds of cotton; American upland cotton, Sea-island cotton, Egyptian, Indian and Peruvian cotton. It is raised in the United States, India, China, Egypt, Russia, Brazil, Peru and Turkestan. The states which raise cotton are North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas and Oklahoma. The cotton needs a warm climate. A soil containing silty clay is apparently the best for cotton production. There are several by-products of cotton, cottonseed oil, cotton and seed cake. Cotton is used in making clothing.

ROSE FRITZ, Age 10.
Norwich Town.

When I Sweep the Floor

Dear Uncle Jed: When I sweep the floor I take the rugs up and shake them out of doors. Then I take a broom and sweep under the chairs and tables. When I finish sweeping the dust into a pile I take it up in a dust pan and throw it into the ash barrel. Then I bring the rugs in and put them back on the floor and dust all the furniture.

EMILY KARAN, Age 10

An Accident

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing a story for you about an accident.

One hot summer afternoon I thought I would take some fresh air, for I had picked berries all that morning. I took my wagon and decided to go riding down Depot Hill. On my way up I met one of my friends. He decided to come with me too. He had a better wagon than I had. When we arrived there we agreed that I should go first. No sooner had we started than my companion's wheel struck a rock. He was going so fast at that time that the wagon went flying over him. I thought I was very lucky to be in the front of him or I would have bumped into him.

A Foolish Purchase

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the third time I have written to you and I hope you will enjoy my story. One day last summer my cousin came to visit me.

My mother sent us to the store for some ribbon. While on our way, we stopped in front of a music store.

A sheet of paper entitled, "Follow the Swallow," was advertised in the window. We were just going in to buy it when my father saw us and asked us what we were going in there for, and I replied, "Mother sent me for some ribbon to put on my dress, but the dress can go without ribbon, and I want that sheet of music in there." But my father said to me, "You follow the swallow back home," instead of looking in that window.

Finally I got the music, and my dress went without the ribbon, but it didn't look half so pretty.

RITA BERARD, Age 12

A Dog and a Cat.

Dear Uncle Jed: I have a dog and a cat. One day my cat was walking by my house. Soon my dog saw him, chased and bit him. The cat turned around and scratched the dog. His nose started to bleed. The dog didn't touch him any more. It taught him a lesson.

My cat's name is Tiger. We named him that because he is yellow and has lighter yellow stripes on his back. My dog's name is Nellie. She is a brown dog.

STELLA IDZKINCKI, Age 9
North Franklin.

The Red Cross.

Dear Uncle Jed: I have not written to you for a long time. I will write about the Red Cross. Clara Barton was the first one to start the Red Cross in America. We have the Red Cross to help the people. We do not have it to help our country alone, but other countries, too.

Our school nurse asked us to join. All in our school brought five or ten cents and joined the Red Cross. We get a paper from the Red Cross of which the name is "The Junior Red Cross News."

We have a calendar and a certificate also from the Red Cross. Each one of the pupils has a pin which says, "I Serve," on it.

Vacation.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about our vacation from school. We had a good time. We helped father burn brush. We had lots of time to play too. My girl friends and my sisters and I played we were camping. Now our vacation is over and I'm glad to come back to school again. I am in the fourth grade.

Our 4-H Club

Dear Uncle Jed:—We have a 4-H health club in our school. We learn to eat all sorts of foods that make us healthy and help us to grow. To help us to remember all the foods and what they do to our bodies we made some "Health Alphabet Books."

First our teacher put the names of the healthy foods that began with "A" on the board. Then with B. C. D. and so forth down through the alphabet.

Then we picked out one of the foods whose name began with "A" and made a rhyme about it. We did this to all of the foods.

Then we brought all sorts of pictures that would go good with the rhymes. My rhyme for "A" was about Air, so I drew a picture of an open window.

When we finished posting the pictures and the rhymes written under them, we put them together and made a cover with a design on it.

This is interesting work and will help us to remember the good foods that we should eat.

Has Two Kittens.

Dear Uncle Jed:—This is my first letter to you so I hope you and the Wide Awakes will like it. I have two kitties and they follow me every where. They are twins but you would not think so because one is smaller than the other but I like them both.

I have had some nice kitties but they were killed by automobiles.

Mother says it's no use trying to keep anything now since we have the new state road as some of the automobile drivers run over every thing that they see on the road. I think they do not like animals for they do not stop after they run over them. I will write to you again some time.

Our Studies In School.

Dear Uncle Jed:—The second and third grades are studying about Indians, Pilgrims and the Dutch. We are making their homes. We drew pictures of Indians first. There were pictures of Indian chiefs, warriors, squaws and children. We also made some canoes, wigwams, bows and arrows, and trees, so it would look like a real Indian village. Then we made some pictures of Pilgrim men, women and children and their homes. We are doing this so that our lessons will be easier to study. Our teacher brought a large piece of paper and we pasted the Indians on, then we will paste the Pilgrims and the Dutch on. We are working on them now.

A Lesson

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you how John learned a good lesson. John liked very much to go hunting and fishing. One day his uncle gave him a new fishing rod. The next day he took John to a good place for pickerel. He knew many good places because he was an old hunter and knew many good places for fishing. After waiting for a long time for a bite, suddenly he felt a bite. He pulled up the line and there he saw a tangle of weeds. He tried again and this time he pulled up a large pickerel and just as he saw the fish he cried: "Uncle, I got a fish!" and just then what do you think happened? The fish fell back in the water. His uncle said: "Never brag of your fish until you have him on dry land."

The Four Seasons.

Dear Uncle Jed—I have not written to you for a long time. So I will write about the four seasons. First of all comes Spring. Then farmers start their work. The grass is turning green. The trees and bushes start budding. The birds come and build their nests in the trees. The seeds that have been planted are starting to sprout and the cows can go to the pasture and eat the green grass. The children are anxious for the summer vacation. The boys and girls help with hay; they like to bounce up and down on the hay.

June 21st, is the beginning of summer. The children are out of school now. They are looking forward to the Fourth of July with all its noise and fun. The children have firecrackers, roman candles, sky rockets and so forth. They go for picnics to the beaches and go in bathing, and go rowing in boats. The children are happy in the summer. I like summer the best of all the seasons.

Next comes fall. In the fall the children must start again for school. After school the girls and boys hunt for nuts and have nutting parties. The vegetables are put in the cellars and pumpkins in the sheds. The tomatoes, beans, peas, berries and other fruit are being canned.

Next comes winter. The snow falls and the water freezes and the boys and girls go skating. The boys build snow forts and make snow men and have snow fights. The roads are first rough and then muddy. I have written about the whole year so will close.

Keep Trying.

Dear Uncle Jed—I hope you and the Wide Awakes enjoyed my story of Edison's motto. One of the greatest mottoes is, "Try, try again."

In fact it is not only for a work man to practice, but also for school children, a boy who flies a kite, or a man inventing a machine. Edison has followed this motto, and it is through his great patience and following this motto that he is honored so much now.

It is said he tried thousands of times before he succeeded in getting the electric light to be what it is today. How many of us would try thousands of times to do things? Not many. Why five times is many times for us! The following interesting story gives us in a few words the great patience of Edison.

One day, a man to whom Edison had given a task, came up to him and said, "Sir, it cannot be done."

"How many times have you tried?" inquired the inventor.

"About two thousand times."

"Well," answered Edison, "go and try again, you have only found out two thousand different ways in which it cannot be done."

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

With the approach of spring there was a noticeable increase in the number of building permits issued at the office of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton during the past week. Eight permits were granted which included one for a new dwelling house on Palmer avenue.

Considerable progress has been made on local building projects during the past week. Work has started on the remodeling of the store at the corner of Broadway and Main street occupied by Raphael's news and restaurant for many years. The work of remodeling the old barroom of the Wauregan hotel has been completed and is now fitted with tables and makes a nice little grill.

The following permits were issued during the past week by Fire Marshal Stanton:

To Peck McWilliams Co., to alter the brick building at 243 Main street owned by the Max Gordon Corp. The store formerly occupied by Geo. P. Madden Co., is to be remodeled, a new front, new show cases and new flooring, are to be put in. The cost of the new front is given by the contractor as approximately $1,000.

To the Peck McWilliams Co. to change the front of the store at 59-63 Franklin street for Hyman Burchman. New steel supports are to be installed, new sash and plate glass. The contractor estimates the cost at $1,000.

To P. F. Sweeney, to install new steel, brick and plate glass front on the building at 243 Main street for Mrs. Emma Welter. The work will cost approximately $2,500.

To Albin Przekop to add to the present house on Mountain avenue. The addition will be 6x12 feet and two stories high. The cost is estimated at $2,000.

To Banas S. Jackiewicz to erect a frame house on Palmer avenue for Rozario Perrone. The house will be 26 x28 feet and will have seven rooms and bath. The exterior will be in clapboards and shingles while the interior will be finished in hard plaster and oak floors and trim. The cost is estimated at $3500.

To Teofil Gilnski to erect a frame garage 20x20 feet on Elizabeth street. The cost will be about $300.

To Joseph Lukoski to alter and add to the present frame house at 98 Hobart avenue. The addition will be 13x 24 feet and two stories high which will give four more rooms. A veranda will be built on to the house.

To A. E. Shedd to extend building on Main street. The extension will be 7x20 feet.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week there were eight sales of real estate in Norwich, an increase of two sales over the corresponding week a year ago. The mortage loans for the respective weeks were $20,050 and $21,900.

In New London the sales of real estate last week totaled four, a marked decrease from the same week in 1927, when there were 15 sales. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $43,404 and $86,828.

Building Activity in Connecticut

Building activity in Connecticut has easily been the outstanding feature of the business situation in this state since the beginning of the year, comments the Commercial Record. Aided, of course, by the weather, but based primarily upon a real spirited demand for new construction activity, the building industry here has unquestionably experienced since Jan. 1 the most notable winter season in many years. Judging from the record of building permits issued in the Connecticut cities and towns reported in the Commercial Record, there has been hardly a week in which the building totals have not substantially outdistanced the corresponding records for last year. In addition there is a considerable volume of future work indicated in plans in the architects' offices which have been held in abeyance pending the opening of spring activity.

Most of this work, too, is characterized by its non-speculative nature. A review of the work that has gone ahead and of that which is awaiting the spring weather reveals that a majority of this year's building activity to date consists of high grade residential work, business building construction and institutional expansions. It is felt that in most sections of the state the peak of speculative building was passed last year, although we are still witnessing the consequences of many ill-advised projects. Considering, therefore, that the amount of contemplated building work is large and that financing details are being more carefully arranged and investigated, the construction industry seems slated for an exceptionally good year in Connecticut.

New London

Considerable interest is being manifest in the building trades this week in the proposed new zoning ordinance which is expected to go into effect by April 1. As has already been indicated in the hearings conducted on the zoning proposition, much of the interest is being centered on restrictions against two-family houses in what is termed the "A" zone. Apparently plans have already been made to build two-family dwellings in some of the territory destined to become restricted by the new ordinance, and the owners are not favorably inclined to the restrictions. It is indicated that some of these property owners will fight the regulations planned.

The loophole which is left for the property owner with plans for building a structure which does not conform with the proposed zoning ordinance is in the fact that applications for building permits submitted before the new ordinance goes into effect will be granted and the property owner given about two years to complete the work. Accordingly, it is expected that those who are awake to the restrictions which will interfere with their plans will submit applications within the next week or two for permits, and then bide their time until they are ready to build.

The permit has been issued to E. A. Moriarty of the Thames Sheet Metal works for the construction of a substantial addition to that plant in Hamilton street. The enlargement proposed consists of a second addition 40 by 35 feet, which will provide additional office and shop space. Work will be done under supervision of the owner.

The modern new brick apartment house being built for Victor Castaldi in West street, just east of Center street, is rapidly nearing completion, and plans now are to have the building ready for occupancy by April 15. The new structure is a substantial building, having a frontage of 37 feet in West street and extending back on the site a distance of 90 feet. The front is effectively finished with dressed brick set off with artificial stone trim. The interior contains 12 apartments, six of which contain three rooms, and six of which contain four rooms, besides janitor's quarters in the basement.

Applications for Building Permits

Frank C. Newbury, frame garage, 29 Addison street, $600.

Mary Ballestrini, frame garage, 121 Pequot avenue, $800.

Charles A. Edgerton et ux., inclose veranda, 88 Raymond street, $150.

E. C. Young, frame garage, Blydenburg avenue, $550.

Harry Scheinman et ux., addition, 78 Washington street, $500.

Rowena Lee Harwood, inclose section of veranda, 226 Ocean avenue, $1,000.

Total number of permits issued for the week, 6; estimated cost of buildings, $3,600.

HOUSE COMPLETED BY TRADE SCHOOL PUPILS

The various departments of the State Trade school are operating with a large number in attendance in all classes. The carpentry boys have recently completed house No. 6. This is a Dutch colonial design cottage of seven rooms and bath with concrete garage attached. The complete contract was taken by the school, including excavation, foundation, filling, masonry work, carpentry work, electrical work, plumbing, heating, electric wiring, painting and paper hanging. Carpentry students performed all the carpentry work, electrical department taking the electrical wiring contract, the masonry students building the chimney and doing the plastering. Other items such as plumbing and heating being sublet. Plans for the work were drawn up by the drafting department in co-operation with the owner.

The value of this type of training is the practical experience which brings out the wisdom of careful planning and the necessity for executing in accordance with the plan, thereby giving the boy not only a vocational training but providing experiences which lend balance to his thinking and a better appreciation of values generally.

Machine department students are engaged in the building of six 12-pole magnetic chucks. These chucks were developed by the school as a means of electrical and machine shop instruction. They are used in machine shop work for the holding of steel parts upon which machine operations are performed, and have a high magnetic holding power which makes mechanical means of holding the work unnecessary. The work in this department is of a nature requiring extreme accuracy, in many cases the limits being less than one-thousandth part of an inch.

In the electrical department an especially interesting course is outlined, comprising all phases of power plant and machinery operation, electrical equipment installation, maintenance and repair. This is strong in theory study and experimental work. Equipment in this department is being constantly added to with a view to keeping in line with the developments in this field of industrial achievement.

Particularly interesting is the new masonry course, which is proving very popular. This work provides an important set of experiences in brick, concrete and plastering, together with much related work such as drawing, shop math., and technical data. No trade presents more interesting phases than this oldest of the arts, which owing to the trend of building practice today is coming into more popular demand as time goes on. A carload of brick recently received by this department provides for practice work and the boys are busy building all kinds of brick construction.

Textile department students are preparing materials for several sets of madras shirting to be woven at the school. The policy of instruction in this department gives a complete experience in the arts and practices of cotton manufacturing, including design, analysis, machinery calculations and settings from the selection of the raw cotton to the final inspection of the finished cloth. In every process the material must be properly machined through accuracy of machine adjustment and operation in order that subsequent operation between opening the bale and inspecting the finished cloth. This requires that all operations, mechine sittings and calculations be given careful consideration for each operation definitely affects those following, and is especially true of the earlier operations in the work.

Co-operative students in the home economics departments enjoyed preparing for the banquet served the teachers of Putnam and surrounding towns on the 21st of November. The instruction in these departments is calculated to give training in homemaking of a practical character which covers cooking, sewing, millinery, household management, together with subjects definitely related to the work.

Evening school classes have been very satisfactory throughout the year and will close the first of April. The school plans to hold its annual open night April 24, when the public will be invited to inspect the school and the work being done by the students.

The textile department will have a part in the exhibition to be held in the state armory at Hartford April 18. All trade schools will participate in this exhibit.

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

Let the NEW Veedol prove these claims

THOUSANDS of motorists have already tried the new Veedol Motor Oils and are convinced of their superiority. These new Veedo. oils are heavier, tougher and longer-lived than ever. Although designed specifically to solve the difficult problem of correct lubrication for the new high-compression motors, they are better oils for all motors. Car owners find that the new Veedol oils give:

1 Greater motor protection (heavier body and added heat resistance).

2 Greater mileage (being heavier, they last longer).

3 Greater economy (they cut operating costs and reduce wear, tear and repair on the engine).

Test those claims by getting a crankcase full of the new Veedol at the next orange and black Veedol sign. Tide Water Oil Sales Corporation, 11 Broadway, New York City.

HIGH RECORD SALES, 4,176,200 SHARES, GENERAL MOTORS AT NEW HIGH, 199

NEW YORK, March 26—(AP)—Setting another new high record for a single day's trading at 4,176,200 shares, the stock market today witnessed a resumption of violent speculation for the advance under the leadership of General Motors, which soared 9 points to a new high record at 199 and closed within a small fraction of the top. Spectacular gains of 5 to nearly 13 points took place in about a score specialties, but these were interspersed with a sprinkling of rather substantial declines.

One of the most significant developments of the day to which the market apparently paid no heed was the stiffening in time money rates, the first advance in weeks. The short maturities were quoted at 4 5-8 per cent instead of 4 1-2 and the longer dates at 4 5-8 to 4 3-4 instead of 4 1-2 to 4 5-8. Call money held steady at 4 1-2 per cent with a plentiful supply of funds available at that figure.

The only other financial or business development of importance during the day was the announcement that L. F. Loree's revised southwestern merger plan had been approved by the directors of the Kansas City Southern and Missouri-Kansas-Texas roads, and was under consideration by the St. Louis-Southwestern with indications of its early submission to the interstate commerce commission. Meanwhile the I. C. C. filed a second complaint charging violation of the anti-trust law against the Missouri-Kansas-Texas, claiming that it had acquired a large block of St. Louis-Southwestern stock illegally.

Heavy buying of General Motors was again reported by brokerage houses previously identified with the market operations of William C. Durant, who also was reported to be active in Chrysler, which advanced nearly 9 points to a new high record at 72. Other automotive issues rallied in sympathy. Hudson advanced 3 3-4 points to within a fraction of the year's high and new peak prices were recorded by Hupp, Packard, Electric Auto-Lite, Briggs and Murray Bodies, Eaton Axle and Reynolds Springs.

Merchandising issues moved forward under the leadership of Sears, Roebuck, which advanced 12 3-8 points to 110. Net gains of 5 points or more were recorded by American International Corporation, American Machine & Foundry, Du Pont, Lambert company, Montgomery Ward and Radio.

Strength of these specialties apparently was used as a screen to cover liquidation in other quarters. Midland Steel Products preferred and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe each broke about 8 points and net declines of 3 points or more were recorded by Adams Express, Calumet & Arizona, Case Threshing, Sloss-Sheffield and Victor Talking Machine, convertible preferred.

Extensive switching from the industrials to the rails also was reported during the day. New York Central and Pennsylvania established new high prices at 175 3-8 and 70 3-8 respectively, Delaware & Hudson, Lackawanna, Wabash, New York & Harlem, and Seaboard Air Line preferred advanced 2 points or so.

Except for a jump of 42 points in Japanese yen to a new high record at 47.63 cents, there were no changes of importance in the foreign exchange market. Most of the European rates ruled a shade lower, Sterling Cables being quoted around $4.88 3-16.

Commodity markets ruled higher. Distant wheat options advanced more than a cent a bushel on reports of large abandonment of acreage in the winter area. A similar gain in corn was inspired by the unexpectedly large decline in the visible supply. Cotton advanced 4 to 14 points on unfavorable weather conditions. Coffee rallied 24 to 30 points and sugar prices held steady.

VOLUNTOWN

Friday evening the 17th The Rose City Dramatic club of Norwich made its annual appearance in Union hall and presented the three-act play "The Broker" to a large and appreciative audience. The cast as usual was excellent and all parts were taken with professional skill. The annual appearance of this company is always looked forward to by local people, as they know they will see a good clean entertainment. They also appreciate the fine spirit shown by these players coming annually at their own expense, and giving the proceeds of the entertainment to St. Thomas' church. At the close of the entertainment, which was a financial success, Father John D. Carey and his parishioners served the players a fine lunch of sandwiches, cake and coffee.

Monday Eve. the 19th the republican electors assembled in caucus in Union hall. Chairman of the town committee, George R. Edmonds, called the caucus to order and was chosen chairman. The town committee, chairman, George R. Edmonds, Mrs. Emily E. Chatfield, vice chairman, Walter C. Tanner and Howard E. James, were all reelected.

POETRY

A Legend of the Snowdrop.

In the late winter, when the heart of spring
Had almost softened the great fields of snow,
A mother died, and, wandering to and fro,
Her sad child sought her—frightened little thing—
Through the drear woodland, as on timid wing
Flutters a young bird, amid bushes low
It sunk in sleep, thus losing all its woe;
With smiling lips her dear name murmuring;
No loving arms were there to hold it fast,
There were no kisses for it warm and sweet,
But snowflakes, pitying, fell like frozen tears,
Then said the angel, "Snowflakes, ye shall last
Beyond the life of snowflakes; at spring's feet
Bloom ye as flowers through all the coming years!"

—By Maurice Francis Egan.

Aladdin

When I was a beggarly boy,
And lived in a cellar damp,
I had not a friend or a toy,
But I had Aladdin's lamp;
When I could not sleep for cold,
I had fire enough in my brain,
And builded, with roofs of gold,
My beautiful castles in Spain.

Since then I have toiled day and night,
I have money and power good store,
But I'd give all my lamps of silver bright
For the one that is mine no more;
Take, Fortune, whatever you choose,
You gave, and may snatch again;
I have nothing 'twould pain me to lose,
For I own no more castles in Spain!

—James Russell Lowell.

"Old Lem Sawyer is in a heck of a fix."

"How so?"

"Well, he managed to marry a widow and has just found out that her first husband was a gent he had helped to lynch about two months ago. He ain't discovered yet whether she don't know it or just natcherly married him out of revenge. But, either way, he is expecting something to happen any minute."—Los Angeles Times.

A successful operation on what might be called incomplete Siamese twins has been reported to the medical journal Lancet of London by Sir John Bland-Sutton. An account of the case was sent to Sir John, himself a consulting surgeon at the Middlesex hospital, by a medical correspondent in India. Attached to a Hindoo boy baby at birth was a parasitic "brother" possessed of the full complement of limbs but minus head, lungs and heart. A month after birth the parasite was growing rapidly so that the parents sought surgical aid for the relief of the child. The operation was performed and when last heard from the child was well and developing normally. Such cases, said the British surgeon, should encourage surgeons generally to separate conjoined twins and spare the fully developed individual not only a life of bondage but the ignominy of being exhibited in public shows.

NEW LONDON, March 26—The continued case of Doris Chapman, 19, formerly of Norwich, but of late residing at the Central house, 6 Starr street, came up in the police court today. The girl was charged with lascivious carriage and was committed to the state farm for women at East Lyme, by Judge S. Victor Prince. When the commitment was made the girls mother, sisters and grandparents were in the court room, they having come to New London this morning to intercede for the wayward girl, but their pleadings and promises were of no avail. The girl, who has been employed at a shirt factory on Water street, was arrested with Richard Garvin, a sailor, last Friday night in a room at the lodging house conducted by Thomas Hamrah on Main street which is frequented almost entirely by sailors.

BELL'S LITTLE GROCERY STORE YIELDS BOOZE IN RAID

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 26—The liquor raiding force of the New London police department continued its drive on illegal liquor sellers today when a squad swooped down upon the little grocery store, 97 Green street, conducted by Edward Bell, and, seizing a quantity of liquor, arrested Bell on a charge of selling liquor and keeping liquor with intent to sell. He furnished a surety on his bond of $1,000 and will be in the police court tomorrow morning. Bell stated that he would not defend the charges, but that he would plead guilty for he realized that the evidence against him was conclusive. For several weeks the police have suspected Bell of selling liquor and this morning when Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin was informed of the conduct of the business at the grocery store, he lodged his information with Judge S. Victor Prince and the latter issued a search warrant. Detective Sergeants John Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith, Acting Sergeant and Patrolman Denis Murphy went to the store and found Bell in charge of the place and with two prospective customers there. A search of the store resulted in several bottles of liquor of the homemade type being found, little attempt having been made to secret them. The liquor and a half dozen whiskey glasses were seized as evidence against Bell.

Excitement occurred at the Garde theatre last night, when a small section of the balcony ceiling collapsed, but the commotion was of slight duration and the accident did not injure any of the patrons except to inflict trivial abrasions to one or two of the patrons. When the ceiling gave way, the major portion of the audience was leaving the theatre, for the falling plastering occurred just as the last picture of the first show was in the act of going to the exits.

TWO EVENING RAIDS PRODUCE SALES EVIDENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 26—The police made two more raids tonight and in both cases evidence of the sale of liquor was obtained. Joseph Carey, employed at a club room, 24 Golden street, was arrested by Detective Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh and Acting Sergeant William Graham and Dennis Murphy. The officers went to the building and after gaining admission they found liquor and as Carey was in charge of the club room he was arrested. Later the officers went to the building, 9 Pearl street, and to the top floor, where John McInerny is the occupant. There they found additional evidence of the sale of liquor, for booze was found about the place. McInerny was arrested. He and Carey were released on furnishing a bond of $1,000 for their appearance in the police court tomorrow morning. The arrest of Carey and McInerny was the result of complaints made to the police of late because of the many men entering and departing from the two buildings.

Samuel Williams, 8 Schoolhouse lane, was arrested tonight by Dog Warden John Sweezy, charged with violation of the dog law in permitting a vicious dog to wander at random. The dog, Sunday afternoon, attacked and bit Fenton Perry, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Perry, 76 Winthrop street, as the boy was walking through Schoolhouse lane. Mothers:

Don't have those worries that almost any baby's mother can easily avoid by having Castoria, an old-fashioned but time-honored preparation soon ends those cross or fretful spells. Simple, safe, but works like magic. The helpful influence of Castoria makes itself felt throughout baby's tiny system. It helps make pale babies rosy-cheeked, and seems to give strength and life to frail, sickly babies. It regulates baby's little bowels—relieves colic, constipation, diarrhea—gives him good appetite and digestion. And how it relieves congestion when a baby catches cold! Never give baby paregoric or any other opiate. A few drops of Castoria are just as soothing, and no harm is done. Even castor oil can not compete with Castoria; and Castoria is vastly better for a baby's system. Castoria is purely vegetable, harmless, pleasant-tasting. You can use it as often as baby is "upset" or fretful. Only one thing to be careful about—see that you get the genuine—the bottle which bears Fletcher's name. It isn't expensive. Doctors have recommended Fletcher's Castoria for over fifty years and millions of mothers swear by it. With each bottle you get "Care and Feeding of Babies," the book any mother or prospective mother will find worth its weight in gold.

Palace Theatre

Backed by the raging, seething excitement of a new oil field, where the gushers may be expected to come in at any second, "The Showdown," is the attraction at the Palace Theatre today and tomorrow, presenting a love story of tremendous poignancy and power.

Selected as George Bancroft's first starring picture for Paramount, following his sensational appearance in "Underworld," "The Showdown" is the story of four men and one woman—brought face to face with primitive conditions in a desperate struggle to find the flowing gold.

Into the swampy jungles of the back country of the Tampico oil fields comes a gently nurtured girl from New York. Ignorant of the conditions she must face, she brings a trunk full of evening clothes and gold mounted toilet articles. Through a series of events, she finds herself alone in the back country with four men who have not seen a woman for a year. Then begins a tense drama which surpasses even the suspense of "Underworld" and builds to a smashing and totally unexpected finish.

Heading the cast which supports Bancroft are Evelyn Brent—who played with him in "Underworld," Neil Hamilton, Fred Kohler, also in "Underworld," as the leader of a gang; Arnold Kent and Leslie Fenton.

"The Showdown" was adapted to the screen by Hope Loring from the stage play "Wildcat" by Houston Branch. Victor Schertzinger directed the picture.

Olympic Rink

Roller skating if conducted properly is a good and healthy exercise, and any one who has watched the skaters in a rink realizes why roller skating is recommended as a certain method of building up weak physiques generally. To those who skate no word of commendation or approval is required, and with a good floor and inspiring music as played by the large band organ in this rink it is a most enjoyable pastime that can not be beat. Manager Hendrick is putting on special events Tuesday and Thursday evening that are enjoyed by the nonskaters. He will not allow anyone on the floor who interferes with the comfort of any patron, and reserves the right to reject any objectionable persons.

The Whole Town's Talking!

The Whole Town's Talking and they will be talking for some time to come about the Junior Hadassah play this evening, March 27, at 8.15 p. m., at the Strand theatre. This very popular play by Anita Loos and John Emerson is a farce in 3 acts. It is by special arrangement with Longman, Green and Co., that we have been successful in obtaining the right to produce this play.

The cast who have been very carefully and critically chosen, are being capably directed by Mrs. M. J. Farrell. Each and every member of the cast has done his utmost to interpret his part and at the last rehearsal the presentation certainly warranted all the effort put into the portrayal. Many of the present cast appeared in the cast of "His Model Wife."

As an added attraction during intermission, Mr. M. J. Farrell will sing by request, "Who is She" by Edgar J. Caron. The doors are to open at 7.30 p. m.

NOANK

Walter Welles, a member of the Corn Cob club, has been shut in for several weeks with grip. So several members of the club met in front of the waiting room Saturday evening and leading was President Keith Ebbetts. They marched to his home on Riverside avenue and gave Mr. Welles a large basket of fruit. Very gratefully Mr Welles thanked the club. Millard DeBiaisi had a large black box put on the table, and on opening it, it proved to be a radio. Then he got a station in New York on the air so young Welles could hear what the outside world is doing, especially the good music. He is a saxaphone player and likes music. Stories were told about hunting deer in Maine by George Deveau. When the season was good he got two large bucks and almost killed his partner—thought he was a deer in the thick brush and let go both barrels of the gun, but aimed too high. "Never again will I shoot without seeing what I am shooting at!" he declared. Home made apple pie and coffee were served by Miss Hannah Dowd.

Elbert Rathbun of Norwich spent the week end at his home in Noank.

A large flock of wild geese was seen flying over the village Sunday, bending their wings northward. When near MacCarthy's ice pond three geese that were tired could not keep up with the rest of the flock. Several people saw them land in the water on the pond for a rest, swimming around for an hour while the rest of their pals went on their way. It was long after the sun went down that the geese took off to the north to join the rest of the flock. It is a good sign that spring is here.

The army transport Baird, after being at the ship yard for two months for a general overhauling left under its own power, bound for New York flying the boat's flag and old glory to the breeze. A small crowd was along the shores waving to the soldiers, wishing them luck on the trip. Uncle Sam's men made many friends while in the village. They claimed they never saw such a small town with so much doing on in the line of sport. All the soldiers hope to come back to the fishing village and meet all the old time ship carpenters at the yard.

Noank Jrs basketball team went in a truck to Norwich Saturday morning and took part in the Y tourney with teams from all over the eastern part of the state. Coach Flash McDonald was in charge, 8 players making the trip. When the juniors reached home they reported a good time and that they had the use of the Y. M. C. A. during their stay in the Rose of New England. The results of the tourney were told on the sports page Monday morning.

The gasoline fire engine had an over hauling for a week by Engine Expert Earl Foster, at the fire house. Saturday afternoon the big red engine towed it to the north dock for a test. Chief Park was in charge and 400 feet of hose was laid by Squad No. 4. Robert Lamay had full swing of the hosemen. With the first turn of the wheel the engine was off going like a ball of fire and putting a stream 50 feet in the air. For two hours the gasoline engine worked well. Many old time fire fighters were surprised to see the old engine in such good shape.

The test was a success—the first time in ten years since the gasoline engine gave the public a chance to see it work. The next test will be from the town dock the new engine will be on the dock putting the hose over the store hill and the gasoline engine will hook on from the top of the hill trying to catch the water from the hose while the new engine is working, for Chief Park says it can be done, while Engineer Foster claims no.

Boy Scouts troop No. 19 had its first hike Saturday morning leaving from in front of their club room in heavy marching order and enough to eat for the day. Assistant Scout Master Harold Button was in charge and 20 brave young soldiers in their brown suits all ready to hike to Lambville, a distance of 8 miles each way. Reaching the place of Austin Lamb at noon every one cooked his own meal. Assistant Scout Master Butson gave them a talk on how to build a fire without matches and it was done. A trick he learned in the Boy Scouts troop in Florida. A pack drill was held and to see who could put his pack together the fastest. Sterry Weaver did it in one minute and 5 seconds. Leo Harris was only two seconds behind. They reached the club room at 7 o'clock.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Curiosity Masters Bobby Coon

The curious are disinclined
The feelings of their friends to mind.
—Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit had left Bobby Coon at the Laughing Brook in the Green Forest. Peter was disappointed. He was quite disappointed. He had hoped to learn from Bobby Coon more about Bobby's cousins in the sunny south, but he had learned nothing at all. That was because Bobby didn't know anything about those cousins. Until Peter had mentioned them Bobby had never heard of them. He pretended not to believe in them. But just as soon as Peter was out of sight Bobby Coon started off through the Green Forest. He had forgotten all about fishing. He was just as full of curiosity as Peter was.

"I wonder where I'll find Scrapper the Kingbird," muttered Bobby to himself. "I must talk to him. I must hear from his own mouth these things that Peter has been telling me about. I suppose Scrapper is up in the Old Orchard. That is no place for me. I won't go over there."

Bobby resolutely turned about and started off in another direction. He was heading for a certain hollow tree where he intended to sleep the remainder of the day. But the nearer he got to that tree the slower he moved. Finally he stopped altogether. "Perhaps I won't have to go clear over to the Old Orchard," he thought. "Perhaps I won't have to go any farther than the edge of the Green Forest. It won't do any harm to go that far, anyway. I would like to know about those cousins of mine, if I've got any, who live down in that land where Scrapper the Kingbird passes through on his way to his winter home. Probably it's all stuff and nonsense, but I should like to talk with Scrapper. If I could talk to Scrapper I could soon tell if he were talking the truth."

Bobby Coon looked back. Then he turned and looked up at the hollow tree, for he had almost reached it. Within was a soft bed. Bobby thought of that bed longingly. But he knew that if he should curl up in it he couldn't go to sleep. He knew that curiosity wouldn't let him go to sleep. Once more he looked back. Then he turned and slowly began to retrace his steps. He was going over to the edge of the Green Forest where it adjoins the Old Orchard on the chance that Scrapper the Kingbird might happen along that way.

When Bobby reached the edge of the Green Forest he peeped forth very CUT HERE -roETAOIN cautiously. He could hear the voice of Scrapper the Kingbird. Scrapper was not far away. The longer he listened the more Bobby wanted to go over there. But it was broad daylight and the Old Orchard was no place for him in broad daylight.

Then he turned and looked up at the hollow tree.

"What are you doing over here, Bobby Coon?" said a voice just back of him.

Bobby whirled about. There sat Peter Rabbit. "Whatever I'm doing, it's no business of yours, Peter Rabbit!" said he, crossly.

"I know what you're over here for," said Peter.

"What?" demanded Bobby.

"You've come over here to try to see Scrapper the Kingbird. You want to find out if I told you the truth. You've got just as much curiosity as I have. Shall I go over and tell Scrapper you want to see him?"

"No!" snapped Bobby.

"All right," said Peter. "Just as you say. I'm going over to ask him some more about that long-nosed cousin of yours. Scrapper says they call him Nosey!"

"Huh!" said Bobby. "He's no cousin of mine."

"You're sure you don't want me to send Scrapper over here?" said Peter.

"N-n-o-o-o," said Bobby, so slowly that Peter laughed right out. "I'll send him, anyway," said he.

THE RIGHT WAY TO BANISH FAT

Combat a cause which modern research has discovered. Turn food into fuel and energy, rather than into fat. Supply a natural element which your system lacks. That is the method embodied in Marmola prescription tablets.

People have used Marmola for 20 years—millions of boxes of it. They have told others the results. Now, in almost every circle, you can see the results in new beauty and new vim. Why not learn the way to attain them?

A book in each box of Marmola tells you the formula, also the reasons for results. You will know why the effects come, and why they are beneficial. Go ask your druggist—in fairness to yourself—for a $1 box of Marmola.

METHODIST CHURCHES TO MEET FOR CONFERENCE IN FALL RIVER CHURCH

(Special to The Bulletin)

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 26—The 88th annual session of the New England Southern conference of the Methodist Episcopal church will open here at the Union church, Wednesday of this week at 9 a. m. with holy communion. The presiding bishop this year will be Bishop William F. Anderson of Boston. Following the communion, the organization of the conference will take place. At 10 o'clock, the mayor of Fall River, Harry W. Monks, will welcome the conference to the city and W. E. Fawcett, chairman of the official board of Union church, will welcome it to the church. At 11 o'clock the memorial services for ministers and their wives who have died during the year will be held, Rev. W. I. Bard presiding and the address being given by Rev. C. T. Hatch, pastor at Wellfleet, Mass. At 2 p. m., the conference sermon will be delivered by Rev. L. G. Horton, pastor at Mystic and Noank, Conn.

The bishop will conduct devotional services each morning at nine o'clock and the morning periods each day until dinner time will be occupied with the business of the conference and because there is an unusual amount of business this year, a business session is appointed for each day at 2 o'clock. At other hours afternoon and evening there will be speakers of note each day.

On Tuesday, as is the custom the day before the formal opening of the conference the board of examiners will be in session and the younger ministers who are pursuing the required courses of study will take such examinations as are not otherwise covered and present certificates and diplomas for work covered by school courses. On Tuesday evening will take place the anniversary of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals with Rev. J. I. Bartholomew presiding and the speaker being Dr. George Mecklenburg of Washington, D. C., whose subject is "Mussolini and War-Sick Europe."

As this is the year in which the general conference of the denomination assembles, it will be necessary to choose delegates who will represent this conference in the greater assembly. The general conference meets once in four years and this year it will be held in Kansas City, Missouri, opening at 10 o'clock, May 1, 1928, and will continue in session throughout the month. As the general conference is composed of both ministerial and lay delegates in equal numbers the "Lay Electoral Conference" which is composed of one lay delegate from each local church covered in the annual conference territory must choose the lay delegates to the general conference, in their session which meets in the Presbyterian church in this city, on Friday of this week at 10:30 a. m. Besides the election of delegates, there will come before both the lay and ministerial bodies in this city, several projects for changes in the time honored Methodist system upon each of which there is likely to be debate and action putting each body on record as either for or against.

The New England Southern conference includes that part of the state of Connecticut lying east of the Connecticut river, all the state of Rhode Island, the town of Blackstone in Massachusetts, and that part of Massachusetts south of the towns of Wrentham, Walpole, Dedham, Milton and Quincy.

Bishop Anderson has presided over this conference but twice before, since his consecration to the Episcopal office in 1908. He presided in 1912 when the conference met in Providence and in 1925 when it met here.

Since 1841, when this conference was first organized under its original name as the Providence conference, it has met on eight previous occasions here, viz., in 1847, with Bishop Hedding presiding; 1859, Bishop Ames; 1869, Bishop Clark; 1881, Bishop Peck; 1887, Bishop Fowler; 1896, Bishop Foster; 1907, Bishop Warren, and 1925, Bishop Anderson.

Union church, the entertaining church, is the result of a consolidation of two former Methodist Episcopal churches in this city. One was the First church organized in 1827 and the other was St. Paul's organized in 1851. Both of these former churches had a good history but for the sake of making a strong church they united in 1917 and adopted the present name. The union was effected harmoniously and this church is one of the outstanding churches of the denomination in New England. Rev. Robert A. Colpitts came to this pastorate in 1921. The church has prospered under his able ministry. Its most recent achievement is the erection of a fine and elaborate church edifice which was dedicated last June. The estimated value of its land and building is $375,000 and it is called one of the most beautiful edifices in New England.

The invitation to hold the conference here this year is a part of the celebration which is due over the successful completion of this building project which has been the work of years. Rev. Mr. Colpitts and his people deserve great credit for this splendid accomplishment which places in a rapidly growing residential section of the city a building with adequate modern equipment for institutional church work of a very high order.

The delegate to the lay electoral conference from Trinity church of this city is Ernest O. Rodier, with Ernest M. Medbury as alternate.

Many local people motored to Hartford Saturday to witness the ordination of Rev. Anthony Murphy by Right Reverend John J. Nilan, bishop of Hartford, at St. Joseph's cathedral. Another large crowd attended the service Sunday morning at St. Marys' Memorial church, where the new priest sang his first solemn high mass. Father Murphy spent most of his life in Taftville, and there is deep interest locally in his welfare and future.

SHOP MEETING ADDRESS UNDER Y. M. C. A. AUSPICES

Representatives of the local Y. M. C. A. held another noon meeting at the plant of the Richmond Radiator company Monday at 12:30.

Rev. C. H. Ricketts was again the speaker, and he selected for his topic, "Two Types of Power." Mr. Ricketts spoke in part as follows:

"While we might sub-divide them, there are only two types of power, first the power over and second, the power with. Power over generally brings fear; it is a sort of arbitrary power. There are three sources of this sort of power; first, wealth. We see this often where one man practically owns the little village. He owns the mill, and he owns the houses for the most part. Soon a school is needed and he gives most of the money that builds it, and likewise he pays the bulk of the money needed to build the church. It is quite natural for him to feel a sort of ownership in everything in the village. Then there is that power that goes with position. We think of the kings; many of them have had little ability, but their position gives them great power and they use it arbitrarily. The day of the kings is fast passing. King George the Fourth had a crown, but he was for the most part a nonenity. The contrast between Queen Elizabeth and Victoria was marked; Elizabeth used her power to dominate, while Victoria used hers with reason. Then there is the power of personality; why do some men in the workshop lead the others; not in wages, and not always in ability, but they have a strong personality, and the others follow their lead.

Years ago in Springfield, there was a riot on, and a certain minister with an unusual personality, left his pulpit and stood in the street and looked at the mob and told them what such actions meant, and advised them to go quietly to their homes, and they did so. It was a strong personality that accomplished this. You recall that Jesus said on one occasion, "He that will be greatest among you, let him be your servant." A mother on one occasion asked Christ to give her two sons the prominent positions in His kingdom, supposing that it was to be an earthly kingdom; she did not stop to think what she was asking; it was a very selfish request. The kind of power that we should desire is not power over, but power with. Florence Nightingale made herself immortal by ministering to the wounded and dying soldiers; she used her power with instead of over, and it is stated that the soldiers sought to touch her garment as she passed their way. When I read of a prize fight, I shudder to think of two men pummelling each other into insensibility, and at times to death; this is the essence of power over. We have no good reason to criticise the bullfights in Mexico, while such demonstrations are allowed in America. I knew a case where a large strong fine fellow found a man quite drunk, lying in the street in the winter time. He stooped and lifted the unfortunate man and helped him to his home; this was power used in the right way. The day of using power over others is passing, and more and more we are going to use our power with others for the good of all. We are gradually learning the right use of power.

REGISTRATIONS FOR APRIL TO BE MAILED WEDNESDAY

Number plates for motor vehicles belonging to Connecticut residents who have not registered their cars for the first three months of the year will not be mailed out from the motor vehicle department until March 28, it is announced. Plates for out-of-state owners were mailed Monday to assure arrival before April 1.

Numerous applications for registration certificates and plates have been received the last few days and the certificates are being made out and the plates prepared for mailing. There will be about 3,360 sets of markers mailed out from the main department office at Hartford alone March 28, it is estimated. The number which will be distributed from the branch offices has not been estimated.

Because of the mild winter, more car owners than ever before have been driving during the first three months of 1928. In spite of the increase in number of owners in the state, the applications for registrations effective April 1 are slightly less than last year. During the first three months of 1927, approximately 180,000 applications for registrations were received, as compared with about 212,000 estimated for the corresponding period this year.

The 192nd Artillery, C. N. G., is going to Tobyhanna, again this year for the annual 15 day tour of duty. The regiment will leave August 18th and return September 1st. It was at first thought that Camp Devens would be the selection for the tour of duty. Battery B, and First Battalion and Headquarters Train of this city are units of the 192nd.

SAYS STATE NEEDS 254 EMERGENCY FIELDS

That flying is absolutely the safest method of transportation today and that not a single fatality under regulated flying has occurred in this state in seven years was declared by Capt. Clarence M. Knox, state aviation commissioner, in his talk to the Exchange club at Hartford.

The lack of emergency landing fields constitutes the greatest need of aviation in this state, he said, especially in view of the unfavorable weather conditions experienced here.

"At first sight, the statement that 254 emergency fields should be established in the state appears to be a tremendous proposition, but so did the establishment of 100 miles of concrete a few years ago," he said.

The demand for direct return on the investment in flying fields is holding up the progress of aviation in New England, according to Captain Knox. He stated that the returns are necessarily indirect because a "toll-gate" system for collecting revenue is no more economically sound as applied to aviation than to highway transportation. Citing Brainard field as an example, he pointed out that Hartford has garnered a tremendous indirect profit from the investment of $250,000 in its municipal airport. Disregarding the world-wide publicity Hartford has gained from its excellent field, Captain Knox stated that the presence of the airport was the sole reason for the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft company locating in that city, a company which has approximately $10,000,000 worth of contracts on its books.

"On a $300 lot of the city at the field, the Pratt & Whitney company has erected a $40,000 hangar with facilities for storing thousands of dollars worth of property taxable in the city," he said. He also pointed out the flourishing condition of the three aviation companies at the field, the New England Aircraft corporation, the Interstate Airways, Inc., and the L. & H. Aircraft corporation.

"In the south meadows we have an excellent chance to establish plane factories, a thriving industry, a chance which should not be let slip. Although there are more plane factories in the country today than automobile factories, the demand is far ahead of the production and many concerns are now looking around for suitable location. By the south meadows development, it is practically a certainty that this excellent industry, calling for the highest type of skilled workmanship, can be established here."

Fined in City Court

Robert Scott and Evelyn Mendez, both colored, were each fined $15 and costs in the city court Monday morning on the charge of keeping a disorderly house at 4-6 Cove street and nine men who were caught in the police raid at the place on Saturday night were each fined $5 flat on the charge of frequenting the place. The two principles paid $20.25 apiece. The woman was also ordered to leave the city. It is understood she came here from Chicago a short time ago.

NORWICH TOWN

THE MORALE OF THE CHURCH METHODIST PASTOR'S THEME

"The Morale of the Church," was the topic of Rev. Albert E. Whittens Sunday morning sermon at the Methodist church. The text was from the first chapter of Jude, a part of the 21st verse—Keep yourselves in the love of God.

At the children's service Sunday afternoon, at the Methodist church, Miss Alice Bishop of Bozrah, addressed the children in an impressive vein. She said: The home where the loved ones are, parents, brothers and sisters etc., is the home of the physical body; while the church is the home of the soul. This was the basis of Miss Bishop's talk and she chose her words so that the smallest child could understand. The memory verse she left with them was, God is Love. The children listened with much interest. Miss Virginia Ward was in charge of the music.

The C. E. service Sunday evening at the Methodist church was led by two juniors, Arthur B. Bennett and Clayton Rose. The topic was, "How Do We Show Reverence?" The meeting opened with a beautiful piano prelude by Miss Doris Estelle Rose.

Following the childrens service at the Methodist church Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Lewis Aldrich, organist at this church, rehearsed with the children the Easter concert numbers.

At the close of the church school, a meeting of the Methodist Sunday school board was called by Acting Superintendent Lewis Aldrich. Miss Effie Ladd was appointed chairman of the committee for the Easter concert, her assistants to be Mrs. Lewis Aldrich and Miss Florence M. Bennett.

Because of the New England Southern conference being in session over the week end, there will be no services at the Methodist church, Sunday April 1st, except the service that afternoon for the children.

"Faithful Servants," formed the basis of the Sunday morning sermon at the First Congregational church, when the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey chose for his text, Luke 15:19. And am no more worthy to be called thy son; make me as one of thy hired servants.

The junior C. E. service Sunday afternoon in the Congregational chapel, had for its leader, Esther O'Mara. "How Jesus Found His Disciples," was the theme. This meeting, the last Sunday of the month, was the celebration of the birthdays which fell due during March. This observance included Edna and Ethel Pierce (twins.) Rachael Avery, Miss Rose Durr, one of the leaders, also a visitor, George F. Hyde.

At the Young People's C. E. meeting Sunday evening the leader was Miss Louise Avery. By invitation, Mrs. Harriet Hyde Zumbro, a former missionary in India, described the work of Miss Gertrude Stark Avery, a missionary at Bombay. She was commissioned for five years, about three and one-half years already completed. She is a member of the Congregational church. The talk was along the lines of that given recently at Park church, by Mrs. Zumbro. The meeting was in charge of the Missionary committee of the C. E. society, Miss Louise Avery chairman.

The Congregational prayer meeting Thursday evening in the chapel is to be in charge of the Woman's department of the League of Service, Mrs. Dwight W. Avery, chairman. The lesson for study in the Fellowship of Prayer, will be "Religion and Character."

Friday afternoon at the chapel, the work committee of the Woman's department of the league, Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington chairman, has planned to meet to tie a comforter.

One evening recently the senior C. E. society of the Congregational church, held an informal social in the chapel with a good attendance. The social committee, Miss Rose Durr chairman, provided an evening of games to the pleasure of all. Refreshments were served.

At the Sacred Heart church Sunday evening, when Rev. Father Seraphin preached his concluding sermon, he gave a general review of the work accomplished during the past week, when he conducted a successful mission at this church. The pastor, Rev. Edward J. Quinn was in charge of the exercises during the mission. A most impressive picture at the services Sunday evening, was when each adult member of the parish held a lighted candle during the renewal of the baptismal vows. Father Seraphin urged his congregation to perseverance. He spoke of their cooperation in making his stay possible, which stay, he remarked, he had enjoyed, and he stated that he was impressed by the people's manifestation of such keen interest in the mission, by attending so regularly in such large numbers. In closing he expressed the hope that they would live up to their duties and that God would bless them with His grace. The ceremonies closed with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament, during which Miss Mary Buckley sang O Salutaris, (Wiegand). At the end the entire congregation united in singing "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name." Mrs. William Murphy has been at the organ throughout the mission, both morning and evening.

BUSINESS HAS IMPROVED DURING LAST TWO MONTHS

Federal Reserve Board Reports Production of Manufacturers in February Increased 3 Per Cent Over January—Factory Employment and Payrolls Also Showed a Seasonal Increase in February—Sales of Wholesale Firms in Leading Lines Were Greater Than a Year Ago.

WASHINGTON, March 27—(AP)—During the last two months business has shown signs of improvement, in the opinion of the federal reserve board, which cites the increase of approximately $200,000,000 in reserve banks' commercial loans from the middle of February to the middle of March as a healthy indication. This represents, the board said today, the largest increase for the same period of any other recent year.

While the commercial loans were going up, loans on securities and investments were virtually at a standstill, showing an increased flow of funds into business channels and less movement of money into the speculative field.

In addition to the increased commercial loans, the board's reports show increased production and distribution of commodities from Feb. 1 to March 15 with wholesale commodity prices remaining practically unchanged.

"Production of manufacturers in February increased three per cent over January and was two per cent larger than a year ago, while production of minerals declined slightly and continued to be substantially smaller than last year," the reserve board said.

"Factory employment and payrolls showed a seasonal increase in February but continued at a lower level than a year ago. Output of iron and steel, automobiles and agricultural machinery has increased considerably since the first of the year. Daily average production of steel ingots in February was larger than in any other month since last March and current reports indicate that output was sustained in the first three weeks in March. Production of non-ferrous metals also increased in February.

"Activity in the textile industries has shown little change since the first of the year. Production of bituminous coal and crude petroleum, which decreased in February, increased slightly in the first half of March. Building contracts awarded were larger in February than in the corresponding month of any previous year, reflecting chiefly a large volume of awards for residential construction in the New York and Chicago districts. Contracts let in the first two weeks of March were in approximately the same volume as in the corresponding period of last year.

"Sales of wholesale firms in leading lines increased in February and were slightly larger than a year ago, while sales of department stores, after allowance for the customary seasonal changes, were in about the same volume as in January and somewhat smaller than a year ago. Stocks of merchandise carried both by wholesale firms and by department stores showed a seasonal increase in February.

"Freight car loadings have shown somewhat more than the usual seasonal increase since the beginning of the year, but have continued to be in smaller volume than in the corresponding period of last year, owing chiefly to much smaller shipments of coal.

"The volume of reserve bank credit outstanding increased somewhat from February to March, chiefly in consequence of increased borrowings by member banks, which in part reflected further withdrawals of gold for export."

$65,000 FOR THE CAPTURE OF CHICAGO BOMBERS

CHICAGO, March 27—(AP)—Bitter recriminations came tonight as the aftermath of the bombing last night of the homes of Charles S. Deneen, United States senator, and Judge John A. Swanson, candidate for the republican nomination for state's attorney.

Rewards totaling $65,000 were offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the bombers.

From Washington Senator Deneen, head of a strong republican faction in Chicago issued a statement asserting that "the bombing of my home is the work of organized and protected criminal classes of Chicago and Cook county in their desperate effort to retain political control of the city and county."

At the Swanson home the bomb exploded just as the judge drove into his garage, missing him but damaging the residence. He said he regarded it as an obvious attempt at assassination.

"There is no doubt that the bomb was thrown by those whose criminal interests are opposing the election of an enemy to their political alliances," he said.

Nowhere is there an arrest in sight and no one professed to have a clew as to the persons responsible.

"It is inconceivable that any man would bomb his own home to make headway in politics," Judge Swanson said concerning Crowe's charge. "Any man that make such a statement ought not to be trusted any further with public duty."

PRICES OF SEATS ON THE SMALLER N. Y. EXCHANGES

NEW YORK, March 27—(AP)—Prices of seats on the smaller New York exchanges continued to advance today, evidently on the strength of reports that some working agreement between one or more is pending. Prices of seats on the New York stock exchange, however, showed a decline.

Seats on the rubber exchange advanced $1,000 to a new top price of $9,000 when William H. Stiles purchased the membership of George Julien Schwob, of Paris.

Seats on the cocoa exchange passed into the hands of Wall street, London and trade houses for $4,250, $4,400 and $4,50 respectively. The first sales of cocoa exchange seats in three months were made yesterday at $3,800 and $4,100.

John Durant, 26-year-old associate of Otis & company purchased the curb market seat of R. G. Kretschmar for $65,000, an advance of $5,000. Mr. Durant, two years out of Yale, is not a relative of W. C. Durant, famous Wall street operator.

The purchaser of a stock exchange seat yesterday at a new top of $375,000 was announced today as George H. Andrews, a floor trader. Sale of a membership was announced today at $360,000, but the name of the purchaser was not disclosed.

BENCH WARRANT ISSUED FOR HARTFORD YOUTHS

HARTFORD, March 27—(AP)—Declaring he was satisfied that Frederick Raffino, and Orlando Thomas, both 17, of Hartford, were in East Hartford, last January, the night that Gustave E. Tautenhahn died from heart failure after being held up and robbed, State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn asked Judge Marvin to issue a bench warrant for their arrest, in the superior court today. The warrant was issued.

This morning Raffino's mother was prepared to furnish a $10,000 bond through a surety company represented by Morris S. Falk, but the move of the state forestalled her. Raffino is represented by John A. Danaher. Thomas is not represented by counsel. Both are in the Hartford county jail awaiting the outcome of the state's investigation.

PLENTY OF CHAUFFEURS: TEAMSTERS ARE SCARCE

MANCHESTER, Conn., March 27—(AP)—Plenty of chauffeurs but no teamsters. That is the dilemma in which this community finds itself so it has been decreed that the 18 faithful dobbins and all the horse drawn trucks which are municipally owned are to be sold and motor trucks purchased in their place.

TO OPEN FIRE LOOKOUT STATIONS IN FORESTS

HARTFORD, March 27—(AP)—In preparation for the dry days of spring, the fire lookout stations run under the auspices of the state park and forest commissioners are being opened and state watchers will go on duty soon, it was announced today by Austin F. Hawes, state forester. Already this year 50 forest fires have been reported, but none was serious.

The state maintains nine watchers in various parts of Connecticut. One watcher is stationed at the top of Travelers tower, the highest fire tower in the country, from which the territory from Mount Tom to North Guilford can be covered.

At the Dennis Hill lookout in Norfolk, a sub-weather bureau is maintained in co-operation with the United States weather bureau. Daily bulletins are wired to Washington, and in turn the United States bureau sends warning bulletins to the Norfolk station when conditions that might cause more forest fires is imminent. From Norfolk, the bulletins are given to the newspapers and to WTIC for broadcasting, Mr. Hawes said.

Other lookout stations are located on the Mohawk state forest in Cornwall; in the Mount Tom state park on Highrock mountain, Beacon Falls; on Mount Ochepetuck in Union; on Robinson hill, Hampton; and on Bluff Head in North Guilford.

PLANS FOR BOSTON NORTH STATION DEVELOPMENT

BOSTON, March 27—(AP)—The Boston & Maine railroad today announced the sale of the site of the old Fitchburg depot to the North Station Industrial Company, Inc., for the erection of a $3,000,000 office, loft and warehouse building as a part of the new North station development. The sale price was $365,936.

Plans for the new building were announced by Col. G. M. McConnell, of Chicago, president, and Col. L. M. Nicholson, also of Chicago, vice-president and treasurer of the project. The new structure will be of reinforced concrete, 155 feet in height, the limit allowed by building restrictions, and will occupy a plot of approximately 45,000 square feet bounded by Causeway, Haverhill and Beverly streets. The building is scheduled to be ready for occupancy by Jan. 1, 1929.

FOURTH ATTEMPT AT WORLD'S ENDURANCE FLIGHT RECORD

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 27—(AP)—Gene Shank, St. Paul aviator, hopped off tonight on his fourth attempt to set a world's endurance flight record.

He took the air at 7:14 o'clock at the St. Paul municipal airport and easily attained altitude with his light machine despite its load of 143 gallons of gasoline.

Shank expects to refuel from another plane some time tomorrow and hopes to stay up long enough to beat by one hour the world's mark of 52 hours, 32 minutes, now held by German aviators.

On Shank's previous attempts, he was forced down once by a broken gas line feed.

$16,000,000 GOLD EXPORTED TO GERMANY IN TWO WEEKS

NEW YORK, March 27—(AP)—The total amount of gold exported to Germany in the past two weeks was increased to $16,000,000 today when $5,000,000 was shipped by the Guaranty Trust company, and $4,000,000 by the International Acceptance bank. A consignment of $5,000,000 went to Hamburg two weeks ago, followed by another of $2,000,000, to Berlin. No details regarding the shipments have been revealed, but it is understood that the transfers represent special transactions for the reichsbank.

HELD FOR SENDING A LETTER DEMANDING $10,000

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., March 27—(AP)—A letter demanding $10,000 "or he would be killed," and a parcel post pacake containing a short knife received on March 12, by Townsend Palmer, treasurer of I. E. Palmer company, hammock manufacturers here, resulted today in arrest of George E. Lewandowski, 19, formerly employed by the concern as the one who mailed both.

The main office of the new service will be at the Central Telegraphic bureau in the Rue Grenlice.

ROME, March 27—(AP)—A setback in the negotiations between the vatican and the Mussolini government was predicted tonight as the result of an address which Pope Pius made to the diocesan board of Rome. This viewpoint was expressed especially in vatican circles and among leaders of the national Catholic center party, the attitude of which toward the state drew especial fire of the pontiff.

NEW HIGH SALES RECORD ON N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, March 27—(AP)—The speculative sky-scraper, created by three weeks of almost steadily rising prices on the New York exchange, was rocked to its foundations today by the temporary collapse of its leading pillars but new supports were quickly erected and a few towers built up to new record heights before the day was over.

The day's trading set another high record at 4,762,400 shares as contrasted with the previous peak of 4,176,200 shares established yesterday.

Wall street has never experienced such a day of violent and bewildering price movements. Prices crashed $5 to nearly $20 a share in the first half hour of trading but the low prices had not appeared on the tape before a general rally was under way which cut down, or wiped out, most of the early losses and sent a few issues soaring to new high levels.

The stock ticker, manned by relays of operators working at top speed, fell hopelessly behind the market, creating consternation among a small army of speculators who thronged the customers' rooms of brokerage houses anxiously awaiting reports on their orders.

RAIN, SNOW AND SLEET IN WESTERN NEW YORK

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 27—(AP)—High winds, accompanied by rain, snow and sleet, swept western New York and the province of Ontario today.

Trees, wires, windows and roofs were torn down in many sections and communication, both by telephone and telegraph, was interrupted. Severe weather came with the storm, temperatures dropped from 40 to 60 degrees.

While the wind was at its maximum in Buffalo with a velocity of 68 miles an hour, the plant of the Buffalo Flour Mills corporation was destroyed by fire, entailing a loss estimated at $240,000. One fireman was injured.

In another section of the city, fire, fanned by the gale, destroyed two barns and damaged a house. A dozen downtown stores reported broken windows.

RIVERS IN CALIFORNIA GRADUALLY RECEDING

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 27—(AP)—Flooded rivers in California were gradually receding tonight while hundreds of men worked to re-enforce levees on three fronts in a battle against the waning thrusts of the swollen streams, fed by a week of steady rain and melting snows in the high Sierras.

The three fronts still regarded as "danger spots" were at Alicia on the Feather river; Marysville on the Yuba, and at Durham Land colony on Butte Creek, all in the northern part of the state. Bags of sand were thrown up against the strained levees by large groups of workers.

MINN. FARMER-LABORITES ENDORSE SEN. SHIPSTEAD

ST. PAUL, March 27—(AP)—Over stubborn opposition of anti-conservatives, the Minnesota farmer-labor convention late today indorsed United States Senator Henrik Shipstead for re-election.

During a fiery two-hour debate, the senior senator from Minnesota was attacked as "a betrayer of the party that elected him" and defended as "the champion of the working class."

The final vote by acclamation was taken but an official check showed that approximately one-fourth of the 300 delegates registered disapproval of the motion for indorsement.

ARE TO RECEIVE A DIVIDEND INSTEAD OF PAYING TAXES

STOCKHOLM, March 27—(AP)—Instead of paying taxes, the residents of Orsa parish in Dalecarlia are about to receive a dividend from the community in the form of free seed grain for the spring sowing.

Since immemorial times the parish has owned certain forests in common and for many years these have yielded sufficient revenue to make all local taxes superfluous. Last Sunday the town meeting decided to appropriate 90,000 crowns for the purchase of the new seed grain for free pro rata distribution among the land owners.

STOCKHOLDERS TO BE ASKED TO RATIFY BANK MERGER

NEW YORK, March 27—(AP)—Directors of the Bank of America, recently acquired by A. P. Giannini, head of the Bancitaly corporation, today voted to increase the capital structure of the institution to approximately $62,000,000. Consolidation of the bank with the Bowery & East River National and the Commercial Exchange National banks was approved by the board, and a meeting set for April 26, when stockholders will be asked to ratify the merger.

PLANES COLLIDE IN AIR; NEITHER AVIATOR WAS HURT

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 27—(AP)—One student aviator took a parachute and the other stuck to his craft when two naval training planes collided in the air above the local flying field today and neither man was hurt.

Ensign J. M. Carson, pilot of one of them, jumped with his parachute and landed safely on the field. The other flier, Lieut. I. L. Kimes, U. S. marine corps, remained at the controls and guided his crippled machine down, landing unhurt.

Both planes were badly damaged.

One Insurance at Which Lloyds Balks

Will Take No Risk on Flight of Junkers Plane From Dublin to America.

LONDON, March 27—(AP)—Lloyds will insure against almost any calamity which may befall human kind, but it isn't willing to take any chances on the three Germans who are marking time at Dublin in preparation for a dash for Mitchel field.

"No odds" was the reply to an inquiry at Lloyds for the betting rates on the success of the proposed flight of Baron Von Huenefe[illegible] and his associates.

Lloyds will insure against [illegible] and triplets, and almost [illegible] else under the sun, but [illegible] too much uncertainty ever [illegible] Lloyds in westward aeroplane [illegible] over that foggy, icy, stormy [illegible] between the Irish coast [illegible] Great Banks.

WILL TAKE RISK ON DIRIGIBLE OCEAN FLIGHT

LONDON, March 27—(AP)—A syndicate of underwriters at Lloyds is understood to have undertaken the risk of insuring the British dirigible passenger liner R-100 for its forthcoming flight across the Atlantic.

The rate, about 20 guineas per hundred, is looked upon as moderate, indicating the confidence of the syndicate in the ship's ability to make the flight successfully. If the ship comes down at sea and is damaged, the underwriters will pay the cost of repairs, while if she is lost altogether, they will pay to the limit of the insurance.

The dirigible which is expected to make its first flight this spring is equipped with six 700 horsepower engines, can reach a speed of 80 miles an hour and has a cruising range of more than 5,000 miles. It is designed to accommodate 100 passengers and to carry 10 tons of mail.

WEATHER CONDITIONS ARE UNFAVORABLE FOR HOP-OFF

LONDON, March 27—(AP)—A special to the Daily Mail, from Baldonnel, near Dublin, says that Captain Herman Koehl, pilot of the projected trans-Atlantic flight, was not satisfied with the weather reports today and did not think that he would be able to hop off for Long Island tomorrow.

Paraffin will be the defense of Captain Koehl and his fellow aviators against the ice which has forced down all other east-to-west trans-Atlantic flyers, says the Dublin correspondent of the Daily Mail. He quotes Captain Koehl as saying:

"The experience of former Atlantic fliers has taught us that one of the most serious obstacles is the weighting down of the machine by ice gathering on the wings. I am trying to guard against that by oiling the wings of the Bremen with paraffin.

"Moreover, if the thermometer shows that we are flying into freezing weather, we will change our course and go farther south."

BODY OF SENATOR W. N. FERRIS LAID TO REST

BIG RAPIDS, Mich., March 27—(AP)—Woodbridge N. Ferris, law maker, school master and statesman was laid to rest today in the snow clad hills he loved.

Infantrymen of the Michigan national guard trudged through deep drifts of snow as an escort to the body of Michigan's most distinguished democrat. High state officials, senators and representatives, and sorrowing townsmen stood with bared heads as the funeral calvacade passed through the streets of the city and wound its way over the hills to the family vault where the body will remain.

The body of the late senator laid in state in the home during the morning. Shortly before noon, the flag draped casket was transferred to the city armory. The line of mourners there resumed its solemn march.

Rev. A. Wishart, of Grand Rapids, spoke the funeral service. The ceremony was held in the armory, whence the body was taken to Highland View cemetery.

CONN.'S NEXT MOVE IN DIVERSION OF WATERS

HARTFORD, March 27—(AP)—Connecticut will make the next move in the United States supreme court action against Massachusetts over the projected diversion by that state of water from the Ware and Swift rivers, tributaries of the Connecticut, according to present plans, it was learned today. As the case now stands, the last move was made by Massachusetts which filed an answer to the Connecticut bill of complaint.

Two moves are now possible, it is said. Connecticut may go before the court with a motion for leave to file a reply to the Massachusetts answer, or Massachusetts may present a motion asking the supreme court for a ruling. It has not yet been decided, according to Deputy Attorney General Ernest L. Averill, whether Connecticut will next raise an issue on law or on facts.

GOVERNOR A. E. SMITH QUALIFIES IN SOUTH DAKOTA

NEW YORK, March 27—(AP)—Governor Alfred E. Smith today signed and forwarded to South Dakota a certificate which qualifies him to enter the May primaries in that state for the democratic nomination for the presidency.

The certificate, required by South Dakota law, is to be filed at Pierre. By signing it the governor agreed to support the platform adopted by the recent democratic state nominating convention, which stresses relief for agriculture as the leading issue.

The governor previously certified to the correctness of the spelling of his name in the primary ballot in Michigan. He also had granted consent to candidates for national convention delegates in Massachusetts to pledge themselves to him.

NAVAL BUDGET HAS BEEN ADOPTED BY REICHSTAG

BERLIN, March 27—(AP)—The reichstag, entering the final week of its labors, tonight adopted the naval budget over the vociferous protests of the social-democrats.

The budget includes the first instalment of $2,500,000 for the construction of a new 10,000 ton battle cruiser.

The reichstag dissolves March 31. New elections are to be held May 20.

Naval Supply Bill Passed By House

Measure Carries $28,384,000 More Than the Current Appropriation.

WASHINGTON, March 27—(AP)—Without a record vote the house today passed the largest annual supply bill for the navy department since the Washington naval limitations conference. The measure, which now goes to the senate, carries $359,000,000, or $28,384,000 more than the current appropriation.

The bill's consideration was marked with a demand by Representative La Guardia, New York, for immediate withdrawal of American marines from Nicaragua and also by a protracted discussion over the letter of contracts for two dirigibles authorized by congress several years ago.

Simultaneous with discussion in the house, Secretary Wilbur announced at the navy department that new bids would be requested on the air liners. This was explained at the capitol as necessary to receive formally an anticipated bid from the Goodyear company of Akron, Ohio, for the two ships and another from the American Brown Boveri company of Camden, N. J., for one.

Both the prospective contracts were discussed at length in the house debate and the secretary's announcement that bids again should be asked came simultaneously with an unsuccessful effort by Representative Begg, an Ohio republican, to amend the bill to direct the secretary to ask at once for bids. Begg's proposal was rejected 78 to 23.

The history of the proposed dirigibles began immediately after the wreck of the Shenandoah. Both were authorized and last year congress appropriated $200,000 to start one. The Goodyear company submitted a cost-plus contract which the navy did not accept and naval officers this year asked congress to provide funds to start both, explaining that if this were done the Goodyear company had expressed willingness to bid on both at a cost of $8,000,000, including a hangar. At the same time congress was advised it would cost $5,500,000 to build one.

The bill carries $2,000,000 to start both ships but it is optional with the navy department whether one firm builds both except that the total cost of the two must come within the $8,000,000 limit of cost fixed by congress at the time the air liners were authorized.

It also was said at the capitol that even if the New Jersey concern had not intimated that it desired to bid, that the department, nevertheless, would have been compelled to call for bids in order to receive the expected Goodyear offer.

The bill, among other things, carries funds to maintain the navy at its present strength and also to continue construction of eight 10,000 ton cruisers and two fleet submarines.

CALAMITY SOLONS CLAIM 4,000,000 ARE OUT OF WORK

Democratic Members of the Senate Refuse to Credit Labor Report Numbering Unemployed About 1,800,000—Senator Smoot, Republican, of Utah, Sees Early Relief For the Unemployment Situation—Asserts That Conditions Are Not as Bad as Pictured by "Alarmists"—Protective Tariff Was Assailed by the Democrats.

WASHINGTON, March 27—(AP)—Senate democrats reasserted their contentions that 4,00,000 persons are now out of work after Senator Smoot, republican, of Utah, arose in the senate today to take encouragement from the employment outlook on the basis of the department of labor report that the unemployed numbered about 1,800,000.

Early relief for the employment situation through the advance of spring and summer seasons and the resulting stimulation of building was predicted by the Utah senator, who took comfort also in the labor department's report that conditions were not as bad as had been pictured by "alarmists."

But democrats were quickly on their feet. Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, characterized the labor report as a "political" document and described Senator Smoot as the "mouthpiece" of government agencies "trying to defend the prosperity issue."

Senator Wagner, democrat, of New York, called the report "inaccurate and incomplete" and both he and Senator Walsh, democrat, of Massachusetts, insisted that unemployment was much worse today than in recent years and that the number out of work totalled at least 4,000,000, as they originally contended.

Senator Smoot attributed some of the unemployment, on the basis of the labor department report, to the rapid development of labor-saving machinery and he called upon employers who install such devices to assume responsibility for finding work for the men displaced.

This aroused Senator Smith, democrat, of South Carolina, who declared that while labor-saving machines had been installed in many industries they never had resulted in cheaper products. Senator Simmons insisted that no new machinery had been turned to agriculture, which he said was suffering a depression worse than any other.

Senator Walsh declared conditions could not be exaggerated and pointed out that millionaires were increasing "by leaps and bounds" but so also was unemployment. Senator Shortridge, republican, of California, asked him what legislation he proposed to remedy the situation and Walsh replied that a board should be named to study conditions.

"Perhaps a free trade bill will help," the Californian suggested with a smile.

This brought Senator Smoot back into the arena with the declaration that "without protective tariff there would not be reported here this less than 2,000,000 unemployed; there would be five or six millions out of employment."

"We are keeping up a high protective tariff," replied Smith, of South Carolina, "for the purpose of protecting machines as against human beings."

ANGRY SCHOOL GIRL BRANDISHED REVOLVER

LONGVIEW, Tex., March 27—(AP)—Angered by one of her playmates, a 14 year old girl today held 140 school pupils and several teachers at bay with a revolver before she finally was calmed by the appearance of the school principal.

After a quarrel during recess, the girl suddenly took a position at a point of vantage in her classroom and leveled the weapon at her school mates. She ordered someone to "get the principal, and don't call the police either."

Excitement that followed among the 35 pupils and one teacher in the room attracted students and teachers from the second floor and soon the entire student body had gathered. The girl stood her ground at the head of the stairway, menacingly waving her revolver. Where she obtained it was a mystery to officials of the Ward school where the girl is a student.

When the principal arrived, the girl twirled the chamber of the weapon to show it was loaded. She then lowered the revolver without any explanation except that she would have "something further to say." Instructions to go home were heeded without further resistance. The girl took the weapon with her.

BUILDERS RESPONSIBLE FOR COLLAPSE OF DAM

SACRAMENTO, Calif., March 27—(AP)—Responsibility for the collapse of the St. Francis dam near Los Angeles on March 13 was placed today on the builders of the structure by members of the commission appointed by Governor C. C. Young to investigate the disaster.

The findings of the commission were embodied in the following three conclusions:

1—Failure of the dam was due to defective foundations.

2—There was nothing to indicate that the accepted theory of gravity type dam is in error.

3—The failure indicated the desirability of having all of such structures erected and maintained under the supervision and control of state authority.

The St. Francis dam was built and maintained by the city of Los Angeles, it was pointed out.

Two hundred persons are still missing as the result of the flood unloosed by the bursting of the dam, while the known dead number 236, the commission reported. Property loss was given as "many millions of dollars."

ANOTHER BOMB WAS EXPLODED IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 27—(AP)—Another bomb, number 62 in five months, in Chicago, exploded tonight at the entrance of a building owned by Emil Seiler, manufacturer of beer pumps.

REED ASSAILS ADVOCATES OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS

RALEIGH, N. C., March 27—(AP)—Advocates of the league of nations were assailed here tonight by Senator James A. Reed with an intensity that recalled the fiery Missourian's opposition a few years ago to Woodrow Wilson's proposal for such an international organization.

Senator Reed was addressing the North Carolina Daughters of the American Revolution on the subject of "Americanism." He made no reference to his candidacy for the democratic presidential nomination.

He unleashed a bitter attack upon those who "teach the atrocious doctrine that national lines should be broken down and set up as a substitute for national sovereignty a scheme of internationalism.

"They are willing," he said, "to trade our right of self control for participation in international councils."

The Missourian praised the Daughters of the American Revolution for the organization's patriotic achievements and called upon the nation to "hark back to the principles of free government" established by its founders.

TESTIMONY OF KILLING BY POLICE OF MIAMI

MIAMI, Fla., March 27—(AP)—Whether Police Chief H. Leslie Quigg, must stay in jail depends on the state's ability to show that he was "constructively" present at the slaying of a Negro prisoner, Judge E. H. F. Atkinson indicated today at a hearing of the officer's application for a writ of habeas corpus.

The court later took Quigg's petition under advisement, after admonishing counsel to go fully into that phase during their arguments today.

State witnesses said the prisoner was killed by one of four policemen who took him to the outskirts of the city to "work on him." Quigg, it was brought out, was not present, but a former city detective testified that the chief had ordered him and another officer to take the man out and beat him up.

Judge Atkinson told opposing counsel he had heard no evidence to show that Quigg gave similar orders to the four subordinates who finally took the prisoner out after the first two had refused the assignment.

School schedules modeled after the newly approved system as adopted by the Windham school committee are being planned by the committees of surrounding towns. The system, which calls for a vacation of one week at the end of each eight week period, is favorable to the committees but a problems presents itself if the school calendar is adopted. In the rural towns several of the schools are attended in the majority by Hebrew pupils whose parents desire that their children observe the holidays of the Hebrew faith and the problem arises from the fact that these holidays come on dates not included in the vacation periods. At present the schools in Ashford, Chaplin, Coventry, Willington and Mansfield are closed for the spring vacation. The Mansfield Hollow school, however, is in session to make up for time lost from March 13 to March 20 when the school was closed owing to the illness of two pupils with scarlet fever. JEWETT CITY

EAST SIDE NORWICH ROAD MAY BE NEXT PROJECT

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, March 27—First Selectman Daniel F. Finn, received a letter today from State Road Commissioner John A. Macdonald, relative to a meeting with the selectmen of Griswold in regard to still other road improvements. About a year ago there were surveys and estimates of cost determined relative to a state road that would leave Jewett City via Slater avenue, connecting at the Preston line, with a direct road to Norwich by way of Preston City and coming into the city over Preston bridge. This proposal would equip a state road south, all new, on the east side of the Quinebaug.

There is at present several thousands of dollars available from the state for road building. In case of new construction, as would be necessary on the part of Griswold, should this "east side" road go through, in a term of years the state would pay back to Griswold such expenditures as were incurred.

John A. Hourigan, of the firm of Hourigan Bros., has purchased a building lot from Mrs. E. A. Faust in a desirable site on the East Main street highlands. Work on a new home will begin soon. It was learned Tuesday that the design and plans are to be a replica of an attractive diser nencithat replica of an attractive residence in the city of Norwich.

Between 11 a. m. and 3 p. m. Tuesday the mercury here dropped from 50 to freezing.

DANIELSON

CORONER BILL ORDERS AUTOPSY IN MOREL CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 27—Coroner Arthur G. Bill said this afternoon that he had ordered an autopsy performed on the body of Anthony Morel, who died at the Day Kimball hospital today as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident near Wilsonville, in the town of Thompson, last night. The coroner also said that he had arranged to have George Morel, son of the dead man and driver of the death car, brought here late today for questioning relative to the accident that resulted in the fatality.

The charge of automobile manslaughter that has been filed against George Morel is the first of the kind figuring in a case originating in the eastern section of this county. The accused man was arrested following the accident and held for a time on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of an intoxicant, as more fully told in the Putnam news this morning.

The arrangement that Coroner Bill had to interview Morel here today is regarded as merely a preliminary a questioning, and that the inquest will be held at a later date.

Tangible evidence that Connecticut Village—that section of Danielson built up in the vicinity of the Connecticut mills—is destined to long be a desirable residence section is given by the manner in which recent purchasers of homes formerly owned by the mill company are going forward with their plans for improving and beautifying their purchases. In some instances the painting of exteriors already is underway. In others interiors are being renovated. Garages are being built, new ground graded and other such activities are underway. The homes referred to are on streets accepted and maintained by the town. They have street lights, gas and electricity and the regular city water service. All of these improvements are of particular interest as showing the degree in which that residence section has been established, and as forecasting even greater development.

Danielson is developing a night life —not an amazing thing in itself, but at least suggestive of the tendency of the times. This comment has to do with the loiterers who are about in the wee small hours of the morning. It is not in evidence that the young men who constitute the majority of those who are out very late here are guilty of any wrong doing. They simply do not go home. It is not uncommon for groups of them to be about at two and three o'clock in the morning, apparently with no other object than to sit out the night and contemplate what it may bring forth. The matter appears of news value because it is a bit unusual for this town, where there is not much stirring after the midnight hour.

Witter Bros., auctioneers, office 42 Main St., Danielson, Conn., announce the auction of the bankrupt stock of the Goulet Tire shop of new tires, tubes, etc., also one 1927 Ford service car will be sold at auction Saturday, March 31, at 2 o'clock p. m., in the rear of the A. & P. store, Danielson.—adv.

Announcement is made that three registered shoots have been sanctioned under the auspices of the Danielson Rod and Gun club by the Amateur Trapshooting association with its headquarters at Vandalia, O.

The first of these shoots is scheduled for April 8, the others for June 10, and July 1, and all are to be held on the new range of the local club two miles south of here on what is known as the Dyer place.

Programs decided upon are 100-16 targets, four events of 25 targets each, a distance handicap, 50 targets, 2-25 target events, 16 to 23 yards; doubles, 50 (25-pair) double targets.

It is also announced that the club will hold registered shoots on dates in August, September, October and November, details relative to these to be issued later.

As the time approaches for the collection of town taxes for another year attention is being called by Collector James R. Walsh to certain provisions of the tax lien law of 1927. Prior to the enactment of this statute the law required the collection of interest in every case at 9 per cent. per annum during the period of delinquency. Under the old law, after the lien had been recorded, the interest rate was 7 per cent. until the tax was paid. The new law gives the needy tax payer substantial relief from this interest burden. In consequence of what appears to be an inconsistency in one section of the new law, it is the opinion set forth in a pamphlet published by the tax commissioner, liens recorded in accordance with its terms bear no interest except such as are recorded to secure payment of a second installment, which second installments bear interest at the rate of five per cent. from the time of recording.

Today a crew of linemen of the telephone company helped bring about a better appearance of a section of Main street in the business district by taking down some high poles no longer in necessary use and removing the wires that were upon them. The clearance work also involved taking down certain wires that ran along the line of poles through a part of the business section. The material removed was part of the overhead equipment of the trolley line, traces of which are gradually disappearing in the central section of the borough.

F. O. Plummer said today that the information bureau for tourists that he is to establish, under sanction of the Danielson chamber of commerce, will begin to function about the first of the month. A sign is being painted that will be located at Mr. Plummer's place of business. The bureau will be the only one of its kind in this vicinity, and there is the prospect that it will prove of much accommodation to the touring public and also advantageous to Danielson. In undertaking to conduct it without compensation Mr. Plummer is agreeing to perform a public service that will be generally appreciated here.

President Abel L. Reeves of Danielson's Twilight league has called a meeting of the organization for next Monday evening. Mr. Reeves said today that this year the league likely will be a four-team organization, but with agreements for games with Dayville and Goodyear and also with a team that will represent the four-team league that Waureagan is to have. This arrangement will assure plenty of good baseball throughout the season. Present plans include a program of leveling up the outer gardens of Paco field and making other changes there that will materially improve it for use during the spring and summer season.

East Killingly today reported the northward flight of wild geese, the arrival of robins and bluebirds and the appearance of woodchucks, all of which may be taken as pleasant forecasts of the weather that is soon to come.

PUTNAM

ARCHIBALD MOREL DIES; SON HELD FOR MANSLAUGHTER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, March 27—Archibald Morel, 62, of Putnam died at the Day Kimball hospital Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock as the result of injuries received from an automobile accident in Perryville Monday evening just after dark. Morel was a passenger in the car that was driven by his son, George Morel of Lowell, Mass. The car carried another passenger Charles LaFone, also of Lowell. The car crashed into a fence just this side of the Connecticut line in Perryville and continued to skid, hitting a tree where it was completely demolished.

The elder Morel was rushed to the Day Kimball hospital in this city where he was treated for internal injuries and a severe skull wound from which he failed to recover. The other two drivers were placed under arrest by state police officers from the Danielson barracks and taken to the Putnam police station where they were locked up. Tuesday the younger Morel was bound over to the Windham county superior court on a charge of manslaughter, the hearing to be held at North Grosvenordale before Justice Tourtellotte. Bonds of $5,000 were demanded. Both George Morel and LaFone were treated for injuries received from the collision at the scene of the accident and again at the Putnam police station. All three occupants of the car are alleged to have been drinking, the younger Morel and LaFone being arrested for drunkenness. LaFone was given 20 days in jail at the hearing.

Robert Page Jr., 5, son of Mrs. Robert Page of South Main street died at the contagious hospital in Worcester, Mass., Monday evening. The body was brought to Putnam Tuesday to the mother's home on South Main street. The boy died from an undetermined disease. He had been ill with the mumps for over a week and Monday other complications set in and he was rushed to the hospital in Worcester by local doctors.

Robert Page, Jr., is the son of the late Robert Page, who was a victim of drowning while swimming in Quadic lake two years ago. The boy's father was known here as a wrestler of promising ability, when his career was cut short by his untimely death. The child is survived by his mother and two infant sisters.

The Masons defeated the Putnam lodge of Elks in their last weekly tournament played at the Masonic cub Monday evening by a score of 11 to 6. Although the Masons rallied from their numerous defeats and won the two closing contests they failed to overcome the tremendous lead that the Elks had gained over them and they went down to a season's defeat by a score of 234 to 186. The Masons defeat will cost them a turkey supper which they will serve to the Elk players in the Elks banquet rooms on Monday evening April 2. The summary is given with the names of the Masons first. Bridge: Sherman and Stanton won from Milot and Lewis; E. Johnson and Potter won from Chadwick and Mansfield; Holden and Miron won from Champlain and W. Averill; Jenkins and William Wheaton won from Girard and Wheelock; Combs and Kerr won from J. Murray and Cotter; E. Perry and Metcalf lost to E. Gagne and W. Rafferty; Dean and Simpson won from Seward and F. Perry; Prince and Duffy won from Dupre and McIntyre; Morse and Geissler won from Duvert and P. Gagne. Bid Whist: Schoonover and Shaw lost to Keroach and Bulger; Gifford and King lost to Berth and Cavanaugh; Alling and C. T. Thayer won from Gallant and Watson; S. Diamond and Moss won from Talbot and W. Chandelaine; Thruston and Arnold won from Wheatley and Richard. Cribbage: Walter Wheaton and F. Thayer lost to Welch and J. Rafferty; Loomis and Twigg lost to Tetreault and V. Chapdelaine; Berthiaume and Marcy won from Ray Wheaton and Auger. It will be noted that Milot and Lewis, who have been death to the Masons, were defeated Monday evening for the first time in many weeks. The apparent success of the tournament between the two clubs for the past two winters will probably assure another series of weekly engagements to be played next season.

The prevailing spring weather was cut short Tuesday afternoon when the day cleared off with cold north winds and the mercury dropped from 65, where it had been since Saturday, to 48 Tuesday afternoon. Some who had disposed of their overcoats during the warm spell found them to be quite comfortable late yesterday. Other bird lovers have reported that the bluebird has made its first appearance in the Grand View section of the city.

The captain said that owing to Connecticut's overflowing quota of guardsmen he will have to wait until he receives permission from the state officers before he can enlist the applicants. GREATER HIGHWAY USE

In another week the great majority of the autos owned in Connecticut will have their 1928 registration tags and be out on the highways of the state along with the considerable army of those from other states.

It is inevitable with the many accidents already being reported that some consideration should be given to the probability of such things during the next several months and a fair share of thought devoted to efforts to prevent them. According to the statistics which have been compiled by the motor vehicle department the most frequent cause of accidents is the failure to give the right of way. There were 4,525 of them last year while those attributed to "misjudgment", whatever that means, reached a total of 4,273 and "inattention" running up a total of 3,682. Other contributing causes in decreasing numbers were skidding, operating too fast for conditions, careless backing, driving on the wrong side of road, following too close and intoxication. These causes do not include the more familiar causes such as cutting corners, cutting in, passing in the wrong place and failure to signal.

According to records kept in other years there can be expected an increase in the number of accidents and the number of fatalities in Connecticut this year. It doesn't seem to be necessary even if there are more cars. The only reason for it is that those who have been driving and those who have recently learned are not going to be sufficiently mindful of the rights of others. When there is a willingness to take chances when there is no good reason for such chance taking, when there is a disposition to place the whole responsibility upon the other fellow, when there is a leaning toward carelessness and a failure to provide reasonable protection for others as well as self it can be expected that there will be ever increasing accidents.

Just how long the people are going to tolerate the great volume of highway accidents and highway fatalities is a question but it would appear to be a case where they are vitally concerned for their own protection, with plenty of responsibility resting upon the pedestrian as well as the auto driver.

MAKE AN EXAMPLE OF THEM

Some idea of how the people of Boston appreciate the opportunities that are furnished for their benefit is indicated by the report that 12,000 books were stolen from the public library last year. In addition there is a tremendous amount of mutilation.

Those who have stolen the books represent but a few of those who use the library, but it is unfortunate that they cannot be caught and penalized. Much of the difficulty arises from the fact that opportunity is given to many to go to the shelves for the selection of their books. It can be realized that this means much to a great number of people who are taking advantage of the privilege without abusing it. But to those who are ready to destroy or steal it is of marked assistance.

It is possible to remove the privilege of going to the shelves so that thereby there could be a complete check upon those who obtain books, but it is also realized that if this should be done it would mean a hardship to such a great number that it has been considered preferable to accept the losses, disturbing as they are, rather than disappoint the much greater number.

Nevertheless, the practice is of such a character that every possible means should be adopted for the purpose of stopping it. The need of making an example of those who engage in it is evident. They are entitled to no sympathy when they so disregard what is being done for the public as to endanger the removal of privileges which so many cherish. Even though the cost of detecting such raiders and despoilers might be more than the books are worth such an expense would appear to be justified in the long run.

REDUCING BATTLESHIPS

Plans are already being talked of if not made for those days when the existing naval agreement will expire. That doesn't come until 1931 but it will be hardly wise to wait until 1931 before taking steps that would forestall construction that would be inimical thereto.

In the original naval construction plan that was presented to the present congress in this country replacement of capital ships after 1931 was included. If this country is looking forward to such a move it can be expected that other nations are doing [illegible] benefits have been [illegible] ington agreement [illegible] for having [illegible] died. [illegible] ation of capital ships has made a good impression. It was worked to the advantage of all countries which have participated. It hasn't resulted in the extension of the same policy to other classes of warships but efforts in that direction haven't been entirely abandoned. Such a goal may be obtained if there is an extension of the capital ship agreement or a stiffening of its provisions.

It is in keeping with such a move that thought is given to the latest British proposal by which there would be a reduction from 35,000 to 30,000 tons for capital ships, a lowering of the calibre of guns from 16 to 15.5 inches on battleships and the increasing of the age of battleships for replacement purposes from 20 to 26 years.

This plan is advanced at a time when the nations involved in the Washington agreement are considering naval construction. It is inevitable that comparisons will be drawn between the British strength under such a move and that of the other nations. The claim is even made that it would result to a distinct advantage to the British. That being the case it could not be expected that it would be adopted unless the British were willing to place handicaps upon their battleships that would counteract the indicated advantage. That feature ought not to be allowed to condemn the whole effort for if there is a sincere desire on the part of all to agree to the suggested changes some modification that would satisfy all ought to be reached.

WHEN FALL TESTIFIES

After having maintained a long silence added interest is given to the cases against Fall and Sinclair because of the announcement by Albert B. Fall that he is willing to tell the whole story. If the statement of physicians can be accepted he is not in proper physical condition to appear in court or before a committee but will give his testimony through a deposition to be made public at the proper time. He will escape a lot of the publicity that would go with a public presentation of his testimony and perhaps a lot of misrepresentation.

Naturally interest is keen as to what he will say. He has through statements endeavored to justify his course in the past but he was unwilling to appear before the senate committee because of the claim that he might incriminate himself, and he did not testify when the civil suits were brought against him by the government to recover the land that had been leased. Even in the criminal suit he was mum.

Since that time many have been heard by the investigation committee. Much has been said in regard to what he did. His son-in-law has testified concerning the bonds he received and there has been a covering of the case from all angles. There are in fact indictments against him under the charge of bribery.

Thus when he comes forth with the offer to tell the whole story the inference is that he wants to overcome that handicap to himself which has been created by his failure to reveal what happened. Whether this means any new information is one of the uncertainties. The serious state of his health is advanced as the reason for this change of attitude and yet it is not impossible that he consider there not impossible that he considers there ed and is unwilling to allow his silence to be regarded as evidence of admission any longer.

On the other hand it is possible that he will have nothing further to say than has already been brought out but will have the satisfaction of presenting his side of the matter to the public instead of carrying it to the grave.

BAD USE OF MAILS

Many will be interested in reports from Washington to the effect that a house sub committee on postoffices and post roads is about ready to settle down to the task of drafting a bill that will give postal authorities the right to exclude from the mails certain articles of merchandise which were not ordered by the person to which they are sent.

This is aimed at that practice of sending through the country packages of handkerchiefs, neckties, cards and other things to persons whose addresses have been obtained but who have in no way indicated a desire to receive them. In fact, in the great majority of cases such a trade method is looked upon as an imposition. The recipients neither want them nor do they want the bother of preparing them for remailing.

It is a case where the advantages of the postal system are being employed and where no end of annoyance is caused in some instances because of the methods adopted for the recovery of the goods. Even though it is insisted that those receiving such goods are under no obligation to see that they are returned those engaged in the business do so well at it through those who yield to the appeals that they are ready to take the chances of the loss, although through their collecting system they endeavor to make life miserable for those who neither buy nor return the goods.

Having been developed to the point where it is becoming a nuisance, it is a timely move on the part of the legislative committee that it should seek to give the public the protection against such activities to which it is entitled. There are angles to the situation which need consideration but the time has arrived for the relief which can be obtained through federal legislation.

DIARY OF A POINTED FOX

Sept. 13—Very down in the mouth. Heard one of Miss Elinor's friends say she read that red fox was to be all the rage again next year. Wouldn't it be dreadful to be stuck away with a lot of old camphor balls? Or be done over as a collar? Life—but what is the use of being introspective?

Sept. 14—Considerably cheered up. I am to take part in a romantic conspiracy. Now, that's something like! The deed is to be done at the Cuylers' dance tomorrow night. The parties to the conspiracy are Miss Elinor, Miss Elinor's best friend just now, whose name is Anne Marie, and, of course, myself. It seems that Anne Marie is "just crazy" about a boy named Reginald. They call him "Reggie." His father made millions in buttons, or was it buttonholes?

Anne Marie is suffering intensely because she doesn't know whether Reggie cares anything about her, he being one of the much-run-after kind. She said she hardly had any appetite at all from worry about Reggie and she ordered another double chocolate marshmallow sundae to prove it.

Well, Miss Elinor is going to do the sisterly thing and talk up Anne Marie to Reggie. You see, Reggie is slated to escort Miss Elinor and, of course, he will dance the first dance with her. She will have a headache or something and suggest sitting it out. Then she will start talking about her friend, and just when she has painted Anne Marie a cross between Pallas Athene and Clara Bow she will make me open and close my mouth slowly three times and Anne Marie, who will be waiting for the signal, will saunter over and say to Miss Elinor, "Pardon me, Elinor, dear, but is this your handkerchief I found on the steps?" and Miss Elinor will say, "Why, yes, thank you, Anne Marie, dear," and then she will present Reggie and say, "This is the dear little chum I was telling you about," and then she will have quite a bad attack of headache and say, "Why don't you two go on and dance this dance? I really think I had better go and lie down." And then she will go out and a little bit later come back and dance with Anne Marie's brother, Robert, who will be waiting for her. It is all very thrilling. I just love intrigue.

Sept. 15—I just can't wait until tonight, when I am going to aid the course of true love. It is even more thrilling than I suspected. Whom should we meet downtown this morning but Reggie himself? Would you believe it, he has purple eyes? Miss Elinor talked to him for nearly a quarter of an hour by her wrist watch. Her discussion with him over that novel she told Anne Marie the other day that she simply must read became so heated that I thought she was going to pull my tail off.

Sept. 16—Shades of Reynard the First, what an evening My mistress, when she stowed me away, gave me a little pat as she pronounced it "altogether a success." I like a little praise now and then. It does us introspective people so much good.

They sat out the first dance well enough, but what do you think? He had brought Miss Elinor the book they had discussed. And he insisted that they go off in a corner and read some passages.

As he read Reggie looked at Miss Elinor with his purple eyes, and I could feel her holding on to my tail—and her purpose—for dear life. There were two girls in the book! One was Catherine, beautiful, altogether unappreciated by parents and friends, who wins the love of a marvelous artist with a studio on a private yacht and all that sort of thing. The other girl is a self-sacrificing character, steadfast of purpose, with lots of freckles. Her name is Eunice.

"You remind me so much of Catherine," said Reggie to Miss Elinor. But she was determined to shift the conversation around to Anne Marie, loyal chum that she was!

"I have a friend, Anne Marie, who is just like Eunice," she said. "Such an interesting girl. So persistent. When she wants anything she just won't rest until she has it." And as she spoke she emphasized her words by pressing firmly upon my neck. I had to open my mouth each time to gasp. Ann Marie, watching from the hallway, responded to what she thought was the signal, and was upon us in an instant.

"Pardon me, Elinor, dear, but is this your handkerchief I found on the steps?" she said quite naturally, I thought.

"No, Anne Marie, dear, I haven't been near the steps," was my mistress' dulcet reply.

They sat out four more dances, reading that book. I heard Miss Elinor say that she would send a copy to her friend, Anne Marie, whom we noticed later dancing with Robert. She wouldn't speak. Sometimes I am downright glad that I was born only a fox.—Chicago News.

Fellowship of Prayer

DAILY LENTEN DEVOTION

By Rev. Jay T. Stocking, D. D., Federal Council of Churches in America — Copyright 1928.

"Prayer the Way to Power"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "Knock and it shall be opened unto you" (Matthew 7:7).
Read Matthew 7:7-11.

MEDITATION: Prayer has been called the "open gate." It admits us into the house and storehouse of God. It is the door through which God's power enters our lives. If we think of man as a

"Swinging, swinging wicket set
"Between
"The unseen and the seen,"

then our spiritual task is to open the wicket. God imparts His energies to those who are open to receive them, and prepared to use them. Electricity is as old as lightning and thunder, but it is only as instruments are fashioned that are sensitive to this energy that it is being revealed and used to accomplish miraculous things. The world is full of infinite spiritual energies waiting for the gates of life to open to them. Prayer is one of these gates.

PRAYER: Spirit of truth and love, open wide the windows of our minds and fill us full of light; open wide the door of our hearts that we may receive Thee and be filled with Thy waiting energies. Then, in our weakness, we shall be made strong. Amen.

they touch the gray matter in the head, if there is any, and the hair turns gray. On the other hand, if there isn't any, the hair comes out."

Pointers For Parents

Fear can and does fester in the souls of many adults who were frightened in their youth. Even when they are no longer consciously afraid of the thing that frightened them in their youth, they are afraid of fear, ashamed of their own cowardice. They are always something less than the fulfilled and richly living men and women they should be.

From their early years encourage your children to talk about the things that happen to them. This will help you understand them and will save them from unnecessary suffering due to hesitancy in bringing you their problems.

Every day in a child's life is a day of growth. It takes nearly 25 years to produce a fully developed adult. At no stage of this progress can we afford to ignore the influence of food.

The first seven years are the most critical—the baby may be made ill by a single unsuitable meal; the preschool is far more sensitive to an inadequate diet than the school child.

We cannot make up later for dietary deficiencies which have produced poor teeth or a contracted chest or have caused permanent injury to the digestive tract. In this sense the first seven years determine physical fitness.

Any parent may become his child's first music teacher. Musical education is no longer a matter of scales and technic.

Before scales, or if never scales, the child should be helped to a friendship with good music and an understanding of the language of which scales are the alphabet.

Practice in the hearing rather than in the making of music is now not only the foundation of study but in the words of the late President Eliot of Harvard, "Actually it takes its place as an education—as a means of developing the human child—nothing will more perfectly cultivate the human spirit."—Children

CHILD TRAINING

"She's Teacher's Pet"
Mrs. W. B. Bailey

On a beautiful spring afternoon, a circle of happy kindergarten children were sitting in the shady corner of the playground during a short intermission. Mrs. Newkirk had purposely left them to their own devices for a few minutes, knowing that children need a little time when supervision is not at all on the surface.

"Oh, there goes Jane!" exclaimed one little tot.

Several of the children gave their childish hail and waved energetically at Jane, who was a first grade child.

"Humph!" said serious Betty, "my brother says she's the teacher's pet."

"It's not nice to say that, Betty," answered the first speaker, "'cause my mother told me so. She said teachers just have to treat the children different, just like she does Johnnie and me at home. Sometimes Johnnie isn't as bad as I am, so he don't have to sit in a chair as much as I do, and then it looks as if mother was nicer to him and loved him more. But sometimes he is bad and I am good, then he says it looks as if mother was nicer to me."

"My mother, she's just as nice to us as can be when we are good," said a jolly little boy, "but when we're bad she get 'ferocious.' Maybe that's the way with teachers, too."

Such remarks actually heard from children of pre-school age give teachers and parents an optimistic view of the effect home training has with regard to creating public opinion or sentiment among little people. In the above instance, the application of a mother's careful explanation was used publicly to establish an attitude toward a question of vital interest to their child-group.

The question of who is teacher's pet and why, means as much to the children who are about ready to enter the first year of school as any of the great political, social or religious questions will mean to them in later years.

So much unhappiness could be avoided if a child were given, very early in life, a few fundamental principles upon which he might base his opinions regarding conduct—especially that of other people—and get a correct and reasonable idea of the purpose back of all behaviour. Children very early begin to think for themselves. They begin to measure all persons with whom they come in contact by some sort of standard. It is the work of adults in the home and school to help the child to form safe standards of judgment. Busy parents are often prone to forget how large a small problem may become in a child's mind and how difficult it may be for his little group to solve it wisely.

Blessed is the mother who can early develop in her children broad views and safe principles, and twice blessed are her children and all with whom they have to do.

Slipping through loose floorboards in the automobile while his father, Patrolman G. B. Reese, of Los Angeles was taking him for a ride three-year-old Garvin fell to the pavement and escaped by inches from being run over by the rear wheels. Before the terrified father could stop the car the boy got up, incensed at such unceremonious dumping into the street, and started to run away. His father caught him and took him to a hospital, where it was found that nothing but his feelings had been hurt.

Scrapper Is Good-Natured.

Good-nature often smooths the way
And brightness lends a gloomy day.
Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit was as good as his word. He went straight over to that part of the Old Orchard where he knew he would find Scrapper the Kingbird. When he found Scrapper he told him that Bobby Coon wanted to see him.

"What does he want to see me for?" demanded Scrapper, suspiciously.

"He didn't tell me, but I suspect he wants to know something about those cousins of his that you saw during the winter," replied Peter.

"So that's it! Bobby has as much curiosity as you have," said Scrapper. "I don't know whether I shall gratify him or not."

Peter opened his mouth to urge Scrapper to go meet Bobby Coon, but closed it again without saying a word. He didn't want to appear to have too much interest in the matter.

Presently Scrapper caught three or four fat flies in succession. As each one went down his throat he felt better natured. A lot of people are like Scrapper in that good-nature seems to live in their stomachs. A comfortable stomach means a good-natured person. So, when there appear to be no more fat flies to catch, Scrapper, without a word, flew away. Peter watched Scrapper go. Then Peter started off, lippety-lippety-lip, and he was headed straight in the direction of the place where he had left Bobby Coon. Scrapper had gone in that same direction.

It didn't take Scrapper long to find Bobby Coon. You see, Bobby was sitting right in plain sight. Scrapper alighted on a branch just above Bobby. "Hello, Bobby Coon!" exclaimed Scrapper. "What do you want to see me about?"

"Who says I want to see you?" demanded Bobby Coon.

"Oh," replied Scrapper airily, "I just have a feeling you do. You see I know your family rather well. In my travels I've seen something of several of them. So I have a feeling that you want to see me."

Bobby Coon had it on the tip of his tongue to say that he didn't want to see Scrapper at all. But that would not have been true and he knew it. Moreover, Scrapper's reference to the members of Bobby's family whom he had seen in his travels made Bobby fairly ache all over with curiosity. "Did you ever ache that way? It is a most uncomfortable feeling. There are many worse aches than the ache caused by ungratified curiosity, but I don't know of any less easy to forget.

"Pooh!" exclaimed Bobby. "I don't believe it"

"I heard through Peter Rabbit that you had seen some folk down where you spend the winter who claim to be relatives of mine," said Bobby.

Scrapper shook his head. "They have never made any claim of that kind to me," said he. "In the first place I don't believe they know you exist. You see none of them have ever been up here where you live. So they couldn't very well make claims to relationship. But just the same they are relatives."

"Pooh!" exclaimed Bobby, "I don't believe it."

"What you believe, or what you don't believe, makes no difference whatever," declared Scrapper. "Facts are facts, whether people believe them or not. So, even though you don't believe it, you have several relatives in a part of the warm country that I pass through every year. Now, which one would you like to hear about first?"

Bobby opened his mouth to say he didn't care to hear about any, but instead he said meekly: "The one you call Nosey, if you please, Scrapper."

Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

H. B. Caldwell M.D.
AT AGE 83

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patents.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

When Rev. Herbert J. Wyckoff was pastor of the Second Congregational church, Norwich, residing at 59 Church street, his daughter, Miss Dorothy, was graduated with honors from Norwich Free Academy with the class of 1917. Tirrell, of Norwich Free Academy received a special letter from Bryn Mawr that Miss Wyckoff's papers were the best received from New England examinations that year at the college.

That Miss Wyckoff is continuing her high grade scholarship is evidenced by the following from a Philadelphia paper:

FALL RIVER METHODISTS READY FOR CONFERENCE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 27—In planning to entertain the New England Southern conference in Fall River this year, the Union Methodist Episcopal church, under the leadership of pastor, Rev. R. A. Colpitts, has had to surmount some obstacles created by the recent great fire. The chief embarrassment which threatened for a time was in the fact that so many hotels and restaurants were destroyed and these had been relied upon to care for the matter of serving meals to the guests. To help in solving the problem, the First Christian church, corner Franklin and Purchase streets, has graciously opened its dining room and will serve meals at noon and night each day. This arrangement together with the services to be rendered by the hotel and two restaurants will probably be able to care for all the delegates satisfactorily. The generally friendly spirit which is shown by many of the people in the other churches of Fall River has greatly helped in the matter of entertainment. Lodging and breakfast is being generally provided in the homes in the spirit of true fellowship and genuine hospitality.

The Boy Scouts will act as guides. The advantages such as women's rest rooms, men's coat rooms, telephone booth, conference postoffice, etc., are provided in the church building. Physical recreation as well as spiritual worship will also be provided. The gymnasium, shower baths, pool rooms and bowling alleys will be open to members of the conference, and their wives and friends for such noon and afternoon periods as will not interfere with the work of the conference.

The memorial service, which is to be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, will pay respect to the memory of seven deceased clergymen who have died during the year. They are as follows: A. W. C. Anderson, Russell W. Bosworth, John S. Bridgford, William P. Davis, Augustus W. Kinsley, John McVay and Charles A. Stenhouse.

Concerning these men, Norwich people will be interested to note the following facts:

Mr. Bridgford began his ministry in 1876 in Albany, New York, and came to this conference in 1891. He was pastor at Burnside 1891-93 and at Danielson 1893-95. He was at one time secretary and treasurer of the Willimantic Camp Meeting association. For more than 25 years he was treasurer of the conference and he served several important pastorates.

Mr. Davis was at one time one of the best known ministers in Norwich district. The church at Danielson was built during his pastorate there, 1899-1903, and his pastorate of eight years at South Manchester, 1903-11, was very successful. Rev. Howard P. Davis, the present pastor at East Greenwich, R. I., is a son.

Mr. Kingsley was born in Norwich and held a pastorate in Norwich 1893-95. At the time of his death he was the third oldest member of the conference and the last surviving member of the class of 1863, Wesleyan university. During his active ministry he served several important churches. Since his retirement in 1908 he lived in Fall River.

Mr. McVay began his ministry in 1882. He served several pastorates in Norwich district in the earlier part of his ministry, including Versailles and Baltic, Moosup, Manchester, Burnside and Mystic and Noank.

Mr. Stenhouse began his ministry in 1881 at Haddam Neck. He was pastor at Uncasville 1884-87 and had several other important pastorates. He was principal of the East Greenwich academy, 1907-1910.

All of these men were greatly beloved and each of them has left his own mark in the memories of many grateful friends. Together they represent the greatest number of losses by death which the conference has sustained in a single year for some years. Rev. Charles T. Hatch, who will be the speaker at this service, will be remembered as having held several pastorates on Norwich district, the most recent of which were Baltic and Versailles, 1904-9, and Mystic and Noank, 1909-15. He is now pastor at Wellfleet, Mass.

Makes Canadian Tripe Easier

The registration of American-owned automobiles at the Canadian and Mexican borders, when used by tourists who expect to return to the United States, is no longer required, according to the American Motorists' association, calling attention to an order just promulgated by the U. S. treasury department.

In the future all that will be required of the American motorist when he returns to the United States from a Canadian tour, will be to show his state registration card which will be accepted as establishing American origin and ownership of automobiles returning to the United States, the association states.

Pays for Overtime Parking

At the session of the city court Tuesday morning, Leonard Smith, of Albany, N. Y., paid $5 for violation of the parking ordinance. He parked his machine on Broadway about 10:30 o'clock Monday night and left it there all night.

"TREASURE HUNTERS" WAS BRIDGEPORT PASTOR'S THEME

During the third of the series of meetings being held this week in the Central Baptist church under the leadership of Rev. Sharles H. Heimsath of Bridgeport a telephone call was received Tuesday evening from the Bridgeport church, reporting the fine way in which the Bridgeport meetings were progressing under the leadership of Dr. Pitt of the Central church.

"Treasure Hunters" was the theme of Mr. Heimsath's talk on Tuesday evening, the text being "I rejoice in Thy word as one that findeth great spoil."

"Nothing more surely fires the imagination than the thought of buried treasure," said Mr. Heimsath. "Whether we recognize it or not we are all essentially treasure hunters. Only the very youthful and very romantic dream any longer of Spanish galleons and iron chests, but we dream of peace, happiness, and a city where hopes are real, whether its name be Quivira, or Cincinnati, or the New Jerusalem.

"To say that we are all treasure hunters is but another way of saying we are all men of hope and faith. It is not gold alone that lures us. Abraham adventured from Ur of the Chaldees by faith. In the heart of man there is a deep-rooted confidence in goodness, peace and joy. Somewhere in the universe these qualities can be found, and though misfortune and sorrow and disappointment come, man never ceases to believe in their reality. The beautiful truth is that dreams of treasure have not always led to disappointment and fruitless endeavor. The conquistadores did not find buried gold but they did discover the silver mines of South America, which for centuries have been the richest in the world.

"Dreams are not spun on nothing and this is true whether they be dreams of gold, or truth, or god, or eternal life. The thing that makes life worthwhile is that the treasures are hidden. We must seek rightly for lasting treasures. Jesus recognized this human longing for treasures. 'The important thing,' says Jesus, 'is for a man to love the right kind of treasures.'"

Rev. Mr. Heimsath closed with the story of the Great Stone Face, illustrating the fact that we grow to be like the treasure we are looking for.

This week's meetings, during which Dr. Pitt and Mr. Heimsath are exchanging, have been proving most worthwhile. Much interest has been manifested and godly numbers have been in attendance. Mr. Heimsath will speak Wednesday and Thursday evenings from seven-thirty to eight-thirty and Friday at the young people's supper which begins at six-fifteen.

ANSONIA PASTOR IS LENTEN SERVICE SPEAKER

Rev. F. P. Freeman, pastor of the First Baptist church, Ansonia, who preached at the special Lenten service at the First Baptist church Monday night gave one of a series of addresses which will be continued through the week. The subject of the address was deduced from the words of the high priest at the trial of Jesus as recorded in Matt. 26:65, "What think ye of Christ?" The speaker stated at the outset that the question was a question of the ages, and not of any one occasion or circumstance. Men everywhere in every land are giving increased thought to the Christ of Galilee. He said in part:

The all inclusiveness of Christ is like the seven tones of the musical staff. So limited in number, but from these seven, all the oratorios, symphonies, and glories of the realm of music are woven. So from this one simple but beautiful life all the beauties that are known or desired in character are blended, so that the completeness of Christ provides a Saviour, an ideal, revealer and friend.

Men who live and think in the spirit of Christ partake of His quality, become like Him in purpose and spirit. The mind of the Master of men changes their outlook on life, provides a conquering spirit for every need of men's daily lives. When men think of the life of Christ they are inspired by His spirit of service to their fellows. As Christ was always pained at the distresses of men so those who live in His spiritual presence are sympathetic to those in need. The longest bread line in the world is the line of hungry hearts. Ambassadors of Christ armed as was Lindbergh with a friendly spirit will do more to extend human brotherhood than all the armies and navies ever marshaled. "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus."

OBITUARY

Mrs. Ernest W. Geduldig

About 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, Mrs. Katherine Theresa Connelly Geduldig, wife of Ernest W. Geduldig, died at her home, No. 45 Greene avenue. She had been in poor health for several months but her condition did not become alarming until about a week ago.

Mrs. Geduldig was born in Kilgless county, Roscommon, Ireland, and was the daughter of Edward F., and Bridget Kennedy Connelly. She came to this country when a young girl and on Oct. 9, 1888, was united in marriage with Ernest W. Geduldig in this city by Rev. Peter P. Shahan.

She is survived by her husband, a niece, Miss Mary B. Sheridan, and two nephews, James P., and Matthew F. Sheridan, all of this city; a cousin, Mrs. Ralph W. Northrop of New Britain, and several nieces and nephews in Ireland. James E. Moore

Friends of James E. Moore, the well known real estate agent and bond broker, were shocked Tuesday night to learn of his death, which occurred suddenly at 6:30 Tuesday evening at Hartford hospital. He had been in failing health for some time with heart and kidney trouble and he had been taken to Hartford Tuesday morning for examination and observation at the hospital, but his condition had not been such as to cause his friends to believe that it was critical.

Mr. Moore was born 55 years ago in Franklin and was the son of Thomas and Ellen Moore. As a boy and young man he lived in Norwich Town. He learned the retail meat market business and was employed in a Norwich meat market, subsequently opening a market of his own on Franklin street in the so-called marble block, where he continued till about 1915 when he sold out. In the meantime he had established a wholesale fruit business in a Market street store about 1910, subsequently moving to Water street, and continuing the business as James E. Moore, Inc., till he sold about 1921 to Levine Bros., but retained an interest in the business.

Mr. Moore then took up the line of real estate agent, stock and bond broker, and also sold fruit in carload lots on commission, and was markedly successful in these lines as he had been in his other business ventures.

He was unmarried and is survived only by a brother, Thomas, a resident of New London. He was a member of Norwich lodge of Elks, No. 39, and had a large number of friends and business acquaintances among whom he was highly esteemed.

A number of the store windows in Norwich feature the new spring colors—Algerian tans, dusted blue and greyhound.

JUNIOR HADASSAH GAVE CLEVER THREE-ACT FARCE

The Whole Town's Talking, a farce in three acts, drew a large sized audience Tuesday evening at the Strand theater where it was staged under the auspices of Norwich Chapter of Junior Hadassah. The various roles were finely portrayed by the dozen in the cast. The farce was replete with humorous situations and witticisms and was thoroughly enjoyed by the delighted audience. An added attraction was an exquisitely rendered vocal solo, Who Is She? (Edgar J. Caron) by Mrs. M. J. Farrell.

A synopsis of the farces follows: Mr. Simmons, senior partner in a paint business, for business reasons wishes to marry his daughter to the junior partner. But the junior partner was extremely bashful and a bachelor to whom few women were attracted. The senior partner had the idea that every woman would like to hook a man who had been involved in love affairs with beautiful and widely known women. He invented a love affair for his junior partner who selected from a corner book stand several photographs, of which later proved to be photos of European queens, Mona Lisa and a moving picture star.

The star was selected as the junior partner's former sweetheart and at the proper time the story of the trumped up love affair was allowed to leak out. All the girls then promptly proceeded to fall in love with the bashful junior partner but, in the midst of the latter's glory, the movie star unexpectedly appeared in twon accompanied by her fiance who happened to be a prize fighter. From this point on until the close of the farce there was a series of complications that were finally smoothed out.

The cast was as follows:

Harriet Simmons, Mr. Simmons' wife, Rivy Rosenberg
Annie, a maid, Celia Liddofsky
Taxi-driver, Harry Einhorn
Henry Simmons, the manufacturer, Melvin Goodman
Ethel Simmons, his daughter, Evelyn Moyel
Roger Shields, a man of the world, Davis Markoff
Chester Binney, the junior partner, Harry Einhorn
Sally Otis, Shirley Yempsehin
Lila Wilson, Frances Crumb
Mrs. Jackson, Anne A examiner
Donald Swift, Isadore Yoselevsky
Letty Lythe, moving picture star, Blythe Krieger
Sadie Green, dancing teacher, Ruth Sadirsky

Mrs. M. J. Farrell coached the players. The co-operating committee in charge of the general committee were Lena Bloom and Evelyn Moyel. Fay Sadinsky was the stage manager and her assistants were Mildred Charron and Ida Turetzky. Rose Moyel was the publicity chairman and the ushers were Molly Segal, Sarah Stamm, Bessie Jacobson, Betty Mopsik, Ida Felster and Laura Weinstein. The committee acknowledged courtesies received from the following: Interstate Furniture Co., Herman A. Bruckner, New York Electric Co., M. Malove Co., Mgr. Charles M. Maxfield of the Palace theater, the Eagle Clothing Co., Isaac Segal and A. Arenberg.

HORSE AND THREE COWS BURNED IN VERSAILLES

A barn and wagon shed in Versailles, owned by John Wagner and located about a half mile from the Versailles railroad station, were destroyed by fire early Tuesday morning. First reports received a few minutes after the fire broke out were that the Wagner house was destroyed by the flames, but the damage to the house was only about $300. Three cows and a horse were burned to death in the fire. Five tons of hay, a new lumber wagon, an express wagon, a buggy, 1,000 feet of lumber and an assortment of farming machinery and implements were also destroyed.

Mr. Wagner discovered the fire when he was awakened by the barking of his dog shortly after midnight, but he was unable on Tuesday to assign any reason for the fire breaking out.

Efforts to reach the Baltic fire department through telephoning from the home of the railroad station agent at Versailles were unsuccessful, but through the cooperation of the telephone operator a call was put into the Taftville department which responded, but the barn and wagon shed were practically destroyed by the time they reached the place. The firemen directed their efforts to saving the house which had caught fire from sparks. Water was pumped from the nearby river and about 750 feet of hose was laid. The Baltic fire department apparatus arrived later and assisted in saving the house.

It is said that Mr. Wagner had $1,800 insurance on the barn and $6,000 insurance on the house.

The Wagner place is the farm which was visited by highwaymen last summer, who tortured Mrs. Wagner to compel her to show where she had some money hidden.

ATTORNEYS BRING SUIT ON JUDGMENT LIEN

Foreclosure of judgment lien is sought by Attorneys Max Boyer and Arthur T. Keefe, of New London, against Maria T. Molinaro and Fortunato Molinaro, of Norwich, according to papers returnable to the court of common pleas.

On Jan. 27, 1928, the plaintiffs obtained a judgment in the court of common pleas, for $630.80 and costs of $14.36, according to the allegations of the complaint. A lien was placed on property in Norwich on the same date and now the plaintiffs seek to foreclose.

On Common Counts

Damages of $300 are sought by Frederick Rohmeling, of East Lyme, against George A. Hastings and George Hastings, Inc., of East Lyme.

The suit is based on the common counts, claiming that on March 12, 1928 the plaintiff loaned the defendants $250.

GEORGE WESTON IN NEW YORK AT RADIO DRAMATIZATION

George Weston, world famous writer of short stories, whose home is Morningside Farm, Packer, in the town of Plainfield, has returned from a few days' visit in New York. While there he attended the annual show of the Dutch Treat club at the Waldorf, and the radio dramatization of his latest short story in Collier's.

Mr. Weston is not granting himself many vacations these days, when it is known in the literary world that everything he can produce for the next two years is bought up by two of the leading periodicals. However, he is not shirking his duty as a citizen and a voter, for he presided as chairman at the recent republican caucus in Plainfield. He also permitted himself to be named a delegate to the state convention at Hartford.

Since Mr. Weston's books are being issued in England as well as in this country his stories have attained a great vogue and the demand for new ones keeps him at the highest point of effort.

TWO NIGHT CALLS FOR NORWICH FIRE DEPARTMENT

At 7.40 o'clock Tuesday evening the fire department was called by telephone for a chimney fire at No. 66 Mt. Pleasant street occupied by Mrs. Stella Shamlit. Engine No. 5 and Squad A responded and six gallons of chemical were used on the blaze.

An oral call at 8.15 o'clock called out the department for a fire on the city dump. Engine No. 5 and Squad A responded and laid 600 feet of inch and a half hose. A pile of rubbish had blazed up and was threatening a nearby building. There was no damage.

A Profitable Catch

BIG BOY BURLAP KNOCKS OUT MORGAN IN FIRST ROUND AT DUWELLS

Wham, Wham, Wham and the Behemouth Dan Morgan of Springfield, imported expressly to dethrone Earle Champlain (Big Boy Burlap) went down to defeat in the first round under the battering of the Westerly boy at the Duwell Amateur show at the armory last night. The 224 pounds of beef and brawn of the Springfield battler didn't faze Champlain a bit, and he went right to work on him. About all Morgan had was the size, although he did throw in a few wallops that didn't seem to bother the Big Boy. A couple of his famous right to the jaw and Morgan went down for eight, got up, took a few more and went down for another eight count. Referee Frankie Bush stepped between them and waved the tottering Dan to his corner, a badly beaten battler. Burlap is still king, long live the king, and they will have to search further for a suitable opponent for him.

The attendance eclipsed any past shows, there being about fifteen hundred fans present to pay homage to either Earle or his conqueror. Earle got it all. The remainder of the card was well balanced and gave those present plenty of action. The first bout was the poorest on the list and was stopped in the second round to save Joe Bishop, 111 pounds, of Danielson a beating after going down for the count of eight at the hands of Sidney Nichols, 110 pounds, of the same town. Nichols didn't know much about the game and Bishop knew lots less.

The second bout, however, started the crowd off in good humor, and what a bout it was. Blonde haired Byron Parker, 134 pounds, of the Service Battery of Danielson by virtue of a hard right won over Geo. Guertin, 133 pounds, of Wauregan and representing the Duwell A. A. but he certainly had his hands full getting the decision. Guertin kept boring in, swinging punches from all directions, and doled out considerable punishment. But every time Parker landed that right Guertin was hurt. He went down in the first round but weathered the storm. He was tired at the final bell after a bout full of action.

Frankie Adams, 134 pounds, of the Duwell A. A. gradually wore down clever Jimmie Di Santi, 132 pounds, of Springfield, and made him quit in the second round of the third go. Di Santi had a beautiful left jab and the ability to box. He sent Frankie's head back often with his left but the latter kept piling in with his hard blows and the Springfield lad decided that he had enough in the second. This too was a good bout while it lasted.

Rene Peloquin, 118 pounds, of Danielson went down to defeat to Charlie Peppe, 121, of Springfield in the fourth bout. Peppe had about every thing that goes to make a fighter, punching ability, speed, cleverness and ability to take it. Peloquin, as fast as he is, couldn't get very far with the Springfield boy although he kept trying all the time.

Arthur "Mickey" Ward fighting under the Duwell A. A. colors, lost a hard fight to Lucian Broulard of Danielson. The Danielson boy fighting with his southpaw stance had Mickey somewhat puzzled but the latter was beginning to solve the French lad's style in the third Boulard is a strong boy and carried the fight to Ward for the first two rounds who in turn managed to get in some of his fast rights. Broulard weighed 140 and Ward four pounds more.

The sixth bout found Ernest Gauvin of Taftville going down to a glorious defeat after four rounds of battling every inch of the way against Frank Visgilio of Westerly. Both boys battled on about even terms for three rounds and gave everything they had. Gauvin continued to be the aggressor while the Westerly lad hit the harder blows, which, however, did not slow up the Taftville boy. First one and then the other would take the lead, and the bout had the fans on their toes throughout. The judges elected a draw at the end and both decided to go the extra round. Visgilio took the edge and the judges decision. It certainly was a tough one to lose, although no credit can be taken away from the Westerly lad in winning. Both boys were pretty tired at the final bell, and somewhat cut up. This proved to be the fastest bout on the card. Visgilio weighed 120 and Gauvin two pounds more.

In a real old-fashioned slugfest Joe Russo of Westerly had Benny Dempski mighty tired in the middle of the second round and the latter's seconds threw in the towel, which peeved Benny, he wanting to continue. Both boys took some terrific punishment, Russo's face being badly puffed up after the fight. They threw science to the winds and just slugged away until it seemed that both would drop. It was just a case of the survival of the fittest. Benny was in there fighting back every inch of the way but Russo knew just a little too much for him and finally wore him down. Russo weighed 153 and Dempski 155.

Ralph Bargnesi, the hard hitting member of the Smoke Shop team, made short work of Mike Cronin of Stonington in the tenth bout. Cronin is a tough boy but Ralph swung too many punches into him and they had him practically defenseless when the referee stopped the fighting. Cronin plays football on the Stonington high school team, but no doubt he finds the going a little different in the ring. He weighed 161 while Ralph came in 158.

The last and feature bout of the card was the glorious affair between the combined weight of 439 pounds, Earle Champlain and Dan Morgan.

Together with Mike Kelly, the club had the services of William Smith, a well known New York judge, to decide the outcome of the bouts. Mr. Smith last week refereed the Golden Gloves Amateur contest in New York. Jack Carney was the time keeper and Frankie Bush came down from Hartford to referee. William Pedace did the announcing in very Joe Humphrey-like fashion.

RINGSIDE REMARKS

They've got to build them bigger and better if Big Boy Burlap is going to be beaten.

To hear the talk after Burlap's quick victory, one would think that the crowd came just to see the Westerly tarbaby flattened. Such disappointment.

Morgan bore a striking resemblance to Jess Willard, but he went out quicker than Willard did at Toledo. Morgan bowed to the crowd as he entered the ring and he was bowed as he went out.

The largest crowd of the season was at the fight, close to 1,500 fans crowding around the ringside. More chairs could be used very handily.

There was real class to the judges [illegible] Mike Kelly's good judgment [illegible] of William Smith, who served as a judge at the recent "golden gloves tourney" in New York.

Even then the fans booed and booed at some of the decisions. If Judge Landis, Chief Justice Taft and Tex Rickard were the judges there would be some who would boo.

It seems a shame to make two boys like Gauvin and Vesgillio go another round when they gave all they had in the first three rounds. This bout was one of the best bouts of the evening and both lads had fought tooth and nail for three rounds and both were nearly exhausted. The bout was called a draw and they were asked to fight another round. Of course they consented because both were game kids, but it is just this that might cause a repetition of the Meriden affair. Vesgillio was bleeding very profusely from the nose for some time after the bout.

Another bloody battle was that between Guertin and Parker, but here the blood did not flow so freely as in the Gauvin-Vesgillio affair.

For Why? Why does the crowd boo Joe Bruno? Why did Joe Bruno get the decision? Why is Mickey Ward unpopular? And why didn't Mickey get at least a draw?

Joe Russo, although badly cut under his left eye, beat Young Dempski to a pulp in two rounds. Benny sure is a fighting fool and even when the bout was stopped he wanted to go on with the bout.

That Peppe boy from Springfield was the class of the visiting team. His onions were learned in a school of hard knocks and tough fighting.

BASEBALL NEWS

YANKS LOSE AGAIN, REDS WINNING; LAZZERI HURT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 27—(AP)—The New York Yankees lost two second basemen and a ball game today.

The ball game went to the Cincinnati Reds, who took advantage of wild pitching by Henry Johnson to put the game on ice in the late innings. The score was 6 to 4.

Tony Lazzeri, regular second sacker, strained his side during batting practice when he swung at and missed a pitched ball. Gene Robertson, who relieved him, was slightly spiked in a collision with "Long George" Kelly in the ninth inning.

The Yanks outbatted the Reds 10 to 7 but some sensational fielding, with little Hughie Critz as the chief star, enabled Eppa Rixey and Adolfo Luque to keep out of danger most of the time. The Reds completed four double plays.

Lou Gehrig got two singles today but Babe Ruth went hitless.

GIANTS WIN LOOSELY PLAYED GAME FROM RED SOX, 4 TO 3

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 27—(AP)—By tossing in an error or two at judicious intervals, the Boston Red Sox handed the New York Giants an exhibition game here today, 4 to 3, in ten innings.

Hits were at a premium, the Giants scoring some of their runs on the eight hits they got off Wiltse, MacFayden and Cremins, and the rest with the aid of six errors the Red Sox kindly contributed. Regan was the most generous, tossing in three mis-plays. Leo Mangum and Bill Chaplin gave up only six hits. Chaplin struck out the side in order in the seventh and started out the eighth with another strike-out.

A'S CELEBRATE CONNIE MACK DAY BY TRIMMING BRAVES

FT. MYERS, Fla., March 27—(AP)—Celebratin Connie Mack day here, the Athletics came out of their slump and defeated the Boston Braves, 11 to 2. The town's testimonial to Manager Mack was over-shadowed by the mid-season pitching of Lefty Grove. He rolled up 11 strike-outs and was the first Athletic pitcher to go nine innings this season. Three thousand ball fans were at the park and Mack was called to the plate in the second inning and presented with a watch, traveling bag and the key to the city.

The Athletics walloped three Boston pitchers for 13 hits. Grove fanned the side in the first inning and in the fifth struck out Richbourg with the bases full.

Pirates Lose to Oakland

OAKLAND, Cal., March 27—(AP)—After several days' idleness because of rain, the Pittsburgh Pirates went into action against the Oakland club today and were defeated 6 to 5. The dampness of the ground caused both the National league champions and the Pacific Coast titleholders to do some ragged fielding.

COLD WEATHER HAMPERS ACADEMY DIAMOND WORK

The sudden change in the weather forced the Academy baseball squad to but a short workout Tuesday afternoon, on their second day outdoors. Coach Brigham had his boys out but an hour and then but light work was had, the local mentor wishing to forego the danger of "sore arms" so early in the campaign.

A large number, however, put in an appearance and with milder weather again it is expected that the squad will grow rapidly. Today another workout is slated but its intensity and length is dependable upon weather conditions.

'BOUT SPORTS

The arms of the Hartford Baseball Boosters' club have reached right into southeastern Connecticut. In the names of those enrolled we find Billy Bowen of Greeneville, Joe Cranker of New London and others. This organization was formed for the express purpose of stimulating interest in the national game in the Insurance City, where the club this year will operate under new ownership and management, but it has also reached into other sport staged about Hartford. Just last Sunday a delegation from this club attended a benefit roller hockey game at Meriden while they have also paid "official" visits to roller hockey games in their native city.

The club has as its president, or whatever they call the "Big Boss," Lou Gehrig, former Hartford slugger. He autographs each card and mails it to the elected member. There are no dues, the affair being one of sentiment, more than anything.

Of course, Norwich has no league team to support in this fashion, but it would be a mighty fine thing for local fans to get behind the Academy this spring (or rather, keep behind them as they have in the past two years) and help give Norwich another state championship high school team.

The student body at the local school firmly believes that it is to have another strong representative this year but when the time comes to play ball, we wonder whether this spirit will still persist. Although a fine brand of ball has been forthcoming from Red and White players in the last two years, the student body has hit below the average and made quite a few errors in its cheering. It is worse in other sports but it seems that with such good teams there ought to be some strong show of school spirit among the non-combatants.

A son of one of the members of a famous circus act from Norwich, the Hardigs, Potter, by name, has just distinguished himself as a wrestler. Thomas Potter, son of Billy, representing the McDonough school of Baltimoe, finished third among the wrestlers of Maryland in the state tournament for juniors. For his efforts he got a three-column cut notice in a Baltimore paper and a nice write-up.

TUNNEY GIVEN A WEEK TO ACCEPT CHALLENGES

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, March 27—(AP)—Although designed to force an early choice of Gene Tunney's next challenger, the New York state athletic commission today delivered an ultimatum to the heavyweight champion and Tex Rickard that apparently scrambles the fistic situation more thoroughly than the promoter's elimination tournaments ever did.

The fistic fathers after solemn deliberation, announced that Tunney must accept the defis of Jack Sharkey, Tom Heeney, and Johnny Risko, singly or in toto, by next Tuesday, or suffer the equivalent of indefinite suspension in this state. If he does not fancy the "big three" lineup, the titleholder, has the further alternative of accepting one or all of the "little four"—Paulino Uzcudun, Jack Delaney, George Godfrey, and Phil Scott.

In the event that Gene picks from the latter division or even names any opponent capable of lifting six ounce gloves into a defensive position, he first must reject the top trio and give reasons.

Rickard Speaks

Instead of accomplishing its conciliatory aim, the commission's action aroused Tex Rickard, in Miami Beach, to bristling response and apparently paved the way for another war of words. The promoter lost no time in rejecting the commission's overture as untimely and emphasized the contention that it is for him—not Tunney or the commission—to decide the champion's next foe.

The commission's move followed Tunney's failure definitely to name an opponent when requested by the board at the expiration of the six month's rest allowed a champion between title defenses. The scholar of Greenwich Village merely replied that he had signed with Rickard for a match and the opponent was something for the promoter to worry about. All that kept Tunney from suspension today was the 15 day period allowed for the answer of challenges once they have been filed.

Dempsey Ruled Out

Adding to the mounting troubles of Rickard and Tunney, who have been suspected of delaying the game in the hope that Jack Dempsey would make his annual comeback, the commission waived the old Manassa Mauler right out of possible consideration.

Another Dempsey-Tunney match, they decreed, would be just a "financial proposition" with no possibility of the title changing hands.

Ignoring his own and oft-expressed preference to do so, the fistic fathers declared that Tunney must fight twice this year or be placed on the ineligible list. This is equivalent to indefinite suspension but the only action possible inasmuch as the champion's boxing license has expired here. State laws require a titleholder to defend his crown every six months.

SAVAGE AND ROSELIE DUNN WIN FIGURE SKATING TITLE

NEW HAVEN, March 27—(AP)—Joseph Savage and Roselie Dunn, of New York, N. Y., winners for the past several years of the U. S. Figure Skating association waltzing title, were crowned champions again tonight in the annual competition at the New Haven Arena. The Savage-Dunn team also placed in the 14-step competition, being deemed third best of the many teams entered.

Boston and Quebec Tie

BOSTON, March 27—The Boston Tigers and the Quebec Beavers divided honors with two goals each in the first game tonight of the semi-final playoffs for the championship of the Canadian-American Hockey league.

Rangers Win

NEW YORK, March 27—(AP)—The New York Rangers whitewashed the Pittsburgh Pirates by 4 goals to 0 in the opening game of the playoff series of the American Group clubs in the National Hockey league tonight.

PLAINFIELD PROS OPEN STATE TITLE SERIES WITH NEW BRITAIN TONIGHT

Plainfield		New Britain
Brusso, lf		lf, Rubenstein
Kasper, rf		rf, Sloman
Bernot, c		c, Zakzewski
Benson, lg		lg, Sturm
Dissenger, rg		rg, Leary

The Plainfield Pros and New Britain Guards open their series for the state semi-pro basketball title tonight at the Plainfield Community house. The teams appear evenly matched with each having a decision over the other so far this season. Both of these games were played in the Hardware City, Plainfield winning the first by one point and the New Britain beating the Pros in the second game, by a wider margin, but the Community Housers at that time presented a patched-up appearance.

Plainfield now has one of the strongest club sin New England. The acquisition of Kasper from the Purple Collegians and the shifting of Whitey Bernot has been a big help to the team and in the last month or so the Pros have been going like the proverbial housefire.

Both clubs will use their very strongest lineups this evening in an effort to get that big edge that goes with victory in the first game of an important series.

New Britain will use the same men that won the second-half championship of the state league in a thrilling battle last Saturday night against the New Haven Atlas. Rubenstein and Sloman constitute a strong scoring duo, the latter being especially strong on long shots. Zakzewski, Rubenstein and Leary were members of the eastern championship Fordham university quintet last season while Sloman and Butsy Sturm are well known throughout the state and Massachusetts for their athletic proclivities. Sturm, it will be remembered is one of the best grid players that the Nutmeg state has, in addition to his strong work on the courts. Holst, Kilduff and Shean complete the team that New Britain has lined up for the series.

Plainfield also has a few notables on its roster. "Whitey" Bernot is known all over the east for his basketball work while Brusso and Kasper form the pick of the forwards around Worcester and southern Massachusetts with Benson, Dissenger, Normandin and "Hap" Madden, the remaining members of the Pros not far behind in athletic prominence.

In the preliminary, starting at 8 o'clock, Eddie Nichol's All-Stars from Willimantic will meet the Plainfield Buddies. The main game starts at 9 p. m.

MILLROSE TEAM ENTERS THE BOSTON MARATHON

BOSTON, March 27—(AP)—The National A. A. U. marathon championship field jumped to 45 today when Tom Kanaly, manager of the race which will be run on April 19, received the applications of the Millrose A. A. team of five men.

The New York club entered Frank Zuna, 1921 winner of the Boston race. Whitey Michelson, who has run in several of them, Harvey Frick, Max Lamp and Fred W. Ward, Jr. Last year Millrose runners won the special trophy awarded to the club whose first three athletes to finish scored the least number of points.

This year's race, which will again be the full marathon distance of 26 miles, 385 yards, will be the final American Olympic tryout.

Maroons Beat Ottawa

OTTAWA, Ont., March 27—(AP)—The Montreal Maroons came out on top in the first clash of the playoff contests in the National Hockey league championships tonight, defeating the Ottawa Senators by 1 goal to 0.

AMATEURS "SHAM", SAYS TESTIMONY

BRIDGEPORT, March 27—(AP)—Confession by promoters, boxers and officials of the Amateur Athletic union, testifying before Coroner John J. Phelan today, that the word "amateur" used in connection with boxing shows conducted by clubs in this city, is a sham, created the first record of testimony, given under oath, that may be used in cleaning up the system of exploiting and commercializing boy athletes, that came to a climax last week with the death of Horace Aliff, 17, of Meriden, who appeared in a bout at the Red Men's show last Wednesday under the ring name of Al Ferguson. Aliff died in St. Vincent's hospital Saturday, having been taken there after he collapsed during a contest with Tommy Carroll, of this city, who is being held in bonds of $1,000 on a technical charge of manslaughter.

The inquest by the coroner had as its aim, in accordance with the duties of the coroner's office, the collection of facts concerning the fatality, with a view to determining the responsibility for the death. As it proceeded, it developed into an expose of the entire amateur boxing situation in Connecticut, with one witness after another straining to reveal more and more startling conditions, which, it was testified have existed for some time past, but without the knowledge of William J. Kennedy, president of the Connecticut A. A. U., according to Kennedy's own testimony.

The inquest was concluded late in the afternoon, after an entire day devoted to taking testimony. Coroner Phelan announced that he had no interest in the case other than to determine responsibility for Aliff's death, and said he would make no recommendations to the state's attorney, as to the desirability of further investigation.

Want Hulbert to "Clean Things Up"

Murray Hulbert, of New York city, national president of the Amateur Athletic union, was asked tonight to step in and "clean up the intolerable conditions existing in Connecticut amateur boxing circles" by the Red Men's Athletic association which was earlier in the day expelled from the East Portchester, Conn., president of the Connecticut A. A. U., for infractions of the amateur boxing code.

This request was telegraphed to President Hulbert, by Joseph H. Kohlman, president of the Red Men's Athletic association, following a vote of confidence given to the athletic association by its parent body, the Konokapotanauh tribe, No. 30, Improved Order of Red Men.

"We believe that President Kennedy is not of the type to take decisive action in cleaning up the game and since we have decided to make a clean breast of all the crookedness and graft existing in amateur boxing and the A. A. U., we believe it best that Mr. Hulbert take charge of the investigation," Kohlman stated.

Putnam Affected by Ruling

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 27—The temporary ban that has been placed upon amateur boxing shows by the state boxing commission after the death of Horace Aliff, of Meriden, who died from injuries received from a recent boxing match, will affect planned matches to be staged by the Putnam Sporting club. Up until late Tuesday, Daniel Treaudeau, one of the managers of the club, stated that he had not received any information contrary to that which has temporarily stopped the amateur fighting.

Willimantic Stops

WILLIMANTIC, March 27—The Willimantic A. C. was forced to postpone the card which had been arranged for Thursday night of this week, because it does not hold actual membership in the A. A. U., but has run its shows under the sanction of that organization. The promoters of the local club hope to stage their next show at the Al-Pierre Tabarin on April 19.

Stonington Disappointed

STONINGTON, March 27—Walter Main, local boxing promoter, received word about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon that suspension of all amateur boxing contests sanctioned by the Connecticut A. A. U., was ordered yesterday by William J. Kennedy, of East Portchester, pending his investigation into the death of Horace Aliff, 17, of Meriden, following a bout at Bridgeport last Wednesday night.

The Stonington A. C. had gone to considerable expense to get the Community house ready for the bouts last night. Several hundred tickets had been sold in advance for the local show before the action was taken by the A. A. U.

Danielson Show Off

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 27—The Killingly A. L. show set for Wednesday night at the state armory, and slated to be run off under the sanction of the A. A. U., was cancelled late today. This means a big loss to Promoter Peloquin, who had gone to much trouble in advertising, securing the hall, etc.

Pastime to Run as Usual

The Pastime A. C. will run their usual show Friday night at Olympic hall here, while at New London tonight, Joe Connolly will put on a strong card of aamateurs. These two clubs do not operate under the A. A. U., and therefore can now give fans their boxing as usual.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

Plainfield faces its biggest chance of the year tonight in the opening game of the New Britain Guards series.

A win for the Pros will be a big boost on their prospects for winning this series.

The Church leagues at the Y gym are rapidly drawing to a close. In the senior loop the Brothers of Joseph look like winners.

Their victory over the Gammas Monday night more firmly entrenched them in first place and now with an easy schedule for the remaining distance, it looks like the pennant for them.

The Willimantic Emps, champs of the Intermediate tournament, will meet Joe Belair's Mystic team in a series, starting Thursday night.

These teams were slated to meet in the semi-finals but Mystic, because of the strain of the tourney was forced to withdraw and forfeit the game to the Thread City crew.

Eddie Nichol's All-Stars ought to be able to give the Plainfield Buddies plenty of opposition tonight in the preliminary to the Pros-New-Britain game.

The Taftville Crescents intend to let nothing slip in their effort to win over the Academy Saturday night. Red Burrelle will start his strongest team.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, March 27.—(AP)—There is no golfing law, such as there is in boxing, to compel Walter Hagen to defend his world's match play title at least every six months but the dapper American professional doesn't do any dodging on that account.

So Walter is doing no side-stepping whatever by accepting terms for a 72-hole match with the long-hitting star, Archie Compston, in the latter's own back yard April 27 and 28.

Hagen is going abroad to take another fling at the British open championship again anyway. The battle with Compston probably appeals to him as a good way to get warmed up. But without having had much winter competition on this side, Hagen is running the risk of "taking it on the chin" from the big Briton, who is built like a heavyweight boxer, and hits the ball like one.

TWO LOCAL FAVORITES RETURN TO RING

Two of Norwich's favorite fighters, Al Koziol and Jimmy Quinn, return to the wars this week after rather lengthy layoffs. Quinn, a featherweight, goes to Somerville, Mass., to appear on the Somerville Elks card, while Friday night, Koziol fights on the Providence A. C. card at Providence. Both boys are A. A. U. fighters but, as the ban is on only in Connecticut, their fighting outside will not matter.

This is Quinn's first fight in about two weeks, since he lost a close decision to Al Dowd at Willimantic, while for Koziol it is his first start in nearly a month, since he injured his hands and was kept from the Boston tournament.

Both boys are stepping into fast company but from past performances they should be able to hold their own.

Koziol hurt his hands while working around the house and he has been prevented from engaging in any important bouts since then. However, now they are healed again, and, after Barney Keenan, his trainer, had looked them over Tuesday, he pronounced the Laurel Hill boy fit and ready again.

WESTERLY

CANAL ST. ROOF BLAZE CAUSES SLIGHT DAMAGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I. March 27—A fire on the shingled roof of the two-story frame Havens block, 54-58 Canal street, was the cause for the sounding of the fire alarm this afternoon at 3 o'clock from Box 73, Canal street. When the flames were discovered on the north end of the roof C. D. Havens turned in the alarm.

High wind from the direction of the chimney of the gas plant of the South County Public Service company at the rear of the block caused shingles on all the north end gables to become ignited. The wind blew blazing shingles to the dry grass on the Westerly freight yard embankment between the Canal street overhead railroad bridge and the beef plant of Armour and company. The grass and brush were soon blazing in several places. A line of garden hose from the Armour plant directed by Everett C. Lawton, Jr. a company driver had this balze checked before the firemen arrived.

The Ahrens-Fox and the Seagrave pumpers with Fire Chief Egger, Engineer George McKenzie and men responded. A booster tank hose was taken up a ladder and into a front window to play on the inside blaze. A line of hdrant hose wyas laid from a Canal street hydrant and the stream directed on the Canal street front roof and later was taken to the rear of the building to play on the rear gables, also on fire. Another hydrant stream was laid from the junction of Railroad avenue and Canal street and with both streams playing on the roof front and rear the fire was out before it could eat its way into the building. A crowd collected when the fact became known that the fire was located near the gas plant. Both the Hub and the Shoreliner, west and east-bound expresses respectively pulled into the Westerly station at the time of the blazes on both sides of Canal street and their passengers viewed the work of the firemen. The total damage was but a few hundred dollars.

Tuesday at the new fire station four of the large steel door frames on the front of the building had been raised into position. Stone masons, bricklayers and plumbers were engaged in the completing their work in the stone and brick walls separating the large steel door casings over which the brick and stone arches will be built. The base of the fire bell, which hung in the old station tower and remained unmelted when the collapse of the bell tower buried it in the debris has been taken care of by the building committee. Plans are being made to have it mounted on a granite base and placed near the new fire station when completed as a monument and about the only relic remaining of the former fire station.

Tuesday evening proved a pleasant but somewhat blustering for the first spring opening, Easter style showing and street parade under the auspices of the newly formed Westerly and Pawcatuck Retail Merchants association. At 8 o'clock there was a street parade headed by the Westerly band and Battery E, 243rd R. I. C. A. C. from the Dixon street armory through the principal business streets of the town. Crowds thronged the walks and streets to view the show window displays which had remained hidden by curtains until the unveiling hour.

Col. Arthur Nathan Nash of Westerly escaped serious injuries in the thick fog Monday night when his Buick brougham driven and occupied by him alone crashed into the rear of a Federal truck of Bernard J. O'Toulin of Pawtucket, R. I. Both machines were southbound on the Noose Neck Hill road, about half way between Cordwood corners and the Ten Rod road filling station. Col. Nash escaped with a shaking up, a cut on the bridge of the nose and a bruise under his left eye. He had just reached the top of an elevation in the highway and entering a fog bank was unable to see the rear light of the van ahead of him until it was too late. He had reached for his emergency and thought that his bending forward prevented more serious injuries but sent him against the steering wheel with sufficient force to break it. The front of his auto dove under the big truck ahead and the radiator, hood, engine and left fender sustained the brunt of the impact, the engine being forced back some eight inches and the driving geer pushed through to the ground. Broken glass from the wind shield which cut his nose was scattered in the highway. He had been to the spring ceremonial of Palestine temple of the Mystic Shrine of which he is a director and which observed Army and Navy night at Rhodes-on-the-Pawtuxet. A crew towed the smashed auto to Westerly and Col. Nash proceeded to his home in the truck into the rear of which he had driven his car. Several Westerly auto partise returning to Westerly from Rhodes recognized the smashed automobile and began early inquiry as to what had become of the occupants. Col. Nash was able to conduct business at his news stand and store as usual Tuesday.

For the past week flocks of wild geese have passed over Westerly bound north unusually in the early morning hours. On one day two larger than the average flocks were observed with an airplane about halfway between the two flocks and all proceeded northward at about the same rate of speed. During the thick foggy weather Tuesday morning a large number of seagulls were circling high over Westerly and the weatherwise predicted a storm which later proved to be a severe blow. A change in the direction of the wind made short work of the heavy fog blanket.

NEW CLUB IS PLANNED TO HELP DOWN AND OUT

A new club formed in the village by 10 young men is the Aki club. Once a week a meeting is held, but owing to their having no place to meet, L. L. Smith who runs the waiting room let them have the back room Monday evening when these officers were elected: President, Carl Ashcraft; vice president, Rollin Rathbun; treasurer, Albany Cannery; secretary, John Bracci; steward, Arthur De Biasi; sick committee, Flash McDonald Jesse Bennett and Eddie Ellis. It was voted to have a large banner, blue and white, with the name of the club on it. It is planned to hold a smoker soon. The members state that the membership will be 40; if a stranger comes into the village, down and out, and is looking for a job, a member of the club will take him to his home and get the stranger something to eat and try to find him work. If not the club will give him enough money to get to the next town. At all meetings a collection will be taken up to help strangers and that will be the spirit of the club. The new steward, Arthur De Biasi had a lunch of cheese, ham sandwiches with coffee and the first meeting was enjoyed by all present.

Loren Park of Newark, N. J., called in town Monday to see his brother, Harry Park. Mr. Park arrived recently from the south after seeing the Yankee baseball team in action. He says it looks like the Yankees will head the American league again, but the other clubs are stronger and may give Babe Ruth some bother to hit the ball out of the lot, for the young pitchers are fast, with plenty of stuff. It is his hobby to follow baseball teams around, he is vice president of the Baseball Union and knows every player in both leagues. This is his first visit in Noank for a year. It might be another year before he comes again, for his time will be taken up with baseball. He told Chief Park to give his regards to the Smoke Eaters at the fire room. He said: "Any time the company has a baseball team I will send them plenty of suits!"

Eddie Cushing of New York is spending a few days in the village with friends.

Mrs. Lizzie Potter on Tuesday celebrated her 79th birthday in the red house on Riverside avenue. Many relatives and friends came in and wished her many happy returns of the day. She is the widow of Rev. Andrew J. Potter who died about nine years ago. "Aunt Lizzie" as everybody in the village calls her has lived in Noank over 50 years, and has spent 38 years in the same house. Rev. Andrew Potter preached for 25 years at the Baptist church in Waterford, Conn., then being minister at Fishers Island. His services were given on the island for seven years. He also preached in Westerly. "Uncle Andrew" he was called by young and old of the village. In the water near his home he baptized over 40 people, standing up to his waist in the cold water as the shore was lined with people to witness the baptism. Every winter Aunt Lizzie spends several months in Waterford with relatives, but she is always glad to get back to Noank. Her relatives and friends from Norwich made a call on her. She had a shower of birthday cards through the mail from all over the state and she had numerous gifts.

Mrs. Thomas Perkins of Groton has been a Noank caller.

Rodney Campbell has returned to Fishers' island after a visit at his home.

Earl Bogue has gone to East Boston to spend a week with relatives.

What Doctors Think of the Laxative Habit

What do YOU do when the bowels need a little assistance? If you clear-up the condition with some laxative made with CASCARA, there is nothing better for the system—for the blood.

But if you don't KNOW the laxative you have learned to depend on is of harmless cascara, here's some truly valuable advice:

The bark of a tree called cascara is the most marvelous conditioner mankind has yet found. It stimulates the bowel's muscular action, but does NOT weaken. A violent laxative forms the laxative HABIT. You always need more on the morrow. With cascara, you don't. Its gentle influence carries on sometimes for days. With less and less need of any aid, as

So, the very next time you feel sluggish, take only a candy cascaret. Delightful to the taste, sweet and acceptable to any stomach, and just as efficient as the powerful purges that fairly paralyze the peristaltic walls of one's intestines. The only habit you'll get from cascarets is the one of going weeks and months without ANY help of the kind. And when you do invoke their aid again, the same small dose suffices. Any doctor can tell you about cascara: and any druggist has the candy cascarets.

PRICES BREAK 5 TO 20 POINTS IN STOCK SALES OF 4,762,400 SHARES

NEW YORK, March 27—(AP)—A sensational break in stock prices followed by a spirited recovery sent total sales on the New York stock exchange today to another new high record at 4,762,400 shares. Extreme declines, which ran from 5 to nearly 20 points, were nearly all recorded in the first half hour. The rally which followed gained momentum as the session progressed, most of the early losses being substantially reduced, or wiped out and in several cases converted into rather sizable gains.

The reaction was not associated with any development in the day's news, but was generally regarded as a natural correction of a top-heavy speculative position created after three weeks of almost steadily rising prices. Stiffening time money rates and renewed warnings by bankers and conservative commission houses against excessive speculation may have been contributing factors.

An opening decline in General Motors, instead of the widely expected initial bulge to 200 or over, undoubtedly was largely responsible for the early flood of selling orders. Several of the Independent Motors, including Chrysler, Packard and Studebaker, had advanced to new high records on opening sales. After a ten minute delay, the first sale of General Motors appeared at the spread quotation of 198-196, the lower figure representing an overnight drop of nearly 3 points. This apparently released scores of stop loss orders and Motors quickly plunged downward to 180, dropping from 185 to 189 between sales.

The break in General Motors was quickly followed by a flood of selling in other issues, with the result that a sweeping decline was underway in a few minutes. DuPont dropped from 234 3-4 to 350 1-4, U. S. Steel from 151 to 146, Hudson from 99 3-4 to 90 1-4, Hupp from 58 3-4 to 52, Montgomery-Ward from 149 5-8 to 140 and Sears Roebuck from 110 1-4 to 87. Similar recessions took place throughout the list.

Supporting orders were quickly supplied, checking the decline and setting in motion a general recovery. General Motors rallied to 190 1-2, DuPont to 284 7-8, U. S. Steel to 148 1-2, Hudson to 94 3-4, and Sears Roebuck to 105 3-4.

Meanwhile new leaders were brought forward in an obvious effort to revive confidence. New York Central and Rock Island were bid up to new high records at 179 and 115 3-8 respectively. Sinclair was bought in enormous amounts on a rising scale, touching a new peak 28 1-2 on unconfirmed reports of buying for control by Standard Oil interests.

Radio was the spectacular individual feature dipping to 146 1-4 in the opening break, the stock subsequently rallied to a new high level for all time at 169, closing at 168 3-4 for a net gain of 12 3-4 points on the day. Net gains of 3 points or more also were recorded by Case Threshing, Christie-Brown, Commercial Solvents, Gabriel Snubber, Hershey Chocolate, Howe Sound, International Harvester, Montgomery-Ward, Simmons company and Sloss-Sheffield Steel.

Call money held steady at 4 1-2 per cent all day. Banks called about $5,000,000 in loans presumably in anticipation of heavy month-end requirements. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges ruled slightly lower with the exception of Japanese yen, which recovered 27 points of the 42 break of yesterday. Sterling cables ruled around $4.88 3-16.

Commodity markets moved within narrow and irregular limits, final quotations showing few important changes of the day.

ARTHUR P. BENNER, CIVIL WAR VETERAN, IS DEAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 27—Arthur P. Benner, 85, commander of Francis S. Long post, No. 30, G. A. R., died at his home, No. 206 Summit street late this afternoon after a lingering illness. He was born in Waldoboro, Me., Oct. 17, 1842, and served with the army of the Potomac during the Civil war. Besides his wife he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. George Hall of Hampton, one sister, Mrs. J. M. Dow of Hartford and two half sisters, Mrs. Thomas Jones of this city, and Mrs. Walter Bartlett of St. Louis, Mo. Commander Benner was married Oct. 21, 1882, to Elnor A. Morse by Rev. S. R. Free. Their only daughter, Mrs. George Hall (Olive Irene) was born Nov. 26, 1889.

Commander Benner attended the village schools of Waldoboro and was residing in Old Town, Me., when the Civil war broke out in the spring of 1861. He answered Lincoln's first call May 20, 1861 and joined Co. I, 6th Me. Vols., which became one of the 300 fighting regiments. Volunteers were encamped near Portland when they were mustered into the United States service to be sent to the battle front. The regiment was the first to open the way to Baltimore after the mob fired on the 6th Massachusetts Co. After spending the summer in camp at Chain Bridge near Washington the company crossed the Potomac mountains in Virginia where they came under the command of Gen. A. S. Hancock, who was the first commander of the brigade composed of the 5th Wisconsin, 6th Maine, 43rd New York and 49th Pennsylvania.

In the spring of '62 the brigade embarked from Alexandria for McClellan's peninsular campaign, fighting in the battle of Williamsburg. The confederates advanced with two lines to the northerner's one, but they were driven back from the field with a loss of about 700, killed, wounded and prisoners. The tremendous victory of the first battle of this brigade won the high compliment of both Hancock and McClellan. Mr. Benner participated in 14 regular engagements and numerous skirmishes. He was wounded in the storming of St. Mary's Heights at Fredericksburg, Va., on Dec. 13, 1862. He had two tent mates, one of whom died from wounds and another who carried honorable scars to his grave.

At the close of the war he went to Philadelphia and with two other men he invested in a patent right which proved a failure. His next venture was in northern Wisconsin where in 1817 a company was formed and a lumber and shingle mill operated on the Pensaukee river, but the plant was sold a few years later to a large concern seeking control of the river. Mr. Benner then came to Hartford. A seed, flour and grain business proved unprofitable and he went on the road as a salesman for the Hamlin Pump Co. Several years later he was employed by Eldredge and Adams of Rockville and the Monumental Bronze Co., of Bridgeport in monumental work. Ten years later he embarked on another business venture which met with notable success in the sale of monuments. Monuments sold by him may be found in cemeteries of this city and surrounding towns, in Hartford, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

He had resided in this city for many years and his death comes as an irreparable loss to a host of friends. He was one of the oldest members of the local G. A. R. post and held nearly every office in the organization. He was post commander some ten years ago when the post activities were at their height and the state encampment was held in this city. He has served as commander for the past five consecutive years. About a month ago the members of the veterans organization called at his bedside and reelected him commander as a final vote of esteem and honor. Adjutant James Haggerty stated tonight that there are but eight surviving members of the post, four of whom are residing in other cities. Bi-monthly meetings have been held, however, by Adjutant Haggerty and Comrades Adam Duntz, Charles Henry and Joseph Slater. When the post was organized about a half a century ago it boasted of 120 members. Commander Benner has been a distinctive influence and outstanding personality since taking membership in the post.

HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL EXCHANGE CLUB SPEAKER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 27—"Character as shown in general appearance is more valuable today in the preparation of our next citizenship than brain or brawn," said Principal Clarence P. Quimby of the Manchester high school in an attack on sordid intellects delivered at the weekly meeting of the Willimantic Exchange club held in the Nathan Hale hotel this evening. For the excellent dinner covers were laid for about 75 including a delegation of 15 members of the Kiwanis club of Manchester of which Prof. Quimby is president. The meeting was convened by President Richard E. Dodge and in the course of business he read a letter from District Governor Allen H Bagg complimenting the club on its high attendance percentage. For the the past 12 weeks the closing average is 98 per cent. The program consisted of a number of snappy group songs with the Rotarians and Kiwanians competing for volume and tone, and a special solo by Jack Dwyer of Boston, who was guest of Alderman William E. Jackson. Mr. Dwyer responded to an encore and was accompanied by Dr. R. B. Jones. Prof. Quimby favored with many interesting anecdotes and considerable humor and closed with a strong message on boys' work. Upon receiving information that Willimantic was about to have a state trade school he exploited the immense advantages of such an institution as has been proven in South Manchester. The program was in charge of James B. Fullerton, chairman for March.

FORMER WOODSTOCK MURDERER ON WAY TO UNITED STATES

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 27 — Mathew Kroll formerly of Woodstock wanted in Worcester for the murder of his wife in May 1925 is now on his way to the United States in charge of Lieutenant Detective Robert T. Hardy of the Worcester police department. Kroll will stand trial at the Worcester County superior court in May. Kroll successfully eluded the Worcester police and made his way to his native country, Poland, but was found when he was arrested on another charge and identified as the Worcester murderer. Detective Hardy and Kroll left Liverpool, Eng. on Saturday March 24th for New York. This was the longest trip made to recover a prisoner to face a criminal charge.

UNCASVILLE

A two weeks' mission to be conducted by priests of the Passionist Order is to open in St. John's church, Uncasville, Sunday, April 15th, and close on the 29th. It is some time since a mission was given at St. John's church and the pastor, Rev. James A. O'Meara and his people feel highly pleased that the mission priests of the Passionist Order are to be with them to promote their spiritual advancement.

A man's temper improves the more he doesn't use it.

Hear a Secret

"Have you seen her?" called the oak tree,
Catching at the wind's light mantle,
"Do you know how she has traveled
And how soon she will be here?"
"Hold me not," the wind retorted,
Shaking free his rustling costume
From the waving, naked branches—
"Very soon she will appear."

"Hear a secret," creaked the oak tree
As he bent toward the willow
And his buds swelled with importance.
"I have heard that she is near."
But a wisp of sedge grass, hearing,
Turned to whisper to her neighbor,
"She is well upon her journey—
This is confidential, dear."

Other wisps of sedge grass heard it,
Passed the news to one another,
And the voices grew in number
Till, across the marshes sere
Rolled, hilarious, a billow,
Broke the river's surface, sweeping
Cakes of ice to seaward, shouting
"Go your way, for Spring is near."

LAW JUGGLES SAILOR'S STAY FROM SIX MONTHS TO 11 DAYS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 27—Carl Lee Mills, United States coast guard, who was fined $100 and costs, the latter amounting to $36 and sentenced to six months in jail on a charge of lascivious carriage, also was fined $10 for driving without a license, by Judge S. Victor Prince in the police court recently, did not serve but about 11 days of the sentence. Judge Prince today liberated Mills and placed him in custody of a New London attorney. When Judge Prince imposed the sentence he informed Mills that the former only wished that the statute provided a heavier penalty than it did and if such were the case, Mills would be given the extreme penalty, for he deserved it. Mills was arrested on the morning of March 15 at 2 o'clock when he and Ruth O'Donnell, 16, of Williams street, were found occupying an automobile owned by Mills on Mohegan avenue. Both Mills and the girl were intoxicated when found by Patrolman Lawrence Fardy. The girl has since been committed to the State Farm for Women at Niantic.

BOOTLEGGERS PART WITH FINES OF $412.23 EACH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 27—The violators of the liquor law were presented in the police court this morning and to each was meted the same penalty by Judge Victor Prince. Edward Bell, proprietor of a small grocery store, 97 Green street; John McElhaney, residing at 9 Pearl street and Joseph Carey, employed at the club room 24 Golden street were fined $200 and costs on each of two counts, possessing liquor and keeping with intent to sell. The total amount that the three men paid into the city treasury was $412.23 each. Bell was arrested yesterday in the grocery store, long suspected of being a liquor dispensary. The officers found a small quantity of home-made whiskey and several whiskey glasses. McElhaney was arrested last night at his home when the officers went there in response to repeated complaints although the apartment on the top floor had been reported a long time to be resorted to by consumers of liquor. Carey was arrested at the club room and after the place had been given police scrutiny several weeks. Carey was in charge of the place in the absence of the proprietors and was arrested. All paid their fines today.

Garrett Foley, of the fishing steamer, Sea Gull; Miss Meredith Tinker, Waterford; Victor Winkler, Poquonoc Bridge and William Smith, Bydenburg avenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

The funeral of Elmer Carlson, of Waterford, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. E. E. Knapp, pastor of Jordan Baptist church. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

New London chapter of Hadassah held a directors' meeting last night at the home of its president, Mrs. Samuel Selleck, of Bank street, for the purpose of discussing future work of the chapter. Plans were laid for the annual baby show which is to be held sometime in April. Mrs. Harry Sharaf was appointed chairman of the committee to make arrangements for the affair.

Tomorrow will mark the sale of the Garde theatre property of this city at public auction. The sale will take place by order of the superior court to satisfy a judgment of foreclosure in the amount of $130,000. The New Haven bank, N. B. A., is plaintiff in the case, as trustee under the second mortgage bonds. The sale will be in charge of Thomas C. Dillon.

George A. Williams of 390 Broad street, injured last week when his automobile crashed into an electric light pole off the Hartford turnpike, near Colchester, is reported as being greatly improved today. It is expected that he soon will be able to leave Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where he was taken after the accident.

William Dombroski, eight year old son of Mrs. Adam Dombroski, of 80 Potter street, who was struck by an automobile on Main street about ten days ago, is still in grave danger. When he was first admitted to the hospital little hope of his recovery was entertained by physicians in charge of the case, as he was suffering from a fractured skull and severe internal injuries. However, he has rallied under expert treatment and it now seems probable that he will recover.

The mother ship of the unlucky S-4, the submarine tender Bushnell, is expected to arrive in this port from Boston sometime tomorrow. The Bushnell has been tied up at the Boston navy yard since the raising of the S-4. After taking on supplies here the tender will proceed to Cuban waters, it is understood.

Building Inspector Gunn, of this city, reports that he has received 23 applications for building permits, all of which were voted on at the council meeting held this afternoon. Applications were from the following persons:

As briefly noted Tuesday morning the passion play, "The Upper Room," given last night at the Lyceum theatre for the benefit o the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service was witnessed by a large and appreciative audience. The play graphically pictured events incidental to the betrayal and crucifixion of Christ. The leading parts were taken by Miss Lillian Ottenheimer, Roland Murphy, Marcella Grimes, Jack Whitside, Thomas McCarthy, Frank Zozora, Henry Hayes Stoddard, Dr. Donald M. Corcoran, George L. Fox and Italia Guerri. The scenic settings were unusually effective. Rev. Raymond J. O'Callaghan was director and coach. He was assisted in arranging the stage setting by Frank Bennett and Miss Delia Moroney, head of the dispensary bureau. Miss Moroney was also in charge of the business management of the play.

Jack Blythe, of Morris Plains, N. J., was arrested today by Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray on a technical charge of breach of the peace and will be presented to the police court tomorrow. Blythe had been drinking and as he had formerly been employed in the kitchen of Lawrence-Memorial hospital, he went to the dormitory 251 Ocean avenue, occupied by employes of the hospital and either gained entrance by opening a window or by finding the window open. He was detected in one of the rooms by a female employe and a report of her finding was made to the hospital superintendent, who notified the police. Officer Ray went to the dormitory, but when he arrived there Blythe had left. Later he was found roaming about the avenue, but a short distance from the dormitory.

Two candidates were initiated by Nancy Hamstead council No. 11, Daughters of America, at its March meeting last night in Union lodge rooms. Perry, 76 Winthrop street, that his son, Fenton, 9, had been bitten by the animal while the youth was walking near the home of Williams.

In all probability tomorrow when he is presented in the police court he will be delivered into the custody of the selectmen of that town and will be taken back to Waterford and provision made for the care of the unfortunate man who has passed the three score and 10 mark. Schofield, apparently came to New London in quest of employment and going to 545 Ocean avenue, the residence of Mrs. Emily E. Huxford, he rang the bell. When he did not obtain a response, he tried the doors. Being unsuccessful in gaining entrance, Schofield left, but Mrs. Huxford communicated with the police. When Officer Ray arrived at the Huxford house, Schofield had left, but he was found in the neighborhood and was arrested.

CITY COUNCIL CONSIDERS BUDGET OF $1,642,672

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 27—A special meeting of the city council was held this evening that the tentative budget of the city might be laid before the members. Messrs Scott, Whiton and Streeter were absent, but the others present was a quorum and that was enough to do business. The budget ordinance was read by the clerk for the first time. Mayor May gave notice that he registered objection to an increase in the expense of the tax collector's office as proposed, $8,000. He said he desired to take the position he had assumed from the announcement of the increase. The council listened to the reading of the ordinance providing for the improvement of Williams street and it went to a second reading. The total of the budget is $1,642,672, which will require, in the opinion of the mayor, about 21 mills and may necessitate a bond issue to meet the obligations of the city.

The council declined to give permission to the New London and Norwich Sign company to erect a sign board on Hamilton street, near Howard street.

Considerable interest is being shown by New London contractors over the proposed paving of Bank, Williams, Jay and Truman streets. Even at this stage of the tentative plans for improving these streets, numerous inquiries have been received at the Municipal building regarding the issuance of contracts to construct the hard surface thoroughfares that are planned for those streets. Bids for the materials that will be used in constructing the streets have already been received, and Purchasing Agent John W. Sheedy states that he and those associated with him are anxious to learn the estimated figures of the bidding contractors who are submitting estimates for the proposed work.

Lee Mars, 3 Thompson Court, was taken into custody this evening and later was committed to Norwich State hospital. Mars is employed by a Jefferson avenue manufactory. This afternoon he went to a Bank street pawnbroker store and purchased a blackjack after which he went to his place of employment where he attempted to use the weapon. Complaint was made to the police and Mars was arrested. Mars was struck by an automobile several years ago suffered concussion of the brain and since that time his brain has not been considered normal Treachery, intrigue, romance, action, scraps and wild chases. They are all in "The Heart of a Coward" starring Billy Sullivan, and now being shown at the Strand. When you try to make a blacksmith out of a writer and a dreamer, almost anything is liable to happen. He dwelt in a realm of fancy peopled by the beautiful ladies and gallant men of his own imaginings And then reality came along and kicked his dreams galley-west. If you want to see a really truly human—and above all, entertaining—picture, don't miss "Heart of a Coward". Others in the cast are Charlotte Stevens, Myles McCarthy and Edythe Yorke.

If one loves beautiful gowns, silks, satins, frills and flares, it is best not to miss Colleen Moore's famous picture "Irene" which will be at the Strand tonight and Thursday night. "Irene" is an adaptation of a musical comedy hit. Following the plot of the original play, Colleen has a Cinderella-like role. Starting as a lowly wrapper in a department store, the peppy young lady rises to the eminence of a dress model and finally captures the heart of a wealthy young gentleman. Scenes of a fashionable lawn fete, at which Colleen and sixty beautiful models parade in original creations, are of surpassing beauty, being presented in natural colors. Some in the cast are Lloyd Hughes, George K. Arthur, Charles Murray and Kate Price. There are also many beautiful girls and clever actresses.

"Aesop's Fables" is also being given.

Palace Theatre

A double feature program will be the attraction at the Palace theatre today. "Burning Up Broadway" with Helen Costello is a story of the New York underworld, with detection beetlers, crooks and one real live westerner. "The Border Whirlwind" with Bob Custer is a hurricane of thrilling adventure and is bound to please all lovers of action pictures.

Tonight is gift night and twenty-five dollars in gold and ten valuable gifts including a beautiful forty-two piece dinner set will be given away free. Starting tomorrow and continuing through the week the feature photoplay will be "Something Always Happens" starring Esther Ralston. It's a thrilly, chilly fun fest. It's all in fun but baffling and mysterious. If its a laugh you're after coupled with spine tingling, hair-raising thrills, then be sure to see this dramatic mystery farce. On the stage Drake and Walker big all colored jazz revue "My Chocolate Gal" will be the stage attraction This revue has had a big success in all the large cities and is sure to please all lovers of singing, dancing and jazz music.

There are thirty-five people in the company, they carry a carload of special scenery and feature their own band which is said to be one of the best in the country.

Taken all together it looks like a mighty good show at the Palace for Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Capitol Theatre, Willimantic

Al Jolson, the world famous comedian making his screen debut in "The Jazz Singer" at the Warner theatre in New York in October, scored the greatest success of his career. He says so himself.

For several years he has been urged to become one of the stars of the screen, but for some reason has resisted the appeal. When Warner Bros offered him the star part in Samson Raphaelson's play, which depicts the story of the only son of a cantor trained to follow his father's career, running away from home to follow the dictates of his own desire to become a jazz singer, they did not know they were asking him to repeat in pictures the incident that developed his career on the stage. It is claimed that there has never been a picture on Broadway that has scored such a sensational hit.

While Jolson loves the stage, he admits that he loves the wonderful opportunities afforded him as a motion picture star even more. In "The Jazz Singer," which Warner Bros. will present at the Capitol theatre, Willimantic, Thursday, Friday and Saturday is May McAvoy, who will be seen as Mary Dale, an exquisite star of musical comedy, who helps Jack Robin—played by Jolson—to achieve the success his genius demands.

BALTIC

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Carden and Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Cote were delegates from the local councils to the district convention of L'U. St. Jean Baptiste d'Amerique held in North Grosvenordale Sunday afternoon.

The town notaries public are being kept busy these days signing applications for motor vehicle registrations.

Alby Cote, who had blood poisoning a few weeks ago the result of falling on an ice pike handled by one of the ice packers, is out, and about, feeling in good health.

The roads in some parts of the village especially around the Baltic Mills Co. tenement houses, are so soft and muddy that peddlers' automobiles are being helped out every day.

Many from out of town attended the annual English Tea party given in Sprague hall Saturday evening.

Russell Barber of Providence was a local business visitor Monday afternoon.

Jerry Downey of New London called on local friends recently.

Many a firm man is only a silent partner.

NEW SUITS BROUGHT FOR TRIAL IN COUNTY SUPERIOR COURT

Suits for partition of property, for foreclosure of mortgage, foreclosure of judgment lien and for compensation for services are among the matters of new business for the superior court in this county in which writs have been served by Deputy Sheriff Manuel J. Martin.

A partition of property, an accounting, and $2,000 damages are sought by Guiseppe Ferringo, alias Joseph Frano, against Addamo Nicola, all of New London.

The plaintiff claims that on Sept. 30, 1924, both the plaintiff and defendant, as tenants in common, purchased land and buildings in Ocean avenue, near Niles Hill road, from Julian D. Moran, administrator of the estate of Ella O'Neill.

It is alleged that both agreed to assume a $2,500 mortgage to the Mariners Savings bank and execute to Ambrose Cassara two mortgages of $1,400 and $552.50.

The plaintiff claims to have expended money for improvements $912 on account of the second mortgages and installments to the Mariners Savings bank for interest.

For Judgment Lien.

Foreclosure of a judgment lien is sought by Frank M. Roche of Old Lyme against Francis B. Miller of New London, who claims that on Jan. 13, 1926, he obstained a judgment in the superior court for $632 and costs of $43.44. A lien has been placed on the property in Old Lyme.

Mortgage Foreclosure.

Foreclosure of a mortgage which secured a note for $2,000 is asked by Harry Sharaf and Morris Mallove against Benjamin L. Jones, both of New London.

The plaintiffs claim that on May 10, 1927, they loaned the defendant $2,000 as evidenced by the latter's promissory note, secured by a mortgage on property in Waterford. It is claimed that there is now due $1,900 with interest from July 10, 1927.

Sues On Four Counts.

Claiming that from Nov. 1, 1924, to Aug. 26, 1925, he rendered services in extending and carrying out the Noyes New London plan, Herbert S. Wilgus of Albany, N. Y., seeks damages of $3,000 from John F. Noyes of New London.

The suit is brought on four counts. The plaintiff claims that for the services rendered as stated above the defendant agreed to pay him $5,640 and that there is now due of that amount $620.

The second count alleges that on Aug. 26, 1925, the plaintiff was to be the sole representative for the defendant in this locality and that on Oct. 7, 1926, his services were terminated without notice and that there is due him $1,773.17.

The third count alleges that on June 6, 1925, the plaintiff loaned the defendant $300 and that it has not been paid.

The fourth count sets out that on Oct. 7, 1926, the defendant owed the plaintiff $2,693.17.

Continuance In Waterford Court.

Continuance of one week was made for trial of a charge of driving under the influence of liquor, on which James Brennan of R. F. D., No. 1, Norwich, was presented in Waterford town court. Brennan was released after a bond of $250 was posted for his appearance in court. He is also charged with driving without an operator's license.

State Policeman John H. Smith arrested Brennan Sunday near Enos' garage on the Norwich turnpike, after the state policeman had trailed him for some distance.

JUDGMENT FOR CONTRACTOR IN COMMON PLEAS COURT

Judgment in the amount of $579.59 is given Joseph J. Chinigo, a contractor of this city in his $1,000 damage suit against Harry Weinstein and Fannie Weinstein and Barney Belgrade, all of New London, according to a decision handed down by Judge Charles B. Waller of the court of common pleas and filed with Clerk Lewis Crandall.

Chinigo claimed that he furnished materials and rendered services in the construction and alteration of a garage owned by the Weinsteins. The Weinsteins in their counter-claim were given $50 in the decision.

In his memorandum of decision Judge Waller says in part:

I find that all the so-called extra work not covered by the contract was done by the plaintiff as day work and without a specific agreement as to each particular time of such extra work. I find the amount of time required as nearly as I am able to determine it from the evidence is 100 hours at $1 an hour and therefore allow $100 for changes in the contract or so-called extra work which the plaintiff was required to do.

After the completion of work on garage the plaintiff, at the defendant's request, did some work on the house, the principal part of which was building a new veranda, together with work around the cellar door, back porch and other odd jobs. It was agreed that the work was to be done as day work for $1 an hour for himself and $1.25 for the other carpenter. On this house work, I find that the plaintiff worked 121 1-2 hours. For the work on the house I find that the plaintiff is entitled to the sum of $274.37. Therefore the three items of the contract, extra work on the garage and work on the house, amount in all to the sum of $589.37.

The defendant alleges in his counter-claim that the work on the garage and veranda was not properly done and ask for judgment for such amount as may be found necessary for him to expend in properly refinishing the work. I find under the counter-claim that the boards on the garage were not properly nailed or placed, and to put the garage in good workmanlike condition would require taking off the boards which would involve an expense of $50.

WINS IN SUIT FOR PAY FOR DIGGING WELL

Thomas W. Kenn of Montville is given judgment in the amount of $173.25 in a decision handed down by Judge Charles B. Waller of the court of common pleas against John Rodzeiloviez, also of the town of Montville. The judgment was given Kenn for excavating a well for the defendant in the summer of 1925.

In his memorandum of decision Judge Waller says in part:

It appear sthat the plaintiff did not work on the well over two or three days and was only obliged to blast twice. However, under the terms of the agreement between the parties I find that the plaintiff is entitled to recover the agreed price of $150. Judgment may therefore be entered for plaintiff to recover of the defendant $173.25.

Will Render "Seven Last Words"

"The Seven Last Words of Christ" by Dubois is to be rendered by the chorus of voices from the various choirs of the city next Sunday evening in the auditorium of the Central Baptist church. This is a work of exceptional merit, having great dramatic and emotional possibilities. The choir will be assisted by Earl E. Styers, baritone. Mr. Styers is a member of the staff at W. T. I. C., Hartford, and a soloist under the direction of Frederick J. Manles, the conductor of the choir of the Central Baptist church. The chorus will be accompanied on the Gale Memorial organ by Miss Louise Fuller.

JURY VERDICT $2,000 FOR FRANKLIN PLAINTIFF

A verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $2,000 was returned by a jury in the superior court at New London Tuesday afternoon in favor of Louis H. Burdick of Franklin against Patrick Sullivan of Bozrah. Judge Christopher L. Avery accepted the verdict.

Burdick sued for $7,500 damages for personal injuries received in an auto crash. The jury was out three-quarters of an hour.

Burdick claimed that on Oct. 8, 1927, while he was driving an automobile owned by Louis Wilbur, of Bozrah, on the highway leading from Willimantic to Norwich at a point known as Sodom hill, a huge truck owned by the defendant, Sullivan, and operated by George Miller, his employe, because of the manner in which its brakes were applied, skidded sideways down the hill, crashing into and totally demolishing the small coupe. Burdick claimed serious injuries, as the result of which he expended large sums for medical and hospital care, and is unable to follow his occupation, that of carpenter.

The case began last Thursday. George J. Miller, driver of the truck, testified in court Monday that the day was rainy and the highway slippery. He said his car skidded but also that Burdick told him after the crash that he couldn't see where Miller was to blame.

Burdick testified briefly in rebuttal, denying that he told Miller, the latter was not to blame.

Attorney V. P. A. Quinn began the arguments. He was followed by Attorney D. L. Pelgrift. Attorney Quinn wound up for the plaintiff.

Judge Avery then charged the jury.

SOMEWHAT EARLIER OPENING FOR MAINE FISHING SEASON

Norwich men who habitually enjoy a part of the season fishing in Maine were interested this week in the announcement that the season this year promises to be somewhat earlier than usual. According to information given by district game supervisors, it will open at least a month earlier.

Prediction was made that Sebago lake would be clear by April 5 or 6, with prospects of fine salmon fishing. Opening of other lakes were forecast as follows: Grand Lake April 17 to 25; Moosehead lake May 1; Belgrade Chain April 28-30; Rangeley lakes, first week in May.

Shamrock Birthday Party

Miss Anna Connell of Summit street gave a birthday party Saturday evening at her home. Four tables of bridge were played. When supper was served the menu was shamrock salad, pickles, green decorated cakes, pistache ice cream. The favors were green top hats and gold boxes of green candies. The house was decorated with pots of shamrock and jonquils. Dancing followed.

NORWICH TOWN

At the Sacred Heart church, Tuesday morning at 7:30, the pastor, Rev. Edward J. Quinn, celebrated a month's mind requiem high mass for the repose of the soul of William Lynch, of West Town street. At the offertory, Miss Mary Buckley sang De Profundis and at the close of the mass she sang Abide With Me. Mrs. William A. Murphy had charge of the music of the mass, which was attended by a large number of neighbors and family friends.

Lenten devotions at Sacred Heart church Friday evening at 7:30, will consist of Stations of the Cross and Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. Sunday next, Palm Sunday, the palms will be blessed and distributed, at both masses.

About 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, Norwich Town residents observed a large flock of geese, flying toward Boston at a very high altitude.

On Monday, Henry Savage, one of the efficient motormen on the Norwich Town route for the past year and a half, in the employ of the Connecticut company, commenced his duties running between New London and Willimantic. The new run, which is a day job, was brought about through changes caused by the death of a former employe, Milton Everette Terry, who covered this route until obliged to give up a few days prior to his death. Mr. Savage's successor on the Norwich Town route running evenings is Fred Linehan.

At the beginning of this week Henry T. Gorman, state supervisor of roads for this section of Connecticut, had a large force of men preparing the highway through Norwich Town for the spring coating of tarvia, which men began to spread Tuesday morning. Ernest Gadbois, foreman for Mr. Gorman, is in general charge of the work. The road-bed was swept Monday and piles of sand were distributed preparatory to the spreading of the tarvia.

The two extremely large trees in front of the Harland house, Sentry Hill, now the property of Frederick Armstrong, have been cut down and the work of removing the massive sections of the trunks of the trees as well as large limbs has been accomplished. This work has been in progress for several weeks. When the veranda was built by the late General Harland, the trees were of such mammoth proportions that the veranda flooring and roof were built around them. This necessitated much tearing away of both at this time to extricate both trees.

Mrs. Christian Hansen, of Plain Hill road, received a card sent from New York by her sister, Miss Mary Moore, of Norwich, just prior to sailing Thursday for Bushnell, Florida. Miss Moore plans to visit for a month with her niece, Mrs. Henry Palmer, formerly of Westerly.

When motoring Tuesday afternoon to Mystic, where he filled an engagement as violinist at one of the theatres, Theodore Sterry, of Norwich Town, was accompanied by Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb, who spent the afternoon and early evening at the home of Dr. Lamb's sister, Mrs. Harriet E. Brainard. Later in the afternoon, Mr. Sterry again joined Dr. and Mrs. Lamb at Mrs. Brainard's home, where all were her guests at supper.

MAY ASK FORD TO SUGGEST REMEDY FOR COAL FIELDS

Henry Ford is to Be Called Before the Senate Coal Investigating Committee—Decision Arrived at After a Witness Had Given a Rosy Picture of Conditions at Ford's Mines in West Virginia—Witness Told the Committee That Ford Mines Are Paying an Average of $8 a Day For Eight Hours Work.

WASHINGTON, March 28—(AP)—Henry Ford is to be called before the senate soft coal investigation committee to ascertain whether his experience as a coal operator can produce any suggestions for alleviation of difficulties besetting that industry.

Decision to issue a subpoena for the automobile manufacturer was reached by Chairman Watson when committee members requested that he be called after they had heard a witness picture conditions at Ford's West Virginia mines in direct contract to others elsewhere.

At first it was proposed to invite Mr. Ford to testify but the subpoena was decided upon when committee members recalled that the latter procedure was followed recently when John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Charles M. Schwab and R. B. Mellon came before the committee. Chairman Watson said he had heard reports that Mr. and Mrs. Ford planned to sail for Europe on April 1 and he added that if that were correct, he would not attempt to call the manufacturer at this time.

The witness who gave the committee a contrasting rosy picture of conditions at Ford's mines was Percy Tetlow, president of the West Virginia district of the United Mine Workers. He told the committee that Ford mines are paying an average of $8 a day for eight hours work. At the same time he named the New River Export Coal company at Lookout, West Virginia and a mine at Boonesboro, West Virginia, owned by the Boone interests as among a group of concerns paying as low as $2.85 a day for mine work.

Senator Wagner, democrat, New York, drew a contrast between wages at the Ford mines and elsewhere, suggesting that the automobile manufacturer "might have information enlightening to the committee."

Earlier the committee had heard another of the bitter clashes that have occurred between union representatives and operators' counsel off and on throughout the inquiry. The principals were John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and William P. Belden, chief counsel for the Ohio operators.

The formed named four Ohio companies which he said were of a larger group that had pursued a "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde policy" toward organized labor while operating under agreements with the United Mine Workers.

This cogsituted, he explained, being "benevolent" toward unionism on their Ohio properties, and simultaneously investing profits derived therefrom in non-union operations of West Virginia. Lewis contended that this action meant a sanctioning of the brutalism and oppression which he charged the special police have been practicing toward the unions in the West Virginia fields.

Belden shouted a denial of the allegations, demanding opportunity to introduce a witness to prove them "misleading and false."

"All I can say," retorted Lewis, "is that Mr. Belden's reply is 'wrong,' and that is the mildest word I can use."

The companies cited by Lewis in his arraignment were the M. A. Hanna Coal company, and the Z. E. Warner company.

The United States Steel corporation was cited by Tetlow and Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, along with Henry Ford as holding "captive mines" in West Virginia where wages are at a higher level than in other mines. Both contended that the consequent increased costs of production were absorbed by the larger properties which consumed the coal produced, noting that such a policy was not maintained by the Bethlehem Steel corporation for its mines.

Cross examination of Tetlow was begun by A. M. Belcher, counsel for West Virginia operators, who asked him to name the companies which he had charged with prohibiting their employes from buying elsewhere than at company stores. The union leader mentioned the Cabin Creek Coal company, adding that he had been informed by miners that all companies along Cabin Creek had issued such orders. Belcher denied that the practice was in effect.

Tetlow again encouraged government control as the most certain solution of the bituminous mining problem. Committee members questioned him closely on this point, the dominant theme being whether or not adequate federal regulation would constitute socialization. He denied this.

STUDYING THE NEW OIL REGULATIONS IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, March 28—(AP)—Representatives of foreign oil interests have settled down to serious study of the new oil regulations signed yesterday by President Calles, and in the meanwhile are thoroughly noncommittal as to what course they will take or what their attitude will be.

Foreign oil companies have until next January to signify their acceptance of the new regulations by applying for confirmations of their old concessions granted prior to 1917, but what is considered most important here is the apparent fact that whether or not they accept by January becomes their own individual business, the United States government through Ambassador Morrow having signified that its previous objections to the Mexican oil laws with their alleged retroactive and confiscatory clauses are all overcome in the new regulations.

Ambassador Morrow has received many congratulations, locally as well as by telegram and cable from the United States over his part in the effecting of the agreement with the Calles government.

Although an almost strict silence has been maintained at the offices of the foreign oil companies there seems to be a disposition on their part to regard the laws as settling the dispute between them and the administration.

NEW PLANE BEING BUILT FOR COL. LINDBERGH

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 28—(AP)—A new airplane built for Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh was given finishing touches today preparatory to test flights at Mahoney field and delivery, probably a week hence, to its owner. The trans-Atlantic hero is expected to come here to accept the plane.

The new craft has "cats eyes" for night flying and landing two large projectors on the wing structure capable of developing 250,000 candlepower and parachute flares designed to light up and for 10 square miles.

The plane is built on the same lines as the Spirit of St. Louis, but instead of cockpit and periscope, it has a "brougham" cabin.

It is glass enclosed and has accommodations for four passengers.

The same type engine is used but the wing spread is slightly larger. It has a gasoline capacity of 1,000 gallons.

After two weary weeks the nob's lady shucked off the plaster cast and returned to the hunting field. The next Sunday she attended church and joined in the general tittering when the parson said:

"And now let us pray for the speedy recovery of Lady Manton who is lying dangerously ill."

IMPROVEMENT IN CONDITION OF MRS. LEMIRA GOODHUE

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 28—(AP)—Such marked improvement was shown today in the condition of Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, mother of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, who is ill at the Dickinson hospital here, that Mrs. Coolidge was able to spend almost three hours at her mother's bedside in one visit today. Reports from the hospital said that Mrs. Goodhue passed a comfortable day and appeared bright and happy.

A bulletin issued by Dr. J. E. Hayes, personal physician of Mrs. Goodhue, was the most favorable made public since the aged patient suffered a relapse on Sunday. She has been in the hospital since December when she was stricken with influenza.

Mrs. Coolidge, who came to Northampton early yesterday to be near her mother, went to the hospital at 10:30 this forenoon and remained until after one. Afterwards Mrs. Goodhue slept until 2 o'clock, and later in the day her daughter called for another chat.

In the forenoon report Dr. Hayes said that his patient had passed a very comfortable night and showed improvement.

The Welfare federation will be asked to provide funds to send Mrs. Reiner back to Oklahoma where she has three small children.

MUSSOLINI DETERMINED TO ENLARGE HIS PARTY

ROME, March 28—(AP)—Before his council of ministers today, Premier Mussolini emphasized the importance of the induction into the regular fascist party of 80,000 youths belonging to the Balilla and Avanguardista organizations on Sunday. He declared it was a most important moment in the system of universal integral education and preparation for Italian manhood. He considered that this was one of the fundamental duties of the state and the fascist papers accept the premier's words as meaning that he is determined on the "fascistization" of Italian youth, with the state controlling education.

Mussolini's remarks are taken by the press generally as constituting a reply to the criticism voiced by Pope Pius of the fascist education of the youth of Italy.

BORAH WOULD MAKE PROHIBITION AN ISSUE

WASHINGTON, March 28—(AP)—Renewing his demand that the republican and democratic national conventions take a definite stand for enforcement of the prohibition amendment, Senator Borah of Idaho, in a radio address tonight declared it was "the plan among certain powerful influences in both parties to avoid the issues—to withhold from the voters a vote upon the question."

"If avoiding the issues in the campaign was all the avoiding there was to do," he continued, "it would not be so serious. But the same influences which will make the political party spineless will make the administration indifferent. The same influences which frighten parties into silence will frighten the administration into neutrality. And that is all those who are opposed to the law expect or will demand."

The Idaho republican delivered his address through station WTFF, operated here by the Fellowship Forum, a fraternal magazine. It was transmitted to Columbus, Ohio, for rebroadcasting for a women's conference on law enforcement. Mr. Borah had been invited to address the meeting but was unable to be present.

STRIVING FOR NEW PLANE ENDURANCE FLIGHT

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla., March 28—(AP)—Leisurely cruising along a thirty mile strip of coast through June-like weather, Eddie Stinson and Captain George Haldeman tonight were flying evenly toward a projected new world's record for airplane endurance flight.

An average speed of 75 miles an hour had been maintained since the big Stinson-Detroiter monoplane took the air this morning at 7:37 o'clock. Flight mechanics who went up to fly alongside at intervals today reported that the monoplane's engines apparently were functioning perfectly and that the craft was not straining under the load of gasoline.

Gasoline carried by the plane totalled 550 gallons, one hundred of which was stowed away in five gallon cans in the after cockpit.

Although the fliers announced their intention of dropping messages in the empty cans as these were tossed overboard after the contents had been used, none came today. This was considered a good omen.

Mrs. Julian was taken to a psychopathic ward last week on insanity charges preferred by her husband. These later were dropped and inebriety charges filed.

Ready to Take Off on Dublin-N. York Flight

Captain Koehl and Baron Von Huenefeld Are Ready and Anxious for the Great Adventure.

Connecticut Library

[illegible] AIRDROME, IRISH [illegible]ATE, March 28.—(AP)—A [illegible]oden runway stretching in the [illegible]ion of Galway and America was [illegible]plete tonight to aid the Junkers airplane Bremen to take off at dawn tomorrow if weather reports from the United States justify the three Germans, who are out for the honor of the fatherland, in following the westward trail of death and glory across the North Atlantic.

Captain Hermann Koehl, Baron Von Huenefeld and Arthur Spindler, daring comrades in arms, are ready and anxious for the great adventurde.

Baron Von Huenefeld today paid an Irish farmer 70 pounds for tearing down a stonewall at the far end of the Baldonnel field, so that the plane will have a mile and a quarter straight away for lifting its big weight of three men and 2500 litres of fuel into the air.

The monoplane has its wings oiled, to prevent the forming of ice when the machine gets into the area of fogs and mists, or rain, and the cold winds. The motor has been tuned to perfection and every navigation instrument has been put to the test. The plane remained all day in the hangar under guard of Junker mechanics and Irish Free State airforcemen.

Pacing nervously back and forth between the hangar and a lane of green Irish turf, where the runway was being built, was the young German nobleman with a monocle screwed in his right eye, wearing a German student's cap, and his slim figure covered by a navy blue yaching suit. This, he says, he does not intend to take off until he reaches Mitchel field, Long Island.

Von Huenefeld is as superstitious as the ordinary sailor who sails the sea in ships; his pockets are filled with trinkets, omens of good luck and pieces of all kinds. This afternoon he fled like a scared rabbit from a photographer who attempted to take movies of him.

Contrasted with the monocled nobleman, the chunky, quiet steady Koehl, chief pilot, watched the preparations for the Bremen's getaway almost disinterestedly. To him, flying the Atlantic isn't luck, but science and nerves. He has a copy of Lindbergh's book, and from it he says he has learned the lesson that ice and sleet on the wings of the plane are likely to be his greatest enemy.

PREDICTS DEMAND FOR "SPORTY" ROUGH SILKS

NEW YORK, March 28—(AP)—The age of comfort and freedom in dress has not passed, nor has an era of elegance dawned; the trend of the times is toward the "sporting" manner for day wear and for elegance in evening attire, Ward Cheney, of Cheney Bros., told the Silk Association of America at its annual meeting today.

"A man sees nothing incongruous in the fact that he wears rough tweeds during the day and a satin-lined dinner jacket with a hard-boiled shirt in the evening," Mr. Cheney explained. "Dress silks present an exact analogy. Silks for wear during much of the day of the modern woman must be sporting in manner, because the life she leads is so. And just as logically, silks for dressy wear, be it afternoon or evening, must be dressy, elegant, luxurious."

Mr. Cheney predicted a continued demand for "sporty" rough silks for day wear and for evening silks combining the same texture with the utmost possible luxury.

H. Schniewind, Jr., was re-elected president of the association.

ANOTHER 4,000,000 SHARE SESSION OF STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, March 28—The New York Stock Exchange today chalked up another 4,000,000 share session, the third in succession, but price fluctuations returned to a more orderly basis with the main trend again upward.

Radio moved back into the speculative spotlight by quickly rallying from a low of 161.50 to a new high record at $174.75, but slipped back at the close to $167.50, or $1.25 below last night's final quotation.

Extreme nervousness characterized general trading because of the growing uneasiness over the credit situation and the long ticker delays. Around mid-day, the ticker had fallen nearly half an hour behind the market, making it almost impossible to trade against the tape, as there was no way of knowing whether stocks had been bought or sold until nearly an hour after the orders had been placed.

The day's sales totaled 4,079,600 shares, as against 4,762,400 in yesterday's turbulent trading.

$5,000,000 Alcohol Ring Indictments

Chicago Alderman is One of Eleven Persons Who Have Been Indicted by the Grand Jury.

CHICAGO, March 28.—(AP)—An alderman, a former Lincoln Park commissioner, and nine others were indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of operating a $5,000,000 alcohol ring which has been flooding Chicago and the middle west with liquor.

Titus Haffa, elected to the city council from the "gold coast" ward, the 43rd, provided bond an hour after being persecuted by political enemies.

"I can't understand this charge," said Haffa. "I never sold a drop of liquor."

He is running for committeman of the 43rd ward on the Governor Small-Mayor Thompson ticket.

The grand jury action followed months of investigation by prohibition agents who gained the confidence of the 43rd ward gang; tapping wires, attending political meetings, opening "booze joints," gambling establishments and stills to obtain the details of the gigantic ring.

The main still of the gang, the agents claimed, turned out 10,000 gallons a month, and a half dozen smaller stills controlled by the bootleggers supplemented that supply. A regular payoff system was maintained, they found, which included politicians, prohibition agents and the police.

A chemist was employed by the concern, known as "The Midwest Construction Company." It was his duty to test the liquor as to quality and safety.

Those indicted included Albert P. Bauer, former Lincoln Park commissioner and secretary-treasurer of the republican Boosters club of the 43rd ward; Joseph Bagheria, president of the club; and John Joseph Wahl, head of the permit division of the local prohibition office. Wahl was charged with accepting a bribe from Bauer.

Five indictments were returned, the chief one naming Haffa. Twenty-three overt acts were named, charging the men with sale, transportation and manufacture of liquor.

FAMILY OF THREE SLAIN WHILE IN THEIR BEDS

NEWARK, N. Y., March 28—(AP)—An entire family—father, mother and son—were murdered early today as they lay in their beds.

They were Frank S. Warren, 42; his wife, Edith J., 42, and their son, Jackson S., 13.

Whoever committed the triple slaying then set fire to the bedroom occupied by the parents. When firemen arrived at 5:30 this morning the flames had gained such headway that the bodies of the two were burned to a crisp.

X-rays late this afternoon showed that Warren and his wife had been killed by bullets from a .22-calibre automatic pistol which entered their left eyes and passed through their brains.

The boy, who was in his room across the hall, died of a wound above the heart inflicted by a bullet of the same calibre. A pistol of the type used by the slayer and one empty cartridge was found in the covers of the boy's bed. Three of the seven cartridges which the pistol holds were missing and the weapon had been discharged recently. Warren, according to friends, possessed a pistol of the same type.

IDENTICAL SHAPE OF VIALS THE CAUSE OF POISONING

BALTIMORE, March 28—(AP)—Identical shape of two vials and the similarity of their contents, was responsible for error in administering the wrong drug which caused the death today of two dispensary patients, a woman and boy, Dr. D. M. Smith, director of Johns Hopkins hospital, said tonight.

Mrs. Susie Carr, 32, and Kenneth Basenel, 15, were the two victims of the poison.

Both patients had been receiving the same treatment for nearly a year, Dr. Smith said, in which a poisonous preparation was used in solution after it had been neutralized. By mistake, he said, the doctor administered the preparation today that was not neutralized.

SENATE PASSES THE $325,000,000 MISSISSIPPI FLOOD CONTROL BILL

WASHINGTON, March 28—(AP)—Mississippi flood control legislation was shot through the senate today by a vote of 70 to nothing with a speed that astonished everyone.

After only an hour and 29 minutes consideration the compromise Jones bill was approved with a chorus of ayes and sent to the house where leaders hope to bring it or a substitute measure up early next week.

The senate vote came without warning after Chairman Jones of the commerce committee had explained the provisions of the $325,000,000 measure and had stated that it represented a co-ordination of the conflicting views of all senators from the states which suffer the greatest when the Mississippi overflows.

There had been a smattering of debate, several members questioning the Washington senator as he proceeded with his explanation. As he took his seat Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, laid aside a long prepared address and suggested a vote.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WASHINGTON, March 28—House leaders are disturbed by the sudden passing of a senate Mississippi flood bill which does not harmonize with the one they have framed. Floor Leader Tilson said today, "instead of helping secure immediate flood relief the senate bill will delay it by debate and controversy when it reaches the house. The senate has not passed a bill, it has passed the buck."

"CLOTHED THE NAKEDNESS" OF CABARET PERFORMERS

VIENNA, March 28—(AP)—Several hundred members of the Pan-German college fraternity set out last night with huge pots of paint to "clothe the nakedness" displayed on posters and lithographs of female cabaret performers and cinema stars. When Vienna awoke this morning, it found posters, once attractive, now resembling distorted examples of futuristic art.

The theatrical producers were indignant and at once began suit in the courts against those responsible. The latter on their part declare they were incensed by the nudity of certain performers, including the American Negro dancer, Josephine Baker, and the failure of the government to pass a bill against obscene literature and certain types of pictorial art.

NEW YORK, March 28.—(AP)—An airplane with which it is planned to penetrate to the interior of New Guinea, in search of primitive types of sugar cane for experimental use by the United States department of agriculture, will leave New York Saturday piloted by Richard Peck, it was announced today.

The plane, a Fairchild cabin monoplane, will be flown first to Washington to pick up E. W. Brandes of the department of agriculture, who will head the expedition, then will continue to San Francisco where it will be placed aboard a liner for Australia.

FIRE DAMAGED LAUNDRY PLANT IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, March 28.—(AP)—Fire of unknown origin caused damage of $5,000 at the plant of the Imperial Laundry here tonight. An alarm was sent in from a nearby box by a passerby and a few seconds later, another box was pulled by someone who evidently was not aware that one call had already been made. As a result, several fire companies responded immediately and saved the necessity of a second alarm.

One theory is that the current was left on in an electric iron and caused the blaze.

CONFESSED BURGLARIES OF HOMES AND OFFICES

READING, Pa., March 28.—(AP)—After confessing to 47 specific crimes, most of them burglaries of homes and offices and snatching purses at night from unescorted women on lonely Reading streets, Harold R. Fry, 27, of Birdsboro, today indicated a willingness to plead guilty as soon as he can be arraigned in court, according to police.

FIRST SERIOUS FOREST FIRE OF SEASON IN MASSACHUSETTS

MIDDLEBORO, Mass., March 28.—(AP)—An area of 10 square miles of timber and brush land near this town was swept today by the first serious forest fire of the season in Massachusetts. Late tonight a force of volunteer fire fighters, making a stand along the railroad tracks north of Middleboro, appeared to have the advance of the flames checked.

The fire started in the late afternoon on the line between North Carver and Plympton and spread rapidly on a mile wide front before a stiff northwest wind. A force of 200 volunteers, aided by fire apparaus from the six towns of Plymouth, Pembroke, Duxbury, Marshfield, Middleboro and Kingston, worked desperately to control it.

The main battle was fought at Muddy Pond in Carver near an estate owned by Daniel W. Gurnett of Boston, which was threatened with destruction. Water was drawn from the pond to fight the fire, and the estate was saved. At this time the wind died down, and the fire fighters believed they had won their fight, stopping the fire at a wood road near the pond.

Some time later the wind freshened and the flames jumped the road into Middleboro. No houses or farms were burned, but the timber loss was said to be considerable.

TO ASK INTERPRETATION OF AUTO "GUEST" STATUTE

NEW HAVEN, March 28.—(AP)—An interpretation of the new automobile "guest" statute, passed by the last general assembly, in which the conditions under which an automobile driver is responsible for injuries to guests in his car, were re-drafted, will be asked of the supreme court of errors by counsel for Mrs. Mae Silver, of Highwood, whose suit against her husband, Benjamin, ended today in superior court when Judge Earnest C. Simpson directed a verdict for the defense.

Mrs. Silver asked $9,000 from her husband and an insurance company, for scars on her face which she received when she was thrown through the windshield of her husband's machine in an accident in Woodmont, on September 11, 1927.

In explaining to the jurors why he was directing a verdict, Judge Simpson said that he could not see how the members of the panel, from the testimony of the case, could reasonably come to the conclusion that the actions of the defendant were the proximate cause of the accident, or that his actions came within the new statute.

GIRL DEAD OF A DISEASE THAT BAFFLED DOCTORS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 28.—(AP)—Miss Alamede Cahill, victim of a disease that has baffled physicians for several years, died tonight. She had been operated on 56 times since entering the hospital for removal of her appendix four years ago.

The 21 year old girl, who had become known as the "smile girl" for the constant and patient cheer with which she bore her years of suffering, did not know until today that the doctors had lost hope of aiding her.

"Please save me, doctor. Don't let me die."

That, today was her first appeal, the first break in her cheer, in the four years she has been under observation.

Following the first operation for appendicitis the wound refused to heal. Miss Cahill was treated for the various types of infection but failed to respond. A scratch suffered later similarly became infected and refused to heal.

INVESTIGATING ATTEMPT TO DERAIL TRAIN HERE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 28—What appears to have been an attempt to derail a train in the local yard of the New Haven railroad was being investigated today by Lieutenant George Moran of the railroad police. While the work is believed to have been perpetrated by boys, this does not however, lessen the serious consequences of a train derailment and the investigation has taken on exhaustive proportions. Several pieces of iron rail that had been placed on the tracks were found by an employe of the Western Union Telegraph company who happened to be walking along the line. An investigation today disclosed strands of wire strung over the telegraph wires between two poles in the vicinity of where the obstructions were found on the rails.

Earl J. Arnold, secretary of the chamber of commerce was the unexpected host to three other chamber secretaries from central Connecticut cities Tuesday. His unheralded visitors were Ralph Benson, secretary of the New Britain chamber, George E. Rix, secretary at Manchester and Louis A. Wheeler, Bristol secretary. The secretarial trio, who are members of the New England Association of Commercial Organization Executives went on a tour of inspection of the business center of the city. During this tour they found several of the special window trims that had been entered in the contest for the springtime opening, still intact and they expressed themselves as highly pleased with the appearance of the stores. Tentative plans for the growth of Willimantic were explained and the visitors were impressed with the co-operation manifest among the business men.

Welcome news has been received at the chamber of commerce office in the form of a letter from Superintendent C. N. Mitchell of the New Haven railroad that several much needed improvements are to be made to the local passenger station in conjunction with repairs being made to the structure as the result of a fire. Among the noteworthy items of improvement will be the rebuilding and modernizing of the toilet facilities and the painting of both the exterior and interior of the station. Superintendent Mitchell goes a step further by stating that he also plans a visit to this city in the near future when he will discuss other matters that have been suggested. Following the fire the need of improvements at the station were considered by the chamber and the following committee appointed to take the matter up with Superintendent Mitchell: Roland E. Jordan, chairman, Attorney E. Frank Hughes and John E. Brick.

The home of J. Raymond Smith of Sion Hill, Windham Center, was threatened by fire that broke out in a book-case about 9:30 o'clock this forenoon. Mrs. Smith smelled the smoke and put in a telephone alarm to neighbors. A ready response and the use of a fire extinguisher and considerable water smothered the blaze before damage of much consequence was done. The book-case and its contents and some of the woodwork in the wall comprised the damage. While a bucket brigade was fighting the blaze Clarence Eldredge of Scotland abandoned his work of delivering milk in the village and hooking the chemical wagon to the rear of his automobile he made a fast run to the Smith house. Although his efforts were much appreciated there was no occasion to use the wagon apparatus upon his arrival, however.

A continuance of the case of Wasyl Dzwonczyk of Mansfield Hollow, on the Mansfield-Willimantic road. Tracy sustained a fractured skull and other injuries.

A "Coming Events" file is being established at the chamber of commerce to assist the public in planning activities without conflict of dates. A multiplicity of events in the past has proven the need of such a service and the many post-Easter affairs being arranged for will give the file a special value at this time. The chamber of commerce office is prepared to give this service and asks only for the cooperation of the public to make the service complete and advantageous to all.

Mr. Wheelock served as chaplains in the 23rd Infantry, Second division. They had not met in nine years.

Echo Grange hall, Mansfield Center was packed this evening for the two-hour minstrel and variety show staged by 32 members of Natchaug grange. The production opened with two acts and included songs, jokes, dances, stunts and a darkey wedding. The entertainment which was for the benefit of the grange hall proved most versatile. The performance was the outcome of a contest between the members whose birthdays were on the even days of the month and those on the odd days. The evens had charge of the first act and the odds of the second and the delighted audience declared the acts a "draw". Dancing to music by the Echo Grange orchestra followed.

Another check-up on road conditions in this section shows that while the sunshine and wind have served considerable to dry up mud holes there are still some of the country thoroughfares that are impassable to automobiles. Rural free delivery carriers state that Pine street in Columbia and South street in Coventry are nothing short of wretched in condition and teams have to be substituted for automobiles.

The mailing out of checks to winners of the window trimming contest during the spring time opening last week and to the many winners in the poster contest staged among the schools of nearly a dozen neighboring towns, has just been concluded by Walter S. Barnes, secretary of the Business Men's association. This big job was the final of the many that made up arrangements for the springtime opening. President Robert T. Newton of the association is about to appoint a committee to have charge of a supper get-together of all Willimantic merchants shortly after Easter.

LIPKA CHARGED WITH THEFT BOUND OVER TO HIGH COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 28—A youth—Frank Lipka—who is responsible for the recent breaks at the Boulais store in Goodyear, at the Goodyear school and at ten summer cottages at Alexander's lake was in Brooklyn jail this afternoon in default of $1,500 bonds to insure his later appearance in the superior court.

Lipka, 20 years of age, has been on parole from the state reformatory at Cheshire since last July. Meanwhile he has served six months in the Pawtucket jail for vagrancy, and was released from the institution as recently as March 14.

It now develops that he lost little time in going back to his weird ways. He came directly back to Killingly and on his first night in town broke into one of the cottages at the lake. During the past fortnight he has ransacked various cottages at the lake, raided the Boulais store and the Goodyear school.

About 3 o'clock this morning he was roaming about the business section with a bottle of milk in one hand when Officer John Gebert started to question him as being a suspicious person. The checkup was so unsatisfactory to the officer that he locked Lipka up—under the name of John Sack.

Sack he was again a little later in the morning when Chief John McFarland came in to interview him, but the chief recognized him at once and told him so. Lipka remaining insistent that he was Sack, Chief McFarland went out and brought in an acquaintance of the prisoner's and then he admitted his identity.

Later in the morning he made full and free admission of the depredations he has committed here since his release from the Rhode Island jail, but would not admit that he was responsible for a recent robbery at a house in Ballouville, where a considerable sum of money was taken from a bureau drawer.

For years Lipka was resident at Goodyear. He was originally arrested on a petty larceny charge, and was put on probation for a period of several months. Later Former State Officer A. W. Williams arrested him to answer to a charge of statutory burglary, and that case resulted in his being committed to Cheshire.

Lipka explained his possession of the bottle of milk he had when arrested this morning by saying that he had stolen it from a veranda at a house on Mechanic street.

The hearing of the case against him in the town court this morning was brief. Acting Judge E. L. Darbie binding him over to await trial in the superior court.

In advance of the annual meeting of the company to be held in Boston next Tupesday local stockholders of the Connecticut Mills company today received financial statements covering the condition of the corporation as of January 7. The statement shows assets of $3,614,218.27. These assets include $221,197.30 in cash, $338,805.39 in accounts receivable, $735,649.84 in cotton, stock in process and merchandise—these comprising the current assets. The real estate, machinery, etc., less depreciation is listed as of a value of $2,193,580.02.

The corporation has outstanding capital stock amounting to $3,053,400, in four classes.

The deficit shown by the statement as of January 7, was $308,646.32.

Accumulated unpaid dividends on January 7 amounted to $89,971 on the first preferred stock and to $576,002.66 on the second preferred stock, on which issue an 8 per cent one—no dividends have been paid since 1920.

Only holders of first preferred stock will be allowed to vote at next Tuesday's meeting.

This morning the funeral of William R. Hill was held from his home in Wauregan with funeral services at the Sacred Heart church at 9 o'clock, Rev. John H. Quinn officiating. Burial was in Sacred Heart cemetery, the committial service conducted by Fr. Quinn. The bearers were Francis Doyle, Raymond Doyle, Alphonse Potvin, Henry Potvin, Donat Aubin and Armand Barry. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

There were no developments today in the case of George Morel, who, in default of bonds, is being held at the county jail in Brooklyn to answer to a charge of automobile manslaughter, growing out of an accident in which his father was fatally injured near Wilsonville Monday night. Coroner A. G. Bill said this afternoon that he expects conducting the inquest in the case sometime this week.

Due to the fact that the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Connecticut Mills company is to be held in Boston next Tuesday, there was speculation here today as to whether one result of it might be some step toward completing the negotiations that have been underway between that corporation and Powdrell and Alexander for the purchase of the Connecticut mills. It was stated here this afternoon that no agreement as to price had yet been reached.

The funeral of Elwood M. Hopkins, who died Sunday in Providence, was held this afternoon in the Hopkins Mills church, the service conducted by Rev. Gilbert B. Cutler of Tiverton, R. I. Burial was in the Hopkins Mills cemetery, where the Masonic burial service was conducted by W. M. Ernest Nye of Hamilton lodge of Chepachet and Chaplain M. P. Burnside. The bearers were all members of Hamilton lodge—Henry A. Tucker, Frederick Simmons, Earl B. Arnold and Walter Rothwell. A. F. Wood was in charge of the arrangements.

Announcement was made this afternoon that morning Holy week services will be conducted daily next week at 7:30 a. m. at the Baptist church, these services sponsored by the Hi-Y and Tri-Y groups and with ministers of different churches co-operating. These services will be completed before the opening of the high school each morning. There are to be short talks, prayer and singing. Such series of services have been tried out in other cities and it has been found that they attracted many young people.

At last evening's meeting of the Tri-Y the discussion period had to do with Holy week and particularly with Giovanni Papini's version of it.

At the annual meeting of the Baptist church held last evening with a good attendance reports were received from various committees and officials of the church and all noted good progress during the past year. The board of deacons elected consists of Frank T. Preston, William J. Craig, Raymond Allen, Elmer Kean, Amasa Pierce and George McComber. Miss Lillian E. Bailey was elected treasurer and Mrs. Ethel G. Lyon clerk. Amasa Pierce was named as Sunday school superintendent.

Officers of the Danielson chamber of commerce have extended a general invitation to the people of Killingly to attend the monthly meeting of the organization next Tuesday evening when Tax Commissioner W. H. Blodgett is to be the speaker, at the Attawaugan hotel.

Real estate. Those 5 and 6-room modern cottages which I am offering for sale at $2,200 and $2,500 on easy terms are excellent value. I have three left to select from. Search the town for a modern 10-room house constructed about 10 years ago situated on a lot 65 by 300 feet, and then see J. C. Witter.—Adv.

At the Goodyear church Sunday Rev. Charles A. Downs preached at the morning service and spoke of the necessity of large faith for the accomplishment of big tasks. During the service a special organ number was given by the organist, Miss Mae Longbottom. The weekly choir rehearsal was at the parsonage.

Boxing fans were disappointed here today through the forced cancelling of the amateur boxing bouts that were to have been held in the town hall this evening, but it was unavoidable.

This afternoon the last of the buildings on the Burlingham tract was removed by F. C. Davis and the site is practically ready for the building operations that are to be undertaken there.

Because of next week being Holy week, there will be no amateur boxing bouts under the auspices of the Headquarters detachment at the state armory, nor will there be any the following week because of the state amateur boxing tournament at New Haven. The next bouts at the armory will be during the week of April 16.

High winds today contributed toward the drying out of dirt highways that have been deep with mud throughout March, but they are far from being inviting as yet for motor travel.

Misses Gertrude and Evelyn Hellsten, twin sisters whose home is in Brooklyn are to be graduated from the Bay Path institute at Springfield late in the spring. They were members of the graduating class of Killingly high school in 1927.

The operetta, The Maid and the Golden Slippers, presented in the high school auditorium this evening by a cast of 75 pupils of the Goodyear schools was very pleasingly presented and much enjoyed. Music during the evening was by the high schol orchestra.

WINDHAM

About 175 were present at the missionary rally of the Willimantic C. E. union held in the Congregational church here Friday evening. A very interesting address on The Road to Mandalay was given by Rev. Vere Abbey of Hartford, who spent five years in Burmah and who is to return there. An enjoyable feature of the program was the singing of negro spirituals by members of the Calvary Baptist church of Willimantic. A social hour followed the service and cake and coffee were served in charge of Mrs. Eden Cook.

BODY OF ANTHONY MOREL IS SENT TO LOWELL

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 28—The body of Anthony Morel of Battey street Putnam who died Tuesday at 11 o'clock at the Day Kimball hospital as the result of injuries that he received in an automobile accident near Wilsonville Monday evening was taken back to Lowell, Mass., late Tuesday by undertakers from that city, where the victim will be buried. Morel was a resident of Putnam but had no relatives here. His son, George Morel, who was the driver of the machine, is being held for the superior court criminal session to be held in Willimantic in April on a charge of automobile manslaughter. The younger Morel and George LaFone of Lowell who was in the automobile were being given a hearing before Justice Percy Tourtellotte of North Grosvenordale Tuesday morning when the news of the elder Morel's death reached them. LaFone is being held as a material witness in the case.

Robert Page, Jr., 5 year old son of Mrs. Robert Page of South Main street who died at the Contagious hospital in Worcester Monday evening was a victim of diphtheria. Physicians treated the boy for mumps but later complications set in and the boy was sent to the hospital in Worcester where he died a short time after arrival there before any treatment for the latter disease could be rendered.

This is the first case of this disease reported in Putnam this year. Health authorities believe this to be the only one and that there is no cause for excitement over an epidemic.

The arrest of Frank Lepka of Danielson who was arrested by the Danielson police during the early hours of Wednesday morning, will probably result in the finding of the many stolen articles from cottages at Alexander's lake that are the property of Putnam people. Lepka is alleged to have been responsible for the ransacking of the cottages last Saturday and Sunday and is also said to be the man who broke into stores in Goodyear Putnam owners of the cottages will be called to identify their goods. An article in the Danielson news will explain Lepka's arrest. Lepka also has a police record in Putnam, he being arrested here for theft.

Chimney fires are still keeping the members of the hook and ladder company of the Putnam fire department on the jump. Tuesday evening at 8.20 o'clock the hook and ladder company was called to the home of H. S. Morse on Nichols street to extinguish a fire in the chimney. Forty-five gallons of chemicals were poured down the outlet before the blaze was overcome. The house was slightly damaged on the interior from the chemical.

Wednesday morning at 8.15 o'clock the hook and ladder company was called again to the home of William Jolly on Church street to "clean out another chimney" as Chief Thurston terms a chimney fire. The flames were confined to the chimney and little damage resulted.

The municipal building on Church street is being painted and repaired and many modern improvements are being installed in the building that served as Putnam's first high school. The city hall and council chamber have been entirely refinished and has been equipped with the latest style of electric lighting fixtures. The probate and town clerk's offices have also been painted. The police station and the city court room are next on the list to get the paint brush applied to their walls. The city and town building was very much in need of a clean up and the improvement will be an addition of civic beauty to the city property.

Captain William J. Jarvis of the Putnam police returned to duty Wednesday after an absence of two days.

County Game Warden J. Fred Ash and his deputies are keeping a close watch on all the trout brooks in this vicinity to see that early birds do not cast their lines into the streams before April 15 when the law lifts. Although many fishermen are keeping their eyes peeled for the good places no arrests have been made yet for the violation of the law.

Roger R. Child, one of the outstanding players on the Woodstock academy 1927 basketball team, was picked by the Norwich Bulletin to play the left forward position on the all-tourney second team in the intermediate class. During the first part of the season he was handicapped by injuries and was not able to play until the season was well on to the finish. Child is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Child of East Woodstock, formerly of Putnam.

The regular noonday luncheon of the Putnam Rotary club was held Wednesday noon at the Putnam Inn. The speaker this week was Agent John Reardon of the Grosvenordale company. Mr. Reardon chose as his subject, "What Rotary Stands for, Service Above Self". Mr. Reardon is a gifted speaker. His talk was interesting, clear and to the point. He clearly outlined the work that the Rotary clubs assume and what they accomplish in the community. There were three visiting Rotarians at the luncheon, they being County Investigator W. E. Jackson of Willimantic and Henry Dubuc and Louis Kennedy of Danielson. The meeting this week was in charge of the business methods committee.

There were seventeen tables in play. During the evening a cedar chest containing a beautiful assortment of fancy lace articles was awarded to Miss Diana Lucier of 77 Woodstock avenue.

Mrs. Joseph Page was given a goldpiece as a token of esteem for the large amount of work that she has done for the society. Mrs. Page was high scorer on the ticket sales for the party. After the prizes were awarded the hostess, Mrs. Dufault served her guests with refreshments.

Legal talent secured by the promoters of the Putnam Sporting club informer Manager Daniel Trudeau of the club Wednesday that the ban put on amateur boxing by the Connecticut State A. A. U. will be in effect until the present crisis is cleared up and that any planned matches which the club has under way cannot be staged. Many of the Putnam ring followers were planning to go to Danielson last evening to witness the bouts to be held in that city and to watch a few of the Putnam boys perform but the ban kept them away.

THE FARM RELIEF BILLS

After being under consideration for a long time farm relief measures have been presented in the two houses of congress. Action is awaited, but in the meantime a survey of the proposals indicates that while there are evidences that study has been given to the veto message by President Coolidge when he refused to accept the previous McNary-Haugen bill there has not been a willingness to accept all its advice.

While the endeavor appears to be to meet the objections raised in practically all instances there is still to be found in the measure that equalization fee, which is looked upon as the worst of them all.

It is true that provision is made for resort to other methods before using the equalization fee, so that the fee doesn't stand in just the same light that it did before, yet it is there where it can be employed and where there is quite the same reasons for condemnation as have always existed.

Apparently the impression prevails among the backers that the measure can be pushed through, even to the point of overriding a veto, with the equalization fee included in spite of the insistence that it is unconstitutional.

In the new bill all farm products would be subject to the provisions of the act, instead of a few under the previous measure. In the fixing of prices the convention of state producers has been eliminated and the restrictions have been removed from the appointive power of the president concerning those who would serve on the federal farm board. But while there has been a bid for renewed favor by these and other modifications the way in which the framers have clung to the worst feature, even though pushed into the background, indicates that either there will be a fight on the floor or else it will again be left with the president for the decision. This appears to be taking chances with farm relief in an unjustified manner. Such legislation can be had without any question, but if it is gained with the dangerous fee plan it will not be with the sanction of the president.

SETTLING OIL DISPUTE

Directly after Ambassador Morrow went to Mexico it became apparent that his ambassadorship was going to be far more successful than that of some other representatives who have gone to Mexico City from Washington. He was picked for that purpose, a special representative in whom the president had unusual confidence but one who was regarded by the country as certain to be successful if anyone could be.

Thus far all expectations have been realized. Mexico has right about faced. The Calles government has shown an entirely different attitude. Instead of a constant bickering over questions which had arisen between the countries there was indicated a desire to bring about an adjustment, and in several instances such adjustments have already been obtained. For the first time in a long while there is a decided improvement in the relations between the two countries.

The latest evidence is furnished by what appears to be the ending of a prolonged contest over American oil rights in Mexico. This has been underway for ten years but by the new regulations governing oil, which have been signed by President Calles, the dispute is ended. It is a welcomed outcome.

The controversy has revolved about the retroactive feature of the oil laws whereby Americans who acquired oil lands in good faith prior to the enactment of the new law might be subjected to the provisions of that law even to the point of having their land confiscated. It was clearly an injustice, and one which the Mexican supreme court recognized, but the ironing out of the obstacles in the way of removing the uncertainty and establishing the rights was one of the duties falling upon the shoulders of Mr. Morrow.

How well he has applied himself to the task is reflected in the fact that this long standing dispute has been adjusted within a six months period all of which indicates that it makes a lot of difference how such tasks are handled as to how they can be expected to terminate.

HELPING THE LEPERS

In this season of hope it is the desire of the American Mission to Lepers to make Easter and its joys mean more to those suffering from leprosy throughout the world through gifts that will bring the message of Easter and the cure of the disease to them.

The mission is operating in 18 different countries among the lepers in over 100 centers, treating in hospitals and settlements about 20,000, besides aiding an immense number of out-patients. Though the world stood by helpless to do anything for these sufferers for a long time, it is known now that there is a cure for the disease. In its appeal for assistance the mission points out that "thousands have now received new life—their bodies restored to health, their minds made normal, their spirits revived. This is a great modern miracle. If the world can be rid of leprosy the 2,000,000 suffering souls, estranged and outcast, can take their places as normal human beings, joyously doing their work."

While there are those who have given up their lives in their determination to teach and aid the lepers there appears to be now, through new discoveries, large opportunities for so treating those afflicted that there may be actual recovery. There is really ground for hope. Records show wonderful accomplishments and the need is for making it possible for those agencies which are in touch with the leper centers and those seriously or mildly afflicted to place before them the means that will make recovery possible. To think that there is a chance after such a long period when it was believed there was none is like giving assurance of a release from a living death. That the mission should feel that there are many who would like to participate in the extension of that assistance to lepers wherever they may be is plausible and there is no doubt but what there will be a ready response to its appeal. It is natural that humanity should respond to the needs of those who are suffering. It has ever been so and that is as it should be. Few can realize the feelings of the lepers, and not think of the added agony of knowing that there is help and not being able to get it.

THE INDUSTRIAL SURVEY

After reading the industrial survey as made by the Babson Statistical organization and the recommendations, the reaction of the people of Norwich has not been favorable. The feeling has prevailed quite generally that it has neglected to mention many things which ought to have found a place in the report among the real assets of the community and that there were included many things which it would have been just as well if they had been omitted. Frequent has been the criticism that Norwich has been told little if anything but what it already knew. There has been an amassing of certain statistical facts and certain previously known opinions, but the report stands in the position of setting forth liabilities without attempting to set forth the assets, when such exist, were known and were in the possession of the investigator.

When the directors of the chamber of commerce unanimously refuse to accept the report, their action will unquestionably get hearty endorsement. The survey was not sought for the purpose of having bouquets thrown at the city. It was expected that a careful study would be made of the conditions that exist and a plan of action devised for dealing with them. For the most part the report confines itself to statements without suggesting what should be done to overcome them or how or why it should be done. It stands out in marked contrast to surveys which have been made elsewhere.

In view of the refusal of the chamber of commerce directors to accept the report, and the communication concerning that action which has been or will be forwarded to the makers of the survey, it seems highly probable that the Babson organization will take steps to finish what is regarded as a most unsatisfactory and incomplete report.

THE NEW CITY TREASURER

Norwich is to have a new city treasurer. That was made possible when the selectmen picked City Treasurer Burt to fill out the vacancy in the office of town clerk following the death of Charles S. Holbrook.

For the city treasurer, the appointment being only until the June election, Mayor Waters has made choice of Charles Colt, a well known resident of this city whose selection will be learned with much satisfaction. When Mr. Colt takes the office next week it will be the first time that he has held political office in his native city but through his experience elsewhere he is well equipped to administer the duties of the office and there is no doubt but what he will give excellent satisfaction.

Though it was possible for the mayor to have named a democrat for the unexpired term he gave recognition to the fact that it was the desire of the citizens expressed at the polls that it should be filled at this time by a republican. He has thus named a republican to follow Mr. Burt and a man who has been long and actively connected with, and in many instances the head of civic and patriotic organizations and movements. The office is one of much responsibility and in making his appointment the mayor fully realized its requirements and was actuated by fitness and qualifications of the appointee. Mr. Colt's work in various accounting departments means that the duties of the treasuryship will be in keeping with previous activities.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Money may talk but bills seem to repeat.

Are you numbered among those who are doing a lot of blowing about your cold?

No one would get the impression by the time it wastes that congress has anything to do for the next few weeks.

From the insistent appeals, President Coolidge can harbor no doubts about the sincerity of the desires that he continue in office.

With the wild geese going north and the smelt running up the Shetucket you might as well begin to think about that new bathing suit.

Last year 12,000 books were stolen from the Boston public library. In some cities that might be attributed to justifiable censorship.

Think of such a situation as a senate committee promising courtesy to the governor of Pennsylvania if he will testify. Still our senate has got such a frightful reputation in recent years it is not surprising that such a promise is demanded.

GRANDFATHER'S WILL

During Peggy Lou's entire life people had said of her: "She's spoiled—that's the way with an only child, you know."

But people were wrong in implying that Peggy Lou had been spoiled because she was an only child. Peggy Lou was spoiled, and she was an only child. But Jim Burns, who married her, vowed that she would have been just as spoiled if she had been No. 7 in a family of 12. It was simply her nature to be that way.

On this particular morning she sat with a cup of coffee in one hand, a letter in the other, and an expression on her face which meant that Jim had a problem with which to deal.

"Now listen, Peggy Lou," he said, patiently. "You've had your way in everything ever since we've been married. But this time I've made up my mind. I absolutely refuse to put a nickel of your grandfather's money into the store. He was your grandfather, and the money is yours. It's not mine and I don't want it." Peggy Lou crumpled the letter in her fingers.

"Principles!" she taunted. "Silly moral scruples! Theatrical gestures. Here I am about to inherit thousands of dollars, and you get on a high horse and refuse to save your business with it. And who will have to suffer if the business fails, I'd like to know? I—your wife."

"What do you mean, you'll have to suffer?" retorted Jim, slightly indignant. "Haven't you had everything you've ever asked for? Won't you continue to have it, now that you are going to get all this money? My business failure wouldn't hurt you, and, besides, there isn't going to be any failure."

Peggy Lou was silent for a moment. Then she straightened out the crumpled letter.

"The attorneys particularly request that you be present with me when the will is read," she said sweetly. "You will at least go down with me this morning, won't you?" Jim looked at her suspiciously.

"I really shouldn't take the time from the store," he said, sparring, "but if they asked me to come I suppose I must go."

"You wouldn't take the time from the old store just because I wanted you to, would you?" flashed Peggy Lou, angrily. Jim swallowed a final gulp of coffee and, rising, circled the table to her chair.

"Don't be angry, Peggy, dear," he said, running his hand through her curly hair. "I simply have to have my way this time. It's a question of pride with me, don't you see?"

H. W. Chesterton, of the legal firm of Chesterton, Rhodes, Jones & Huerta, cleared his throat impressively, rattled some important-looking papers in his hand and glanced sternly over his spectacles at Peggy Lou and Jim.

"You, Mrs. Burns," he said in a deep voice, "are, I understand, the only close relative of your deceased grandfather." Peggy mumbled an affirmative. Her mind was busy. She must find some way to make Jim take that money.

"We will proceed with the reading of the will," announced Mr. Chesterton. Peggy Lou leaned forward in her chair. Jim, his eyes gazing out of the window, wondered if the bank would let him have $5,000 until December.

Speaking slowly and precisely, the attorney read the last will and testament of the deceased man. There were several small bequests to friends and distant relatives, and a sizable amount to charity. Then——

"'And to my only grandchild, Margaret Louise Humphrey Burns,'" the lawyer quoted, "'I will and bequeath the sum of one dollar. I have spoiled the child during my life; I do not wish to do so after my death.'"

Jim uttered a gasp of amazement and glanced quickly at his wife. Her face was a mirror of absolute consternation. The attorney coughed.

"'To James Edward Burns, my grandson-in-law,'" the document continued, "'I will and bequeath the balance of my estate and property, to be used in the furtherance of his business and for the welfare and comfort of his wife, as he sees fit.'" The attorney glanced up. "You will find, Mr. Burns," he said, "that this bequest amounts to about $160,000."

They were on their way home. Finally Jim broke the long silence.

"Well, Peggy——" he began.

"Well, Jimmy——" Peggy gave his arm a vicious punch. "I got my way, didn't I?"—Exchange.

When they knew mother to be busy upstairs, Ed, age five, and Martha, age three, planned an information hunting expedition. The two stole into the pantry and from a top shelf removed a square, black box. Then from a drawer they took two knives. While cautiously carrying their loot into the backyard, Martha whispered: "Will papa care?" Ed said, "Yes, but we'll put it back," and became absorbed in prying open his share of the box.

When mother came downstairs she found two heads close together gazing into father's favorite, but now useless camera. Being asked why, Ed answered: "We are just looking for the pictures papa took of us yesterday."

YOUR HEALTH

PINK EYE

By L. L. McCoy, M. D., Seattle, Member Gorgas Memorial.

The most common inflammatory condition of the eyes in conjunctivitis (pink eye). This may be acute or chronic. The acute type is quite often contagious and may attack one or both eyes of individuals of any age. It is found among groups of children very often. It usually comes on quite suddenly, accompanied by itching, burning, discomfort produced by light, and a sensation of something like sand in the eye, and very early there is a discharge with gluing together of the lids in the morning.

This discharge often appears in the form of flakes and strings and it is the cause of the blurred vision. It forms a film over the front part of the eye and makes it appear as though one is seeing through fog. The lids may be more or less swollen and the inside of the lids and white part of the eyeball very red. If this condition becomes very marked, more or less severe complications such as ulcers and iritis may develop, manifested by increase of pain and light discomfort.

It may run its course and completely clear up without treatment in from one to four weeks but, since it is quite contagious and injurious, complications may develop later and also, since it is very annoying as well as harmful to one's efficiency, it is best to have it treated and cleared up in a few days. It is wise to have it diagnosed as pink eye early, because there are several other much more serious conditions that look like pink eye and which, if left to run their course, may produce irreparable damage.

Among these conditions is Trachoma, or Granular Lids, which presents some of the signs and symptoms of pink eye, such as irritation, light disturbance, tearing and discharge. This disease is chronic, is very difficult to treat and, if left to run its course, always results in blindness. Gonorrheal conjunctivitis presents the following appearance: Redness, swelling and temperature of the lids inside and out with much thin yellowish secretion in which float flakes of pus. This discharge later becomes profuse, thick and yellow. The eye is tender to touch. The patient has slight fever. This condition is very serious, the severity increasing with the age of the patient. It is claimed that seventeen per cent of these cases become blind.

"Union With Christ"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "He that abideth in me and I in him, the same beareth much fruit" (John 15:5).

Read: John 15:1-8.

MEDITATION: Jesus was always using common things to illustrate great truths. "I am the vine, ye are the branches." In this way he pictured the power that comes into every man's life that is in contact with His life. The branch does not struggle and toil that it may bear grapes. It has no need to do so. It need only remain in unbroken connection with the parent stem. So it is with people. The secret of larger attainment may, in part, be more labor, for few of us strive as diligently as we might for excellence. But the more promising way is intimate association with Christ. If His Spirit is in our minds this day, we need not be concerned lest our conduct be not good. It will be good as inevitably as the branch of the good vine will bring forth good grapes.

PRAYER: O Thou, in whose life we find our life, through the gift of whose spirit we do our work and bear our burdens, grant us now the sense of Thy nearness. We would open our hearts freely to Thy spirit, our minds to Thy law and our wills to Thy quickening energy. Dwell in us and make us fruitful. Amen.

Pointers For Parents

A child's honest questions should receive honest answers.

Whenever your boy shows a tendency to bang or break things, supply him with a hammer and really find something about the house to fix, like a nail in the floorboards of the porch, a nail in the closet, or tacks for the ironing board cover.

Likewise, the screw driver comes in handy when the "fixing" tendency manifests itself. Find screws to tighten here and there in hinges and locks, or hooks to screw in under the shelves.

This will give him the idea of successful co-operation in your home, and he will find merely banging or pulling to pieces in itself uninteresting in comparison.

A child's self-confidence will depend on the confidence which adults place in him.

We hear much complaint nowadays of the failings of the young generation—of their lack of consideration of others, their selfishness, their waywardness. In uttering these complaints parents fail to recognize that they are confessing their own failure to bring out all that is best in their children.

We cannot shower gifts upon our little ones, give them all they ask for, treat them as if they had "an inalienable right to happiness," and then expect them to express gratitude for that for which we have never trained them to be thankful.

Try this out on your adolescent some time. "One reason Red Grange is always in the pink of condition is because he eats green vegetables." It may not be very clever, but it's better than: "For heaven's sake, eat your spinach!" Incidentally you might let it be known that there is a rumor to the effect that both Babe Ruth and Mary Pickford are very fussy and demand that they have their spinach at least three times a week. If your customer should ask you how you knew, you can safely say that you read it in a newspaper, which, so far as it goes, is true.—Children.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

What to Do While Waiting

Mr. Editor: Here is an item from The Young Soldier of March 24, 1928: While seeking for light as to what to make of our life and what it shall mean to others, we need not waste time if we keep surrendered in spirit and active in consecration; surrendered, by making sure that our supreme aim is to fulfill the will of God whatever it may be. Active seeing to it that we are making the most of our present opportunities. Charles Kingsley spoke with inspiration when he said, "Have your tools ready and God will find you work."

The most extraordinary forest in the world occupies a tableland six miles in width, near the west coast of Africa. The peculiarity of the trees is that, though their trunks are as much as four feet in diameter, they attain the height of only a foot. No tree bears more than two leaves, and these attain a breadth of two feet.

MOTOR TRUCK BURNED BUT CHICKENS SAVED

A two and a half story frame barn in the rear of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ida Schonberg, No. 234 Mt. Pleasant street, was badly gutted by fire about 12.15 o'clock this (Thursday) morning. An auto truck kept in the barn was practically destroyed by the flames. Twenty chickens were rescued from the burning structure. The Schonberg family had retired for the night and the fire was discovered by people in a nearby house. They saw the flames from their windows and a telephone call was quickly followed by a bell alarm from box 7, Mt. Pleasant and Elizabeth streets, pulled in by Joseph P. McMahon and at the same time, Officer Leon Bruckner, on duty on the West Side, saw the flames and pulled in box 73, corner of West Main and Connell streets.

The firemen laid two lines of inch and a half hose and in a few minutes the flames were squelched. The recall was sounded at 12.30 o'clock. Mr. Schonberg stated that he had driven his truck into the barn about 8 o'clock Wednesday night and that no one had been in the barn afterwards. It is thought that the truck caught fire and the flames spread to the walls of the barn. The flames could be seen from Thames square, Thamesville and other sections of the city. The fire had gained considerable headway and the flames were shooting from the roof and sides of the barn when the firemen arrived. The Schonberg family knew nothing of the fire until they were awakened by neighbors. The property is owned by Mrs. Ida Schonberg.

The bride was gowned in white chiffon crepe with a veil caught up with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The matron of honor was gowned in pink with a picture hat to match and carried pink flowers.

A reception was held in the evening at the home of the bride's parents. The bride received many beautiful gifts of silver, cut glass, etc. They left Sunday morning on an extended wedding trip and will later make their home in Newark.

BABSON SURVEY FAILS TO MEET COMMERCE CHAMBER APPROVAL

A a special meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce which was held Wednesday afternoon at the Wauregan hotel, it was voted not to accept the Babson survey of Norwich in its present form, and the secretary of the chamber was directed to inform the Babson organization of this action. It was considered by the directors that the survey was not complete and was not up to standard in many respects, and it is hoped that the Babson people may develop some method of remedying the situation. The communication to the Babson organization did not indicate in what details the survey was considered incomplete.

The action of the directors was taken after a report had been received from the industrial survey committee which met last Monday to consider the Babson survey. This committee consists of Charles W. Taggart, chairman, John J. O'Rourke, Shepard B. Palmer, Charles J. Twist, and L. M. Carpenter. This committee discussed the survey very thoroughly and came to the conclusion to recommend to the directors that the survey was not complete or up to the standard of what it should be and it was left for the directors to take such action as they should see fit.

It is understood that the directors are dissatisfied with the survey more because of what it did not say. It is felt that unfavorable aspects of the city and town were magnified, while other points which could be considered assets were either not mentioned at all or were given very scant attention. It is indicated also that it is felt that the survey deals in a good many opinions where a statement of facts would be more valuable.

The survey made on Norwich has excited interest in all parts of this state and even in the adjoining state of Rhode Island.

PASTOR MAKES CAUSTIC COMMENT ON SURVEY

The following reproduces some caustic observations on the subject made to the New London Day by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott of this city.

"As one reads the Babson industrial survey of Norwich, one is reminded of Isaiah's sorry description of Jerusalem: 'the whole head is sick, and the whole heart faint. From the sole of the foot even unto the head there is no soundness in it.' And one has to admit that there is a certain warrant for both the ancient prophet's and the modern statistician's lugubriousness.

Love of Traditions

"To New Englanders who love the traditions of New England, the name John Alden speaks of a romance that was penetratingly effective in a very quiet way. But the modern John Alden has made entrance into and departure from our midst so differently! Preceded by the deft and delicate and exact music of that reputable American band known as Babson's, he came playing an important instrument of no uncertain sound. Then he departed from our city—to be sure, with the drums hushed for the moment—but now the reverberations of his music have been hurled upon us by the Wellesley Hills, and the sound of them is like the inescapable finality of a Dead March from John. Shades of John Alden! Quiet John Alden!

"But now the question is, Is it a real Cadaver that such cadaverous music is ushering, in a martial manner, to its long long sleep ahead?"

"Now, verily, for some time we have been suspicious that this, our body, which we call Norwich, has had a color to it that just didn't look good. We've known that our health now isn't what it was—say, 25 years ago! Too bad, old man; are you sick? Our 'natural resources' look very wan; our 'markets for local products' have become wobbly in the knees; our 'transportation facilities' have acquired the dread disease known as gout; our 'power, water and fuel facilities' thank heaven, may come to the relief of our emaciation; our 'labor conditions' begin to show the ravages of senile decay; our 'housing and living conditions' are just what should be expected for a body that derives its pallor from its environment; our 'factory and real estate sites' are yellow, sere, and becoming impotent; our 'banking facilities' are like the beautiful goal of Tantalus, excellent but just beyond our enfeebled hands; our 'local taxes and insurance' are bilious, oh, so bilious; our 'community development' is but the pale shadow cast by our unfleshed skin and bones. We have been consulting our 'family medical book' for a number of years now; and every one of the obvious sores on our body, every bad color on our cheeks, every creaking joint, and stumbling step, we have watched and known. Who has known it so well as we ourselves?

The Specialist Comes In

"Of course, it is well to have the specialist come in. There is such an aroma of sanctity about him, as if he had never been touched by our infirmity. He is so detached. No monkey business about him. He knows. The cloak of authoritarianism wraps him round, like the ermine of a king. He is crowned with the glitter that is becoming and blinding. And yet—he is a delightful creature to play with, if one just must have kings. And once in a while he may let off a truth that is as scintillating as the barbed jest of his jester.

"The truth about John Alden is that he was really true, but that he didn't tell the whole truth, because we know the other subtle parts of the truth that no outsider can ever see. There is still a very large place for the family doctor. A member of our own family, he stays with us till we be cured or until he closes our eyes in our last sleep.

And Now the Diagnosis

"The specialist makes this diagnosis:

"'The civic spirit of Norwich as expressed by the business men and leading citizens must necessarily be the energizing source of Norwich's future growth. At present we are not impressed with the civic spirit of the average resident of Norwich. There is apparently a general disposition to believe that city growth takes care of itself. There is too much of a tendency on the part of many native born citizens of the city and adjacent town to live in the past. The citizens need to realize that a community does not just happen. It is exactly what the people make it. Norwich's civic spirit, if the city really wants to grow needs to be organized and revitalized.'

"Letting alone the suspicion that these words show at least an unconscious borrowing from the ideas of Plato's "Republic," and from many another enthusiast for city building, they will do for us. We knew their truth before Alden arrived. Again, he says,

"'It is the advertising accomplished by the average citizen in his bearing toward the community's welfare and growth that accomplishes more in the long run than extensive magazine and newspaper advertising.'

"We paid him nearly $1,500 for that—among other sentences; when the prophets at home, either with or without honor, have been saying it for ten or fifteen years. And once more,

"'Such of these conditions as are under the control of the citizens of Norwich must be corrected before the community can present a strong appeal to industry.'

"Marvellous sentence, that! How wise! How penetrating! Babbitt never made a wiser "crack." One word needs changing, to put the idea in the realm that it belongs in. It is the last word. The sentence should read:

"'Such of these conditions as are under the control of the citizens of Norwich must be corrected before the community can present a strong appeal to self-respect.'"

The Price is Paid

"Even if we did pay him a good price to tell us what we have known all along, it is worth the price if we who are the 'doctors of the case' will thoroughly take care of it.

"Under the caption 'Associations, Clubs, Societies in Norwich' Alden itemizes 80 definite organizations. A church is not included. The chamber of commerce, the Rotary and Lions club, the Woman's city club, the Norwich club of business and professional women, are not included. We would not hint that Alden perhaps thought that that 'would be going too far.' But be that as it may, there is enough human material in these various clubs once they get mad enough to get together, to wipe out our 'governmental inefficiency,' to rid ourselves of 'unsanitary health conditions,' to compel 'equitable taxation,' to provide a code for plumbers and for 'construction' and for anything else that is 'under the control of the citizens of Norwich'

If we don't do something like that we will be in such a physical condition that we will be unable even to take less seriously the reverberations from Wellesley. The sound of the distan 'dead march,' will be a prophecy fulfilled."

PROVIDENCE EDITOR FINDS NORWICH NOT SO BAD AT THAT!

Henry Robinson Palmer, of Stonington, who is editor of the Providence Journal, does not exactly agree with the recent Babson estimate of Norwich. This was demonstrated in a lengthy editorial in the Sunday Journal under the head of "What's Wrong with Norwich?"

After summarizing the Babson accusations against this city, Mr. Palmer goes on to say:

Again—according to the bureau's report—the city lacks an up-to-date construction code. "Norwich is far behind not only all Connecticut cities, but also many other communities throughout the country" in adopting such a code. "Also the lack of a plumbing code subjects the citizen to disease arising from unsanitary conditions in the home and office and other places. It is a disgrace to Norwich to lack so many of the modern provisions against disease." There is likewise need of a suitable wiring code, the report says.

Against all these grievous items, the investigators cite, however, a number of more agreeable facts. The city is on two railroad lines and enjoys direct and cheap boat freight connection with New York. It has an abundance of power at reasonable rates, a good water supply and attractive fuel facilities. There is plenty of cheap common labor and a fair amount of skilled textile labor. Labor troubles are usually at a minimum. Banking facilities are entirely adequate. The streets are well paved and well lighted. Traffic is skilfully handled, crime is relatively low, there is trolley or bus service to all important points, the school system ranks high, and there are many churches and clubs, a good Y. M. C. A., an excellent hospital, excellent parks and two good newspapers.

Norwich does not grow as fast as most of the cities of Connecticut. It impresses one as being off the main tracks of travel, in spite of the transportation advantages recited in the report. It is about the same size in population as New London, but New London looks twice as alert and busy. Main street in Norwich does not begin to be as animated as State street in New London. Yet Norwich has assets not listed in the foregoing catalog. It has a fine tradition, to begin with. It used to be called the Rose of New England, and it still has a right to that name, for it possesses many attractive streets, many comfortable or even stately mansions, many beautiful trees. Its literary and scholarly past includes the names of Lydia Huntley Sigourney, Edmund Clarence Stedman, Daniel Coit Gilman, Isaac H. Bromley, President Dwight of Yale, Donald G. Mitchell (Ik Marvel) and others. It has its Free Academy and Slater museum, an extraordinary group of old white-and-green dwelling houses out Norwich Town way and in the neighborhood of the ancient town green; and various other possessions and heritages of which any New England community might be proud. It is at the headwaters of the Thames river and there are few drives pleasanter on a sunny spring day than the one that leads from Norwich 14 miles southward to Groton. North of Norwich the country becomes more varied and rolling and altogether there are a good many pleasant things to be said about the old town and its environs, even if economically and industrially it is a bit in the doldrums just now.

METHODISTS OPEN THEIR FALL RIVER CONFERENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 28—With Bishop W. F. Anderson presiding the annual meeting of the New England Southern conference of the Methodist church opened today with the communion service conducted by the bishop, assisted by the district superintendents, R. L. Roberts, M. E. Genter and E. E. Wells, and by the pastor of the entertaining church, Rev. R. A. Colpitts.

At 10 o'clock, Mayor Harry W Monks extended a welcome on behalf of the city and W. E. Fawcett spoke for the official board of Union church in welcoming the conference to the church.

The roll was called by Secretary Rev. L. G. Horton.

The conference was organized as follows: Secretary, Lyman G. Horton; assistant secretaries: James V. Claypool, Robert J. Chrystie, J. Garfield Sallis and N. B. Burton; statistician, Rev. Amos M. Bruce; assistants: George S. Brown, Harvey H. Conklin, Fred W. Knickrehm, J. G. Bisbee and G. H. Parker; treasurer, Rev. Philip A. Ahern; assistants, Otis L. Monson and C. S. Johnson.

Dr. Newton E. Davis, secretary of the board of hospitals and homes of the Methodist denomination made a brief address. In the past eight years, he said, more than 23 million dollars has been added to the value of the property and work represented by this board. He told of a single gift which came lately of more than three millions of dollars.

Edward H. Wells, superintendent, presented the report of the Providence district.

At the memorial service for the deceased ministers held at 11 o'clock, Rev. W. I. Ward presided. Appropriate scripture selections were read by Rev. O. W. Bell and Rev. C. E. Bromley. The address was by Rev. C. T. Hatch.

Dr. Orrin W. Anman, treasurer of the world service commission, was presented and spoke briefly He created some mirth when he told of a parade staged recently in New York by the Wets to create sentiment against prohibition with one banner displayed which said Beware of the Methodists. This he regarded as a marked evidence that the great church here represented is felt as a force for righteousness.

Among the men who arrived Tuesday were the following: Rev. R. L. Roberts, New Bedford; Rev. Florus L. Streeter, South Braintree, Mass., and Rev. G. A. Grant, Westhampton, Mass., all former Norwich pastors. Also Rev. J. E. Duxbury, Putnam; Rev. Joseph Cooper, South Manchester; Rev. J. G. Sallis, Rockville; Rev. M. E. Genter, Norwich; Rev. E. E. Wells, Providence; Rev. John H. Buckey and Rev. Clinton E. Bromley, Brockton, Mass.; Rev. Chas. E. Spaulding, New London; Rev. E. J. Curry, Bourne, Mass.; Rev. I. W. LeBaron, Providence; Rev. J. E. Montgomery, Niantic; Rev. S. F. Maine, Attauwaugan.

BRIDGEPORT PASTOR SPEAKS ON "DEEDS OF BEAUTY"

Speaking on "Deeds of Beauty," Rev. Charles H. Heimsath of Bridgeport interested a large and appreciative audience Wednesday evening at the fourth of a series of meetings in the Central Baptist church. He took as his text "He would not drink thereof, but poured it out unto Jehovah," from II Sam. 23:16.

Some deeds are too beautiful to forget, the speaker said. Israel could never forget the beautiful act of David, their old king. He took the precious water that his three chieftains, at the risk of their lives, had won for him from the ancient well of Bethlehem and poured it out as an oblation to Jehovah. Theirs was a chivalrous exploit, but David had matched their chivalry with a chivalry just as spontaneous. This story was beloved too, because it revealed so well some of the characteristics of David that endeared him to all men, even to God himself.

As we look at this deed today we too see in it elements of extraordinary beauty. It was, first of all, a poetic act. Too frequently we think of poems only in terms of verses printed in books. But fortunately poetry is not confined to books; it is fundamentally a matter of life. The Psalms and much of the prophets are religious poems, but the Bible is also full of poetic deeds.

This water was costly. It was purchased at the cost of danger. It was also costly because of the sentimental value attached to it. It came from the gate of Bethlehem, the beloved city of David's youth, the sacred city of his fathers. It was a real sacrifice for David to give to God in this way a thing that had such meaning for him. We all have things that are too sacred to use. This gift was like the ointment that Mary brought and anointed the feet of Jesus with.

This deed was an act of worship. This was a spontaneous and natural act of love for David. If we fall in love with God then our worship will be natural and unmeasured. It is not hard to serve those whom we love. It may be true that in unguarded moments we often do not represent our best selves, but I fear lest we represent our true selves. This was an unguarded moment for David, and in it we showed the real beauty of his character.

NORWICH ROTARY THIRD IN ATTENDANCE CONTEST

With President Clarence A. Spear presiding the weekly meeting of the Norwich Rotary club was held Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. At the business session Secretary Edward Jewett called attention to the fact that Norwich had finished third in the attendance contest in the district, with an average attendance of 93.91. Registrations for the spring conference at Waterbury on April 19-20 were asked and it is expected that Norwich will be well represented. The Ladies Night tickets were put on sale at the meeting.

Frank Davis who is in charge of the program for the month of April announced his program as follows:

April 4—Speaker, Allen Latham, subject "Bees", Songleader Herbert B. Cary.

April 11—Speaker, John W. Titcomb, superintendent of state board of fisheries, Songleader, Eben Learned.

April 18—Ladies' night.

April 25—Speaker, Rev. E. C. Dunbar, pastor of the First Baptist church Songleader, Charles E. Taylor.

There was a special musical program in charge of Frank R. Murdy, the song leader, with Henry J. LaFontaine at the piano. Two quartettes rendered several selections in a competitive singing duel. The match was called a draw. The quartettes were: Eben Learned, Henry J. LaFontaine, Flint Brayton and James Roantree; F. Russell Smith, Frank Aubrey, Harold Hannigan and Adelard Morin. As a special feature Frank R. Murdy and Mr. LaFontaine rendered a very pleasing duet.

It was announced at the meeting that Capt. Hugh B. Campbell's team had won the attendance contest and that Russ Smith's team was the losers and therefore became hosts to the winners at a dinner at a future date.

The speaker of the day was Dr George E. Tucker of Hartford who spoke on the Relation of Rotary to Community Life. Dr Tucker spoke of the things that Rotary might enter into such as, child welfare, health programs, boys work and recreational facilities for boys and many other things for the benefit of the community. He illustrated his talk with many of the achievements of the Hartford Rotary club during its 18 years of existence.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

No scrubbing for me and see how my clothes gleam!

I'M all for Rinso, the granulated soap that soaks out dirt! It saves me the hard work of scrubbing and boiling. And it washes the clothes so much whiter.

I think it's just wonderful the way dirt and stains float off in the thick Rinso suds. I notice that even the most soiled cuffs and edges come snowy with almost no rubbing at all. It's like magic!

This "no-work" way is mighty easy on the clothes. Edges don't fray the way they used to. So easy on my hands, too—they don't get red or coarse now.

Rinso is the most economical laundry soap I've ever used. A little of it makes a tubful of creamy, lasting suds. And it's all I need on washday—no bar soaps, chips or powders. Rinso does a marvelous job, all by itself

Your grocer has Rinso. Ask him for the BIG package.

Three Calls For Fire Department.

Three calls for the fire department were received between noon and 8.30 Wednesday evening. The first was at 12.24 for a supposed fire in the rear of the Thermos factory on Laurel Hill to which Squad A responded.

At 6.30 p. m. there was an oral call for a chimney fire at 27 Cove street, a house owned by Miss Mary E. Sullivan and occupied by her and the family of Andrew Brodowski. Engine 5 and Squad A responded.

At 8.09 p. m. a telephone call was received for a supposed fire at 40 Central avenue, a place owned by Dennis Bowen and occupied by his family and that of John Hanrahan. Engine No. 2 and Squad A responded.

Salem Turnpike Grass Fire.

The Yantic fire department had a fight of about an hour and a half with brooms when they responded to a call at 1:20 Wednesday afternoon for a grass fire on the Rogers farm on Salem turnpike beyond Maplewood cemetery. The fire spread over a considerable area. The company returned to Yantic at 3 o'clock.

Chance for Jury Cases

Judge C. L. Avery will preside at the superior court short calendar session to be held in New London Friday morning and has excused the jury till next Tuesday, but he will make assignment of jury cases for next week in case any of the attorneys indicate a desire to have jury cases assigned.

HORWEEN GIVES FIVE REASONS FOR SPRING WORK

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 28—The Army and Navy football teams, as the divided squad of Harvard players engaging in spring football practice, are known, scrimmaged for an hour today under the direction of Head Coach Arnold Horween. No scoring was permitted during the session in which present candidates participated at one time or another.

There were three letter men on each of the teams as well as a liberal sprinkling of men from last year's scrub and freshman squads. Coach Horween was well pleased by the progress shown and planned another scrimmage later in the week.

Though many colleges have discontinued spring football practice, Coach Horween has given five reasons why Harvard should not abandon it. They are:

"It affords another option for enjoyable exercise in the spring.

"It affords opportunities for experiments which the intensity of the fall season does not permit.

"It enables men to get more individual training in specialties such as kicking and passing.

"It enables the 'unheralded players' to get closer contacts with the coaches than is possible in the fall.

"It gives these same players a fairer chance."

K. O. CHRISTNER ADDS KNOCKOUT TO LIST

AKRON, O., March 28—(AP)—K. O. Christner, hard punchink Akron heavyweight, scored the 29th knockout of his 34 professional bouts at the expense of Sergeant Jack Adams of St Louis tonight. The finish came in the first round.

Christner has been listed by Jim Mullen, Chicago, and Humbert Fugazy New York, rival promoters of Tex Rickard, among the men they plan to match in the eliminations to find a rival for Champion Gene Tunney.

LLOYD HALL DIES AT HOSPITAL; BROTHER HAS BROKEN COLLAR BONE

Lloyd G. Hall, of 160 Broadway, vice-president of Joseph Hall & Son, Inc., woolen mill owners at Trading Cove, died this (Thursday) morning about 2 o'clock at the Backus hospital from injuries received in an automobile accident about two hours earlier on the Military highway near the state hospital. He suffered a fractured skull.

His brother, Joseph H. Hall, Jr., suffered a fractured collar bone and fractured ribs. He is an instructor in French at St. George's school, Newport, R. I., and was at his home for the Easter recess.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ferguson were also patients at the hospital for minor injuries received in the accident, but left for their home after treatment.

Only meagre details of the accident were learned, but it is said that the Hall brothers were headed towards New London and had just reached the straightaway running in front of the state hospital when a second machine, headed towards this city, collided with the left front mudguard of Hall's LaSalle car. The collision caused the driver of the Hall car to lose control of the machine which is said to have slid along the road for some distance and then upset. The machine was badly damaged.

The identity of the occupants of the other machine could not be learned this morning. There is some speculation as to whether there was a second car involved in the accident. State Policemen Whitmarsh and Busch went to the scene of the accident to conduct an investigation.

WINDHAM PLACES TWO ON BULLETIN'S ALL-STAR SCHOLASTIC COURT TEAM

BULLETIN'S ALL-EASTERN CONNECTICUT SCHOLASTIC QUINTET

FIRST TEAM	POSITION	SECOND TEAM
Nichols (Windham)	right forward	McKelvie (Chapman Tech)
Pingree (Academy)	center	Burnham (Stonington)
Gyome (Bacon Academy)	right guard	Johns (Chapman Tech)

Honorable mention—Saba (Windham), Canty (Tourtellotte), Modlisz (Plainfield), Bove (Putnam), Monast (Windham), Dimock (Stonington), Viau (Academy), McKeon (Killingly), R. Childs (Woodstock academy), Cragan (Stonington), Heller (Windham), Lague (Killingly), Royle (Plainfield), Shann (Putnam).

Another season, this time basketball, has been outdistanced and left to drop along the roadside and from its dust rises the cry for—an All-team.

Today, The Bulletin, in accordance with its usual custom, presents its team picked from high school quintets of eastern Connecticut. The work of players on Stonington, Chapman Tech, Windham, Plainfield, Putnam, Woodstock academy, Tourtellotte high of North Grosvenordale, Killingly high of Danielson, Bacon academy of Colchester and Norwich Free Academy, was reviewed and from their lists the two teams and 15 names for honorable mention selected.

The first team is composed of two from Windham and one each from Norwich Academy, Chapman Tech and Bacon academy. The second team has two from N. F. A., and Chapman Tech and one from Stonington.

For the forwards on the first team, Nield of Chapman Tech and Nichols of Windham were selected. Both, captains, they led their teams with real inspiration throughout the year and easily copped these mythical posts. Nield led the scorers in eastern Connecticut's four leading high schools by a safe margin while, although Nichols was not so proficient in tossing in points, still his floor-game was as good as one could wish.

Pingree Played Well

Les Pingree easily copped the center berth. Les, hampered by injuries and ineligibilities, was not able to give his best throughout the campaign for the Red and White. However, early in the year, Pingree started off as if for a great season before hitting a slump and then being forced out by King Examination. He had hardly returned from this spell than he was forced out with a sprained ankle. He rallied again and in the last month or so, since he has been right, he had done wonders in bolstering up the locals' play.

Morton Tinker, Windham's capable guard, and Gyome, the flashy Bacon academy player, get the backcourt positions, although their margins are not as wide as the three previously mentioned players. Tinker was a great help to Windham's successful quintet, his guarding being well above the average, while as a point scorer he was also not far down the list. Gyome had the big disadvantage of wearing the colors of a small school and of having to play most of his games on a floor very much unadapted to basketball. However, both during the regular season and at the Storrs tournament, this rugged boy made his presence a valuable one to his team and he deserves a high ranking.

Burnham Deserves Credit

On the second team, Lloyd Jarvis of N. F. A. and Scotty McKelvie of Chapman Tech constitute a pretty pair, although neither could quite displace Nield or Nichols. Burnham, the lanky Stonington center, was a big help to Coach O'Brien, although he, too, was faced with handicap of a small school. The guards, Buck LaCroix of N. F. A. and Johns of Chapman Tech, were good at most all times but not quite so consistent in their play as the first team selections.

BLEACHERS ERECTED AT ACADEMY CAMPUS

About the only activity Wednesday at the campus where the Academy baseball squad is working out was that of setting the bleachers in position. As now arranged, the seats give somewhat of the atmosphere of a course park, with seats extending from first around to third base. There are more seats this year than last, the portable bleachers having been sold last summer and brand new and larger ones erected.

There was a short practice game Wednesday between two teams, composed for the most part of lower classmen with the rest of the squad doing nothing harder than warming up. The chill winds still hamper the work considerably but it is expected that a change for warmer weather will be had in the immediate future and from then on things will hum.

It is expected that by Monday suits will be handed out and the squad will also probably receive its first cut at that time.

THERMOS BALL CLUB TO HOLD MEETING MONDAY

First steps toward forming for the coming industrial league season are expected to be made Monday night at a meeting of the Thermos Bottle company nine. This team was a member of last year's loop and although not overly successful in the matter of wins, is evidently intent on starting new in its drive toward a pennant.

BRIDGEPORT ELKS DEFY AUTHORITY OF A. A. U.

BRIDGEPORT, March 29—(AP)—The A. A. U. sanction held by the Bridgeport lodge of Elks to conduct amateur boxing shows was ordered revoked temporarily, by William J. Kennedy, of East Portchester, Conn., president of the Connecticut A. A. U., shortly after midnight this morning.

President Kennedy immediately upon making his decision to revoke the Elks' sanction, notified Joseph Wirtz, of New Haven, chairman of the registration board, to officially inform the Elks of his action.

"The Elks' sanction has been revoked for the time being, on the strength of the evidence presented by Joseph Kohlman at the coroner's inquest, Tuesday. The Elks are now being investigated," declared President Kennedy to the Telegram.

Despite the edict of President Kennedy, the Elks stage their show tomorrow night, it was indicated last night by members of the boxing committee. The fact that Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis, mayor of Newburyport, Mass., has been invited to attend the show and prominent city officials had accepted invitations to act as a reception committee for Gillis, prompted the committee to issue their defiance.

Just what plans will be made to procure boxers for the card, inasmuch as those listed to take part in the final bouts for the championship of Fairfield county will be suspended if they participate, was not made known by the members of the committee.

FAST GAME LOOMS AT Y GYM SATURDAY

The Academy-Taftville Crescents tilt Saturday night at the Y gym, the closing event of the local basketball season, now looms as one of the best games of the year. Both clubs are intent on getting the decision, the Crescents to climax a rather successful year and accomplish what no other team has been able to do in the last six weeks, and the Academy to add just one more victory to their ever-growing string, and, incidentally finish the season with 11 wins and 11 losses.

Two months ago no one would have thought that the Academy could have changed into the fine quintet that they now are and on this last appearance they intend to make a most favorable impression, and what's more important, win the game.

VIC DARR AND HARRY HOOPER FIGHT TO DRAW

Vic Darr renewed his feud with Harry Hooper at New London Wednesday night at Joe Connelly's show and by no means was handed any gift when he was given a draw. According to ringside witnesses, Vic clearly outpointed Hooper but the very impartial New London judges awarded a draw.

Mush Moriarty, giving away ten pounds to Kid Alberts, lost a grueling fight which Alberts took by virtue of his superior weight. Mush put up a stiff battle and gave the New London lad plenty of trouble.

YANKS LOSE EIGHTH GAME TO BUFFALO BISONS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 28—(AP)—Miller Huggins sent his New York Yankees against the Buffalo Bisons for a little romp today, but when the game was over the shoe was on the other foot and the champions had taken their eighth beating in nine starts. The score was 5 to 4.

"Jumping Joe" Dugan was the only Yankee who did much of anything with Ogden and Swaney, getting three hits, including a double.

Babe Ruth walked twice, got a single, fanned once but ended the game by hitting into a double play. Gehrig got a walk and a single in four trips to the plate. The score:

Buffalo (I) ..... 0 0 0 1 0 4 0 0 0—5

LEAGUE MEETING SLATED FOR ACADEMY THIS AFTERNOON

An adjourned meeting of the newly formed six-team Eastern Connecticut-Western Rhode Island Interscholastic league is slated for this afternoon at the Academy. Schedules that were drawn up at a meeting in January are expected to be ratified today.

However, as yet, they have no opponent but a tilt with the Bulkeley Independents ought to please.

MANY RECRUITS SEEM TO HAVE ARRIVED

By BRIAN BELL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, March 28—(AP)—The center field gate is proving a good entry way for young baseball players in the major leagues.

Fred Schulte, bought by the St. Louis Browns at a reported price of $100,000, and Lloyd Waner, who cost the Pittsburgh Pirates only a small amount for car fare, were the sensational youngsters of the American and National leaguers last year.

Schulte was incapacitated when he came out second best in an encounter with an outfield wall but in the 60 games he played he demonstrated that he was worth whatever price was paid for him.

The junior Waner went through the season at an amazing clip, batting .355, leading the league in number of one base hits and tying with Rogers Hornsby for the leadership in runscoring.

Indians Have Find

Now comes Eddie Morgan with a promise to be the star of the freshman class this year. Morgan will play center field for the Cleveland Indians, not so well as did Tris Speaker but well enough for a young fellow who has born the year "Spoke" started his baseball career as a member of the team of the Fort Worth Polytechnic institute.

Morgan, a college product, has had only one year in professional ball, but he took full advantage of his opportunities at New Orleans to bat .355, his attack running heavily to extra bases. He stole 23 bases, Morgan was a catcher at Tulane university but he was fast enough to play a great halfback on the Green football team and win all-conference recognition on the basketball quintet.

Martin Fast

The new crop of outfielders is usually good this year. "Pid" Purdy, who doubles in professional football, has all but made his position certain with the Cincinnati Reds and John Leonard Martin, perhaps the fastest runner in either league, has made such an impression in the Cardinal camp that regular St. Louis outfielders of other years are uneasy as the "rabbit" dashes by.

Paul Easterling, an added starter with the Detroit Tigers, has fought his way into the inner circle and will play many games.

Doug Taitt, ready to do his bit for the Boston Red Sox if given a chance, is a right fielder rather than a center field specialist. But that will mean little to a man who has so much pep that his Nashville Manager, Jimmy Hamilton, declared he could beat the third baseman to the bench.

It's great to be young and an outfielder.

'BOUT SPORTS

Two captains are slated to be seated at the Academy within a few days. The 1928-29 basketball team will be electing its leader after the last game of the present season, Saturday, while this year's track team needs a captain and that situation will probably be remedied before long.

Buck LaCroix, 1928 football captain, seems to be the logical choice for leader, he being the only regular on this year's squad slated to return. However, there is a possibility of Les Pingree being available next winter and if that's the case then the capable center will also come in for much consideration as a nominee.

In track, there are four lettermen eligible for the post, Johnny Greene, Butsy Weisgraber, "Ted" Lyons and Holdridge. Greene's time is mostly taken up with baseball and Weisgraber is not sure of competing this year because of a broken ankle, so the field seems to simmer down to Lyons and Holdridge.

BASEBALL NEWS

Red Sox Again Lose to Giants

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 28—(AP)—Bill Carrigan's Boston Red Sox took their daily beating from the New York Giants today, 8 to 5, in a wild, slugging affray featured by four home runs.

The Giants collected six of their runs and 10 of their 15 hits during the first four innings while Charlie Ruffing was on the mound for the Red Sox. Bradley held the Giants fairly well in check the rest of the way. Bill Walker southpawed his way through the first four innings in good stoyle but ran into trouble in the fifth when the American leaguers scored four runs. Dutch Henry finished for the Giants.

Lindstrom, Ott, Berry and Myer were the home run hitters.

TAMPA, Fla., March 28—(AP)—Sherdel and Haines pitched in form today and the St. Louis Cardinals shut out the Washington Senators 2 to 0. Sherdel allowed only three hits in the first five innings and Haines gave but two in the last four.

The Cardinals fielded errorlessly and concentrated an attack on Lizenbee in the sixth inning to score the runs necessary to win. Lizenbee had previously held the Cardinals to two hits both made by Bottomley. Score:

White Sox Win

SHREVEPORT, La., March 28—(AP)—Shreveport executed a triple play against the Chicago White Sox in the eighth inning of today's exhibition game, but the Sox won, 11 to 6.

The triple play was started by Holman, a Shreveport third sacker, who caught Barrett's line drive, tagged Metzler off third and then tossed to Whelan, who caught Kamm off first.

Cubs Have Easy Win

LOS ANGELES, March 28—(AP)—Jack Welch, young Chicago Cub right-hander, allowed but three scattered hits while his mates hammered the ball viciously to defeat Hollywood, 10 to 0, today.

Two other Cub youngsters, "Woody" English and "Molly" McQuire performed an unusual feat in the first inning, each getting a single and a double. Six singles and three doubles were made by the Cubs in the initial inning rally.

SUSIE STARTS TO MAKE SURVEY OF CONDITIONS IN NORWICH

Letters from our old friend Susie are few and far between these days, but between the duties of caring for a home and husband and making a survey of Norwich she apparently has not had much time to write. Her letter is self-explanatory:

Dear Sports Ed:

Well its been a blue moon since I last took my pen in hand to address you but I sure have been busy the last few weeks. Between scrubbing floors, manicuring dishes and keeping the boss from starving into a shadow I ain't had much time. Besides Ed. I've been making a survey of Norwich to find out what's wrong with it, if anything, and kind of give it a dose of rhubard and soda and a few sulphur tablets like mother used to do every spring.

Now surveying a city of 20 some thousand souls is no snap if it's done right but I don't expect to get $1,500 for the job, I'd be thankful if I got space rates. What got me was where to start on this survey and after great deliberation I decided to start right at home. I took one good survey of the place called by the most hallowed of words, "Home." Oh, boy, I decided right then and there that what Norwich needed was a darned good school to teach modern and improved methods of housekeeping. In fact, attendance at this school should be made compulsory. I sat down took the old trusty pencil and figured out that if every home in Norwich was kept like my home, in thirty years the city of Norwich would be in the same state of ruin as the city of Pompeii. Well, having decided that to my own, if nobody else's satisfaction, I proceded out of doors.

The street caught my eye and likewise a good part of the street landed plump in that optic. This incident of course did not help me in making an optimistic survey and probably my opinion was sort of warped. After picking a handful of debris out of my glimmer I decided that I had surveyed enough of the streets and promptly wrote down that Norwich needed all its street thoroughly overhauled, renovated, remodeled and put in a dustless condition. Of course, knowing nothing about streets I felt that I am fully capable of making suggestions and criticizing how the work should be done. By the way though, if they would grow grass in the street they might make good places to grow sheep on. If they did that they might make the street commissioner chief shepherd, and the men in the street department could be little shepherds. They might have a sheep dip on Franklin square and charge admission to see the little lambs ducked.

Then going down the street I noticed the large number of men industriously engaged in the well known occupation of sun-dodging. I goes up to a coupla of the boys and says "Say any of you guys, wanta job?" Boy, you should have heard the nasty laugh I get. Them guys want a job, not so you'd notice it. I can't say whether they was skilled or unskilled labor 'cause there wasn't any labor there. Then on the other hand I looks into the street and there's just as many automobiles and just as shiny and new as in any other city. Maybe they ain't paid for but they sure have got 'em. Sure they have, for there are 4448 autos in town, which would mean about one car to every six people in a town which lacks skilled labor. Then again the savings deposits in Norwich are so large that you might think Norwich was located on the River Clyde instead of on the Thames. Of course there are some people who will always just push a wheelbarrow; that's the height of their ambition and not the fault of the city.

I went on surveying and my survey took me to a hotel. Now of course there are hotels and hotels. I goes in and asks the manager for a room saying I'm going to be in town for a long time and he says he's got one. I sees it and it is all right but I think the price is kind of steep and I asks for cut rates. I'm informed that there ain't no cut rates. Now I ask you, Mr. Editor, should I say that the hotel accommodations in Norwich are rotten? Should I, huh? Should I slap the hotel 'cause the manager ain't no twice-price guy? Should I, huh? No, I shouldn't. Believe me, I been in lots bigger cities and seen lots worse hotels than right here in Norwich. Of course if I was going to recommend a new hotel I should want to have one put up with all the modern improvements, but with a rate of about 15 cents a day, European plan, which I think would satisfy some of the chronic kickers.

Going on with my survey I gave our police and fire departments the once right but I don't expect to get no

GARDE THEATRE BLDG., NEW LONDON, BOUGHT BY WALTER GARDE'S ATTORNEY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 28—Frank L. McGuire, as attorney for Walter Garde, this afternoon purchased the Garde theatre and building for the sum of $508,521.75, at the public sale held on the premises, to settle a suit of foreclosure brought by a New Haven bank. Only one competitive bidder was present, I. Harry Levine, who was said to have been representing a theatrical group of New Haven.

The property was sold with the understanding that the purchase price must be over the total of all outstanding liens. These liens amounted to $408,521.75, the bulk of which was represented by a first mortgage bond in the amount of $350,000. The remainder of the amount was made up by taxes due the city of New London and liens to several different concerns and individuals.

The building and equipment of the theatre is assessed at $292,000. Its original cost, as near as can be computed, was in the neighborhood of $640,000. The lot alone was purchased from Walter Garde for $130,000. In view of the assessed valuation and the original cost of the building, many persons in this city consider that the purchase price paid by Mr. Garde was very low.

The building contains between 55 and 60 offices and several stores, which if all were rented at the prices asked, and they are comparable to other rents here, would bring in an annual revenue of around $30,000. However, only about one-third of the offices are occupied and two stores are vacant.

The sale created considerable interest around New London and drew a crowd that overran the rooms in which it was held, which are about the size of two fairly large stores. It had been expected that one or more New London interests would make a bid for the property and several theatrical groups. Inquiry has recently been made by several of the latter regarding the average patronage of the theatre and its popularity here and it was fully expected that several competitive bidders would be at the sale. It is understood that there will be no change whatever in the management of the theatre.

Great preparation was going on all day for the annual banquet of the New London chamber of Commerce, held tonight jointly with the Lions and Rotary clubs. While it was primarily an affair for these organizations, it was understood that many persons interested in the civic progress of the city will be present.

Edward P. and Helen P. Calvert, of Groton, have sold a house and lot on Connecticut avenue to Henry Tetu.

The deed transferring title in the property on Broad street, owned by the estate of Elias F. Morgan to Victor Castaldi, was received for record at the office of the city clerk today. The property is mortgaged for $35,000. It will be utilized for the construction of an apartment house.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Beaney, wife of Angelo Beaney, of 15 Linden street, was held at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Joseph's church and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons. The bearers were Harold May, Richard Curran, Edmund Chidsey, Arthur White, Michael Enright and Timothy O'Leary. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Charles F. Kelley, 59, died last night at his residence, 26 Walden avenue, after a lingering illness with heart disease. Mr. Kelley, who was born in New York, but who had resided in New London many years, is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Harold Alger, and a son, Charles S. Kelley, both of this city. He was a contracting painter by occupation.

George Hansen, 10 Cliff street, and Leslie Breed, of Mystic, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

Patrolman John Foley is confined to his home on Huntington street by illness.

Jack Blythe, of Morris Plains, N. J., was in the police court today, charged with breach of the peace. He was fined $10 and costs. Blythe, who was formerly employed at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, returned to New London for a brief visit Monday and Tuesday he started drinking. He went to the dormitory used by the employes of the hospital, which is at 351 Ocean avenue, and instead of entering the building in the accustomed manner, Blythe entered through a window and was found there by one of the women. Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray arrested Blythe later.

Henry Schofield, 72, of Waterford, was charged with vagrancy, but the case was continued to April 27. Schofield, who is not of sound mentality, but harmless, came to New London yesterday in search of employment and his queer actions resulted in his arrest. Schofield, who is a charge of the town of Waterford, went to Ocean avenue and went from house to house requesting that he be given work. Mrs. Emily Huxford, at 504, responded to the ringing of the doorbell, when Schofield attempted to enter the house and this caused Mrs. Huxford to make complaint to the police. Automobile Patrol Officer Ray, finding the aged man, arrested him, principally for his own safety.

The only other case heard was that of a colored woman, charged with intoxication. She was fined $5. The woman was arrested on John street yesterday afternoon.

New London enthusiasts are planning the organization of a tennis club for the purpose of putting this sport on the same basis as it is in other cities of comparable size. The first steps to be taken by the organizers will be the seeking of city aid to provide grounds that will be adequate to care for all who wish to participate in the sport. A canvass is being made of all the tennis players of the city and just as soon as the required number have signed up a public meeting will be held for organization.

At the annual meeting of the Southern New England conference of the Methodist churches, in session at Fall River, Rev. Elmer G. Page, a deacon of this city, will be ordained as a local elder of the Methodist church. Two years ago Rev. Page was ordained a deacon and since that time he has successfully passed the theological examination necessary to qualify for an eldership. Sunday afternoon he will be ordained by Bishop William F. Anderson. Several local ministers will attend and aid in the ceremony.

At the semi-annual declamation contest held last night at the auditorium of Bulkeley school, Howard Fern won first place in the freshman class. The selection which won for young Fern the coveted prize was Spartacus to the Gladiators. The contest was in the inter-class series and the final winners in the different classes will be made known April 15, when members will compete in a public contest.

In order that the scout movement may have more Jewish members in this city, several prominent members of this faith conferred with Scout Commissioner Ernest Nibbs last night with the view of organizing a Jewish troop here.

WAYWARD BOSTON GIRLS SLIP AWAY FROM CUSTODY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 28—Alice Mercier Wernig, alias Alice Dean, 13, and her sister, Jeanette Dean, 15, were arrested Monday night by Policewoman Jane Cassidy charged with having fallen into ways of vice and were to have been presented in the police court this morning, but because the girls made their escape last night, they were not in court today. The girls, whose homes are in Boston, were taken to the Salvation Army barracks where they were being detained until today, but last evening when they found a favorable opportunity at a time when the members of the army were conducting a street service, the girls slipped from the building unobserved by the attendant. The escape of the girls was not discovered until a half hour after they had left the building and no trace of them was found.

FIRE ON BARGE HOOPER PROVES HARD TO SUBDUE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 28—In spite of efforts of local firemen and members of the boat's crew and men from the Thames Towboat Co., the coal barge T. J. Hooper of the Eastern Transportation Fleet, which caught fire yesterday afternoon is still burning. The barge was loaded with fifteen hundred tons of coal and to save this a force of men worked for hours taking it off until the dense smoke from the fire drove them from the boat. The fire is mostly under the deck lockers and in the forward hold, thus making it very difficult of access. By constantly applying water to the fire, however, the fighters are holding it in check. It is expected that the flames will be conquered some time tonight.

That the colleges which are being asked to send representatives to New London for college choosing day this week Friday are taking this step seriously is indicated by the correspondence on the matter being received by Rev. Arthur F. Wagner, chairman of the committee planning it. The letters show that each college is sending the person who, in their belief, is best qualified to represent them. While all of the institutions have not replied, and some are unable to send representatives, the list to date will give an indication of the quality of those to be here at that time, as follows:

Bay Path Institute, Springfield; Boston university, Prof. Ralph G. Wells; Brown university, Kenneth Mason, dean of freshmen; Connecticut College for Women, Miss Crofoot, secretary of committee on admissions; Dartmouth college, Robert C. Strong, executive assistant to president; Middlebury college, William R. Canty, instructor at Bulkeley school, New London; New Haven Normal school of physical education; Lawrence Memorial Hospital Training School for Nurses; Northeastern university, Milton J. Schlagenhauf, director of admission; Rhode Island State college, Willis F. Snow, New London; University of Pennsylvania, Karl G. DRIVES SOUTH IN BANK ST. HERBERT HENDEL ARRESTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 28—Herbert Hendel, employed by the Hendel Furniture company, 219 Bank street, was arrested this afternoon by Traffic Officer Dennis Cavanaugh, charged with violation of the city ordinances pertaining to traffic. He will be in the police court tomorrow morning. Hendel is employed as a driver of the truck used by his employer and since Bank street, between State and Tilley street, has been restricted to traffic only in a northerly direction, he has persisted in driving in a southerly direction. This afternoon when Hendel was violating the traffic regulations again, his truck barely escaped collision with a pleasure car as the latter machine emerged from Tilley street and as Hendel had been warned repeatedly against such violation, he was arrested.

Members of Osprey Rebekah lodge, of this city, celebrated the 44th anniversary of the chapter last night with an old-fashioned New England supper, served to over 250 members. The affair was held in Odd Fellows hall, Bank street. The supper followed the annual meeting of the school of instruction by grand officers which was in session all yesterday afternoon. About 150 members from Eastern Connecticut attended. Several prominent speakers delivered addresses.

The Woman's Christian Temperance union of this city will conduct a double silver medal speaking contest at the Huntington Street Baptist church tomorrow night at 7:45. Zigmund Wiecorek, 9, residing at 106 Green street, was struck this afternoon by an automobile, sustaining minor injuries, which were treated at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. The boy had been amusing himself in front of his home and when he darted into the street he ran against the side of the automobile driven by William Geddis, which was about to pass. The boy was knocked down. Geddis had him taken to the hospital, where it was found that his principal injury was a laceration of the cheek. One stitch was required to close the wound. The other injuries consisted of bruises.

The city will be called upon almost any time to have repairs made to streets, for there are any number of highways that are in a dangerous condition and liable to cause damage to automobiles, or injuries to pedestrians. Practically all the streets in need of repairs are in their present condition because of weather conditions. Montauk avenue is now receiving temporary treatment from a force of city laborers.

Sales that surpass all records for this time of the year; outselling all other cars at many points, and gaining momentum at a speed that astounds the trade, the new Essex Super-Six is enjoying the greatest public ovation in 6-cylinder history.

The localities reported in the column to the left are not unusual, but typical, and they merely reflect the country-wide triumph. Everywhere dealers are reporting more than 100% greater sales than for the same period last year which was the previous record.

It is easily the greatest Essex Super-Six in history. It offers $200 to $300 more visible value than its great predecessor which outsold any other "Six" at or near the price by overwhelming margins.

Buyers can pay for cars out of income at lowest available charge for interest, handling and insurance.

JEWETT CITY

HOW THAT ELIMINATION STRIKES ONE CITIZEN

JEWETT CITY, March 28—Here is one comment on the proposed crossing elimination:

Your very interesting item of news in The Bulletin yesterday was one of much import to the people of South Main street.

Someone must have thought of a way to eliminate the grade crossing by sinking the railroad, beginning at the railroad bridge over the Quinebaug and raising Main street from where Mr. Roy lives. I think this need not be more than a six per cent grade. There would have to be an incline to get into Anthony street and Railroad avenue.

This would cost the railroad less than the one-fourth they will now have to pay to the holders of property taken for the use of the state road.

The owners on the north side of Main street can sue the state, if the state leaves them on a street of dead ends.

The change of the street to the back of F. S. Leonard's will decrease the value of the home of L. G. Buckingham (not so much) as Miss S. K. Adams, Robert Guy, Mr. Roy and the Anthony home.

On the Lisbon side some of the people may want to move their houses back or sell them for enough to make money on the transaction.

The fact is, Mr. Macdonald, the highway commissioner, wishes to make the roads safe for the public.

It is estimated that in 20 years the trunk line roads will have to be from 100 to 150 feet wide, as there will be at that time in this country 50 million cars (autos) There are now more than 20 million.

This means that towns like Norwich will have to widen their streets.

Now the only way the people of Jewett City can help themselves is to go to Hartford and protest and this will have its effect.

A sample of what a protest will do is at South Windham, where the highway commission tried to make the road straight and it has not been done. There are other places I might mention but you will recall some of them. The wishes of the local people are always listened to, and although the commissioner wants to do certain things he will not do them against the desire of the public, to be let alone. If there is quarreling among the citizens he (Mac) will do as he thinks best. The number of protestants will carry the day. If there are only a few there at the hearing, the influence of numbers will be lacking.

Personally, I am not interested. I would go to Hartford if needed.

HUMANE OFFICER AND SHERIFF VISIT HERMIT'S FARM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, March 28—Humane Officer F. H. Wyant, of Norwich, and Deputy Sheriff John T. Dolan, in their second visit today to a backwoods section of the town of Voluntown, found a state of squalor and neglect to animals, that both officers declared was the worst ever. The call which demanded their attention, reporting that a cow with a calf by her side had been mired in a swamp for some time. The animal was drawn out to solid ground by a neighbor, who with others to help, was obliged to use a horse to pull on the ropes fastened to the cow. It was found, after the animal was taken to a barn for shelter, that it was unable to stand.

The officers found the place, some miles from nowhere, and were able to find out that the cow belonged to one Billie Crele, known in that section as the Hungarian hermit. A visit to his hovel disclosed a condition of affairs that warranted the second visit today. The hermit was not at home, but it was learned that he had gone with feed for his cow in the neighbor's barn some distance through the woods. A half dozen starving cats were running half wild about the place. Inside the house, which was cold and dark, a great lean dog was found chained to the side of the fireplace. A quantity of putrid bones lay about the floor and these the animal had evidently gnawed. Officer Dolan went some distance to get a three-pound package of liver which he had brought along, on the strength of information he had received, relative to conditions he would find at the hermit's place. It is expected that today's visit will determine whether charity may not be necessary rather than legal procedure.

Easter opening at Whiting's Flower Shoppe, 17 Soule St., Friday.—Adv.

Peep frog reports are in from Miss Ruth Burton and F. L. Tipton. The hyla floats around on top of the water when he does his peeping. It was allowed here today that if a peeping party was out Tuesday night, they must have had a cool time a-courting, for the mercury dropped to 30 degrees.

Monday night, several flocks of geese passed over the borough bound north; they were reported at 11 p. m. and 6 a. m.

The R. F. D. man and other travelers who are obliged to use some of the back country roads, are finding the spring mud extra soft. In bad places corduroy building has helped some, with layers of brush and poles. The selectmen are giving their attention to every call and Wednesday most of the 120 miles of road in Griswold were in good shape. Every spring the problem of mud follows that of snow, giving plenty of work for the road men.

It was reported here Wednesday that work to straighten the road and eliminate the "S" curve bridge at Tadpole will begin soon. It is understood that a trestle will carry the traffic straight over from the top of Farrell's hill, to a point above the west landing of the overhead bridge.

Pachaug Aid society food sale, J. C. town hall, Friday, 2 p. m.—Adv.

The Eastern Connecticut Fish and Game Protective association held its annual meeting Tuesday evening. The association was organized a year ago and has had a very prosperous year. The reports show that there have been liberated 150 ringneck pheasants in the local covers, also the local brooks have been well stocked with fingerling trout. There seems to be very much interest in the opening of skeet shooting again, now that the weather is getting warmer. The following officers have been elected to serve for the next year: President, S. A. Thompson; vice-president, J. Shea; secretary and treasurer, H. Wyatt; board of directors, F. S. Camp, James Blair, William Marshall, L. E. Page, Henry Wallace.

Finn's tonight: John Gilbert in Man, Woman and Sin.—Adv.

Ray Gardiner, formerly of Stonington, who, as a relative of the Burleson family, visits them in Sylvandale, is a member of the Overseas quartet, which often broadcasts over the radio. This quartet, in uniform, sang at the funeral of the two S-4 submarine men from Providence, held Wednesday. The officiating clergyman was an army chaplain, who also wore his uniform.

STERLING

REV. F. B. ADAMS, NORWICH, HAS FAREWELL GIFT OF GOLD

Rev. and Mrs. Frank B. Adams of Oneco street, Norwich, after a stay of fourteen months in Sterling, have returned to their home in Norwich. Their many friends rejoice to learn that as pastor of the M. E. church in Sterling, Rev. Mr. Adams' labors have not been in vain. To this fact the good sized congregation bore testimony, when at the close of Rev. Mr. Adams' farewell address Sunday morning, March 25th a member of the congregation arose and asked the privilege of saying a few words. Mr. Adams, thinking that he had forgotten to give out some important notice granted the request. To the surprise of both himself and his wife, the speaker said "I hold in my hand a box of gold, which is a gift to our pastor and his wife, who by their devotion to the cause of Christ and the people of Sterling, have won our confidence, and esteem. To prove our gratitude I am presenting them this gold." In addition to this gift Mr. Adams received two signed testimonials, one from the Ladies' Aid society and one from members and friends of the society. Each bore the names of a number of Sterling's best citizens, who regard Mr. Adams as one who firmly believes in the brotherhood of man, and to this end he has devoted his time and strength, in an effort to bring about a brotherly feeling in this community. The change in pastors became necessary when it was decided to add another church to the Serling charge. This of course increases the amount of work to be done by the pastor, so that in the future the preacher will of necessity have to cover the field of his labors with an automobile. It is understood that the right man has been found who with his car will be able to care for the increased amount of labor.

Bobby Coon's Cousin Nosey.

There may be meaning in a name. There may be not; it's all the same.

Scrapper the Kingbird

"Who told you that you have a cousin named Nosey?" demanded Scrapper the Kingbird of Bobby Coon.

Bobby grinned. "You ought not to have asked that with Peter Rabbit around," said he.

Peter grinned and looked a little bit foolish. Peter had just arrived and was sitting on the ground below Bobby, where he could hear all that was said. Scrapper chuckled. "Rabbits are alike the world over, I guess," said he. "Nosey is well named."

"Is it because he has a long nose?" asked Bobby.

Scrapper nodded. "Yes," said he. "It's because he has a long nose and is forever poking it into all sorts of places. I've noticed that people with long noses are likely to be that way."

"Do you call him Nosey the Coon?" asked Bobby.

"No," replied Scrapper. "They call him Nosey the Coati. He doesn't look much like a Raccoon, but he belongs to the same family that you do, so I suppose he must be a sort of cousin to you."

"I suppose," said Bobby, "that he has a nice, big tail. I wouldn't think much of a member of the family who didn't have a nice, big tail."

"That depends on what you call a big tail," replied Scrapper. "A tail may be big in two ways; or it may be big in either one or two ways. It may be big around the long, or it may be big around but short. Or it may be small around but very long. In either case I would call it a big tail. Now, you have a big tail. It isn't very long but it is a big tail. Your cousin Nosey has a big tail, but it is big the other way."

"Do you mean that it is a long tail?" inquired Bobby.

"That is just what I mean," replied Scrapper. "It is a very long tail. I don't know of any one with a longer tail for his size, excepting his cousin Kinky the Kinkajou or one of the Monkey folk. He has a long nose and a long tail."

"Do they call him Nosey the Coon?" asked Bobby.

"Does he live in the Green Forest?" inquired Bobby Coon.

"He lives in the Jungle," replied Scrapper. "That is what they call the Green Forrest down there—the Jungle."

"Is he a good climber?" inquired Bobby.

Scrapper nodded. "He is a very good climber," said he. "He is very much at home in the trees."

"Can he climb as well as I can?" persisted Bobby Coon.

"Better," replied Scrapper. "At least, he can climb more quickly than you can. You see, he gets a lot of his food up in the trees."

"I suppose you mean birds' eggs and little birds," said Bobby.

"Are you judging others by yourself Bobby?" demanded Scrapper severely. "Your cousin Nosey is quite as much a fruit eater as you are—perhaps more so. And to get fruit he has to climb for it. Many a time I've seen him with a lot of his relatives up in a tree, all of them stuffing themselves. Your cousin Nosey is more sociable than you are, Bobby."

MARRIED FIFTY-SEVEN YEARS—TOO BUSY TO CELEBRATE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., March 28—Their 57th wedding anniversary was reached today by Mr. and Mrs. William C. Andrews, 26 Moss street, Pawcatuck, who received congratulations from relatives and friends. They did not observe the anniversary with any formality as they are engaged in moving into a newly built house on Lester avenue and had no time to pause for festivities. Mr. and Mrs. Andrews were married at Carolina March 28, 1871. Mrs. Andrews celebrated her 79th birthday March 14, just two weeks ago and her husband was 81 years old March 17.

There was a good attendance Tuesday evening at Westerly public library to hear the book talk by Thomas H. Robinson, head of the English department at Rhode Island State college of education. Mr. Robinson discussed some of the more recent books of non-fiction and reviewed several that are very much in the public thought. The books reviewed were: "The Glorious Adventure" and "The Road to Romance," both by Richard Halliburton; "Transition," Will Durant; "Trader Horn," Aloysius Horn; "The Heart of Emerson's Journals," edited by Bliss Perry; "The Heart of Thoreau's Journals," edited by Odell Shepard; "Tristram," Edwin Arlington Robinson, and the libretto "The King's Henchman," by Edna St. Vincent Millay.

R. conference at the Biltmore hotel. Luncheon was at 1 o'clock. The delegates chosen to represent Phebe Greene Ward chapter were Mrs. Freeman, Mrs. William C. Thompson, Mrs. Edwin A. Barbour and Mrs. Howard M. Barber.

FIRE NEAR A CHIMNEY TROUBLESOME TO CONQUER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, March 28—Fire alarm No. 127, East avenue near Bethel chapel, was sounded about 3:30 a. m. today for a blaze in the rear roof of the cottage owned and occupied by Barlow Walker. Smoke coming up through the shingles was seen before the alarm was rung in. The Ahrens-Fox and Seagraves pumpers with Fire Chief George E. Egger and George McKenzie responded. The pumpers were taken up the driveway leading into the Westerly Rod and Gun club grounds. One hose stream from a booster tank was taken into the front door of the house but firemen could not reach the blaze. Ladders were placed against the rear roof and a booster tank hose taken up on the roof where a hole was cut to get at the flames, which had started in some unknown manner under the roof at some distance from the chimney. The fire was put out before the high wind blowing at the time could fan it into a destructive blaze. Several hundred dollars will cover the damage. The house was formerly occupied by Alburtus R. Maxson.

Both east and west-bound tracks of the New Haven railroad through the Westerly and adjoining sections of the Providence divisions have had the main line rails, plates and bars oiled the past week by the work train crew. There is a blind student in Atlanta, Ga., who partly pays his way through law school by calling a class roll of 200 members purely from memory. He identifies each voice by the individual inflection and instantly spots the fellow who would answer for an absent mate. Every school day for a year he turned in an accurate attendance record to the officials. He supplements the income from his task by selling papers off hours before a downtown office building and can call most of his customers by name.

POETRY

Sunset at Sea

A cloud of purple sail that looms against the scarlet sun,
A maze of deeper shadows darkening on the flaming sea;
Three gray-white gulls that lazy dart
above the foaming wake,
A gloaming sky, a bracing breeze that wanders wild and free—
And the sun droops low and steals away upon the sighing sea.

A golden retinue of clouds that nestle to the waves
As if to slumber with the sun in hidden ocean-caves—
To dream awhile before the dawn that surges from the East, Soft lulled to rest by mermaid-songs and silver-lighted waves—
Attend the royal Voyageur to jewelled
ocean-caves.

The gallant galleon lunges on against the setting sun
Through boundless wastes and billows to some haunting, happy Isle;
No winding lane across the deep, no
loadstar low to light,
Yet lunging hugely on its course where siren-songs beguile—
And through the dusk men hear the flutes that echo from the Isle.

The Land of Promise waits afar beyond the bar of gold
That severs sky from ocean, just beyond the looming West;
Where sun and clouds have gone and where the tolling vessel turns—
The Isle of palms and quiet shores, of harbors, love and rest,
Where glades of emerald await—far in the luring West.

The galleon lurches grandly on its steady, tranquil way;
The sea, the clouds, the swooping birds,
know not its destiny;
But captain, helmsman, skipper know the lanes that cross the waves—
The mystic voice of sun and stars that lead men through the sea;
The darkling foam, the gloaming skies are deep with destiny.

And still at eventide the shadows creep across the blue
To cast their solemn prophecy upon the ocean's crest;
And still the Soul's gray Galleon sweeps on with magic sails
Across the seas of violet, upon the looming West—
But it feels the Isle of Promise calling from the ocean's crest.

Disenchantment

The mighty soul that is ambition's mate,
Tied to the shiftings of a certain star,
Forgets the circle of its mortal state
And what its planetary aspects are,
Till, in conjunctive course and wandering,
Out of its trance and treasure-dream of hope
It wakens, poor illusionary thing,
Wingless, without desire, or deed, or scope.
So have I with imaginations played,
Till I have lost life's sure and single good,
Forgotten friendships, broken vows, and made
My heart a highway for ingratitude,
And, driven to the desert of the sky,
Fear now no thing but immortality.

—Charles Leonard Moore

HUMOR OF THE DAY

He (half an hour late)—Awfully sorry I'm late.

She—Don't be sarcastic; you know I've only just arrived.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Bum—I'm just out of luck. I've seen better days.

Go-Getter—I'm sorry, but I can't stop to talk about the weather.—Detroit News.

"Do you ever get stage fright?"

"Not so that I can notice it," answered Senator Sorghum. "The way politics has been going, I'm scared all the time."—Washington Star.

The Frigidaire people, according to Judge, got their idea sitting in a concrete stadium in November, watching a football game.—Christian Science Monitor.

Boss—You can't come to work in a coma. You can't do a good day's work if you don't sleep at night.

Chief Bookkeeper—I'm studying efficiency at night, sir.—Exchange.

"He's the kind of fellow who saves his straw hat with the idea of wearing it next season."

"But lots of fellows do that."

"I know; but he wears his."—Life.

A clergyman, whose wife is known for her extreme plainness was lecturing a Sunday school class of boys on politeness.

"When a plate of apples is passed to you," he said, "never take the best looking one."

From the back row came in a low tone:

"I'll bet that's the way he picked his wife."—The Progressive Grocer.

"Do you know that fellow Flipperton who claims to read character at a glance?"

"Yes."

"Well, he swindled me out of $500."

"You don't say! I didn't suppose he ever put his boasted talent to any practical use."—Boston Transcript.

A tree containing enough lumber to build 22 homes of average size is recognized as the leading contender for the title of monarch of California forests: It is against sequoia, near Grannell. It is 308 feet high, 20 feet in diameter and contains 361,366 board feet of merchantable lumber.

The ancient Hebrew custom of loading the sins of the people on a scapegoat, which bore them off into the wilderness, has a modern parallel in a certain district in central India. It is not sins, however, which the modern scapegoat is required to carry off, but smallpox. When an outbreak of smallpox occurs in a village, the inhabitants resort to the ceremony of "Nleasi." A female goat is bought by public subscription and is adorned with the particular type of ornaments usually affixed to the image of a goddess. The goat is then apparently looked upon as an incarnation of the goddess of the disease. The animal is supposed to remove the epidemic as she is passed on from village to village until she reaches her own temple or is devoured by wild beasts on the way.

Blindfolded

Old Gold

Actual photograph of JAMES MONTGOMERY FLAGG, taken in his studio while test was being made

"Most of us smoke names and think we are smoking cigarettes! The blindfold test proved that to me and that it is difficult to tell one cigarette from another . . . except in the case of OLD GOLD . . . I spotted that . . . it suited me best even blindfolded. In fact, the man who said 'not a cough in a carload' knew whereof he spoke. It's the smoothness that identifies OLD GOLD. It needs no other trade mark."

JAMES MONTGOMERY FLAGG

How Test Was Made

Subject was blindfolded, and, in the presence of two responsible witnesses, was given one of each of the four leading cigarettes to smoke. Coffee was served before each cigarette to clear the taste. Subject was entirely unaware of the identify of these cigarettes during test. After smoking the entire series of four cigarettes, subject was asked to designate by number his choice. In the case presented here, Mr. Flagg's first choice was cigarette No. 2, which was OLD GOLD

First comes CHRYSLER "72"

all others trail

Chrysler "72" performance makes all other performance in its field seem as out-of-date as last year's license plates. All you have to do is to ride in a "72," and drive it to appreciate the difference.

Only Chrysler's great engineering staff and precision manufacturing organization could have developed 75 smooth horse power from an engine of such moderate size.

You can, at will, do 72 miles an hour and more—velvety, easy miles—due to this unique and vibrationless engine with counterweighted seven-bearing crankshaft.

It takes mountain grades at constant acceleration. In traffic, the "72" flashes to the fore with characteristic Chrysler get-away.

Only a demonstration can prove to you just how much better the "72" performs.

Illustrious New Chrysler "72" Prices—Two-passenger Coupe (with rumble seat), $1545; Royal Sedan, $1595; Sport Roadster (with rumble seat), $1595; Four-passenger Coupe, $1595; Town Sedan, $1695; Convertible Coupe (with rumble seat), $1745; Crown Sedan, $1795. *All prices f. o. b. STOCK MARKET MORE ORDERLY WITH GENERAL TREND OF PRICES HIGHER

NEW YORK, March 28—(AP)—Trading in today's stock market continued in enormous volume, but the price movement was more orderly with a general trend to higher ground. Heavy profit taking sales in some of the recent speculative favorites, which sold off 1 to 6 points, caused some irregularity, but final quotations disclosed a rather impressive number of net gains ranging from 1 to 10 points. Total sales crossed the 4,000,000 share mark for the third consecutive day, but were well below yesterday's record-breaking session.

A further stiffening in money rates was one of the most important financial developments of the day. Call money renewed at 4 3-4 per cent, instead of 4 1-2 and then advanced to 5 per cent as banks called about $25,000,000 in loans, presumably to meet the heavy demand for funds in connection with quarterly settlements. There was no quotable change in time money rates, but the supply of funds was not as plentiful as it had been earlier in the week.

Steel trade reviews reported that production was being maintained in large volume, but noted a softening price tendency. Revenue freight car loadings again made an unfavorable comparison with the corresponding weeks of 1927 and 1926. One bright spot in the day's news was the publication of the new Mexican oil regulations, which was reflected in the stronger undertone for the shares of oil companies operating nearly 7 points to a new high record at 191 1-2.

Violent fluctuations were confined to relatively few issues. Radio, after selling down to 161 1-2 rallied to a new high record for all time at 174 3-4 and then slipped back to 167 1-2, off 1 1-4 net. Continental Can soared 11 1-2 points to a new top at 110 and closed within 1 1-2 points of that figure. General Motors closed 4 1-4 points net lower at 186 1-4 after fluctuating between 185 1-4 and 191. General Electric opened at 150, a new peak, reacted to 146 1-2 and closed at 147 1-8, off 1 7-8 net. U. S. Steel closed fractionally lower at 148 1-8 after fluctuating within a range of a little more than 2 points.

Another flock of new high records was established during the day, the list including American Bosch Magneto, American Can, American Radiator, Atlantic Refining, Commercial Solvents, Curtiss Aeroplane preferred, Dunhill International, S. H. Kresge, Montgomery Ward, Sinclair, Warner Brothers "A" and Willys Overland. On the other hand, acute weakness developed in American Machine & Foundry, Barnet Leather, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and a sprinkling of other issues.

Rails presented several points of strength. Texas & Pacific was run up more than 10 points to a new peak at 184 3-4 and then sagged to 132. New York Central touched a new top at 180 3-4 and slipped back to 179 1-2. St. Paul common and preferred, Reading, Rock Island and Northern Pacific also bettered their previous 1928 maximum prices.

A sharp advance of 2 to nearly 3 cents a bushel in wheat prices, based on reports of abandoned acreage in Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio, was the outstanding development in the commodity markets. Cotton and coffee prices drifted lower and sugar quotations held steady.

Except for a jump of nearly 10 points in Spanish pesetas to 16.87 cents there were no changes of consequence in the foreign exchange market. Sterling cables held steady around 4.88 7-32.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 28—(AP)—The oils and pipe lines alone showed group strength in an unsettled and irregular curb market today. Announcement of the amendment of Mexican government regulations affecting American petroleum interests was accepted as favorable to the industry, and a number of oils and pipe lines advanced to new high ground.

Buying support shifted from recent leaders to new industrial specialties. Profit-taking sales caused recessions shortly before noon, but while many issues were lower at the close, the general tone of the market was improved.

Northern Pipe Line responded not only to the announcement from Mexico City, but to reports that capitalization is to be halved, with stockholders receiving about $50 a share, by rising 3 points to a new high at 135. Cumberland, Eureka and Southwest Penn gained as much as 2 points each. Mexico Ohio, Mexican Oil Corporation, Richfield, Tidal Osage and Standard of Kansas were at new highs. National Transit, which is expected to declare a special 7 per cent. dividend, was in demand.

In the industrial group, the 14 point rise of Balaban & Katz to a new high at 74 was outstanding. Canadian Marconi improved slightly. Casein moved up more than 3 points, and Ford of Canada advanced 6 on a small turnover. Auburn Auto slumped nearly 3 points after establishing a new top price of 143.

The utilities were irregular. National Electric Power preferred soared 10 points in initial trading. Hartford Electric Light rose 21 points to new peak at 436 on reports of a pending stock split-up. Blackstone Valley issues lost 6 points each.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theater.

Drake and Walker's big Broadway production, "My Chocolate Gal," will be the stage attraction at the Palace theater today, tomorrow and Saturday. This company has played in all the large cities and is one of the best all-colored revues on the road today. There are 35 people in the cast, they carry a carload of special scenery and the costumes are gorgeous. Every one who is fond of music and dancing will enjoy "My Chocolate Gal." The jazz band is a feature. A colored band can play. The octoroon beauty chorus is composed of exceptional dancers and have won round after round of applause wherever they have appeared.

The screen attraction is "Something Always Happens," starring Esther Ralston. It is hailed as a mystery comedy, being filled with eerie action, along with an abundance of laughter.

The plot centers around a girl seeking adventure, being tired of a cut-and-dried existence in a staid old English household. She enters a deserted, haunted house and from the moment she sets foot in it, things start to happen. Ghosts walk, chairs roll away, doors slam without human assistance, mysterious phosphorescent eyes blink and sinister faces peer at her.

Neil Hamilton is Miss Ralston's leading man in this production, which was directed by Frank Tuttle and supervised by Louis D. Lighton, the combination that is responsible for such Ralston hits as "The Spotlight" and "Love and Learn."

Taken all in all it certainly is a wonderful show and one that is sure to please even the most critical.

Strand Theater.

They called him "Yellow" Brown and mocked him for his cowardice. But when the time came he fought like a man possessed. See Billy Sullivan in "The Heart of a Coward," showing for the last time tonight at the Strand. Sometimes the heart of a coward is made of purest gold. He had the heart of a coward until he found riches, manhood and love all at one time. What a surprise—and what a beating!—he gave the man who thought he had "The Heart of a Coward." Others in the cast are Charlotte Stevens, Myles McCarthy and Jack Richardson.

The other feature which is being shown for the last time tonight is "Irene," a screen picturization of the famous musical comedy hit. Colleen Moore, whose beauty has hitherto been garbed in the snappy outfit of the flapper is resplendent in this picture. In this film the adorable actress wears the most astonishing fineries. Sixty Hollywood beauties act as mannequins, and in the unfolding of the story, Fashion and her four seasons play important parts. In the cast are Lloyd Hughes, George K. Arthur, Kate Price and Eva Novak.

"Aesop's Fables" is also being shown. Complete change of program Friday night.

Chrysler Auto Service.

With annual output of automobiles at the high peaks it is now reaching, the matter of service for cars in owners' hands is coming steadily to be regarded as of more and more importance by manufacturers.

Chrysler executives, who have always ranked service as a factor of first magnitude in their progress, point out that since the great majority of new car sales are now made to people already owning cars, satisfied owners are today the best prospects for new business. Proper service is therefore classed by Chrysler as a sales function and an administrative duty as well as a mechanical function.

As a result of this factory policy, practically all Chrysler distributors and a large and growing percentage of the countrywide Chrysler dealer organization are operating their service departments under a plan devised by the company and known as the Chrysler Standardized Maintenance system. A natural supplement of the company's famous Standardized Quality manufacturing policy, the Standardized Maintenance system was evolved by a series of exhaustive studies of every repair and service operation on a Chrysler car.

Uniformity and thoroughness in satisfying service needs are inculcated throughout the organization by the teachings of a Factory Service school, held at Detroit and attended for prescribed periods by service heads of Chrysler distributor and dealer establishments in every part of the country.

Lloyd Hayden, saxophone, Mrs. Belle S. Brown, piano, with Mr. Dowsett at the organ.

From 5 until 6.30 a public supper, consisting of meat and salads will be served in the vestry.

Afternoon is free with collection, and a special door collection will be taken at the 7.30 o'clock service.

Diocesan Bureau of Social Service

We called the attention of the public in our last article to the fact that the Diocesan Bureau of Social Service has now been in Norwich for three years, that it has been doing great good in this vicinity, that all should be interested in this bureau and help support it. Organized charity accomplishes much better results than charity that is not organized. Overlapping, duplications, frauds, etc., are avoided. To help carry on this bureau and its work a whist and dance will be held Tuesday, April 10 at the armory. Tickets are now being sold. This will be one of the social events of the season. Everyone should buy a ticket. By so doing you will help a worthy cause and do a real act of charity.

Tuberculosis Danger Signs

The state tuberculosis commission, in connection with the nation-wide campaign against tuberculosis, points out that thousands of people have tuberculosis and never know it. About two people in every hundred break down with this disease. Even you may have tuberculosis and not know it!

You may be infected and never develop tuberculosis. But if you feel any of the following danger signs of tuberculosis, especially if you have two or three of them in combination, take no chances. See your doctor. Let him decide.

Are you tired all the time without any cause that you can think of? Not laziness, but fatigue—that loss of ambition and energy that gives you an all-in feeling? That may be a danger sign of tuberculosis. Let your doctor decide.

When you begin to lose weight fairly rapidly with no apparent reason and when such loss of weight is accompanied by loss of "pep" or a "tired-all-the-time" feeling, it may be tuberculosis. Let your doctor decide.

Loss of appetite or what is commonly called "indigestion," is frequently an early sign of tuberculosis. This is especially so, if with it goes a loss of "pep" and loss of weight. Let your doctor decide whether your indigestion is or is not a symptom of tuberculosis.

A cough that lasts more than two weeks should always be viewed with suspicion. It may be caused by tuberculosis. Take no chances. Let your doctor decide.

Blood-streaked sputum or quantities of blood with coughed-up matter should put you on your guard. It may be tuberculosis. Let your doctor decide.

No chronic disease is more easily curable than tuberculosis, if it is discovered in time. The danger signs listed in this circular are the earliest signs of tuberculosis that are most commonly noticed. Proper treatment in a sanatorium or at home will restore health to most cases of early tuberculosis.

If in doubt have an examination today, with bared chest.

Your local or state tuberculosis or public health association will assist you with information or in other ways. If you do not know what to do, They will serve your doctor or you for the asking.

Southampton, which is the chief English port for transatlantic passenger steamships, is planning to spend $20,000 in further harbor improvements.

WHY NOT START DIGGING FOR THAT FOUNDATION NOW?

With peep-frogs peeping out their welcome to warm weather, old man winter and his cohorts have been surely run out of town. Warm weather naturally brings to mind those plans of last winter — that when warmer weather comes we will go ahead with the digging of that foundation for the new house.

William Ryan and Sons, Inc., of Norwich have long enjoyed a reputation for giving proper service to those requiring excavating or crane work. Some of the largest jobs in eastern Connecticut have been ably handled by this concern and at prices known to be reasonable.

In these days of modern machinery it does seem foolish to waste days in digging out a cellar and carting away stone and dirt. A steam shovel and a few hours' labor would see that work completed in jig time and at a cost fully as low as the slower and less efficient method.

Whether it's digging or whether it's filling-in—William Ryan and Sons, Inc., have the men and equipment to do the work. A telephone call to 607 and your troubles are over. Do not neglect this work any longer. Warm days are here—pleasant days have arrived, and there is now sufficient time to have all building work done before the arrival of another season of cold weather.

MODERN SHOE REPAIRING WITH OLD TIME LEATHER

A re-soling job is only as satisfactory as the leather used, plus the skill in applying it.

Government regulations during the war required civilians to resole with 8 to 9 iron leather—the same as used then (and now in most part) in new shoes.

The result under government direction was longer wear and and two re-solings on every man's well-made shoe, instead of one re-soling now, when using hard, flinty leather and heavy weighing soles that pull the tapers out of shape and make your shoes wear out faster.

Shu-Fix, Inc., located at 256 Main street, use "K. L." sole leather of the same weight originally built into the shoe. This guarantees you solid, natural, non-acid leather for service, style and comfort. Why use heavy weighing, acid-swelled leather?

Where Quality and Service are the Watchword ory by erecting a memorial over their earthly remains.

To those who plan these lasting memorials it is a work of love—to us whose honor it is to bring these plans into being it is a work of honor. Let us convince you that we have pride in our work of honor and that your memorial of love will be skillfully and carefully brought into being by the Kuebler company. Years of work in this business best enables us to properly interpret a loving plan into a lasting and impressive memorial.

ADDITION OF WATER IMPORTANT TO RADIO BATTERY

The addition of water to a radio storage battery should be a comparatively simple job and yet many radio set owners make mistakes in doing this that are later costly, asserts Mr. Morrill of Joe Moore's Garage, Willard battery dealer here.

"The level of the liquid in each of the cells of a radio storage battery should be above the plates and separators. In order to keep this level, it is necessary to add distilled water from time to time.

"The liquid level should never be permitted to fall to a point that will expose the separators, which are the topmost parts visible through the vent hole. In the case of glass jar radio storage batteries, it is easy to tell what the liquid level is.

"In filling, however, the liquid level should not be allowed to rise into the vent opening itself. If a cell is filled so full that the electrolyte enters the vent hole in the course of charging it is apt to seep through the opening to the top of the battery and drip onto the floor.

"The properly built and designed storage battery, filled to the correct water level directly after charging, should not require addition of water until it is charged again.

"Little evaporation occurs in the radio storage battery, except when charging."

HAVE YOU MADE PLANS TO BUY THAT MEMORIAL

With Memorial Day rapidly drawing nearer The Charles A. Kuebler Co. of 39 Franklin street wish to take this means of sounding the warning against putting off too long that ordering of a memorial for loved ones—for whom no greater tribute can be paid.

At the Kuebler company will be found many varieties of memorials, some one of them fitted to perpetuate memories and carry into the distant future that loving expression of those left behind.

If it is your desire that impressive dignity be expressed in a memorial, we feel sure that at our place you will find just the design that will appeal to you. In addition to this we assure you that our expert workmen will complete the memorial in just the manner you desire.

But a few more weeks remain before the arrival of this day set aside to honor those gone on further—who have gone out into the roadway of eternal life. We who are still of the earth can do our small part to honor their memory by erecting a memorial over their earthly remains.

VISIT BAILEY'S GARAGE BEFORE BUYING YOUR AUTO

Spring is now here and the thoughts of everyone are now turning to the pleasant months to come. There is nothing more pleasant in the summer than a good automobile and Bailey's Garage has them for sale. Just place a call in to telephone 675 and say that you are looking for a real automobile. Mr. Bailey will soon await your pleasure with just the type of car you desire. Prices range to suit anyone's pocketbook and the selection of models has never been so excellent.

The 1928 models of the Flint are the last word in perfection and a demonstration is all that is needed to convince anyone that here is a car capable of performing its work under any handicap. Riding ease, a quick get-away, easy traffic management, excellent braking power—all these things, with many more, are found in the Flint.

The Star cars need no introduction to the public. For a number of years these cars have been a leader in their class and this year is no exception to the rule.

Why put off getting that car. Call 675 and a demonstration will be a convincing argument.

SPRING AND NEW CLOTHES ALWAYS ARE ASSOCIATED

Strawberries, dandelions, honey dews. Thus read the sign on the window of a certain little vegetable mart.

With the first breath of spring and dandelions on the market, it is time to take thought for the spring wardrobe.

Start right with a Spencer foundation garment. With a girdle corset, bandeau, or simple little one-piece garment, a Spencer-All—designed and made to meet your particular needs, you are assured of that thin hip line and perfect posture, which are the essentials of good style.

"I used other remedies without success. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they afforded relief. I continued using them and in a few weeks I was completely healed." (Signed) Augustus O. Woodard, 108 Court St., Auburn, Me., July 1, 1927.

MONTVILLE MAN MADE DEFENDANT IN SUIT FOR $15,000 DAMAGES

New suits for trial in the superior court for this county have been brought for a variety of causes, including automobile accidents, mortgage foreclosures, breach of lease and appeals from probate.

Suit for divorce from Benjamin Franklin Francis of New London is brought by Mabel Pierson Francis of that city. They were married May 3, 1913 at New London and she alleges that he deserted her March 3, 1924. She asks the custody of one of their three children, a nine year old boy.

Anna McCaughey of New London sues William Smiddy of Montville for $15,000 damages on a claim for injuries she received when struck by Smiddy's automobile on Waller street in New London about noon of Jan. 12, 1928. She sustained concussion of the brain and other extensive injuries. The accident took place, it is claimed, where employes from the New England Collapsible Tube company factory and from the public schools were crossing the street, and Smiddy was negligent in driving from Williams street into Waller street past the factory.

Percy H. Morgan of Stonington seeks foreclosure of a $4,800 mortgage on property on Greenmanville avenue, Stonington, in a suit brought against Mary Majlak of Bridgeport. The mortgage is dated Sept. 8, 1924.

Foreclosure of two mortgages, one for $500, dated Jan. 13, 1926 and the other for $3,000, dated March 11, 1926, is sought by the Savings bank of New London in a suit brought against Anna White Andiola of Groton. The property mortgaged is on Hamilton avenue, and the Groton Lumber company claims to have two mortgages on the premises for $2,600 and $300.

Gerda L. Chapman of Mystic is made the defendant in a suit brought for $10,000 damages by Clara Trotter of the borough of Bronx, New York city, for injuries she received in an automobile collision about 8 p. m. on Feb. 29, 1928 at the corner of 233rd street and Bronx River Parkway in New York. The Mystic man's machine was driven at the time by Francis Donnolly and Mrs. Trotter was a passenger in the automobile of Edward A. Trotter. She received contusions and abrasions on back, chest, hips and arms, and cuts on left leg and ankle and both hands. The plaintiff claims she was confined to bed for at least ten weeks, lost her wages at $30 a week, and will require a long period of medical attention at much expense.

Clarence B. Williams, a nephew of the late Anna B. Williams of Groton, has brought an appeal from probate of her will which was admitted in the Groton probate court. James D. Williams, 149 Monument street, Groton, is executor of the will.

An appeal from allowance of the account of William T. Connor, as administrator of the estate of the late Joseph Pezzello of New London, has been brought by Raffaela and Madelana Pezzello.

Damages of $5,000 are asked in a breach of lease suit brought by Fred A. Chase of Stonington against William H. Browning of New York city. The plaintiff claims that on June 9, 1924, he leased from the defendant for five years property known as the Thomas Palmer homestead place in Stonington on the old Post road and that the lease set out that he should pay a yearly rental of $150 at the rate of $12.50 a month and the lease could not be broken without the parties concerned receiving notice of such a contemplated move six months in advance.

The plaintiff claims that Browning sold the property to William S. Hine of New York without giving him such notice.

Foreclosure of a mortgage note of $1,004.83 secured by property located at East Lyme, is sought by the New Haven Bank & Trust Co. of West Haven in an action brought against Mary A. Sheron, of New Haven.

The mortgage note was originally held by Robert J. Woodruff and was transferred to the bank on Feb. 5, 1928, it is alleged. The papers allege that taxes are due for the past eight years.

SHORT CALENDAR DAY FOR SUPERIOR COURT

The following are on the motion list for the short calendar day for the April additional session of the superior court which will be held in New London Friday morning with Judge C. L. Avery presiding:

Mariners Savings bank vs. Atwood, Exr., et al. Deficiency judgment. Geneva Genishevsky vs. Fishbone, et al. Motion to set aside verdict. In the matter of The Benjamin A. Armstrong Trust, the National Bank of Commerce, trustee. Hearing on account of trustee. Mary A. Canaldo vs. Benedetto Canaldo. That defendant be adjudged in contempt of court for failure to comply with order of court, dated February 10, 1928, ordering alimony payments. Mohican Hotel company vs. Haskel, et a. 1. Amendment of complaint. 2. Removal of cause to common pleas court. Cook, et al., vs. Ideal Coat & Apron Supply company. Order authorizing receiver to sell all assets of the corporation to Ideal Linen Service, Incorporated. Dyson vs. Benson. Motion for default. Townsend vs. Gallup. Motion of executor to be made a party plaintiff. Yodice vs. Pelton, et al. Motion for appointment of receiver of rents. Ducy vs. Maynard. Motion for default. Vining vs. Kingsley, et al. Substitution of Ira S. Avery as plaintiff. Riner vs. Rich. Motion to re-open judgment. Mariners Savings bank vs. Burke. Supplemental judgment.

SETTLEMENT MADE IN PROPERTY PARTITION SUIT

Settlement out of court was effected Wednesday in the partition of property suit brought by David L. Pessin of Hartford against Rose M. Reilly and June McNamara of New London. The case was scheduled to be heard before Judge Christopher L. Avery in the superior court Wednesday at New London.

The plaintiff alleged that he and the defendants, as tenants in common, own property in Bentley avenue, each having an undivided one-third interest.

Pessin further claims that he holds a lease on the entire property, which expires on Oct. 1, 1931. He asked for a partition, according to the right of all, or in case of a partition causing injury to any of the owners, he seeks to have the property sold and the proceeds divided.

The defendants set up that on Oct. 23, 1922, the plaintiff and Annie McNamara entered into a lease whereby the plaintiff leased the property for nine years at an annual rental of $1,200; $600 to be paid on each June 1 and Aug. 1. The defendants claim that Pessin did not pay one installment, thereby breaking the lease.

The Wilscox has been converted from an oil burner to Diesel drive, the second of this group now being converted by the shipping board for service to South America.

The engine for the conversion was made by the New London Ship & Engine company and was installed at the Bethlehem Shipbuilding company yards at Quincy, Mass. It furnishes 3,600 shaft horsepower.

In line with this suggestion, the commissioner was recently invited to come to Norwich. A special committee appointed by President H. D. Larrabee to meet the commissioner comprises James L. Case, chairman; Walter F. Lester, J. Henry Shannon, Louis M. Crandall and C. A. Gager.

Noble was arrested Tuesday night about 8:45 o'clock when the state police raided his store in Occum and discovered two gallons of alleged moonshine, a pitcher containing a quantity of liquor and several punchboards. As he couldn't post a $1,000 bond Noble spent the night at the police station.

NEGRO SLAYS HIS WIFE AND HIMSELF IN NEW LONDON

Tragedy Was Enacted on a Street—No One Witnessed the Affair, But There Were Many Who Heard the Shots—Perpetrator of the Dead Was Neils MacGregor of New York—Wife Fell Dead After Four Shots Had Been Fired—MacGregor Then Instantly Killed Himself—His Body Fell Beside That of the Wife He Had Just Slain—MacGregor Had Complained to the Police That His Wife Had Left Him Several Times.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

NEW LONDON, March 29—Love for a woman brought about murder and suicide on a street of New London this evening, for Neils McGregor, West Indian Negro, and proprietor of a sash and door manufactory at New York, this evening slew his wife, Josephine, 26, and then killed himself. The tragedy was not perpetrated in view of witnesses, but there were many that heard the shots and were attracted to the scene of the shooting, arriving there but minutes after the breath of life had left the bodies of the husband and wife.

McGregor, who is 31, and his wife have been estranged at least six months, for in October last the husband wrote to the police, city manager and prosecuting authorities, asking assistance in causing the return of his wife to the New York home. Even as late as two weeks ago, McGregor went to police headquarters and requested the assistance of the police in inducing the wife to return home.

Today, McGregor came to New London and ascertained that his wife was residing at 95 Howard street, but she was not at home. He made inquiry about the woman and was informed that she was working in the vicinity of Hempstead street as a domestic. He went to the corner of Hempstead and Truman streets about 6 o'clock, and there loitered in the hope that his wife would put in an appearance.

After a wait of about three-quarters of an hour, McGregor's vigil was rewarded for his wife appeared on the scene. McGregor approached his wife and the couple walked away together, passing through Colt street and talking with apparently much venom.

After the husband and wife had entered Reed street but a short distance, McGregor pulled a .32-calibre automatic revolver from his pocket and opened fire on his wife, sending four bullets into her body, causing instantaneous death. One of the bullets entered the skull at the nose and two more lodged in the cheek and neck, while the fourth entered the brain from the back of the ear, evidently as the woman was about to fall and when she was in the act of collapsing.

With the wife's body dropping to the sidewalk, McGregor turned the weapon on himself and sent a bullet into his brain from behind the right ear. The leaden missle found its mark, for McGregor dropped dead, his body finding a resting place but a few feet from that of his wife.

McGregor's body and that of his wife were removed to an undertaking establishment a short time after the double killing and after Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman had viewed them.

The shooting attracted the entire neighborhood, for the discharge of the five shots caused the populace of that section to run to the street, only to witness the ghastly sight of the husband and wife still bleeding from the series of wounds and their bodies warm.

When the police received word of the murder and suicide, Detective Sergeant Nelson Smith and Acting Sergeant William Graham hastened to the scene and took charge of the bodies until the arrival of Medical Examiner Kaufman.

From the records at police headquarters it was ascertained that McGregor had been seeking the return home of his wife with persistency. The first time that he sought his wife's return was in October and she was then residing at 116 Shaw street. He entertained the idea that the woman was residing there with another man, but this the police could not substantiate. Recently, Mrs. McGregor removed to the Howard street address.

Several weeks ago McGregor paid another visit to New London and requested Patrolman Elwood Bailey to seek the whereabouts of the woman and attempt to induce her to return to New York. No later than Tuesday night McGregor went to police headquarters with his matrimonial troubles, but as the police do not handle marital difficulties or attempt to settle disputes between mates, no attention was paid to the request and it is believed that McGregor returned to New York and, brooding of his domestic affairs, returned here during the day intent to slay his wife and end his own existence, provided his wife would not consent to return to New York.

McGregor had his business at 143 West 142nd street and is survived by children.

NEWTON D. BAKER UPHOLDS THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., March 29—(AP)—The whole hearted support of the American population for an American effort to stay international conflict is one of the greatest avenues to world peace, Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, said today at an intercollegiate parley on war at Wesleyan university.

An American public consciousness awakened to movements for peace, coupled with the vast resources available to America for its own use or control in time of conflict, the speaker indicated, places the United States in a foremost position as a potential agency for international harmony.

The league of nations is the only agency working toward peace today, he said, urging sympathy for the projects of the league, and American entry into the world court as a move in aid of organizations working for world understanding and education. A lasting agency for peace must be devised, he said, if the world is to avert a war in which non-combatants far back of the fighting lines will be the chief sufferers. Such a conflict must be avoided, he added, "or we are at the beginning of the end of modern civilization."

MEASURES FOR ORDERLY ELECTION IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 29—Special deputy United States marshals were requested today to aid the Chicago police and other authorities in assuring an honest and orderly election in Chicago at the April 10 primaries.

Declaring he had found indications of a conspiracy to prevent an honest election of federal officials and that there is danger that the electorate will be unable to express their free suffrage at the primaries, Palmer Anderson, United States marshal today sent a message to Attorney General Sargent asking for authority to swear in special deputies on primary day.

Mr. Anderson did not request any specific number of deputies, but was reported to have declared the situation promised to be serious. Marshal Anderson said he had been requested by prominent citizens to take the action.

RABBI WISE RESIGNS FROM ZIONIST ORGANIZATION

NEW YORK, March 29—(AP)—Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of the Free Synagogue has resigned from the administrative committee of the Zionist Organization of America, he announced today without comment. The resignation was accepted last night.

Louis Lipsky, president of the organization, said, "The resignation of Dr. Wise came to us as a surprise. He had given no intimation of his intention to resign. It is true that Dr. Wise has frequently expressed his opposition to the Jewish agency in the interests of which Dr. Chaim Weizzmann is now in the United States but Dr. Wise had given consent to the policy of support for the Jewish agency for which the American Zionist organization stands.

SLAYER OF 19-YEAR-OLD GIRL FATALLY SHOOTS HIMSELF

NEWBURGH, N. Y., March 29—(AP)—Sought for three days as the slayer of 19-year-old Marie Terwilliger, Harry T. McHugh, postmaster of the village of Wallkill, today shot and fatally wounded himself as police closed about him. McHugh's only explanation of his alleged slaying of "the girl" was that he wished to break her friendship with a younger brother.

McHugh, the village postmaster, fired a bullet through his head this morning when three state troopers surrounded his hiding place in a Wallkill lumber yard. He died a few hours later without recovering consciousness.

One final attempt at escape was made by McHugh as the troopers closed in on his hiding place in the half darkness of early day. Sergeant John Lockhard approached a lumber pile to investigate and as he did so McHugh arose from the shadow and leveled a gun at his face. The hammer of McHugh's revolver snapped on an empty chamber and he dropped back into the shelter of the lumber. The officers surrounded the spot and called to McHugh to come out. He apparently started to comply with this order, but changed his mind.

The troopers waited with drawn guns for what they believed was about five minutes. Then they heard a shot behind the lumber pile and found McHugh with a bullet wound in his head.

CLAYTON DENIES COTTON MARKET MANIPULATION

WASHINGTON, March 29—(AP)—Sweeping denial by William L. Clayton, Texas cotton dealer, of all charges of market manipulation brought against his firm by Arthur R. Marsh, New York, cotton broker, began today before the senate sub-committee investigating the 1927 collapse of the cotton market.

The session developed a new charge by Representative Rankin, of Mississippi, associated in the inquiry, that resampling and regrading of a large stock of cotton owned by the Clayton company and stored in New York was being conducted by the department of agriculture experts with such secrecy as to arouse his suspicion. The reclassification is being done on order of the committee because this cotton, it is charged, was used and is still used as a market club by reason of its poor quality.

The specific features of the Marsh allegation dealt with Clayton up to adjournment started with the charge of a corner in 1923. Clayton pointed out that while Marsh had originally said it was in the March position of that year on the New York exchange that this had taken place, he shifted it to May when on cross-examination it was shown that there was no irregularity about March transactions.

SUMMONS FOR SECRETARY OF ROGER WILLIAMS KLAN

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 29—(AP)—The house committee on militia announced tonight that it will summon Frederick T. Remington, secretary of Roger Williams Klan, Number 16, with books and records of the order to further its investigation of charges that the Ku Klux Klan has obtained numerical control of the First Light Infantry regiment and sought control of the state's entire militia system.

This decision was taken after today's hearing by the committee, when Austin C. Barney, former klansman employed on special service by the adjutant general to probe klan activities, declared that there are about 900 klansmen in Rhode Island, with klaverns in Providence, the southern part of the state and Newport. There are also several women's auxiliaries, Barney declared.

The president of the United States, Senator Thomas F. Heflin, of Alabama and State Senators Charles S. Weaver and Samuel R. Avery, of Rhode Island, were among the prominent persons mentioned by Barney as being members of the klan. He was told about the president by Remington, he said, but gave the statement little credence. Both Rhode Islanders told newspapermen who questioned them that they are not members of the hooded order.

Members of the committee today drew from Barney the statement that revelation of klan secrets is punishable by death. He declared that while klansmen are sworn to uphold the constitution, they must overthrow it if ordered to do so by Imperial Wizard Evans, of Washington.

DEATH REVEALS "WOMAN" BILLIARDIST WAS A MAN

SAPULPA, Okla., March 29—(AP)—Frances Anderson of Los Angeles, at one time heralded as the world's champion "woman billiard player," in death has disclosed the secret that "she" in reality was a man.

Frances Anderson ended "her" life today in a hotel room here by slashing both wrists, throat, head and breast with safety razor blades. Letters, yellowed by age, were found in the stockings on the body to indicate death was by suicide.

The man was declared to have been known for more than 30 years in his profession as a "woman" billiardist.

"My parents died many years ago," read one unsigned letter taken from my body, but don't let the world know the stocking. "Do what you want with my secret." The missive was undated but apparently was years old.

Newspaper clippings told of his travels as a billiard player and exhibitions given in many cities. He was about 60 years old.

In newspaper interviews, Anderson frequently gave advice to wives on means of keeping their husbands' interest. He recommended installation of billiard tables in homes so husband and wives might play the game together.

STILL GOING STRONG ON ENDURANCE FLIGHT

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla., March 29—(AP)—An orange and black monoplane droned its 40th hour of continuous flight over Jacksonvhle Beach at 11:37 p. m., eastern standard time, tonight, or only 13 hours and 23 minutes short of a new world's endurance record.

A searchlight gave an occasional glimpse of the ship which Eddie Stinson and George Haldeman hope will sustain them for 55 hours and beat the mark of 52 hours and 23 minutes set by two German aviators in 1927. An hour more than the German limit will break the record.

The fliers held their 4,000 feet altitude.

FINDS OLDER GENERATION MOTOR-MAD, RADIO RAGGED

JERUSALEM, March 29—(AP)—If the older generation is motor-mad, radio ragged, jumping with jazz and hungry with lust, we may expect the younger generation to go further and faster on the same road, said Prof. Luther A. Weigle, of Yale university, today before the international missionary council.

The council discussed religious education and Prof. Weigle said:

"Education without religion is incomplete and abortive; religion without education becomes ignorance and superstition."

TAKING DEPOSITION OF A. B. FALL AT HIS HOME

EL PASO, Tex., March 29—(AP)—Propped up in an easy chair in the spacious library of his home, Albert B. Fall, charged jointly with Harry F. Sinclair with conspiring to defraud the government in the lease of the Teapot Dome oil reserve, today began to tell his story of the deal under questioning of Daniel Thew Wright, counsel for Sinclair.

The preliminary examination had to do with the first laws in 1920 authorizing the leasing of oil lands to individuals. The examination then went extensively into the government policy regarding oil lands and details of negotiations leading up to the executive order through which Sinclair finally obtained the naval reserve in April, 1922.

A mass of correspondence and documents was to be introduced in the defense attempt to show that Fall himself had little to do with the leasing which he is expected to say was handled by subordinates.

ADMIRAL PLUNKETT ANGRY AT WESLEYAN PARLEY ON WAR

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., March 29—(AP)—A spirited clash on internationalism tonight marked the closed of an exchange of views on war and peace by Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, retired, and Norman Thomas, socialist and pacifist, at Wesleyan university.

The speakers headed the evening program for the first day of a two-day parley on war arranged by an undergraduate committee of the university.

After a lively plea by Mr. Thomas for the awakening of international consciousness to a means for world harmony, Admiral Plunkett struck at what he termed "this bolshevik highbrow stuff," and invited "those who are not satisfied with our country to go to another and live."

"Now I understand what I couldn't believe," the admiral declared, "that men are talking this doctrine of internationalism in our universities. I wouldn't have come here tonight if I knew I was going to run into an argument on this question."

Miss Mirian Curtis, superintendent of the hospital, said Mrs. Goodhue slept some time during the morning.

Maine Delegates Are For Herbert Hoover

Are Uninstructed, But Pledge Their "Loyal and Unswerving Support."

BANGOR, Me., March 29—(AP)—Uninstructed, but later pledging in a telegram to Herbert Hoover their "loyal and unswerving support" in his candidacy for the republican nomination for president of the United States, 15 delegates to the national convention in June, were chosen by the republicans of Maine today. Delegations from this state have been instructed for many years.

The biennial state convention also named 15 alternates and elected six presidential electors, whose names will appear on the ballots at the presidential election in November, and adopted a platform of principles on which candidates to be nominated at the state primaries in June will go into the campaign preceding the state election in September.

The convention delegates numbering more than 1,500, also chose their state, district and county commissions, and listened to stirring addresses by the chairman, Congressman Carroll L. Beedy, of Portland, Congressman Charles A. Eaton, of New Jersey, and State Senator Alice Patterson Merritt, of Hartford, Conn.

FIGHTING EXAMINATION OF COAL PRODUCTION COST

WASHINGTON, March 29—(AP)—The northern and southern bituminous mining districts were pictured at death-grips in the struggle for markets today before the senate coal investigation committee, as E. L. Greever, West Virginia operators' counsel, opened the promised fight against the examination of production costs by the committee.

Basing his argument on the constitutional ground that the figures called for by the senate subpoenas have no relation to interstate commerce, the attorney asserted that the requested information has long "been most jealously guarded' by the West' Virginia operators.

He traced "the keenly competitive" battle for markets, saying that rivals in the northern fields—Ohio, Pennsylvania, Illnois and Indiana—had anxiously sought to ascertain the data which the committee seeks to scrutinize from the books of operators in West Virginia.

Mining costs and freight rates were cited by Greever as the "double competitive factors" dominating the winning of markets. He described the former as going "to the very life of the industry in both sections."

"These are innermost secrets," he added.

GENERAL BETTERMENT OF BUSINESS CONDITIONS

WASHINGTON, March 29—(AP)—Business conditions over the United States are showing a general betterment over recent months in the opinion of Secretary Hoover. A number of the indices maintained in the commerce department are noted by the secretary as evidence of the improvement.

One of the key lines of industry watched by the department observers, Mr. Hoover added, is the production of machine tools. Equipment of this description is being more eagerly sought now than for months and the output is increasing in response to the call of industry generally for more equipment and greater production.

Further, the total of construction projects now under way in the United States is represented as about 13 or 14 per cent. higher than that one year ago. There will be an indirect influence from undertakings of this character, the secretary predicted.

Mrs. Wilson told police she had come from Washington, where she has lived for some time, to seek a reconciliation with her husband. She said she insisted, however, that he stop "running around with other women."

Wilson, son of John S. Wilson, a vice-president of the Pennsylvania railroad, was taken to a hospital where it was said one bullet had lodged in his back and another in his upper left arm.

A COMPLETE REPUDIATION OF ROBINSON STATEMENTS

Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy Under President Wilson, Brands Senator Robinson's Accusations as Wild and Absurd—Mr. Daniels Asserts That the Wilson Administration Never Leased a Single Acre of Naval Oil Reserve, Except a Few Acres Which Experts Reported Must Be Leased or Operated to Prevent Serious Loss or Drainage.

RALEIGH, N. C., March 29—(AP)—Flat denial that the Wilson administration ever even contemplated extensive leasing of naval oil reserves was made here today by Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy under President Wilson.

"There is not a word of truth in the statement made by Senator Robinson, republican, Indiana, that the Wilson administration ever contemplated leasing or did lease a single acre of naval oil reserve except a few acres which experts reported must be leased or operated to prevent serious loss or drainage," Mr. Daniels said.

"The few acres leased by the secretary of the interior were all for the protection of the big naval reserve as a statement by Judge Barton Payne, the secretary abundantly proved when the Fall scandal became a stench in the nostrils of the nation.

"If the Wilson administration had suggested legislation in order to lease Teapot Dome, as the Indiana senator falsely charges, it would have leased them. The fact that it did not lease them; declined to consider any application to do so, is complete repudiation of the wild and absurd statement of the Indiana senator."

OIL SCANDAL POLITICAL DEBATE IN THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, March 29—(AP)—Renewed efforts of Senator Robinson, an Indiana republican, to attach the Teapot Dome scandal to the democratic party provoked two hours and a half of debate today in the senate, spiced by some sharp rejoinders from two senators across the political aisle, Walsh, of Montana, and Glass, of Virginia.

Omitting all reference to Governor Smith, of New York, whom he has attacked in the past, Robinson sought to show that the oil leasing program had its origin with the democratic administration of Woodrow Wilson and emphasized that Edward L. Doheny wealthy California operator, and a central figure in the oil scandals, was high in democratic party councils in those days.

The Indianan made much of the employment by Doheny of three Wilson cabinet officers after they left official life, and said he had had business relations with the law firm of still another, Lindley M. Garrison. The other former cabinet officers he named were William G. McAdoo, Franklin K. Lane and T. W. Gregory.

Robinson laid to Josephus Daniels, naval secretary under Wilson, Lane, who for a while was interior secretary and John Barton Payne, who succeeded Lane, the responsibility for initiating the naval oil leasing program.

This brought a demand from Senator Glass, who also was in the Wilson cabinet, whether there was any suggestion that any democratic official was "bribed" in connection with oil matters. Robinson entered a disclaimer, but the Virginian, pounding his desk, declared that he was seeking to so insinuate.

"And if you say that Franklin K. Lane was bribed, I denounce you here and now as a slanderer," Glass shouted, adding that it was "an act of cowardice" to make such insinuations on the floor of the senate.

Glass interrupted a lengthy reply by Senator Walsh, who reclared he wanted to try to 'straighten out some of the reckless and wild statements" made by Robinson in his prepared address.

The Montanan vigorously denied that any of the cabinet officers named by Robinson had had any connection with the oil leases under senate inquiry and described as "remarkable" the claim of the Indiana senator that it was Calvin Coolidge who had brought Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair to book and recovered from them the California and Wyoming reserves.

INJUNCTION IS SOUGHT AGAINST QUININE TRUST

NEW YORK, March 29—(AP)—The government today sought an injunction against 15 European firms and one Japanese concern accused of promoting a "quinine trust," said to be managed and controlled from Holland. An association composed of the European defendants also was named in the suit, filed in the equity branch of the United States district court.

Federal investigation of an alleged monopoly for control of the production and price of quinine was disclosed last Friday when five tons of the drug, valued at about $100,000, was seized under a law placing goods imported by persons engaged in a conspiracy to raise prices in the category with smuggled goods.

The suit asks that the defendants be ordered to submit to examination, and that they be enjoined from acts tending to perpetuate a monopoly of the quinine trade, to fix prices in violation of federal anti-trust laws.

BATTLE OVER CONFIRMATION OF MEMBERS OF RADIO COM.

WASHINGTON, March 29—(AP)—Meeting behind closed doors, the senate tomorrow will plunge into the battle over the confirmation of three members of the radio commission—O. H. Caldwell, of New York; Sam Pickard, of Kansas, and Harold A. Lafount, of Utah.

Opposition has been raised to all of the appointments, but fire is centered particularly on Caldwell because of his activities in opposing parts of the bill recently passed to extend the life of the commission for one year and to bring about a more equitable distribution of station power.

Another nomination to membership on the commission was sent to the senate today by President Coolidge, that of Ira E. Robinson, of West Virginia. He would succeed W. H. G. Bullard, who died recently.

Special frontier guards had been posted at that particular place because numerous clandestine crossings of the border had taken place there.

FINED $100 FOR DRIVING UNDER THE INFLUENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, March 29—A menu of tuna fish salad sandwiches topped by "orange blossoms" a concoction of gin and orange juice, did not agree with Milan R. Cook, 285 Gorden street, Wethersfield, and his girl friend, according to Cook's story in police court this morning. The sandwich and blossoms story might have gone over O. K. for a discharge had Cook heeded the halt signal of Patrolman Albert Montie and not given the officer a chase about the city after nearly hitting that official. Cook was fined $100 and costs for driving while under the influence of liquor. The court remitted $50 of the fine, leaving an assessment of $57.75. The accused was represented by a Hartford attorney. Cook's story of an intestinal disturbance was convincing enough and Prosecuting Attorney Gaucher conceded that it was possible for the mixture to cause a nauseating feeling. Cook said that he left Hartford with the girl after eating the sandwiches. Both felt ill effects and they called at a friend's house in Manchester. This friend produced the drink and Cook said that all three had one drink each. There was a small quantity left in the bottle and the friend threw it in the car so that the girl could have another drink if her nauseating condition did not improve. The bottle and its contents was found in the machine. They came to this city to visit at the home of his sister but upon arriving here later in the evening the young lady became the victim of vomiting spells and Cook drove into a driveway near the Nathan Hale hotel to await her recovery. The girl's sickness made his own more pronounced for a time. The pair were seen by Officer Montie and when Cook started to drive out into Main street the officer stood in the street and put up his hand as a signal to stop. Cook shot past the officer, brushing the latter's coat with the car and thereby eliminating any chance of acquittal. This close shave was witnessed by Arthur B. Small of this city. Small's car was commandeered by the officer and Cook was chased up Walnut street and easterly on Prospect street until overhauled by the pursuing machine and forced to a stop. Cook was arrested and later released on bonds. In court he said that he did not understand that the officer was trying to halt him and in his opinion he did not come dangerously close to the officer.

Do You Know What a Woman 30 Years Old Should Weigh?

It all depends on her height of course.

If she is five feet seven inches in height she should weigh according to the best authorities 142 pounds.

If she is 5 feet 5 inches her normal weight is 134 pounds.

If she is 5 feet 3 inches she should weigh 127 pounds.

It's dangerous to be always striving to grow thin—the Adirondack Mountains and health resorts everywhere are filled with health shattered women who will tell you that it doesn't pay to be too thin.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

DANIELSON

DEPUTY GAME WARDEN GETS RULING FROM COMMISSIONER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, March 29—Deputy Game Warden Gurdon E. Withey gave out today a letter from Supt. J. W. Titcomb of the state board of fisheries and game dealing with a subject on which the board has many inquiries, as to people who have privately posted waters, and as to their thinking that their waters are not subject to the general laws pertaining to open and closed fishing seasons.

The commissioner says in his letter: Fish so long as they remain unconfined in their natural element and are not taken out and reduced to possession, are not the subject of private property, but are public property, and not even the owner of the soil over which a stream frequented by fish flows owns the fish therein, although he may have the exclusive right of fishing in the stream where it flows over his land.

"While they are in a state of freedom fish are the property of the sovereign power of the state, for the benefit of the people in common, and the ownership thereof cannot be claimed by any particular individual.

"The closed season on trout to April 15 applies to all waters in the state except private waters as described in Part 1, Section 1, which reads as follows: Private waters means a natural or artificial pond or lake in which the owner, not a corporation, partnership or voluntary association has exclusive right to fish, to which fish do not have access from waters not under the control of such owner or from waters stocked at the expense of the state.

"In waters conforming to this definition the owners can fish at any time. The fish are his property as much as any other live stock. Ponds built by damming streams do not come in this class even if privately stocked and more than privately stocked and posted trout streams come into this class. There are many court decisions sustaining this opinion."

It now develops that Frank Lipka was almost fully clothed when arrested with clothing, even shoes, that he had stolen from cottages he had broken into at Alexander's lake and at other places. He remains practically unrepentant, and seemingly feels that he is the unfortunate victim of circumstances. In a conversation with Chief John McFarland he stressed the claim that he is never given a chance, but what sort of a chance the chief is unable to imagine. Lipka has been getting into difficulties with the law since he was about 15 years of age. Even a long term in the state reformatory and a jail sentence of six months in Rhode Island has been instrumental in bringing him to a more righteous manner of living. His release from custody has been almost immediately followed by more lawless acts, and at present, with his past record, his position and prospects are not at all reassuring.

The fact that borough officials have declined to issue a license for a carnival within the limits of the borough later in the season, has not discouraged the carnival men from seeking a license in neighboring territory from which to draw patronage. There is the prospect, it was said today, that carnivals will show on the West Side again this summer, as they did last year. Danielson's experiences with some of the carnivals that have taken lots here for a week in the past and with some of the carnival personnel has been one factor in shutting them out of the borough.

With much being said about poor business and considerable non-employment there is a sort of offset to all that in the fact that several cotton manufacturing plants in this territory are not only running a full daytime schedule, but also operating some departments at night. Goodyear mills are a notable example. This concern has operated on a day and night schedule for five or six years, steadily, and continues to do so. Powdrell and Alexander have a night force of workers as well as a day force and during this current week some night work has been done at the Wauregan mills, as at other times during past months.

As has been the custom of the organization for years, members of Rose of Lima council, K. of C., are to attend communion in a body at St. James' church Palm Sunday morning. The council members are to assemble at their rooms in the Gallup building and, at 6:30, will march in a body to the church. The council here is one of the early established ones of the order and dates back nearly 40 years.

Promoter Frank Barber has announced an effort is to be made to bring the state amateur boxing tournament to Danielson next year. This year New Haven has the attraction. It is believed that holding a state tournament here would make for greater interest in what has become a very popular sport in Connecticut, and it would be possible to offer ample accommodations, now that military organizations here are interested in staging the bouts and the state armory is available to seat a large attendance.

Warnings for the annual borough meeting are about to appear, again reminding of the near approach of the annual election and the business session attendant upon it. Borough reports will be very favorable this year, showing the careful administration given during the past year. Among the subjects being considered just now is the appointment of a fire marshal for the borough, and it may be among the matters to be taken up at the annual meeting.

At 11 o'clock Sunday morning Rev. William F. Hooker of Woodbury will conduct the Palm Sunday service at St. Alban's church. There is to be Holy Communion and the ceremony of blessing of the palms.

Herbert Bromley of Dayville underwent an operation for the amputation of one of his fingers and has been a patient at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam.

Evening school students are this week rounding out the 75 nights of study commenced last fall, and are to have public exercises marking the close of the year at the high school next Wednesday evening. Certificates will be awarded.

Among the matters that will get attention at next Tuesday evening's meeting of the chamber of commerce will be daylight saving, which schedule of keeping time will begin in many sections of New England on April 29.

For the first time since he went to Florida, four months ago, Dr. George M. Burroughs held an eye clinic at the Day Kimball hospital this morning, as he has been doing regularly since 1907.

Many nice things were said today about the entertainment given last evening at the high school auditorium by children of the Goodyear schools.

William A. Marcotte of Fall River is visiting with friends in Danielson for a few days.

Rev. and Mrs. E. A. Legg of Windsor have been visitors in town. Rev. Mr. Legg was for several years pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church here.

There have been no special developments the past week in the negotiations that W. S. Brown has been conducting with a group of financiers relative to the erection of a new hotel and theater building in Danielson.

Rev. S. F. Maine, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church in Attawaugan, is in Fall River attending the Southern New England conference.

Sergeant George Gardner of the state police here is engaged in a search for goods that were stolen by Frank Lipka, now held at the county jail in Brooklyn on breaking and entering charges.

From various towns hereabouts people will go to Fall River Sunday incident to the holding in that city of the Southern New England conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Napoleon Bourque of Holyoke, a resident of Wauregan many years ago, has been spending a few days with relatives in that town.

PUTNAM

LIPKA BELIEVED TO HAVE COMMITTED LOCAL BURGLARY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 29—Captain William J. Jarvis of the Putnam police feels that with the arrest of Frank Lipka in Danielson early Wednesday morning he has cleared up the recent attempted break into the hardware store of Chandler & Morse a few weeks ago. Captain Jarvis stated Thursday that Lipka answered the description given him by two of his special officers on the night of the would-be-break. Lipka was also arrested in Putnam by Sergeant George Liard a few years ago for breaking into Chandler and Morse's and into the Putnam News company. He admitted to the police at the time of his arrest that he had entered the hardware store to get guns to aid him in other jobs.

On the evening of the attempted break into the hardware store the burglar was seen by Officer Benoi Durand, who was making his rounds. The officer's insignia attracted the burglar and he made his way down the railroad tracks into the darkness eluding the officers. Shortly after breaks in Killingly were made and the recent breaks at the cottages at the summer colony at Alexander's lake admitted to have been made by Lipka in his confession to the state police. Captain Jarvis believes that he can be justified in laying the work to Killingly's youthful vagabond, and that his arrest clears up the Hardware store break.

The sporting department of the Bulletin has again picked its All-Eastern Connecticut scholastic basketball quintet for the season of 1927-28. Putnam players found no place on either the first or second teams but the sporting editor of the Bulletin gave honorable mention to two of Putnam's aces, they being Bove and Shann. Both of these players starred in every game they contested in. Shann played the entire season at center and Bove was the leading forward on the team. Shann is an all-around athlete at Putnam high school he being a letter man in each sport. He was one of the high school dreadnaughts on the school grid eleven last fall and accounted for many of the numerous gains made by Putnam.

Many members of the Putnam grange No. 97 were in Norwich Wednesday evening attending a meeting and social of the Norwich grange. The grangers from Putnam made the trip by automobile.

Miss Anne Hogan of New York city is visiting this week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Hogan of Tatem street.

Isabel M. Uphan, 78, died at her home in East Woodstock Wednesday. Mrs. Uphan is survived by her husband Gilbert S. Uphan and also leaves three children. She was born and lived the greater part of her live in the town of Woodstock.

The Quinebaug lodge of Masons will hold their annual Masonic ball in Odd Fellows hall Friday evening. The ball is one of the largest social sessions the Masons stage during the year. The committee has reported that many tickets have been sold. The affair is limited to members of the Masonic order and their ladies.

Word has been received here from Private Henry Bugbee of the United States Marines, who is stationed at the marine barracks in Cape Haitien, republic of Haiti. Private Bugbee, in letters that he sends home, states that the climate in Haiti and that in March the temperature ran up to 85 in the shade. The former Putnam boy shows in his letters the many other advantages there are in the southern countries that the northerners miss. He points out the facts that the only thing a leatherneck can suffer while in southern service is homesickness as Uncle Sam provides all other necessities of home in his foreign camps, especially the many athletic games that the American youth would participate in while at home. Before Bugbee joined the marines he was an all-round athlete in the local contests, he being a leading member of the 1927-28 Silk Sox championship basketball team. He states that during the winter months in Haiti he has played on his companies baseball nine.

About this time each year the great association of "House to House Peddlers" gather together a season's supply of wares and set out in great hordes to canvass the various communities where the police and the local merchants protective organizations are functioning on a small scale. During the early part of this week a few of the members of this great organization picked out Putnam as a landing place and started to peddle their wares from door to door. Captain William Jarvis who is by no means a man who functions only occassionly ran down a few of these "direct importing" salesmen and inquired for their license to practice their profession. None possessed such documents nor offered to purchase onew hen the captain suggested it to them. The consequence was that Captain Jarvis ordered them on to the next town to try their luck. In past years Captain Jarvis stated that he has been forced to do the same thing in the spring when the peddlers make their appearance in the residential sections of the city. The chamber of commerce has many times urged people through its campaigns to be on the lookout for the coming of these roving salesmen.

Mission services are being held this week at St. Mary's church by the Redemptrist fathers of Montreal, Canada, for the male members of the parish. The two missionaries, who have been in charge of the services during the past month, are highly talented men and their sermons have been of interest at the church since they started to labor here. A mission will begin in April for the English speaking members of St. Mary's and will be in charge of the Franciscan fathers from New York, it was announced by Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's Sunday.

MOREL NOT TO BE ALLOWED TO ATTEND FATHER'S FUNERAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, March 29—George Morel who is being held in Brooklyn jail because he cannot furnish the necessary bonds to secure his release until the criminal session of the Windham county superior court opens in April at Willimantic, will not be released to attend the funeral of his father, Archibald Morel, who died at the hospital in Putnam as the result of injuries he received in an automobile accident in Wilsonville Monday evening. Morel will be tried on a charge of manslaughter. No later developments in the case were heard Thursday. It was announced Wednesday that Coroner A. G. Hill of Danielson will hold an inquest in the case the latter part of this week.

The members of the senior class of Putnam high school have been busily writing autobiographies of their lives this week. Many fine specimens have been submitted by the students. The work is being done in connection with the English department of the school.

The Northeastern Fish and Game club will hold its annual meeting in Odd Fellows hall on Monday evening. The lovers of the rod and reel will gather at this meeting to elect their officers for the ensuing year and will also enjoy a Rhode Island oyster stew supper at 8:30. Each year the members of this club gather to attend the committees supper and to talk about the favorite fishing spots they will go to when the season opens in April.

Tax Collector Irving H. Miron has announced that when the unpaid taxes run over a period of six months a fee of 9 per cent interest will be charged. Taxes running overdue a year will be subject to a 10 per cent interest charge and all over that length of time will be subject to he filing of a tax lien and interest of 12 per cent. The town tax will become due in May and property will be assessed at a rate of 12 1-2 mills which was voted at the recent town meeting.

Members of the choirs of the various churches throughout the city are preparing for the special Easter music they will sing at the churches during Holy week. A choir of thirty will sing the "Crucifixion" on Good Friday evening at the Second Congregational church.

YANTIC

Spring-like days Saturday and Sunday, with temperature of 70 degrees, flocks of wild geese flying over, peep-frogs tuning up, crocuses in blossom, alders vying with pussy willows for favor, many raking up flower beds, were followed Tuesday by the thermometer down to 45 and on Wednesday morning to 30.

William Belowitz is having his house renovated and painted.

The side hill at the American Woolen company mill west of Yantic river, that had standing timber cut off by Lumberman Phillips of Willimantic last fall, has been nearly cleared by mill employes. Some have carted as much as fifty cords away. It was given them for clearing the woods.

Not so many years ago there was an average of 3,000,000 song birds killed in America every year for the purpose of adorning women's hats with their plumage.

MOTOR BUS PASSENGERS

Occasionally there is contained in the news a report concerning the death or injury of an individual who has been struck by a vehicle after alighting from a bus. It may have been a case where the person hit stepped out from in back of the bus into the path of the passing auto, or where the person had started across the street after the bus had moved along. In either instance there would be responsibility upon the part of the person struck as well as on the driver of the vehicle that did the hitting.

In the case of electric cars it is required by law, that motor vehicles should come to a stop while the electric are taking on or discharging passengers. This is for the purpose of giving protection to the traveling public and it is a well known fact that they are not only entitled to such protection but in great need of it.

While the public is being given protection in regard to one public carrier, the auto bus furnishes an instance where the same public is failing to get protection while using another type of public carrier.

It is true that the bus in most instances is able to draw up to the side of the road or to the sidewalk for the discharge of passengers, but those desiring to get aboard as well as those leaving the bus are certain to be more or less in the highway especially if they have been left on the wrong side of the road.

Under such circumstances it seems only fair that the public that depends upon such transportation methods should get the protection which it has been recognized it deserves in connection with the trolleys. More and more is the public being required to depend upon busses for transportation. The hazard is great enough at all times but the need for reducing some of it for the passengers of the public carriers seems apparent. There is no good reason why an auto should while by the standing motor bus any more than it is permitted to permit to pass the halted trolley car in a like manner. Changed conditions call for an extension of the restrictions.

THE WOODLAND FIRE SEASON

Just as certain as night follows day spring is always followed or accompanied by forest fires. They occur from a variety of causes but they nevertheless result in a huge loss for those whose property is burned over.

This week an area of ten square miles of timber and brush land has been burned over near Middleboro, Mass., the first serious forest fire in that state and the forerunner for this part of the country. But what happened at Middleboro may be expected in the other states, including Connecticut. It has happened before and it will happen again wherever the same conditions are found.

Because the great majority of forest fires are preventable there is a huge loss occasioned by such destruction which ought to be prevented.

It falls upon the owner of the property when he happens to be the cause of the fire.

It falls upon those who trespass when they have knowingly or unwittingly started a blaze by acts which could have been safeguarded.

It falls upon those who traverse the highways and cast from their vehicles the firebrands which quickly kindle the tinderlike underbrush at the roadside.

It falls upon all who should know enough an dare in a position to be careful.

Woodland and forest fires not only mean losses in dollars and cents but they frequently destroy homes and take lives and they make necessary the services of thousands of firefighters in order to check them and prevent them from doing greater damage. All of this could be avoided without the sacrifice of any pleasure or the loss of any time. It would be necessary to devote a bit of thought to the matter of prevention but it would be a habit well worth cultivating.

Unless it is an unusually wet spring it can be anticipated that there will be many serious woodland fires. They will quickly eliminate expected profits and they may easily cause much distress. Those which are caused by man need not be if the lessons of the forest fires of the past are but given a little bit of thought. There is a waste involved that should be greatly reduced. Are you doing your bit?

THE SENATE SURPRISES

Flood control legislation is one of the big things demanded of congress at this session. It is a big problem and those who have had to wrestle with it have had no easy task. An even greater job is faced by those who must do the actual work. The senate committee has drawn upon a measure which deviates somewhat from the recommendations of the engineers. It calls for early action and it provides funds for it. They may not be sufficient to complete the whole job but there is confidence that enough additional will be provided when the time comes and the need is explained. Inasmuch as about $56,000,000 a year is to be expended the completion of the project will involve considerable time.

The senate had done the unusual in giving unanimous support to a measure involving such a large sum of money. It is evidence that it believes in the need of the control work and it has confidence in the plan presented. The most surprising part of the senate's action was its speed once the measure was before that body. It believes that states most concerned ought to contribute to such a plan but in view of the expenditures which have already been made by them it is not called for.

Will the house dispose of the flood control matter as quickly as the senate? It can do so by an endorsement of the senate's bill. That involves less in expenditure than the bill which the house has been working on. That is the amount mentioned does, although there is no telling where the ultimate expenditure may go to. On that score alone there is no particular reason for the house to hang fire, but it will be quite as disappointing to some in the house who are planning to be heard against time, as it was to those in the senate who found that their speeches were not required, if the house equals the speed of the senate in dealing with this matter.

Where everyone agrees there is certainly no use for a waste of time, but it will be well worth an investigation to learn how the senate, constituted as it is at the present time, could even agree unanimously upon anything.

URGING NICARAGUAN ROUTE

In one way and another the idea of building an interocean canal across Nicaragua has been under discussion for many years. More recently it has been revived because of the recommendations that surveys be undertaken in order to determine whether such construction is warranted at this time and for the purpose of ascertaining what route should be followed and what the cost would be.

It isn't to be supposed that a canal will be built, or started, next year. Yet the discussion is brought to a focus by the bill which has been introduced by Senator McKellar of Tennessee which calls for the construction of a Nicaraguan canal.

That provides something more to talk about. About that will revolve all kinds of arguments for and against a canal across that country where the United States has obtained the right of way. It will be the cause of stirring up those who are confident that the idea of making the Panama canal a sea level waterway in keeping with the French engineer's idea. It will also cause those who believe that the Panama canal should be enlarged to air their views. And there will also be those who will insist that the existing canal is certain to be adequate to take care of all of the requirements for many years to come.

The Nicaraguan idea got much publicity at the time the Panama canal was under discussion. Its friends have ever since remained loyal to it and as canals are talked it can be expected that it will be found that it will not be lacking for supporters even though there may be no great eagerness to start construction at this time. However if more canal facilities are going to be required within the next decade it is to be remembered that such canals are not built in a day.

HORSES

Whatever may be said in regard to the disappearance of the horse, it can be said with a fair degree of certainty that its disappearance will be chiefly from the highways.

While the horse was depended upon as the chief means of transportation on the highways a quarter of a century ago, it is not so today. They haven't disappeared but they are few and far between. They are getting to the point where they are about as conspicuous as the yoke of oxen used to be.

Whether it is for the purpose of business or pleasure the auto has supplanted the horse. In most instances it gives better service and there is eliminated all possibility of overtaxation and cruelty. It is possible to abuse machines but the effect is different. It doesn't mean pain and suffering for dumb beasts. No one suffers though it often means a strain on the pocketbook.

But while the horse is disappearing from the highways in this country such is less noticeable here than in Canada, and when it comes to the farm it is found that Dobbin is still in strong demand for such requirements. Likewise there is an increased demand for high grade saddle horses because of the interest which has developed in riding, hunting and polo clubs. The number of horses in the country runs close to 16,000,000.

Thus while the auto is crowding the horse from the roads there is no promise or possibility that the coming generation will have to resort to picture books or museums to learn what a horse looks like. There are still uses for which the faithful and efficient animal is still greatly in demand.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It won't cost a half a million to find out how the Nicaraguans feel about digging a canal through that republic.

From the contributions to the Borah fund it doesn't look as if the country was eager to see the money go back to Sinclair.

The man on the corner says: Just as soon as that tired feeling gets hold of you the season of the year is firmly established.

If Mexico should go for prohibition think what moonshine would mean in a country where the usual stuff is now frightful enough.

One might suspect that soviet Russia would see the desirability of establishing a greater degree of confidence with other nations.

In New York state the authorities catch a criminal with an auto license about every three days. It would be interesting to know how many never get caught.

NEW TRICKS

The two staterooms were side by side on the big steamer which was cruising the great lakes. Frequently when the doors of 200A and 201A were opened simultaneously Gertrude Phipps would catch the whiff of expensive French perfume. Glendyle was the name of the youngish couple in 201 and little, drab-looking Mrs. Phipps' mental attitude toward them was a combination of awe and disbelief.

It seemed to make no difference to young Mrs. Glendyle that her room with its carelessly swinging door was an utter whirlwind of disorder. Why, there was talcum powder clear out on to the cabin carpeting!

But Mrs. Glendyle emerged from this confusion a perfect example of what the well dressed woman will wear, trim, trig, waved, decidedly made up. Gertrude Phipps felt that if she struggled for hours she never could attain that air of fresh, immaculate good looks. And something within her rebelled. She looked around her own stateroom and saw that it was scrupulously neat and orderly. Charles never would endure disorder.

Bending over the silk sock she was repairing, Gertrude Phipps' remembered something overheard in 201. Young Mrs. Glendyle had paused in departing and tossed back imperiously, though a saving laugh tempered the words, "Don't you start giving me orders, Dick Glendyle!" There had followed the click of her high heels, a waft of fragrance and low mutterings from the chastened Dick.

What if—Mrs. Phipps dropped the sock at the idea—what if she ever addressed her own husband like that? She shook her head. She could not vision the impossible. So many years had she been busy being what Charles wanted her to be that she really had no idea of what she really wished to be if she could.

Charles, coming in at the moment, was smiling a bit.

"Pretty nifty little girl next to us," he remarked. "Met her just now going out. Why dont' you get a sports rig something like those she wears?"

"If you'd look at the stateroom she leaves instead of at her," the wife retorted with unusual spirit, "maybe you'd learn something! You wouldn't stand what that Glendyle man does for one second."

"Don't hafta stand it," retorted her husband complacently. "I was just admiring results."

Gertrude Phipps was amazed to find her hands trembling. They shook because she was angry. Pure, unadulterated feminine rage surged through her. Men, she hissed to herself, were just plain dumb idiots! She was not jealous of Charles, but she did have a right to simple justice. All her patient work and striving. She knocked over her little mending basket as she turned toward the mirror. Oh, let the stuff roll and lie where it wanted to—she would not use it again! Let every button burst from Charles apparel if it would and every sock spring a run—she should care! Drab and colorless—that was what the mirror told her.

Hands still trembling, she got out the little toilet box her young daughter had insisted on stuffing in at the last moment, and with a lavish hand dabbed on the powder, the rouge and even—more fiercely—wielded the mascara brush upon her brows. She used the lipstick, too! If Charles wanted results he should have them. She took down the dress she had always felt was too young for her and put on the high-heeled shoes that hurt. She had no perfume, but she was lavish with the toilet water. She Jhad disturbed nearly all of Charles' things getting what she needed, but she left them where they fell. She opened her stateroom door, eyes bright, a trifle breathless.

At the door of 201 stood an embarrassed young man.

"Oh, Mrs. Phipps!" he called. "I—say, you're the only soul I'd dare ask! I can't find my wife's sewing things—I guess she didn't bring any—and you see this suspender button is off—I've just gotta have it—"

"Why, of course you have," Gertrude Phipps agreed instantly. "Wait a minute!" Scrambling beneath the berth, she retrieved her thimble and spools of thread and sat down to sew on the button. Then she handed back the garment to the young man next door, who thanked her heartily.

Smiling, she returned to her stateroom, where she put things in order. Then—turning to the mirror, she murmured, still smiling:

"Perhaps, Gertrude Phipps, you can keep things orderly and still be a 'nifty little girl,' too."—Chicago News.

"Our Invisible Ally"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "Behold the mountain was full of horses and chariots" (II Kings 6:17).
Read II Kings 6:8-17.

MEDITATION: The prophet's servant could not see the horses and chariots. He saw only the hosts of Syria and was frightened. But Elisha saw the host in the sky. Every religious man sees such things all the while. The skies are full of waiting re-enforcements. Spiritual reserves are ready to hand to supplement his inadequate powers. It is the heart of our belief in God. There is an invisible Ally on the field of battle. There is a spirit of good will in the natural and moral forces of the universe. "Most men," writes Sir Francis Younghusband, "and particularly men of action, are deeply conscious of the presence of some unseen Force at work in the world, and what they have felt has filled them with a conviction that the Power makes for righteousness." Such a conviction makes one feel equal to anything that may happen to him.

PRAYER: O God, who art Strength of soul to those who trust in Thee, defend us, Thy humble servants, in all assaults of our enemies, that we, surely trusting in Thy willing might, may not fear the power of any adversary but rejoice in the hope of victory through Thine aid. Amen.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Bad Connecticut Law

Mr. Editor:—Do you good people in Connecticut know you have a law written in your statute books that allows an executor of an estate to sell all the property in his trust for the heir or heirs without even consulting them about the price? Do you think this law does justice to the heirs of an estate? Should not the executor consult the heirs, and before selling the property get their consent?

It seems strange to my mind that such a law should be allowed to exist for one hour.

Just think what power is invested in a one man affair who has nothing to gain except his commission, in a hurry.

An Annoying Practice

Mr. Editor: Your editorial in this morning's edition in regard to the steps being taken to prohibit manufacturers from using the U. S. mails to force their merchandise on people who have not ordered it is surely a source of great satisfaction to many Norwich people. With such facilities as Norwich stores offer for securing everything needed, it is an annoyance to have these packages come, and especially at the Christmas season when engravers and printers of cards flood the mails with unordered packages. And the worst of it is the pressure they bring to bear when their goods and letters of collection are ignored!

The Recollections of Yesterday

Mr. Editor:—It may interest you to know that I receive The Bulletin every morning and it is needless to say I read it from the front page to the final column, for in it I find all the news that if fit to print; of course, it naturally follows that some things interest me omre than some others, although every part is decidedly interest me more than some others, in what was started by E. C. Peck of Willimantic, in his recollections of what was called Ford Ned. I had often heard this called—Fulton Ned, also Fort Ned and now we have the explanation of how it acquired the name of Ford Ned and this to me seems logical. And right here I want to say I, too, have known this place and some of its people, notably Mr. Hilbert, and even today I can recall his looks; not very tall, with light hair, blue eyes andw ith a very ruddy complexion, indicating his Teutonic origin, and I can but think he was a fine example of the young business man of those early days.

As to the little village of Ford Ned, what thoughts, what memories are recalled when we think of this tiny village nestling among theh ills. We are carried in fancy to Rural England, where we can see the counterpart of this, where was to be heard the hum of the busy machinery and at night the tinkling of the guitar or maybe some other musical instrument by which they danced in the moonlight at the prompting of some embryo "Gurdon Cady". Say what they will, the people of long ago had their good times and enjoyed them as much as they do today.

Who can describe the simple pleasures of those days better than the ones who lived among the green hills and balmy air of one of these inland villages of old New England?

The memories which peaceful country scenes call up are not of the kind we have today, for now everything is hurry and we do not have the time to enjoy life as was the position of those people of some sixty years ago. Life was sweet in those days now gone. Still, we do not care to return. We in loneliness, love to think of plaesures past. The nevermore to be-hope binds us to the future, but the tide that binds us to the past is memory.

There is no question in my mind but what some of the people who formerly lived at Ford Ned, even today may be bent and are growing gracefully old, still have a wistful longing to see once again the old place, though it may have been very primitive. Still it was home, and we can but think with the poet,

"Home is not merely four square walls,
With pictures hung and gilded,
Home is where affection calls,
Where the heart its shrine hath builded."

And now Ford Ned is only a memory; desolate, and with the wind sighing through the trees a salemn dirge of the dead and forgotten past.

I wish some of you older ones would give us more of the stories of long ago of nearby places to Norwich, for there is no part of New England richer in past history, than the "Rose of New England."

Washington Irving in his "Sketch Book" gave a great deal of color to happenings of long ago, which were decidedly interesting. The scenes were laid down near to the town that was formerly the stamping ground of the Mohicans, Pequots and Narragansett Indians.

Francis Manwaring Caulkins' history of the town of Norwich is full of the most interesting and instructive stories of the struggles of the early people, who blazed the trail and made it possible for the ones who came after to live and enjoy life and to worship God according to the dictates of their own conscience.

Yours sincerely,
C. H. "DAD" SHAW

YOUR HEALTH

Clothes and Health

By Alice G. Bryant, M. D., Boston, Member Gorgas Memorial

How many people think of the all-important health side of dress? In our country of seasonable changes, dress cannot be uniform. In cold weather there is the rapid loss of body heat, and in warm weather we have to protect our bodies from the heat. Thus it is essential from the health viewpoint that we should know more of the heat mechanics of our bodies and of the action of the skin with its heat regulating system. It is desirable to know the different kind of fabrics, their texture, their color, the dimensions of the interspaces in the woven fabrics, the ability of the fabric material to absorb moisture as well as its ability to retain or diminish heat, and the time values consumed in the various processes.

The human body has an elaborate and intricate mechanism for producing heat. Food plays an important part in heat production. The skin is a wonderful heat-regulating garment. Air is a poor conductor of heat. The skin in winter time should be permitted to wear its garment of air, and we should have immobile air around our bodies. Silk, pure cotton and linen are much more closely woven than wool; they hold little air between their fibers and are good conductors of heat. Wool holds more aid between its fibres and is not a good conductor of heat; hence wool protects against variations ir temperature.

The woman health-above-all enthusiast has discarded the woolen muffler and fur collar. The uncovered neck is universally seen. Within reason it is healthy for the sun's health-giving rays to bathe the skin, and for the invigorating air to stimulate the skin. It would be well for men to adopt the soft collar and open shirt. Men's stiff and close-fitting hatbands press upon the forehead. They could be discarded and in time baldheaded men would be less numerous.

Avoid numerous layers of underclothing. Garments binding the skin are harmful. The shoulders should serve as a support for the clothing. We should not constrict or compress the waist by the pressure of the clothing.

We must not forget that clothing collects dust and dirt. It should be washed or cleansed frequently in order to be hygienic.

The feet should not be pressed or clamped in tight-fitting shoes. The toes should not be squeezed together. The narrow elevated heel, like an inverted pyramid, makes the woman pedestrian unstable and ungraceful in her motions and progress, and before 'ong it will spell disaster.

If the subject of dress is wisely studied and handled, it has a most worthy and essential place in the great scheme of our existence, for our profit, for our pleasure and for our well-being.

Mystery

I am great at cross-word puzzles, and at riddles I'm a star,
I can solve them with both hands securely tied behind my back;
Detective-story plots, however intricate they are,
Soon are plain as day at noon to me, with my peculiar knack;
But some enigmas baffle me, I'm ready to admit,
Their import such a wealth of mystic, misty wording screens
And frequently I find I cannot understand a bit
The meaning of some poems printed in the magazines.

Of course they have a meaning, or so the poets think.
And the editors, it may be—though it's doubtful—grasp it, too.
But their publication seems a dreadful waste of printer's ink—
New frankly, isn't that the way it seems sometimes to you?
The purpose of a poem should not need to be explained;
The reader should see clearly at a glance just what it means,
But who can get the meaning of the mystical and strained
Cryptic poems often printed in the leading magazines?

Stories That Recall Others

Faith in Movie Ctar

Little Lucy had been brought up on the movies. Almost the first time she attended Sunday school the day's lesson was the story of the Crucifixion. The child was deeply disturbed by the Bible story, and was still worrying about it when she reached home. After telling how dreadful it was she burst out with:

"Well, I known one thing. If Bill Hart had been there it never would have happened."

He Had a Match

A man was shown to his room in a small country town hotel by a small bell boy. Looking around to see that the prospects were for comfort, the guest saw a stub of a cigar lying on the dresser and said: "Look there, son."

"I got some matches if you want to finish it," quickly said the accomodating youngster.

Patience is bitter, but its fruit is sweet.

The lenten services at the First Baptist church at which Rev. Fredrick P. Freeman of the First Baptist church, Ansonia, was the special preacher, was well attended Thursday evening and the music and message was most helpful and inspiring. Another of the messages in the series of sermons being given by Mr. Freeman on "The Christ of the Church" was given and the topic Thursday night was "The Startling Christ." The preacher brought out the points that Christ in his historic appearance was the most startling figure that history has ever produced. Christ was shown to be startling in His methods when He came with a retinue of unarmed and harmless but devout religionists who acclaimed Him king. In His method, too, of expressing His Messianic qualities He was startling, even to John, who baptized Him, and who in his prison solitude became doubtful. Christ proves His genuineness to the doubter by His deed; opening the eyes of the blind, curing the deaf, healing the lame and diseased, and by preaching the gospel to the poor. His method of avoiding applause, but in quiet effective ministry, His final death, startling His followers into a shocked cowardice, His triumph over death, was all startling, and still remains a unique process in methods that seem unkingly. Yet of His rule the kingdoms of the earth shall know no end.

Christ was shown to be startling in His speech. He spoke as never man spoke before; He spoke with authority and not as the scribes. He was not so startling in the manner as in the matter with which He dealt. Christ was most startling in His deeds. Surprise features were a natural product of his marvelous ministry. The people on every hand were led to remark with amazement, "We have seen strange things today; we have never seen it done in this wise." And more than all this He has been startling the successive periods of all history by His methods, words and deeds. In every land under the skies, the Christ of God is startling the peoples into new visions of life, and new conceptions of the God of life. The preacher showed by varied illustrations that we may boldly preach a modern Christ. He is not to be known as one who has had his day and ceased to be, but rather as the foremost power in the world, first in Wales, then in Korea, again in Ungada, or India, or yet again in America as He stirs the hearts of men to a modern application of His principles and truth, and leads them to live and serve in His spirit of love and justice to humanity. We must be startling Christians if we would justify our claims to discipleship with "The Man of Galilee," said the preacher, and the world will be moved mightily for good by any man who consecrates his life to such a holy calling.

The fact that the Welte-Mignon company is moving in New York to a new Fifth avenue salon is a reminder that this influential business was founded by Michael Welte, inventor of the reproducing piano, grandfather of Carl M. Welte, of Norwich Town.

URGES TO MAKE LENTEN SEASON A STEP FORWARD

"The Short Road Beyond" was the theme of Rev. Charles H. Helmsath in the fifth of his series of addresses Thursday evening in the assembly hall of Bushnell chapel, Mark 14:35, "And He went forward a little" was the text. He spoke in part as follows:

"Just beyond all ordinary human achievement lies a short road ahead. Few wayfarers are ever met upon it, and those who go that way must go alone. Many that go that way are martyred, many crucified, but by these men the world is saved.

"And Jesus went forward a little way." This pictures as no other text does the supremacy of Jesus. We must forever strive to plunge beyond easy and accepted standards of living. We must forever go a "little farther" toward the ideal of Christian perfection. That night in the garden Jesus confronted a spiritual crisis in which no former human experience could guide him. He went beyond all men in finding God and God's answer.

"He went forward to find God's will in suffering. When he became baffled and heavy and burdened even unto death he went a little farther toward the Father. He went forward to complete his earthly task. His great physical endurance first impresses us. The disciples were hardy fishermen. They sank and slept out of pure exhaustion. But now he alone "went forward a little." To accomplish anything extraordinary we must break through the barriers of fatigue. No man can save others until he goes beyond them in devotion to a task.

"Jesus went forward to find God again, and to bring back to his fellows a true and sure knowledge of God. Communion with God is only possible for those who go a little farther. This day is not one in which it is easy to cultivate the spiritual side of our natures. To live the life of communion with the infinite a price must be paid. Sometimes we must arise "a great while before day" as Jesus did.

"At this Lenten season let us go a little farther in our religious life. Strengthen wavering resolutions. Cultivate religious habits. Make definite sacrifices for service in the spirit of Christ. Seek the perfection and fulness of Christ in everything."

Rev. Mr. Helmsath will speak at 6.45 p. m. Friday evening following the young people's supper at 6.15 p. m.

Mrs. Flora Chapple who has been at The Golden Spur has returned to the home of Mrs. Henry Rogers in Salem.

Miss Myra C. Geer has resumed her duties at the Carpenter Manufacturing company in Norwich having been detained at home in Lebanon by a cold for three weeks.

John F. Coulter, of Saybrook, a veteran of the Civil war, has been confined to his home by illness for a week. He has been taken to a New Haven hospital to undergo an operation.

JOSEPH H. HALL, JR., HAS SLIGHT SKULL FRACTURE

A slight skull fracture at the temple bone, besides a fractured collar bone, has been revealed as the injury suffered by Joseph H. Hall, Jr., of 160 Broadway in the automobile accident on the Military highway near the state hospital late Wednesday night in which his brother, Lloyd G. Hall, suffered injuries from which he died at the Backus hospital about two hours after the accident. Joseph Hall was conscious Thursday night but was restless and suffering considerable pain.

The machine in which the two young me nwere riding at the time of the accident belonged to Lloyd Hall and was driven at the time by Mrs. Herbert Ferguson, 161 Broadway, others in the machine being her husband and Lieut. Dwight H. Day, whom they were taking back to the submarine base after an evening spent at the Ferguson home.

Lieut. Day was taken to the naval hospital at the base after the accident and was reported to be severely injured. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson suffered minor injuries and are confined to their homes so severely affected by the shock of the fatal accident that they were unable to see any one on Thursday.

Wheel marks from the machine in the road where the accident took place at the foot of what is called Davis hill indicate that the right wheels of the automobile ran up on the gravel sidewalk, straddled a culvert opening, missed hitting an R. F. D. letter box post and then struck some whitewashed stones on the edge of the walk. This shot the automobile across the road to the left across the road to the right and overturned. As the top of the Lisselle car was down, all five occupants were thrown out and none was crushed under the machine.

The crash was heard at the Norwich state hospital epileptic ward and a Mr. Dorsey from there with Joseph Paquette of Taftville and Miss Mabel Hoard, also a hospital employe, were the first to reach the scene. Miss Hoard had been driving from Norwich behind the Hall car but was not close enough to see the accident. Dr. Elijah S. Burdsall, acting superintendent at the hospital, and other physicians of the staff rendered first aid and the Backus hospital ambulance was summoned. The ambulance from the submarine base took Lieut. Day there.

The young man who lost his life in the accident was vice president of the Joseph Hall & Son, Inc., woolen mill owners at Trading Cove, and the son of Joseph H. and Grace Smith Hall and was born in Norwich on July 9, 1899. He received his early education in the public schools of Norwich and later attended the Norwich Free Academy. He graduated from the N. F. A. in 1917 and from Yale in 1921. Entering the mill business he advanced rapidly until he was finally elected to the office which he held at the time of his death. Mr. Hall was a member of the Norwich Golf club, and was a young man well liked and respected by every one that knew him. His sudden death is a shock to a wide circle of friends who extend to the members of the family their heart felt sympathies. Surviving him are his parents and two brothers, Philip and Joseph.

Joseph H. Hall, Sr., who together with his son, Philip, had only recently arrived in San Francisco for a visit, following a trip through the Panama canal, was notified by telephone Thursday of the fatal accident and immediately left for home.

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE ENDORSES ROBBINS CANDIDACY FOR MAYOR

A meeting of the republican town committee, with chairman George M. Charbonneau presiding, was held at the court house Thursday evening with attendance that represented the different sections of the community and the business centered upon consideration of a candidate for the nomination for mayor for the coming June election.

The committee cordially endorsed the candidacy of Senator Lee Roy Robbins for the nomination, and members of the committee said after the meeting that they took pleasure in doing so and they felt his appearance in the field guaranteed the people a candidate of recognized and proved ability who is well fitted to fill the office of mayor.

Senator Robbins, who is a native of this city, is in his second term as state senator from the 19th district, which includes Norwich and Preston, and during his association with the legislators at Hartford has acquired a reputation which has made him in demand for service upon important committees in the general assembly. He has been prosecuting attorney in the city court here for the last 7 or 8 years and has fulfilled the duties of that rather difficult position in a way that has won him commendation. The committee is satisfied that he will make a strong candidate who will enlist the undivided support of the republican party in the city election in June.

LEE ROY ROBBINS

PRESENTED WATCH FOB TO MAX HANOVER

A testimonial dinner for Max Hanover, who has recently returned from Watkins sanatorium, Glen Springs, N. Y., where he has been under observation for his health, was given Thursday evening at Rosano's Kosher restaurant, Main street, by Independent Order B'nai B'rith, No. 898, Rose of New England. The guest of honor was Mayor Milo R. Waters and out-of-town guests included Nestor Dreyfus, Attorney Morris Lubchansky, Benjamin Kaplan, Michael Schwartz and Joseph Schwartz, of New London, and others.

During the banquet, served at 8 o'clock, Josiah Greenstein was toastmaster and Alexander N. Pasnik was songleader, both of whom carried out their parts in faultless style, and kept matters moving along in decorous manner. The menu was: Fruit salad, beef a la mode entree, noodle soup, fried chicken, strudel, punch, celery, lettuce, olives, prune pie and coffee.

In the course of the supper, community singing, featuring Jewish songs, was heard intermingled with solos, quartets and sextets.

At this juncture of the occasion, Chairman Greenstein explained the cause for the gathering and before presenting Mr. Hanover said that due to his condition it would be necessary that Mr. Hanover should be seated in his talk to the gathering. Mr. Hanover read the following:

This evening is one of the happiest moments in my life. With the condition of my heart it would be foolish for me to expect a long lease of life. However, whatever time may be allotted to me, I will look back to this evening as a landmark of satisfaction.

You can not possibly realize what a shock it was to me to find that all of a sudden I became incapacitated and useless as an active citizen. It came to me from a clear sky without any notice whatsoever. I felt the misfortune more keenly because since the first Jewish Relief drive, in 1922, I saw a new light and I dedicated my life to the service of my fellowman, especially since the Gentile people of Norwich have contributed over $8,600 to help Jewish war victims whom they never saw, I felt it incumbent upon me to do everything in my power in reciprocation of this noble generosity. Can you realize my consternation at being compelled to relinquish these activities which have become duties and obligations so near and dear to my heart and soul.

The only bright light upon this clouded horizon is the discovery that I found favor and friendship with a number of worthy people in Norwich. This discovery is an ever-increasing compensation satisfaction mitigating my adversity. It is indeed a great pleasure to know that I have found a warm spot in the hearts of so many men and women, both Jewish and Gentile, who are the good citizens in our community. This was proven by the wonderful letters which I have received while at Glen Springs from my dear friends in this lodge; from his honor, Mayor Milo R. Waters; from the men and women who are the acknowledged leaders in civic, political and mercantile activities in our city. These letters were of such a friendly and sincere personal nature so as to warm the heart of any man no matter in what predicament he may find himself, and I assure you that they sustained my spirit during the entire time that I rested at the sanatorium and have greatly contributed to the improvement in my health. I therefore want to tell you, dear friends, that I feel rewarded by your fine profession of friendship. I regard your kind feelings towards me as one of my most cherished possessions and I pray that I may always be worthy of these fine sentiments which you are kind enough to offer to me through this evening's testimonial.

This beautiful watch chain which you tender to me as a gift, is to be used as a safeguard to a timepiece, and by a stretch of the imagination I may say that it symbolizes "holding on to time." May our friendship, likewise, hold for all time. May it link more closely the fraternal chain which is being welded by this wonderful organization and may it help in hastening the establishment of the universal brotherhood of men which is the aim and hope of humanity and civilization.

Among those who were called upon to express the esteem in which Mr. Hanover was held by themselves and the community at large were Mayor Waters, Mr. Dreyfus, Jacob Waxler, president of the B'nai B'rith; Oscar Silverman, Sam Goldberg, Alex Pasnik, Abner Schwartz and Morris Lubchansky.

In presenting Mr. Hanover, Chairman Greenstein offered him, in behalf of the assemblage, a beautiful diamond studed gold fob. Josiah Greenstein, ex-president, was presented a traveling bag, and Morris Sussman, also an ex-president, received a candle holder, both gifts being presented by President Abner Schwartz in behalf of the order.

The committee in charge of the arrangements comprised Oscar Silverman, Abner Schwartz, Morris Schwartz, Jacob Weininger, Abraham Bruckner and Alexander Pasnik.

Arrested on Warrants

On warrants issued through the prosecuting attorney's office, Teresa Taylor was arrested on the charge of keeping a disorderly house and was later released upon giving $20 bonds.

Edward Murphy was arrested on a serious charge and was released upon giving $200 bonds for his appearance in court. He was taken into custody on Franklin square by Officer Hugh McAvoy.

SUP'T. GENTER REPORTS FOR THE NORWICH DISTRICT

Rev. Myron E. Genter of this city, superintendent for Norwich district of the New England Southern Conference of the Methodist church, presented his annual report for the district at the meeting of the conference in Fall River Thursday morning. The report was as follows:

Dear Comrades of Militant Methodism:

Under the good Providence of God, we have come to the close of another period of making history for Christ on the Norwich district. The report is only possible through the untiring labor of earnest ministers and thousands of loyal laymen.

The notable growth and achievement has been where ministers of vision and leadership have visualized definite objectives and with the officials have made plans which the congregations have completed. Planning the work and working the plans well never fail to bring success. God often reveals His plan several months in advance. Time usually determines, not only the measure of success, but whether the plan was mostly human or largely divine.

It seems impracticable to elaborate the details, and yet the summaries will indicate triumphs in various phases of activity. Christ has been among us. God has revealed Himself to us, and in the care of these 58 churches we have been daily aware of the help of the Spirit Divine.

With sincere appreciation for all courtesies shown, all generous hospitality shared in homes of ministry and laity, all solicitude manifested, all help of God received, and excellent health with no day of illness through the year. I humbly submit the report of the district. The returns from the several pastors are so incomplete that it seems very unwise to present more than the following summaries:

But two changes have been made in appointments, and these in supply charges. Robert Symons, student, at Moodus, discontinued in the fall and Wesley Sanders of Wesleyan completed the year. E. M. Pickon left for Florida, last November, and J. Garland Waggoner of Kansas, succeeded at South Coventry and Gurleyville, where some phenomenal advances are being made.

Spiritual Enterprise

Seven churches have held public evangelistic meetings, while 19 others have relied upon other special methods to secure increase of believers. New preparatory members reported number 184, and new full members reported added to the rolls, number 216. The writer is not particular as to the method, but commends heartily the one suggested by our beloved Bishop Anderson recently, as seeming the best we have heard mentioned.

In religious education, the work of regrading and departmentalizing has been steadily progressing, and several centers have had special schools for teacher training. South Manchester has organized a Junior church of 100. Nearly 75 of our young people are attending higher institutions of learning.

The district Epworth league, held a summer institute at the Camp ground in early summer, with Dean Spaulding leading, and four sub-district institutes have been held during the winter, with hundreds of young people attending. One new circuit has been organized, making a total of five, and the excellent leadership of M. J. Creeger, as district president, is eagerly followed. We have never heard such reports of applied Christianity as the leagues are giving this year.

The Camp meeting was held at Willimantic, Aug. 19-28. Large attendances greeted instructors of morning classes in devotion, personal evangelism, church school, stewardship, and through psychology into religion; afternoons, with programs on missions, temperance, world service, young people and interdenominational fellowship; evenings, with strong evangelistic messages. In spite of inclement weather, audiences were excellent. The great Sunday brought thousands to share superb music and the great sermons.

This summer assembly is now regarded by many as one of the most outstanding in New England.

Benevolences

The general response for World Service has been good. The World Service Bulletin has helped much and Rev. Dr. F. Dodd, returned missionary from China, with itinerary of one month on the district, speaking at 22 different centers, inspired our people. The last official report from Chicago showed this district several hundreds of dollars in advance over last year with a similar period. It is now expected that the following churches will be on the honor roll, having raised 10 per cent more than last year: Attawaugan, Burnside, East Hartford, Hazardville, Hockanum, Jewett City, Manchester, Mystic, North Grosvenordale, Norwich Town, Oneco, Sterling, Staffordville, South Manchester, Thompsonville and Westerly.

Special appeals have also had generous response, but in view of the vast increase of wealth in the last decade, there should be large increase of all benevolences.

Increase in Salaries

These are all too few in number. Hazardville leads with $200. North Grosvenordale follows with $140. Gales Ferry and Westerly each increase $100. Many other churches on this district should increase at once and lift the ratio of gain from about 45 per cent to 75 per cent to keep pace with the higher cost and higher standard of living today. There are sufficient resources to do it, but, before it obtains, one thing must be done and the pastors must lead in it.

Stewardship

Wesley's Journal (Southey's, chapter 29) says: "Religion must necessarily produce both diligence and frugality, and these cannot but produce riches. But as riches increase, so will pride, anger and love of the world in all its branches. So, although the form of religion remains, the spirit is swiftly vanishing away. There is one way and there is no other under heaven to stop this. If those who gain all they can and save all they can, will likewise give all they can, then the more they give, the more they will grow in grace and the more treasure will they lay in heaven." It is imperative that our pastors should continuously present this for cultivation and expression of Christian life. It is the high obligation of the laymen to so authorize, organize, systematize and standardize, the increased income of money for the Lord's work that the church may have the primacy for fruitfulness and usefulness among institutions.

Personal Matters

A very fair son, Ernest Bertrand Hamilton, came to the parsonage at Thompsonville on June 11. Rev. and Mrs. Joseph Cooper rejoice over the birth of a granddaughter, and Mrs. Cooper laments the departure of a brother and a sister. The mother of Rev. A. E. Whitten died on Oct. 8, at the age of 85. Ernestine, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. M. S. Stocking, was married at the home in Manchester, June 14, to L. Theron French. The father of Mrs. S. J. A. Rook entered upon immortality on Feb. 28, after an illness of a year. There has been comparatively little serious illness in the parsonage homes at large, but two require special mention. Mrs. Frank Chamberlain has spent 21 weeks in the hospital with a fractured hip but is slowly recovering at the parsonage at East Thompson. The sudden illness of the pastor at Norwich, Trinity, on Feb. 5, occasioning absence from the pulpit until now, is a cause of deep regret, and a year for rest will probably be granted.

C. E. Spaulding finds perpetual joy in laboring with the New London people.

Local Church Anniversaries

Churches which report outstanding rallies, anniversaries or large gatherings for social purposes, are Burnside, East Blackstone, Manchester, Moosup, South Manchester, Thompsonville, Westerly, Willimantic and Quarryville.

Donations and Legacies

Gales Ferry church was bequeathed $2,000 by the late lamented William Noyes Allen. The Stafford Springs church gains by bequest of $5,000 from the estate of Miss Philena Williams.

Building and Improvements

The following have reported for the sum and purposes indicated: East Hartford, church, $200; East Hampton, parsonage, $250; East Thompson, parsonage, $250; Gales Ferry, parsonage, $138; Hockanum, parsonage, $238; Manchester, parsonage, $275; Moosup, $200; East Blackstone, parsonage, $300; North Grosvenordale, church, $700; Norwich Town, $90; Portland church and parsonage, $600; Putnam church and parsonage, $200; South Manchester, $1,000; Thompsonville church, $1,000; Quarryville, church and parsonage, $450; Vernon, church $715; Baltic, church $1,650; Windsorville, church, $450; Westerly, church, $50; Willimantic, parsonage, $200; Sterling, parsonage, $300; Norwich, Trinity parsonage, $300.

Gales Ferry has built a new parsonage, which including some furnishings has cost so far, $6,200. Jerome Greer and wife have led in a masterful way. The vote was taken to build at the first quarterly conference and at the time of the last conference they were living in this new modern home. Grand total $15,156.

The church at Uncasville, destroyed by fire April 23, 1927 was a total loss. Insurance for $19,000 was received which with new subscriptions added makes a total of $40,500 for a new church. Excavation is in process, on a new site, on the main highway, and the foundation will soon be laid.

Debt Reduction

East Hartford has reduced its debt by $2,350, and by gift of a princely layman, J. A. Lathrop, of $750, has practically raised subscriptions for the balance of its debt. New London has paid $12,000 on its debt; South Manchester $10,000 and Thompsonville $3,000. Uncasville has paid an old debt of $1,000 making a grand total for the district of $26,260.

Sale of Church Properties

Our Methodist interests in Eastford have been discontinued, and all funds placed in the hands of our conference trustees. Properties at Haddam Neck, Wesley Chapel, Willington, long known as unused properties, have been conveyed to others, and the funds placed with the conference trustees. Marlboro property has been conveyed and the quarterly conference voted the proceeds and other invested funds should become an endowment fund, the income of which shall be used for support of the pastor at East Hampton. The sale of the parsonage at Gardners Lake, was made and proceeds added to its investment with the conference trustees to make an endowment fund the income of which is to be used for support of the pastor.

Other Items

Most of our church schools use our denominational literature and 263 Zions Heralds are taken. Two churches will pay the conference claimants permanent fund in full and several in part. Nearly all will pay the pastor's one per cent as required.

Church aid will be met in whole or in part by several churches.

The district parsonage in process of renovation, which began with this administration, has one more stage before completion and next year the matter of painting the exterior as well as some furnishings within, will conclude the hard task in which the district has loyally cooperated.

The interdenominational fellowship occasions consisting of the Eastern Connecticut association at Norwich the convocation series at Connecticut college, those at the Yale Divinity school and the Kennedy School of Missions at Hartford, and the dedication ceremonies of Storrs church in which many communions had a part were inspiring. Those of Norwich Y. M. C. A. were also superb.

Our district meetings have been times of rare comradeship and delight.

The general conference has wisely made a place in the pastor's report at each last quarterly conference, where the "forward program" may be considered. We believe this principle applies as well to that of the superintendent and in closing this report we would mention some observation and convictions concerning larger fruitfulness of our Methodist churches in the future.

Steadily from masses, in deep undertone and increasing in volume comes an imperial demand. It is sufficient to cause every minister to drop the plumbline to the very bottom of his soul and sound his relations to the Great Head of the Church.

Methodism is challenged to know and represent Jesus Christ in mightier fashion.

With genius and spiritual power she must gear into this marvelous age. One has said of these times, "comforts are multiplied, power is increased, time and space are destroyed, hours of toil reduced, natural environment is altered, disease is eliminated and death is postponed."

The increasing demand everywhere is that the followers of Christ shall actually share his spirit, and practice his teachings seven days in the week. The claim of Methodism on millions of members and other millions of adherents, falls to the ground if she does not share the "abundant life" which Christ declared he came to bring. If this is absent or waning or at a minimum, no matter what the equipment of the church, then she must begin to major in this or give leadership in Protestantism to another.

Our beloved bishops have wisely urged a new fresh adventure and experience with Christ for all Methodists. Their continued emphasis on Christ's teachings, his living presence with believers, his objectives in the world, his passion, his power and program to save the world, should thrill our denomination to larger faith and action.

The higher loyalties of this twentieth century age, insist on being heard. The platitude of "loyalty to the church" which requires people to maintain an institution, if decline and disintegration are evident, will not hold eager hearts in quest for congenial fellowship and happy, efficient service to God.

The highest loyalties of the heart will not permit the soul to be stifled starved or sacrificed and if forced to do it, may rightfully seek another communion where the soul life can grow and thrill and thrive. And if the ministry of unity in any of our churches fail to provide the life giving church, the people will settle it for themselves, no matter how many generations of Methodism have preceded.

The district superintendent has opportunities for strategic service in kingdom building, not so much by the number of conferences at which he presides, as to know conditions, sense real need and aid by suggestions for worthy endeavor. Never by domination, but by courteous suggestion, will he approach the task, and the local administration must always be held responsible for conditions which obtain. Our church law gives him the obligation to "oversee" the district. As defined, that is "to watch or direct the action or performance of. In order to make sure that it is properly carried out generally in accordance with a design."

He will be tempted to dodge issues, straddle when straddling is not too hard, wink at evasions of duty or deliberate and long continued violations of ecclesiastical laws or pass on problems of administration to another, but this is not the way of true expansion or constructive growth.

Whether men approve or disapprove, this officer of the church cdnnot afford to make any compromise which imperils his own soul before God or causes the church as the "body of Christ" to suffer.

Power and Perils of Ministry

Our preachers are surrounded with a materialism which dazzles, bewilders, stifles and dwarfs the souls of men. This besieges the minister, for he must mingle with crowds, sense conditions, see comedies, feel tragedies, and he often feels lonely as a guide to those who have lost their way.

In an age when the human body so engrosses attention he must disclose to men the majesty of the human personality, and religious certainty as it may be verified by adventure with God. The chief human factor which can prevent landslides away from the church into agnosticism and correct worldliness within the church is the minister in whom Christ is incarnate.

He will help men lay hold on things of the spirit which they may keep forever. He may make men know that they can enjoy a million times more than they can own. The greatest tragedy now is that most people live and die and never know the vast latent possibilities of their own lives.

Actually feeding the whole flock of Christ remains the chief tas kas given by the Great Shepherd. Religious education is imperative, but if the minister so emphasizes details and minutiae that adult life in congregations dwindle and mature hearts cry out for adequate spiritual ministration, then one may be guilty of criminal negligence in the Kingdom of God.

Every preacher still has the high privilege to find his course of procedure, power for his task and wisdom for each day in communion with the infinite God. God is sufficient for our age and any age which will arrive.

Our laymen will recall that when Christ was given such preeminence in the early church expansion followed which still staggers the imagination. Rome itself finally surrendered. The law of rapid propagation is the salvation of the world according to the dictum of Jesus is "seek first the Kingdom of God and all things needful follow." Mere education, machinery, oratory, architecture and ritual can hasten defeat. Too great stress on aesthetics produces anaesthetics. For any layman to say that churches cannot be maintained now because crowds have no interest in religion is to libel humanity. I believe in humanity, and bad as part of it may be, all normal life has deep indestructible religious instincts, yearning after God more than many suspect. Every church should have specific objectives, deliberately chosen by laity as well as ministry, and all of the church forces should be set in operation for their realization.

In conclusion, let us thank God that the Great Head of the Church has promised to be with us all—all of the time. He who walked the Emmanus Road walks with his believers on all roads. He sits in every home as well as that at Bethany. He has place in every ship as wel as the fishing boat on Galilee. He stands in every market place and temple as well as those of ancient Jerusalem. He has a sure work of resurrection at every tomb as well as that of Lazarus. He not only points the way to immortality but "hath brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel" and he leads the way into the larger life now and beyond without end.

And now unto him that is able to keep us from falling and to present us before the throne of his glory with exceeding joy to the only wise God, our Saviour, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever. Amen.

CELEBRATED EIGHTIETH SPIRITUALISM ANNIVERSARY

The 80th anniversary of modern spiritualism was celebrated at the Spiritual academy on Park street with services Thursday afternoon and evening, which had congregations which filled the auditorium at the academy.

In the afternoon the program was carried out as follows:

Prelude, "Barcarolle" (Offenbach), organ, violin, piano and saxophone; invocation; soprano solo, "To a Wild Rose (MacDowell), Mrs. Mary S. Britton; anniversary hymn, congregation; anniversary address, Mrs. Louise Sumner Cobb, of Salem, Mass.; soprano solo, "Pale Moon" (F. Knight Logan), Mrs. Britton, with piano, violin and organ; Messages, Rev. W. C. Whitney, of Philadelphia; offertory; hymn, congregation; Messages, Mrs. Amelia Adams, of Haverhill, Mass.; selection, piano, violin, organ and saxophone; benediction.

Supper was served between 5 and 6:30 in the evening.

At the evening meeting at 6:30, the anniversary address was by Mr. Whitney, who spoke upon "Foretellers vs. Fortune Tellers," in which he drew a sharp distinction between the work of mediums upon the Spiritualist rostrum and card readers, astrologers, tea-grounds readers and necromancers. He used the story of Daniel and the interpretation of the dream of Nebuchadnezzar and the handwriting on the wall of Belshazzar as an illustration of mediumship in ancient Biblical history and declared that mediumship is the real backbone of Spiritualism and has proved that there is no death and there are no dead.

The program was as follows:

Prelude, "Simple Aveu", (Thome), violin, piano, organ and saxophone; invocation; soprano solo, "Where My Caravan Has Rested" (Lohr), Mrs. Britton; anniversary hymn, No. 135; anniversary address, Rev. W. C. Whitney; soprano solo, "Angels Serenade" (Braga), Mrs. Britton, with violin, piano and organ; Messages, Mrs. Louise Sumner Cobb; Messages, Mrs. Amelia Adams; benediction; postlude, violin, piano, organ and saxophone.

The platform was beautifully decorated with owers by Geduldig and furniture and lamps were loaned by the Plaut-Cadden company. The music was by Mrs. Charlotte C. Dowsett, violin; Mrs. Belle B. Dion, piano; J. Lloyd Hayden, saxophone; Charles A. Dowsett, at the organ.

MAROONS TAKE SECOND GAME TO ENTER STANLEY FINALS

MONTREAL, Que., March 29.—(AP)—The Montreal Maroons tonight won the right to face the Canadiens, of the same city, in the Canadian division finals for the Stanley cup by defeating the world's champion Ottawa Senators, 2 to 1. The Maroons had won the first game of the two game series with the Senators, 1 to 0, at Ottawa last Tuesday night.

By virtue of its two victories, the Maroons now will face the Canadiens in a two-game, total goal series to determine which shall have the honor of representing the Canadian division in the Stanley cup finals against the winner of the American group competition.

The Maroons got the jump on the Senators tonight and then played hard to defend a slim lead. Babe Siebert tallied the first Maroon goal after about 11 minutes of play in the first period. Hooley Smith, crack Maroon center, made this lead the stronger by netting a goal in the Ottawa nets a few minutes after the second period started.

The Senators found the Maroon defense too strong for them until the final session when Kilrea scored the lone Ottawa goal.

The game was rough, 13 penalties being called, seven on them on the Maroons.

WRIGHT AND MORGAN IN NATIONAL TENNIS FINALS

NEW YORK, March 29—(AP)—William C. Wright of Philadelphia and Hewitt Morgan of New York will meet Saturday in the finals of the national court tennis singles championship.

In the semi-final matches, played today at the Racquet and Tennis club Morgan took a hard fought five set match from another New Yorker, John W. Appel, Jr., the scores were 2-6, 6-2 6-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Wright a young player who was selected by Jay Gould, holder of the title for 20 years, as his doubles partner, had an easier time winning from William T. Adee of Tuxedo, N. Y., in straight sets, 6-1 6-4, 6-3.

RANGERS LOSE BUT GAIN FINALS IN HOCKEY PLAY

NEW YORK, March 29.—(AP)—Although beaten by the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 2, tonight, the New York Rangers won the right to meet the Boston Bruins in the American division finals for the Stanley cup. The Rangers had taken the first game of the two-game series, 4 to 0, here on Tuesday night. Under the total goal system, the Pirates were eliminated, six goals to four.

After playing a whole game and two periods in somewhat lifeless fashion, the Pirates cut loose in the third period with a burst of speed and scoring ability similar to that which lifted them from the cellar to a play-off berth within a few weeks during the regular season play.

Roger Smith, substitute defense player, scored two goals and Martin Burke, defense player, and Harold Darragh, right winger, one each for the Pirates. Taffy Abel, Ranger defense man and Murray Murdock, substitute forward, tallied for New York.

During the first two periods the Rangers outshot the Pirates two to one, but in the final session Lorne Chabot, Ranger goalie was under constant bombardment. In this period he saved 19 shots and allowed three to get by him. At the pace the Pirates were traveling at the finish the Rangers' two goal margin would not have been any too large if there had been another period to play.

About 8,000 persons saw the game.

The first game of the American group final between the Rangers and Boston will be played here Sunday night, the teams traveling to Boston for the second game, Tuesday night. Total goals wil determine which team will meet the winner of the Montreal Maroons-Canadiens series for the Canadian group title.

YALE "OLD GRADS" NOT SURE OF GOOD GRID SEATS TILL 1930

NEW HAVEN, March 29—(AP)—Not until 1930 at least, can the "old grad" of Yale be reasonably sure of getting tickets somewhere between the goal posts for the big games. The football tickets committee has announced that there will be 5,000 choice seats available two years hence, when the rights of those who subscribed to the fund for the erection of the Yale bowl, expire but that until that time, the problem of attempting to seat 50,000 persons with only 13,576 seats within the goal lines will have to be faced.

At the present time, the committee announced, the allotment of tickets to bowl subscribers, administrative officers of the university, squad, old players, under-graduates, and faculty, more than consumes the seats within the goal lines on the Yale side. A survey of the allotment of tickets for the Princeton game last fall shows that Yale issued 50,013. That means that 37,000 ticket holders were outside the goal lines, either on the Yale side or the ends.

Some reductions in the number of tickets allotted in the preferred classifications have been made and it is expected that this reduction combined with the fact that freshmen will be allotted their tickets after all the graduates have been taken care of will tend to improve the location of the seats given to "old graduates."

Pinned applications from graduates will be taken care of in a block after the single tickets have been disposed of.

BERLENBACK LEAVES MEXICO CITY PROBABLY WITH DIVORCE

MEXICO CITY, March 29.—(AP)—Paul Berlenback, former light heavyweight champion, left Mexico City with a document in his pocket which some persons claimed was a divorce but the exact purport of which was tonight uncertain.

H. E. Grace, a divorce agent who conferred with Berlenbach while the pugilist was here, was quoted by Mexico City newspapers as saying that Berlenbach had the divorce. Tonight Grace denied this and declined to discuss his relations with Berlenbach in any way.

The story had it that Berlenbach and Grace had gone to Cuernavaca, in the neighborhood state of Morelos where divorces are easily obtained, and had gone away a few hours later with a decree. But Pablo B. Mejio, judge of the first civil court at Cuernavaca, told the Associated Press over the telephone tonight that no such decree had been issued by him and that Berlenback had not been in his court.

Another version of the affair was that the decree was granted by the governor of Morelos. That official could not be reached tonight.

In any event it seems certain that Berlenbach had boarded a train for Laredo after a stay here of 24 hours.

BANNER CROWD EXPECTED FOR ACADEMY-CRESCENTS GAME

The Academy and Taftville Crescents are now practically ready for the final game of the year, their one game series for the town title Saturday night at the Y gym. Both are taking this tilt as one of the major events of the year and plenty of action should result.

The Crescents have had phenominal success playing at home and, as the Y gym is not so far removed from Parish hall, probably some of this success will stick going into this game. On the other hand, the Academy has played a fine brand of ball, in the last six weeks, trodding down everything before it with ease and the Red and White, if right, should give the more experienced Taftville outfit a mighty hard battle, if not stand a good chance of winning.

One thing to help the schoolboys will be their adeptness at amateur rules while the Crescents have been campaigning all year under the professional code.

RECORD NUMBER STRIVE TO ENTER BOSTON MARATHON

BOSTON, March 29—(AP)— Though the National A. A. U. marathon will not be run until three weeks from today, 62 long distance runners have already entered the event which this year will serve as the American Olympic tryout.

Manager Tom Kanaly, managing the race, believes there will be more than 200 starters in the Hopkinton to Boston grind, 26 miles, 385 yards, the full Olympic distance.

He said that never before in the 33 years that the Boston A. A. has been staging the annual race has there been such a demand for entry blanks or such a large number entered at this early date.

Much of this interest is due, he pointed out, to the fact that the first ten men to finish have an excellent chance to making the Olympic trip to Amsterdam.

Benny Takes to Business

CHICAGO, March 29—(AP)—Benny Friedman is playing a new game. The former Michigan All-American quarterback is attempting to forward pass his way through the insurance field in Cleveland, his home town.

TUNNEY TO FIGHT PAULINO IN SPAIN, 1929

MADRID, March 30.—(AP)—Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion, is coming to Barcelona in 1929 to fight Paulino Uscudun, Spanish heavyweight champion, Senior Regio, royal commissioner to the Barcelona exposition, which will be held next year, announced today.

Regio declared that Tunney will battle Paulino before 65,000 spectators at a stadium to be built ostensibly for the contest and that tickets of admission will be at an average of two dollars.

Tunney in a statement from Miami Beach, Florida, yesterday, said he had accepted an invitation from King Alfonso to give an exhibition before the Spanish sovereign at the Barcelona exposition in 1929. The champion did not mention anything in the nature of a title bout while in Europe.

HIGH SCHOOL PROSPECTS

(This is the first of a series on baseball prospects of high school in eastern Connecticut and others that would interest local fans. These articles will run daily).

Stonington High

Stonington high is looking for a continuation on the diamond of the success that she has been enjoying in other sports lately, and especially this school-year. Although Coach William O'Brien has none too bright prospects still the outlook is anything but discouraging.

A 15-game schedule is planned. A 15-game schedule is planned bringing the borough men against teams in Connecticut and Rhode Island, practically all of which are in her class. There are four games that might be classed as "severe tests" for Stonington this year, two with New London Bulkeley and two with Norwich Free Academy.

Stonington is weak in the battery positions and around second base—the backbone of the team. Only one pitcher from last year's squad is available although a large number have turned out for this berth and their enthusiasm, in common with practically all members of the squad for that mat is unbounded.

For catchers O'Brien has plenty of material and he will probably decide on Barber, who handled most of the work in this berth last year. Bobby Cragan is also after the mask job, which leaves shortstop open along with first base, made so by the graduation of one of the Stefanski brothers. Burnham will probably continue at his old post, second with J. Stefanski at third while for the outfield Bryer and Volinsky are the two lettermen remaining.

Stonington had its first outdoor practice Tuesday at Owen's Field and with over three weeks before the first game, April 19, killingly at Stonington, there is little worry as yet about her chances on the diamond this year.

Tomorrow—Westerly high.

OXFORD-CAMBRIDGE RACE AT EVEN MONEY

PUTNEY, England, March 29—(AP)—Chances of the Oxford and Cambridge crews, now in intensive training for their annual race on the Thames, Saturday, are estimated at present at about even money, although odds are inclined just slightly to favor Cambridge.

This is because of the fact that Cambridge has four rowing men left over from last year, to Oxford's three. Oxford men counterbalance this, however, by saying that Sir James Croft the Oxford cox. is also a last year's man.

Gemas Wins Over McEwan

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., March 29—(AP)—George Gemas, of Philadelphia, stopped Tex McEwan, of Ottawa, in the second round of a ten round bout here tonight. Gemas weighed 199 and McEwan 181.

EACH TEAM MUST PLAY EIGHT COURT GAMES IN NEW SCHOLASTIC LEAGUE

At the meeting of the newly formed Eastern Connecticut-Western Rhode Island Interscholastic league at the Academy Thursday afternoon it was decided that each team should play eight league games to be eligible for the basketball title. All teams enrolled in the league, save Wheeler school of North Stonington, were present, representatives being from Westerly, Stonington, New London Bulkeley, Windham, Plainfield and Putnam highs, Chapman Tech and the Academy.

President Joel B. Sherman of Westerly high presided and the attention of most of the meeting centered on the basketball situation in 1928-29. Practically all teams in the league intend to have court representatives by next winter, Bulkeley and Westerly hoping to revive the sport, so that special attention was paid to this game.

New Constitution

A new constitution was also drawn up but not ratified. Schedules for the next school-year in all sports were lined up by the different managers and with the league officially opening with next year's football season, present indications point to real success.

QUEBEC BEAVERS BEAT BOSTON TIGERS BY 2 TO 0

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 29.—(AP)—Before a crowd that howled its approval of glittering plays the Quebec Beavers at the Rhode Island auditorium here tonight defeated the Boston Tigers two goals to nothing and earned the right to contest with Springfield for the championship of the Canadian-American professional hockey league. Tonight's victory gave the Beavers a total of four points to Boston's two in the two-game play-off which started in Boston two nights ago.

Boston was two men short when Sorre scored the first tally for the Braves on a pass from Haiderson. The second period was scoreless but in the third period Queenevelle, unassisted smashed in another tally for the Canadians.

The Quebec-Springfield series is scheduled to start Saturday night in Springfield.

U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM ARRIVES AT MEXICO CITY

MEXICO CITY, March 29.—(AP)—"Bill" Tilden and his United States Davis cup team arrived here today to prepare for the clash with Mexico's tennis experts in the first elimination round of the American zone. They will have a week of practice to accustom themselves to execution in the high altitude of the Mexican capital. Besides Tilden the American team includes John Hennessy, Indianapolis, Arnold W. AROUND THE RING

CHICAGO, March 29—(AP)—In an effort to settle that much disputed question of "When is a foul not a foul" the Illinois State Athletic commission has reverted to its original rules, giving full power to the referee to decide whether a punch, claimed to be low, either was fair or foul.

Henceforth, the third man in the ring will have absolute control of the situation from the tap of the first gong until the fight is over, except that the judges will share with him the right in naming the winner.

If a low blow is landed, it will be entirely up to the referee to decide if it was fair or foul. His word will be law. He will not need to ask the commission nor the judges before making his decision.

Heretofore, when a boxer sank to the floor, under a claim of foul, the referee had nothing to do about making a decision. The usual procedure was a hurried consultation among the commissioners at the ringside, or ordering a physician into the ring to make an examination.

This procedure resulted in delay, confusion and dissatisfaction. This was particularly true in the unsatisfactory ending of the match between Bud Taylor and Joey Sangor, Milwaukee featherweight. Sangor was declared the victor on a technical knockout, where as Taylor claimed he was fouled. Before a decision was reached there was a delay of at least five minutes, while Taylor, stretched on the floor of the ring, was awaiting the verdict of the commissioners, physicians and judges. The decision resulted in a heated controversy that still is raging in some spots.

The third monster sports arena to be erected in Chicago since Tex Rickard stirred up the populace with his Dempsey-Tunney fight last September has gone the way of the others—the building forgot to order the bricks.

The latest story connected Rickard in this associate, George Getz, in the promotion of the Dempsey-Tunney battle as builders of the latest arena fiasco, says there is nothing to it.

Jack Hennessy, promoter of six day bike races and wrestling matches, once declared the idea of building a giant sports palace on Chicago's west side for another building which never was erected.

There is a fortune for any heavy and his associate, George Getz, in the ship without folding up if he is lucky enough to get into one of the perennial elimination tournaments. Witness the case of Johnny Risko, the plodding hitter boy of Cleveland.

Just three years ago Risko fought Gene Tunney in Cleveland receiving $3,000 and a good pasting. The other night he grabbed $31,000 for slamming Jack Sharkey around.

If Risko is lucky enough to fight Tunney again, this time for the championship, he will receive more than fifty times as much money as he got for his first match with the present world heavyweight title holder.

JIMMY QUINN WINS AND LOSES BOUTS

JIMMY QUINN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

SOMERVILLE, Mass. March 29.—Jimmy Quinn, Norwich Conn., featherweight, won and lost by decisions here tonight on the Somerville Elks amateur boxing card. Both were three round decisions.

In his first start he disposed of Phil Driscoll of Everett, Mass., by a fairly safe margin. The Connecticut boy showed fine boxing and some near punching in this bout.

His final appearance was against Charles Mingo, of Boston who had drawn a bye for previous battles on the evening. The Hub lad won the decision but it was unpopular with the crowd and was roundly booed. The three rounds that Quinn had done gave the Boston boy an advantage.

The Norwich boy made a fine impression here and will probably be back again in the near future.

'BOUT SPORTS

Al Koziol, another of Norwich's favorite sons, ventures forth tonight to Providence for his first ring battle in nearly a month. Al has been laid up with bum hands and only this week was pronounced fit for warfare again by his trainer, Barney Keenan.

It is not Al's first battle in Providence, by any means, for that was where he won the Rhode Island lightweight crown just before injuring his hands. To take this title he knocked out four men in the one evening. He was then slated for the New England tourney at Boston but his tough luck ruled different.

Jimmy Quinn, the popular local featherweight, had a busy time at Somerville last night. After going through three fast rounds in his first fight and winning he was forced to meet in his second start, a boy who had been resting all evening, and he lost a decision but from reports, it was by no means a wide one.

What it takes to make a man pipe-happy, P.A. has!

TAKE a piece of paper and write down all the things you like in a smoke. Then buy a tidy red tin of P.A. and check the tobacco against your list. Open the package and release that tantalizing P.A. fragrance. Load up and light up. One thrill now follows another. You're ready to believe all the fine things you've heard about P.A.

Cool as a jury-foreman, rising to speak. Sweet as his words: "Not guilty." Mild as your interest in a civil suit. Mild and mellow, but with that rich, satisfying tobacco-body that only the world's most popular brand can offer. You can't seem to get enough of tobacco like this!

The proof of the puffing is in a pipe packed with P.A. Go get some now and see what a real companion your pipe can be when you put it on the right ration. Just around the corner is a store where they hand out pipe-joy in tidy red tins. Your cue-to-contentment is to get around there now.

TWO full ounces of genuine smoke-joy in every tidy red tin.

COLD AND DAMPNESS HINDERS WORK OF STATE CHAMPIONSHIP N. F. A. TEAM

LLOYD JARVIS

JOHNNY GREENE

The cold and dampness of the past few days is giving Coach Earle E. Brigham but little chance to size up the squad of his state champions baseball team at the Academy. Workouts have been held for the past four days but none of them have been of a satisfactory nature.

For the most part, the sessions have been filled with light work for lettermen while the "rookies" have engaged in short practice tilts.

There is now little prospect of getting any real start before Monday when suits are also expected to be doled out.

Smaller Squad

The squad this year is much smaller than that for the initial turnout in 1927, and when it is considered that more positions are open this spring, this fact stands out as unique.

The first call last year brought something like 120 out to Coach Brigham while the best that has been on a single day so far this year is about 40. Of course, the season opens a week later this year and this coupled with the inclement weather might be given as an excuse.

While their numbers are not large still those that have reported seem to have all kinds of enthusiasm.

There are eight boys available this year who have previously earned baseball letters, seven last year and one in 1926. Capt. Mace Goldblatt, Lloyd Jarvis, Johnny Greene, Eddie Hamil, Chubby Gibbs, Billy Tirrell, Jack Marks and Les Pingree are these players and, of course, upon them falls the burden of those killed off by graduation.

The Academy needs a brand new infield, a good reserve pitcher and two outfielders. That sounds like some job for Coach Brigham, and it is.

Strong in Pitchers

For pitchers there are the two stalworts, Lloyd Jarvis and Johnny Greene, veterans of three years, who need no introduction to Academy followers or in fact, any follower of high school athletics in southern New England. Lloyd, south paw and Johnny, righthander, are expected to help the champs through with a lot of fine pitching this year, as they have always done. The rest of the flinging corps will be of newcomers, with "Fat" Mish, brother of Al, last year's right fielder and Boots Greene, Johnny's brother, probably the best known. Along with these there are Louis Greene, and Butsy Weisgraber, track star, and there may be more although they have not shown as yet. The latter, Greene and Mish, are southpaws while Bootsy and Weisgraber toss them from the right side.

Capt. Mace Goldblatt will probably do all the mask work this year. Mace looks for a big year both for himself and his club. Joe Sadinsky, who was out last year and two Taftville youngsters, Popin and Fontaine, the latter a member of the '27 team, also intend to make a bid for that reserve job which Pete Labenski ably held last year.

For first basemen there are Arico from Greeneville grammar school and Chet Berghinzo. Both of these boys played in the Industrial league last summer and held their own at all times. Billy Tirrell and Les Pingree, last year's first basemen are expected to go to the outfield for this campaign.

Hamil After Second

Second base finds Shorty Hamil, heretofore a gardener Anso Tombari and Buckley as contenders for the post. Hamil has been a letterman for three years now but never a regular, his size hurting his chances quite a bit. However, this year he looks for his big chance to play in every game although Tombari, carried all through last season and who played in the Dusty league, too, should give him a battle.

Chubby Gibbs, who last year did some nice work for the team, is the chief shortstop candidate to succeed Steffy Cimikoski, while Buck LaCroix, all-round athlete, is out to fill Ray Yerrington's job at third. Jack Marks may give either a battle should he decide not to go out for the outfield.

Intensive Work Next Week

Of course, the real drills next week may bring out more material and with it some "find" but at this early date it is how it stands up at the Academy where almost the entire student body has a strong idea that the state title is to remain for at least one more season.

The practice Thursday was of a very light nature because of the dampness and the subsequent danger of "sore arms."

GAMMAS WIN OVER SIGMAS BY SCORE OF 26 TO 20

The Gamma club of the Greek Orthodox church won a fast game from the Sigma club of Fitchville by the score of 26 to 20 Thursday night at the Y gym. The Gammas led all the way, except in the third quarter, when Fitchville staged a rally and tied the score 12 to 12 but the Gammas pulled themselves together and, by excellent teamwork, took the lead and held it. Economos was high scorer for the winner with 10 points closely followed by Angelos with 8 points.

LOTT AND DOEG GO INTO SO. ATLANTIC SEMI-FINALS

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 26—(AP)—Two ranking American stars and two champions bowled over the quarter final opponents in easy fashion here today to enter the semi-final round of the South Atlantic Tennis tournament.

Johnny Doeg, Stanford university, beat Allen Behr, New York 6-4, 6-2, and thereby won the right to meet Tamio Abe, Japanese champion who today defeated Malon Courts of Atlanta 6-1, 6-2.

George Lott, Chicago star eliminated Lawrence Rice of Newton Center, Mass., 6-2, 6-1, and will have as his opponent for tomorrows round Frank X. Shields, New York, National junior champion, who put out Bryan Grant, Atlanta southern champion, 6-1, 6-0.

Doeg, Lott and Shields were members of the squad which participated here last week in test play to determine a team to represent America in the forthcoming Davis cup zone play in Mexico.

LOMSKI FAVORED OVER SEKYRA TONIGHT

NEW YORK, March 29—(AP)—Two of the youngest and most colorful of the light heavyweights—Leo Lomski, the Aberdeen Assassin, and Joe Sekyra, soda-jerker from Dayton—will battle ten rounds in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night for the right to a title match with Tommy Loughran.

Once before the rugged pole from the land of the Big Pines in Washington unleashed his winging right hand on the champion. Twice in the first round, Lomski smote Tommy on the chin and floored him for counts of nine. The cagey Loughran got up each time, however, outboxing and outthinking the challenger to win the following fourteen rounds and retain the title.

Lomski More Experienced

Tomorrow night experience will vie with Lomski and bettors have made him an 8 to 5 favorite. Sekyra, barely 21, has been fighting little over a year. Lomski is a veteran of 24 with 75 ring engagements behind him. Both came east for the first time last winter and rapidly disposed of the local crop of light heavies.

The training routine of the youngsters ended today with the light workouts. Sekyra's weight, a pound or two over the 175 pound limit, worried his handlers. The big blond scrapper is growing so fast that the heavyweight division probably will find him battling for a foothold within a year. Lomski, a natural light heavyweight, found little difficulty in getting down to the class poundage.

Winner to Meet Loughran

In the parlance of the ring, the match looks like a "natural" and a near-capacity house is expected at the Garden. Sekyra is the faster of the two, a clever boxer and smart puncher with a right hand uppercut of mean intent. Lomski is the "careless" type of fighter, weaving and wandering about the ring, but posed of a stunning right hand he can throw from any angle. The winner has been guaranteed a championship match with Loughran in one of the early outdoor shows. The titleholder already has signed for the bout.

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, March 29—(AP)—The airy note of jocularity that earlier accompanied the repeated training defeats of the Yankees has changed to a rumbling chord of alarm.

By being on the floor nine times in their first ten starts the world's champions have broken the record for absorbing punishment established by Luis Angel Firpo. Luis had strength enough left after the seventh knockdown to punch Jack Dempsey out of the ring. The Yankees may rally but they must display remarkable recuperative powers to get as much as an even break in their exhibition schedule.

Of course, the situation is quite simple. The Yankees haven't been hitting and when the hired men of Huggins fail to connect with their usual robust abandon they do not win ball games.

Babe Ruth has been hitting mere singles and doubles while his partner in home run crime, Lou Gehrig, has been hitting the air. The old axiom that "as Ruth goes so goes the team" continued to hold good. No season for the Yankees, exhibition or otherwise, is complete until the Babe has rammed his first ball out of the park. The moment he starts setting the clouting pace things may change. For that reason the alarm over the present Yankee situation may not last very long.

Athletics Not Startling, Either

So far as spring performances go the Athletics, generally picked to give the Yankees the most opposition, have not startled the observers. In fact, the general conviction has drifted north that the Yankees can slump quite a bit and still have enough left to lead this year's parade when it is considered that they had a 19 game margin over the second place Mackmen at the close of the 1927 campaign.

The Ruppert rifles happen to be riding the top wave at a time when the rest of the American league outfits are somewhat below standard. At least there is no such balanced strength as the National league boasts. It would be a shock to the dopesters if more than three clubs figure in the American league race from start to finish but in the National it will be a five and possibly a six club scramble. The Yankees heaped mutilation on the senior circuit last fall by trouncing the groggy Pirates but it would be interesting to see how the maulers of Manhattan fared in a hand-to-hand struggle with such a group of foes at the Cardinals, Giants, Reds, Braves, Pirates and Cubs over a 154 game stretch.

Yanks-A's High on Payroll

The Yankees and Athletics rank one-two in the payroll league regardless of how they finish in any other contest.

The season's salary checks for these two expensive casts probably will aggregate close to $600,000, an amount that very likely is as much as the payrolls of the other six American league clubs combined.

Last year the Athletics ran the Yankees a close race for the distinction of paying their performers the most money. Each was estimated the most money. Each was estimated to have a payroll in the neighborhood of $250,000 with substantial increases right down the line this year to such stars as Gehrig, Lazzeri, Hoyt, Koenig, Combs, Moore and Pipgras, the Yankees probably are well out in front.

PAULINO COST FRENCH BACKERS MANY FRANCS

PARIS, March 29—(AP)—Paulino Uzcudun's defeat on points at the hands of the giant Negro George Godfrey struck consternation in the hearts and created desperate financial situations in the pockets of his friends in Paris and Marseilles.

The Basque heavyweight wired a few days before the fight: "Bet on me. Sure winner." Most of the Americans in Paris were there to accommodate Paulino's friends and they cleaned up.

"Don't be downhearted," Paulino cabled after the battle. "We fight him in the east next time and win. You will get your money back."

Interscholastic Sports

Bousquet of Tourtellotte should have been included in the list of honorable mentions Thursday in the Bulletin's All-Eastern Connecticut scholastic basketball team.

Bulkeley in New London plans a busy track season, having scheduled meets with Warren Harding, South Manchester, Stonington and the Academy and having others pending.

Chapman Tech is holding interclass baseball games as a preliminary to the opening of her regular season a week from tomorrow, against Deep River.

Cold weather, or rather the chill winds and dampness, is holding up baseball practice for high schools.

Wilby high, miserable in the Yale tourney, made a good start, in the Glens Falls meet last night by winning the opening game.

The three Hartford high schools have been offered the use of the Morgan G. Bulkeley stadium for their major diamond contests. The Academy meets two of these teams here at the campus.

The field at the Academy is not in good shape at present. The infield is very raggy but work over the week end ought to bring it around.

Simple Remedy For Bad Stomach Gives Swift Relief

If you are a victim of Stomach Troubles — Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this simple advice.

Don't take strong medicines, artificial digestants or pull down your system with starvation diets. For within reason most folks may eat what they like—if they will keep their stomach free from souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion.

And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with three or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless, inexpensive, and handy tablet form of Magnesia that promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A week's trial of Bisurated Magnesia tablets, which any good druggist can supply at trifling cost, should quickly convince you that 90 per cent of ordinary stomach distress is absolutely unnecessary. Be sure to get Bisurated Magnesia Tablets!

Did you, sighed, dearly beloved [illegible] you raised a crop of [illegible] to feed your pigs you were wasting three-quarters of it?

From a [illegible] from the chemist [illegible] 40 pounds of laundry [illegible] pounds of corn sugar [illegible] now widely used in baking, [illegible] preserves, etc. Also 15 [illegible] of starch. That same bushel [illegible] more or less cooking [illegible] acetone, butyl [illegible] solvents [illegible] "importance" [illegible] rapidly [illegible]

Now, this may be as new to you as it [illegible] would know [illegible] "acetone" or [illegible] chemicals [illegible] to me in a tea- [illegible] what to do [illegible] a farm full of them [illegible] intention of dis- [illegible] statements about [illegible] reason that I [illegible] them [illegible] three factors [illegible] farmer either [illegible] He certainly [illegible] crop [illegible] It may be that, in the wild [illegible] are treated as [illegible] farmer has for [illegible] with sedulous [illegible] winter ra- [illegible] during more [illegible] them in stead- [illegible] to furnish not [illegible] profitable succu- [illegible] Even the [illegible] or trample [illegible] manure heap [illegible] are returned [illegible] its reduced fer-

Similarly, with regard to the "waste" [illegible] of the grain itself. I [illegible] one word of Dr. Hale's [illegible] that a bushel of shelled [illegible] such and such an [illegible] and "acetone" [illegible] that certain factories [illegible] these products [illegible]

But that same bushel, fed in the [illegible] way to animals, will make [illegible] such amounts of beef [illegible] for the kitchens and [illegible] And it isn't [illegible] are about ten [illegible] and cookstoves to [illegible] "acetone" factories [illegible] keeping folks from [illegible] more elementally es- [illegible] of film factories [illegible] butyl al- [illegible] and acetone.

Moreover, there comes very promi- [illegible] to the front in every product [illegible] farmer's mind the fact that he can [illegible] the pork or beef his corn [illegible] to the neighboring butch- [illegible] and where is he go- [illegible] of it perhaps at a high- [illegible] be made into any or all [illegible] chemical products [illegible] "furfural" or "dextrose" or "acetone" factories within [illegible] distance. His corn and stalks [illegible] be worth more made [illegible] than into pork and [illegible] and [illegible] that now is he going to [illegible] the extra price? [illegible] This may be a rudd question, but it's one that has to be considered.

Some years ago certain chemists [illegible] that all forms of agricultural food-production were crude and unnecessary. It was possible, they declared, to obtain direct from the soil and the air, by chemical means, all the food elements needed to sustain life. Somehow the idea didn't materialize. Whether the cost of the proposed chemical foods was prohibitive or whether the natural conservatism of the diner made him prefer beef from a real steer to synthetic beef compounded from an apothecary's shelf and water from a natural spring rather than from a vacuum chamber where H_2O was being synthetized out of the atmosphere,—whatever the reason, the theory failed to make practical headway.

It may be that, many years hence, Dr. Hale's idea about conserving the wastes of farming may be transmitted into action, and farmers may come, as a regular thing, to raise crops as raw materials for chemical factories, rather than for direct human and animal foods. But that time is not yet.

One would be narrow-minded and pig-headed to say bluntly that it will never come. Twenty-five years ago, nobody anticipated airplanes or the radio. Both were regarded as mere idle dreams of theoretic and therefore negligible visionaries. What the future may bring forth, even in farming methods, is still locked in the future's own bosom. I'm not inclined to make fun of Dr. Hale's dream of a future agriculture which shall raise crops, not directly for food alone, but even more largely as raw materials for factory supplies. Stranger things have happened.

Unfortunately, however, this particular thing hasn't actually happened, yet. Till it does, we common farmseeds will have to keep on our old-fashioned and admittedly wasteful ways. Until some one will give us more for our corn to make starch and dextrose and acetone out of than the butcher will give us for the meat that has been made out of it we shall simply have to put it into the manger and the feed trough.

The whole matter of waste is one which deserves more attention than is ordinarily being given to it. Most men and animals seem essentially wasteful. Even nature herself is a big wastrel. Consider her method of distributing seeds. She leaves them for the wind to blow where it listeth, or the birds to drop, hit or miss. Yet she manages to cover her hills with forests and her plains with herbage,—and your garden with an apparently inexhaustible supply of weeds. Tennyson noted that "of 50 seeds she often brings but one to bear." The farmer who found but one of 50 of his seed-corn kernels sprouting would think he had grounds of complaint against his seedsman. Yet he wastes much really good seed by faulty preparation, by inadequatte fretilization, by insufficient tillage, by haste in harvesting. He is not always nor often to blame for these wastes. It would cost more to save them than the savings would bring in market. And dollars are not so plentiful with him that he can afford to throw them away in saving pennies.

The same waste is to be found in almost all forms of industry. It is said that the best steam engine actually utilizes less than a quarter of the potential energy contained in every ton of coal burned under its boiler. The rest flies up the stack or is spent overcoming friction. The most scientifically devised and best insulated heater gives out to shivering humanity less than a quarter of the heat which its fuel actually produces. The rest goes up chimney and into space. Even our own digestive system utilize for body-building and energy-making vastly less of our carefully selected and prepared food than they eliminate as waste.

The economist holds up hands in horror at the waste he sees in practically every direction. The chemist busies himself with his retorts and test tubes seeking uses for orts and lees. Let us give them both admiration rather than derogation.

At the same time we can't in common honesty ignore the manifest and self-evident fact that waste seems to be virtually universal in all natural processes.

According to one philosopher, he is a true benefactor of the race who makes even one blade of grass grow where none grew before.

Yet you and I annually hoe up hundreds of blades of grass in our gardens to help one tomato-plant grow where the grass wants to. Are we, then, malefactors? Hardly.

You see, in this matter of waste, as in most other practical details of life, "it all depends," depends upon what we want to do, what we have time to do, and what we can do.

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

Little of any exceptional interest happened 75 years ago this week. At a common council meeting the committee on fire department was instructed to make plans to ring the fire bells in case of fires.

Interesting extracts from the files of The Norwich Evening Courier are taken in part as follows:

Tuesday, March 22, 1853—At a meeting of the court of common council held at their hall Monday evening, March 21, 1853, the committee on fire department was directed to make arrangements for the ringing of fire bells in case of fire, and the application of J. S. Hickey for permission to use a room in the attic of the town hall as an armory for a new military company was, on motion, referred to the committee on public grounds.

A new postoffice has been established at Mount Carmel, New Haven county, and Lucius Ives appointed postmaster; also one at Black Rock, Fairfield county, and Alanson Allen appointed postmaster.

The published list of awards made by the juries of the royal commissioners at the world's fair must have been incomplete. Within a few days Mr. James Cook of this city has received official notice that a medal was awarded him on account of various specimens of woolen fabrics, both fancy and plain, manufactured by him at Burlington, Vt., and awaits his order.

Thursday, March 24, 1853—President Pierce has been presented with a cask of white wine made in California. It is of the vintage of 1846. The design was to have it drunk on the occasion of the president's inauguration, but it did not arrive in season.

An infant son some four or five weeks old was smothered to death in the arms of its mother, by being bundled too closely in its manifold wrappers, one night last week in going from Portland, Me., to a neighboring town.

Under the new regime in France, beards are about to vanish from the human face divine.

Saturday, March 26, 1853—Private letters received in New York confirm the telegraphic accounts of the discovery of gold in the Cherokee nation; 40 persons are already at the mines, and were realizing about a quarter of an ounce of gold per diem.

Edward Thompson, for many years one of the most extensive and successful East India merchants of Philadelphia, died on Sunday, aged 82.

A dandy is generally supposed to be about one-fourth walking-stick, and the rest—kid gloves.

We chronicled, the other day, the advent and slaughter of a brave, fat ox at the market of Mr. Freeman Chapman. We should have said the market of Messrs. Lee & Lathrop, successors to Mr. Chapman.

Wild geese flew over here Saturday and Sunday, going north. The mercury was 74 degrees at one time Sunday afternoon. Frogs have been lively since Saturday night.

Rev. John H. Knott of Chaplin will occupy the pulpit at the Exeter Liberty Hill church Sunday next, unless traveling is so bad as to make the road impassable from Lebanon Center to this place. There are some sections that appear to be settled and others that are bad.

Mrs. Annie L. Harvey was a week end guest of her daughter, Mrs. J. Earl James, and family in Willimantic.

Everett C. Fayson is carrying the milk with a two-horse team during the bad traveling.

Here is the wisest House-Owner

He knows the need for two things to preserve his home

1. A skilled painter
2. Pure lead paint

HERE you have the perfect partnership — a combination that assures complete protection for your house against the weather.

Get your skilled painter first. He is the man who did the beautiful jobs up the street. He relies on pure lead paint.

Pure lead paint—the kind obtained with pure white-lead such as Dutch Boy—has been used for generations by the highest type of painter. It gives a tough, durable, weatherproof film — elastic enough not to crack and scale. As the skilled painter will tell you, your paint dollars go further when you use Dutch Boy white-lead.

This trademark, a guarantee of high quality, is on all Dutch Boy products—white-lead, red-lead, linseed oil, flatting oil, solder and babbitt metal. It is the trademark of National Lead Company which manufactures lead products for the many uses for which lead is especially fitted in art, industry and daily life.

Specially mixed for each job, Dutch Boy white-lead in either heavy paste or soft paste form is sold by leading paint dealers. Mixed with linseed oil, it produces a superior gloss paint for exterior use. Mixed with Dutch Boy flatting oil, it makes a thoroughly washable flat paint for interiors. In either case, the paint can be colored to exactly the tint or shade you desire.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Nosey the Coati.

'Tis curious, you must admit,
How sometimes names exactly fit.
Scrapper the Kingbird.

When Scrapper the Kingbird said that he was thinking of Nosey the Coati, there is no doubt about it. The long nose and the insatiable curiosity of this queer fellow who lives down in the Tropics makes "Nosey" a most fitting name. But though Nosey may be full of curiosity his cousin of the North, Bobby Coon, has quiet as much, at times anyway. Scrapper had just told him that Nosey was much more sociable than he.

"Do you mean," asked Bobby, "that he likes company?"

"That's it, Bobby," replied Scrapper. "I have seen a dozen Coatis in one tree and such a greedy crowd! My goodness, such a greedy crowd!"

"Huh!" said Bobby. "I don't believe they are any more greedy than a lot of Kingbirds would be." You see, Bobby was rising to the defense of his family.

"Oh, yes they are!" said another voice, and there was Little Sunshine the Yellow Warbler.

"What do you know about it" demanded Bobby.

"I've seen them," replied Sunshine.

Bobby blinked for a moment. "Do you mean to tell me," he said, "that you have been way down in that far-away country where Scrapper goes in winter?"

"Certainly," replied Sunshine, "I spent my winters down there, too Scrapper and I have met down there often. Haven't we, Scrapper?"

"We certainly have," replied Scrapper. "I've just been telling Bobby a few things about his cousin Nosey the Coati. Did you ever in your life see such a restless fellow as Nosey is."

"I never did," replied Sunshine. "He isn't still a minute, except when he is asleep. He's poking that long nose of his into this and that and the other thing. And did you ever see such greed. When a party of Coatis get up in a fruit tree there is going to be mighty little fruit left for anybody else."

"Huh!" said Bobby Coon.

"Did you ever see Nosey get out of a tree when he is frightened" continued Sunshine.

Scrapper the Kingbird nodded. "Yes," said he, "I saw a whole party surprised up in a tree by a man once. They didn't stop to climb down. No, sir, they didn't stop to climb down."

"What did they do?" demanded Bobby Coon.

"They just let go and dropped," replied Scrapper. "Yet, sir, that's what they did—let go and dropped. They came down, thump, thump, hump! It was funny. It was really funny. And not one of them seemed to be hurt. They scampered off so fast that they had all disappeared before you could wink your eye."

"Then I take it that my cousin Nosey travels around in the daytime," ventured Bobby.

"He travels around whenever he takes the notion," retorted Scrapper "He's a great traveler at night, yet I've seen him many times in the daytime. Somehow I always like to see him because he carries that long tail of his so straight up in the air. It looks like a long handle to pick him up by. That's what it looks like—a long handle to pick him up by. But, at that, his tail isn't as long as that of that other member of the family—Kinky the Kinkajou."

"He's poking that long nose of his in to this and that and the other thing"

WESTMINSTER

Rev. Edward P. Ayer, chaplain of the state senate, conducted the morning service at the Congregational church Sunday. There was a large attendance. Mr. Ayer, who is totally blind, has gained many friends in Westminster through his cheerful disposition and his earnest endeavor to implant true Christianity in his hearers.

Fred Green is ill, as are several of the children in the family.

Mrs. Allen Moody of Restawhile, who has been ill, is much improved.

Miss Julia Green, employed in Lawton mills, Plainfield, is at home helping to care for members of her family who are ill.

Charles Brenn, who lived just over the Scotland line and who died Friday after four days' illness with pneumonia, had many friends in Westminster who were shocked to hear of his sudden death.

Ben Davis was a Norwich visitor Saturday.

Thomas and Andrew Colburn are helping Arthur Bennett this week. Mr Bennett is short of men, as several are on sick leave.

Mrs. Agnes Wood, while walking on the new state road Friday, accompanied by her dog, was a victim of another of those most contemptible of all nuisances, the hit-and-run drivers. The speeding car struck and killed the dog and kept on its way. Mrs. Wood was unable to get the car's number. The accident occurred over half a mile from the nearest house.

The largest flock of wild geese ever seen in this locality went over about 9 o'clock Saturday morning. Some counted 20, others more. There was another smaller flock later in the day.

Flocks of summer birds have been arriving during the past week. About every kind seems to be here except the swallows. They are the best criterion of settled weather and usually arrive about April 15.

Howard Rix, one of the few up this way to stay in the pig-raising business, has a fine lot of spring pigs.

Howard Rix has sold his flock of sheep to a man near Hartford.

HEAVY PROFIT-TAKING WAS CAUSE OF RECESSIONS IN LEADING STOCKS

NEW YORK, March 29—(AP)—Extreme confused price movements characterized today's stock market, with total sales crossing the 3,000,000 share mark for the fifteenth consecutive full session. Heavy profit taking, induced in part by the stiffening of money rates and fears of a large increase in brokers' loans, caused recessions of 1 to 3 points in a number of recent leaders. A few specialties for which there is a thin market dropped 5 to 13 points. Bullish operations were nevertheless continued in a select assortment of public utility, copper, tobacco and merchandising issues, the gains in which ran from 1 to nearly 6 points.

The day's sales totaled 3,765,400 shares as contrasted with 4,079,600 yesterday and 4,762,400 in Tuesday's record-breaking session.

The weekly federal reserve report of brokers' loans, issued after the close of the market, showed an increase of $46,663,000, bringing the total to $3,825,790,000. This compares with a total of $3,803,120,000 on March 30, 1927, but is still below the record of $3,819,385,000 in the week ended February 8.

A further stiffening in time money and bankers' acceptance rates today was offset by the statement of Secretary Mellon that recent gold exports were not necessarily disturbing to the credit situation. Call money held steady at 4 3-4 per cent all day. No change was announced in the 4 per cent rediscount rate of the New York Federal Reserve bank.

Operators for the rise were encouraged by Secretary Hoover's optimistic forecast of business conditions. The day's dividend news was mixed in character, resumption of payments on Granby Copper being offset by the omission of the dividend on Barnsdall corporation common.

Consolidated Gas was one of the most spectacular features of the session, rising 5 5-8 points to a new high record at 146 7-8. Brooklyn Edison jumped 8 points but lost half its gain, and Brooklyn Union Gas advanced 2 1-2 points.

New peak prices for the year or longer were registered by a wide assortment of industrials, including Archer Daniels Midland, Best & Co., Bucyrus Erie preferred, Butterick Publishing, Dunhill International, General Electric, Kelvinator, Mallinson, Park & Tilford, and Simmons company.

Revival of bullish activity in Liquid Carbonic was based on reports that first quarter earnings were running far above those of the corresponding period last year. Rubber shares were active and strong in anticipation of a lightening of restrictions on British exports of the commodity.

Radio broke from an early high of 173 1-2 to 167 1-2 and then rallied to 170 1-2, up 3 points net. General Motors closed 1 1-4 points lower at 185 after fluctuating between 182 1-4 and 186. U. S. Steel common, American Smelting, Montgomery Ward, Nash Motors and several other recent favorites declined a point or more. Rails displayed a fairly firm undertone with Union Pacific, Northern Pacific and Great Northern preferred reaching new high ground.

A further advance of 1 to nearly 2 cents a bushel in grain prices, based on reports of unfavorable weather, was the only development of consequence in the commodity market. Carton coffee and sugar showed little change.

Except for a jump of 10 points in Portuguese Escudos to 4.35 cents, fluctuations in the foreign exchange market were extremely narrow and irregular. Sterling Cables were quoted around $4.88 3-16.

SUES TO RECOVER MONEY HE ADVANCED

Suit against Ida Getzoff of Colchester for $3,000 damages has been brought in the superior court by Samuel Levine of Colchester. It is alleged in the complaint that the plaintiff and defendant, with Jacob Boratz agreed on Dec. 3, 1926 to purchase for $4,300 a certain piece of real estate owned by Nathan Manchik, each of the three to be responsible for one-third of the purchase price. Levine asserts that he advanced the one-third share for Mrs Getzoff, amounting to $1,433.33 and has since acquired the interest of Jacob Boratz.

He alleges that the defendant has never paid for her one-third nor for certain money which he alleges he has advanced besides. This consists of $2,053.60 for taxes and miscellaneous expenses, and he claims there is now due him one third of this sum, to wit: $634.53 less one-third of the income received from the property amounting to $400, to wit, $133.33, which leaves a balance of $551.20 due, besides the sum towards the purchase price.

SUES SISTERS-IN-LAW FOR $500,000 DAMAGES

Two suits, each for $250,000 damages, against her two sisters-in-law Theodora and Virginia Palmer of New London, have been brought in the superior court at Bridgeport by Audrey A. Palmer of Stamford, widow of Charles T Palmer, who was a brother of the defendants and son of the late Mrs. Louisa T. Palmer.

The plaintiff in the present suits mentioned has already lost in an appeal from probate about a year ago, when the two sisters were executors of their mother's estate.

Practically the same facts are set out in the two new suits. Audrey Palmer claims that she married Charles T. Palmer April 25, 1918, and that he died in San Francisco July 22, 1922, intestate, although, according to the complaint, he had agreed to leave his entire estate to his widow in a will.

The plaintiff claims she discovered that under the Connecticut law she was entitled to only the widow's share of the estate. The complaint set forth that the amount was but about one-half of the estate the remainder of the half of the estate the remainder of the mother of Charles T Palmer.

The widow next sets out in her complaint that she had an understanding with Louisa T Palmer that if she took no legal steps to acquire what she claimed her husband agreed to leave her, the mother would, at the time of her death, leave her by will the remainder of Charles T. Palmer's estate.

The plaintiff set up that Louisa T. Palmer died in April 1925, but made no provision for the return of her son's estate to his widow.

The court is asked to decree that so much of the estate described in the papers that went to each defendant was in trust for the plaintiff, and so to be held; and also that the court order and decree that each of the defendants render a full account of all such property which she so holds in trust and the income therefrom, as well as such other relief that seems just and proper.

Items of Property

Audrey A. Palmer, in a schedule attached to the complaints, listed many items of property received from her husband's estate by Louisa T. Palmer, now deceased. MANY AMERICANS ARRIVE FOR NATIONAL STEEPLECHASE

LIVERPOOL, Eng., March 29—(AP)—Howard Bruce's Billy Barton, whether he wins or loses tomorrow, in the Historic Grand National Steeplechase, is responsible for bringing the largest number of enthusiastic Americans to Liverpool since the war days when the Doughboys swamed off submarine-defying transports into this old town.

The fact that Stephen Sanford's bright boy is one of the favorites and also that a record number of horses owned by Americans is entered for the world's greatest steeplechase has done much too in swelling the ranks of Americans who have crossed the Atlantic or have come from the continent eager to be on hand in the eve that Americans really make a killing.

Fire at Indian Neck burned three summer cottages at a loss placed at $20,000.

SHOW ACCIDENT RATE HIGH FOR MOTOR BUSSES

Passenger motor busses have a higher accident rate, according to the number in use, than any type of motor vehicle on Connecticut highways, reports to the state motor vehicle department show. During 1927 there were 629 busses in use and these vehicles were involved in 674 accidents, a rate of 108 per cent, with an average of almost two accidents a day and more than one accident for every bus.

This accident rate was more than three times that of the type of vehicle next most frequently involved in accidents, the taxicab. There were 1,812 taxicabs in use and 630, or 34.7 per cent, were in accidents during the year.

While the accident rate for busses in 1927 was an increase of about two per cent over the previous year, the drivers of these vehicles were able to show marked improvement by decreasing the number of collisions for which they were directly responsible. The "improvement record" of bus drivers, in fact, as it applied to responsibility for accidents, was better than that of drivers of any other type of vehicles. During the year they were able to cut the percentage of accidents for which they were held responsible from 46.8 per cent in 1926 to 42 per cent in 1927.

The number of miles operated annually by passenger busses is tremendous and must be considered when accident statistics are quoted. It is estimated that the mileage of busses in Connecticut in 1927 reached 16,000,000 miles or more. Few pleasure or business cars equal the mileage of busses, which are operated over fixed routes on regular daily schedules in all seasons. An average of from 25,000 to 50,000 miles annually is estimated for each bus.

Another point which may be cited in the favor of bus operations is that only seven persons were injured seriously in the 674 accidents in which busses were involved. However, the death rate was high, five being killed, none of whom were passengers in the busses.

Responsibility for 46 per cent of the accidents in which taxicabs were involved is laid to their drivers. This is about four per cent more than the percentage directly caused by busses, two per cent more than that for private passenger vehicles, but 2.6 per cent less than the responsibility percentage for commercial motor vehicles. Taxicabs are also estimated to operate more miles than most private cars, being in almost constant use through the year.

The department's records show that commercial motor vehicles are more frequently involved in accidents than private passenger cars, according to the number in use. During 1927, approximately 7.525, or 17.2 per cent of the 43,621 commercials in use were in accidents. The commercials of the drivers, were at fault in 49.6 per cent of these accidents. Of the 238,643 private passenger cars in use, 35,320, or 14.7 per cent were in accidents, and 44 per cent were found to be directly responsible for the accidents.

Motorcycles established an accident rate of 12.5 per cent, according to use, this being the lowest rate for any type of vehicle in frequent use. There were 2,264 registered during the year, and 422 were reported as in accidents. However, 196 of these were said to have caused the accidents, giving a responsibility rate of 46.5 per cent for this type of vehicle.

Taxicabs and commercial motor vehicles were the only types to show decreases in accident rates, according to the number of vehicles in use, during the year. The percentage for taxicabs dropped from 35.8 to 34.7 per cent and for commercials from 17.7 to 17.2 per cent. Increases for other types were as follows: Private passenger cars, from 13.8 to 14.7; busses or jitneys, 106 to 108 per cent; motorcycles, 9.9 to 12.5 per cent.

Bus drivers led all others in the "improvement records." Not only was the percentage of accidents for which they were directly responsible lower than that for any other group, but the percentage of improvement was greater. The records of the various groups for 1926 and 1927 were as follows: Bus drivers, 1926, 46.8 per cent, 1927, 42 per cent; private passenger, 1926, 44.2 per cent, 1927, 44 per cent; commercials,

Kuzma went to Golden street about 5:30 o'clock and carried a quantity of eggs in his hat. As fast as pedestrians appeared, Kuzma aimed the eggs at them, but none of the missles reached their mark Complaint was made to the police. Officer Ray found Kuzma on the street and arrested him. Kuzma has been arrested about eight times, since his residence in New London, principally on charges of intoxication.

Palace Theater.

"My Chocolate Gal" the three act musical comedy which is the stage attraction at the Palace theater today and tomorrow is drawing capacity houses at every performance. This company of 35 clean colored artists put on an unusually entertaining performance. Everything is new and original and Drake and Walker, the two famous stars are a whole show by themselves. The jazz band render the latest and snappiest of music and the creole chorus are all dancers of great ability.

The screen attraction is Esther Ralston in "Something Always Happens," a mystery farce melodrama. It has more thrills than you have ever experienced before. But there is a laugh in every thrill.

The production was based on an original story written especially for Miss Ralston by Frank Tuttle, who directed her in "Love and Learn" and "The Spotlight." Tuttle, former Yale dramatic writer and author of a number of one act successes, conceived more than one hundred adventurous situations, which give the star a great opportunity for satirical light comedy portrayal, for which she has become popular.

Breed Theater.

As "Black Mike" in Todd Browning's great crook melodrama, "Outside the Law" a Universal-Jewel Production which will be shown today and tomorrow at the Breed theater Lon Chaney brought forth the plaudits of the multitude and gasps of admiration from the critics a few years ago. Interest has been re-awakened in the marvelous dual role enacted by Chaney in this picture for he also played the part of a Chinaman with almost unbelievable fidelity. In response to a glowing public demand the producer has made new prints of "Outside the Law," inspired by the tremendous success of the film when shown in Pittsburgh a short time ago. Priscilla Dean is the star of this production. Chaney, in the featured role, is supported by Ralph Lewis, Wheeler Oakman, E. A. Warren, Stanley Goethals, Melbourne MacDowell and Wilton Taylor.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Oakland-Pontiac.

The recent completion of a third assembly line in the Pontiac Six factory several weeks before schedule has rendered possible a further increase in the record February production of Oakland and Pontiac Sixes, it is announced by Gordon Lefebvre, vice president in charge of operations for the Oakland Motor Car company.

By the end of February the company will have built more than 26,200 units the new production schedule representing the second increase found necessary this month The original February schedule called for 22,267 Oaklands and Pontiacs. Later this was raised to 25,000 and the early completion of third Pontiac Six assembly line at a cost of $250,000 has rendered possible the manufacture of 1,200 additional cars. The schedule increases were based upon signed orders received from Oakland-Pontiac dealers.

According to Mr. Lefebvre, the contractors erecting the $8,000,000 new Oakland car assembly building have promised that the structure will be ready for occupancy on March 24. The transfer of machinery and equipment from the present assembly building will require about one week and the new assembly building will be in operation about April 1st.

Besides this gigantic project, the Oakland Motor Car company also is doubling the size of its experimental engineering building in which is conducted the experimental work for both the Oakland and Pontiac Sixes. This addition to the present experimental engineering building will cost $350,000. It is of steel, brick and concrete and will be ready for occupancy on March 1, less than a month after construction was started.

Strand Theater.

One of the most talented dog stars before the camera today is Lightning Girl, known the world over as The Canine Marvel, plays an important role in "The Call of the Klondike," now showing at the Strand. What would you do if you were a young attractive and unprotected girl in a wild Alaskan town and you were beset by a sullen savage of a man who thought that his money made him all-powerful.? See how Dorothy Dwan works out this tense problem in this red-blooded romance of the snow country. Gaston Glass also plays a splendid art in this epic tale of danger and devotion.

The other feature "High and Handsome," "is a rip-roaring comedy drama, starring "Lefty" Flynn. The drama, the comedy, the human pathos as well as the thrills and the excitement in the life of a policeman who has as his beat the dangerous, tong-war infested district of San Francisco's Chinatown, form the basis of this clever story. A lovely little Irish romance with the delicacy of real Irish lace! A dynamic tale of destiny with a son of Erin as its hero, a sweet slip of a girl, a heavyweight champion and the greatest fight scene ever filmed.

Dodge Cars.

DETROIT, Mich., March 29.—(Special)—After over two years of intensive development work, Dodge Brothers, Inc., today officially announces the Standard Six line of passenger cars, priced from $875 to $970 and superior in speed and acceleration to any cars selling at $1,000 or less. In these new cars, it is claimed, exceptional riding comfort, economical performance and ability to travel at sustained high speeds have been combined with the sturdiness and dependability for which Dodge Brothers' motor cars have always been so well known.

The new cars are displayed in the salesroom of the Jordan Auto Co., local Dodge Brothers dealer at 410 Main street. The factory is now building the Standard Six in four body types, the coupe, sedan, deluxe sedan and cabriolet, finished in a number of different attractive color combinations. Production of the new sixes is now 1,000 per day and Dodge Brothers schedules call for total output of all types exceeding 1,650 per day, the largest production schedule in Dodge Brothers history.

The sweeping graceful lines of the Standard Six give the impression of cars selling at much higher prices. Although the overall height is low adequate headroom is provided. High seat backs and wide cushions, both tilted at the correct angle, insure the comfort of the passengers.

Diocesan Bureau of Social Service.

Does this bureau deserve our assistance? Does any worthy charity? If it is audable to help others in need, we should remember that where we have an organization with trained workers, whose (organization's) work is not only to give relief but to find out what were the causes which brought on the need of giving aid, and then to apply apt remedies which will prevent that happening again — that this organization deserves our support. Our individual efforts, however commendable they may be, cannot achieve the results which an organized society can. We should therefore help an ganization fitted for aiding others and teaching them how to help themselves —a work which requires trained workers and competent supervision. This bureau has this. It is recognized by state authorities. It is worthy of our support. Buy a ticket.

REPORTS AT LEAST TWO SITES SUITABLE FOR AVIATION FIELD DEVELOPMENT

Two leaders in aviation in the state who were in this city Thursday, Aviation Commissioner Clarence M. Knox of Hartford and H. W. Generous, also of that city, and were speakers at the Lions club meeting, were taken on a tour in the afternoon to see possible sites for aviation fields. Secretary Walter H. Pilcher of the chamber of commerce, and members of the aviation committee of which James L. Case is chairman, took the two Hartford men to see four different places and at the conclusion of the trip, the Hartford men said they could assure the Norwich men that there were at least two of the sites which they had here which were suitable for development for aviation fields. Mr. Knox is to write a letter to the Norwich chamber of commerce giving his opinion upon each of the sites he was shown.

The four places that were visited were the following; a site back of the Cobb farm on the Gallows hill road, the level tract at Preston Plains near the Norwich-Westerly highway, property at Montville on the C. A. Gager farm on the Norwich-Montville highway, and property adjoining the county fair grounds along the road southerly from Backus corner.

Mr. Knox did not indicate Thursday which of these he would pick as the most likely for aviation purposes, but he is expected to discuss the advantages and disadvantages of each site when he writes his promised letter.

LIONS FAVOR AVIATION FIELD FOR NORWICH

Aviation Commissioner Clarence M. Knox and H. W. Generous, both of Hartford, were guests at the weekly meeting of the Lion's club Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel. William R. Frisbie, president of the club, presided and Edward A. Rich was the song leader. The meeting opened with the singing of America and E. A. Carpenter offered grace. Louis M. Crandall, chairman of the entertainment committee, provided a splendid program. Walter H. Pilcher, secretary of the local chamber of commerce, spoke briefly in connection with the Babson industrial report.

Secretary Pilcher said that an industrial survey is indeed of great value as a tool for the benefit of the improvement of the city of Norwich. He also said that the survey made by the Babson organization is not complete, as it does not enumerate the many good things that can be said about Norwich which possesses assets of which our people can be justly proud. He also said for the benefit of those who fear that $1,500 has been spent, only to cite the things that seemed detrimental to the city that the listeners can trust to the president and board of directors of the chamber of commerce and the citizens' committee who are interested in the survey that no money will be paid to the Babson organization unless the citizens of Norwich receive full value for the money expended.

James L. Case introduced Commissioner Knox to the Lions. In presenting the commissioner, Mr. Case called attention to the amount of work and interest that the chamber of commerce have so far taken in order that the citizens of Norwich may be fired with enthusiasm to take up this item, which is of such commercial value to the city of Norwich.

He pointed out that last year at a dinner of the chamber of commerce, Major Longnecker pointed out the value of an aviation field to a city. Mr. Case also said that there was now a site available which is over 4,000 feet long and which Commissioner Knox visited and examined today, together with three other sites.

Commissioner Knox spoke on aviation transportation. He said that if there is real enthusiasm in regard to aviation locally, Norwich can have an aviation field within a year. He said that he disagreed with some of the experts who claim that only a few cities will be favored with aviation transportation, but to the contrary, he was of the opinion that the development of useful aviation must come through a large number of small airports so as to bring the center of industry within the reach of the most number of people. Therefore, any city which starts in early in the procuring of an airport will certainly render a great benefit for the future of this community.

The commissioner pointed out that all railroadmen and other promoters of transportation have awakened to the realization that the small units of transportation are favorably patronized by the public. This will specially apply to air transportation. The commissioner very vividly pointed out why he advocates airports for many smaller cities in Connecticut and emphasized the point that Connecticut must awaken to the fact that if it is to hold its place in the leading states which are interested in the future growth of the U. S., it must begin early to develop transportation aviation fields, which will be the means of transportation for the day to come.

He went on to say further that the consensus of people acquainted with the possibilities of aviation is unanimous upon the size of the new coming aviation field and that they range from about 2,600 to 3,600 people, where larger fields are not available.

After his address he answered several questions in regard to aviation fields and their construction. The Lions, by an unanimous vote, went on record as in favor of the development of an aviation field in Norwich. Commissioner Knox was given a rising vote of thanks for his interesting address. Edward T. Connelly favored the meeting with several vocal selections.

JAIL SENTENCE IMPOSED FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

Six months in jail was the sentence given William Ridlon, 36, Hartford, when he was found guilty of driving while under the influence of liquor. The sentence was pronounced by Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Thursday morning. This is the second time Ridlon has been convicted of driving while intoxicated. He was convicted in Hartford Oct. 17, 1923, on a similar charge.

Ridlon was arrested March 22 by the local police, near the junction of Main street and Broadway. The day after his arrest the case was continued in order to give him time to straighten out some of his affairs.

Henry Tetreault, 52, Taftville, was presented on a charge of non-support. He was ordered to pay his wife $12 weekly or serve six months in jail. His bond was set at $350, to insure payment of the $12 each week. Constable Disco arrested Tetreault Wednesday evening.

A local man, 69 years of age, was fined $5 and costs on a charge of intoxication. He claimed it was the first time in his life that he had ever been arrested. In view of the circumstances the court suspended payment of the fine for a year.

SCHOOL CHILDREN LETTERS ON TUBERCULOSIS SUBJECT

Two letters written by school children of the city after reading the tuberculosis document entitled "Let Your Doctor Decide" are the following:

Tuberculosis

It is not as a rule a good thing to think very much about diseases. We should rather think of how to make our bodies strong and keep them so and then in the case the germ of disease attacks us we shall have the very best means of defence.

To keep free from tuberculosis you should have eleven hours sleep. Play in fresh air and sunshine and drink milk at every meal. Avoid tobacco.

If one has tuberculosis they must tell the health officer and to do what he says.

EDWARD PRATT, Grade 1V.

Tuberculosis

Tuberculosis very often leads to death, but if we keep on our guard we will probably never have the dreadful disease, for tuberculosis is curable. Some have this disease but do not know it, and many thousands of people break down with it. Yet, it is said that no chronic disease is more easily cured, if it is discovered in time.

There are danger signs and as soon as any of these are noticed a doctor should be consulted, and these danger signs are: too easily tired, loss of weight, indigestion, cough that hangs on, blood spitting. A sanatorium is the place where tuberculosis is best treated, and at times a short stay in one of these hospitals means a sure cure.

In the state of Connecticut there are different sanatoriums; in Shelton, known as Laurel Heights, in Hartford, known as Cedar Crest, in Norwich, known as Uncas-on-the-Thames, where patients have the best of care for the doctors and nurses do their upmost to help people to regain their failing health.

PAULINE BRODEUR, S. H. S.

Forming Mixed Chorus

The chorus of the Women's City club, which gave its first annual concert on the last regular club meeting day on March 20th, has temporarily joined with a chorus of men, thus forming a mixed chorus, which will begin its rehearsals this week under the efficient leadership of Dr. J. Lawrence Erb of New London. A cantata is to be studied with the purpose of presenting it in a public concert.

There is great enthusiasm expressed by those who are truly interested in music and those who are conscious of the fact that Norwich may boast that it possesses an unusual number of good singers with excellent voices of all qualities, and also that the often expressed desire for a mixed chorus is nearing its realization.

NO FISHING TILL 15TH IN PRIVATELY POSTED WATERS

In a letter to the press of the state, Superintendent J. W. Titcomb of the state board of fisheries and game says:

Freqent inquiries regarding the change in the open season on trout to April 15th from people who have privately posted waters leads me to infer that some of them do not think that their waters are subject to the general laws as to open and closed seasons.

"Fish, so long as they remain unconfined in their natural element and are not taken and reduced to possession, are not the subject of private property, but are public property, and not even the owner of the soil over which a stream frequented by fish flows owns the fish therein, although he may have the exclusive right of fishing in the stream where it flows over his land. While they are in a state of fgreedom fish are the property of the sovereign power of the state, for the benefit of all the people in common, and the ownership thereof cannot be claimed by any particular individual."

The closed season on trout to April 15th applies to all waters in the state except private waters as defined in Part 1, Section 1, which reads as follows: "Private waters" means a natural or artificial pond or lake in which the owner, not a corporation, partnership or voluntary association, has exclusive right to fish, to which fish do not have access from waters not under the control of such owner or from waters stocked at the expense of the state."

In waters conforming to this definition the owners can fish at any time. The fish are his property as much as any other live stock. Ponds built by damming streams do not come into this class even if privately stocked any more than privately stocked and posted trout streams come into this class. There are many court decisions sustaining this opinion.

HUSBAND GETS DIVORCE ON HIS CROSS-COMPLAINT

In the superior court at New London Thursday, Judge C. L. Avery granted divorce to Joseph X. Dumond of Lyme from Evelyn Lawson Dumond on a cross-complaint.

They were married Dec. 24, 1926 and the divorce was granted for a statutory offense committed in Boston on Jan. 11, and 12, 1928. Suit was brought by Mrs. Dumond on the ground of intolerable cruelty since Jan. 1, 1927.

The custody of a minor child, a boy born Oct. 30, 1926, is awarded to the father with the mother having the right to keep the child for six months every year until further order of the court.

The wife was not in court and the husband put on his evidence, through his attorney, George Curtis Morgan. The evidence linked with Mrs. Dumond, the name of Stanley J. Plumstead of Lyme, World war veteran and owner of three valor decorations, who last week was given a verdict of $1 by a jury who heard his $5,000 damage suit against Mrs. Sadie Weckler, whom he claimed pulled his hair and ears and choked him.

The evidence showed that Plumstead and Mrs. Dumond put up at a Boston hotel and an affidavit by Mrs. Dumond, introduced into the evidence, admitted that the charge of the husband was true. A copy of the hotel registration was also introduced into the evidence.

PRIVATE SCHOOL PUPILS GIVE TO LA FLAMME FUND

The sum of $1.94 for the Kenneth La Flamme fund was accumulated in the lenten box at Norwich Private Day school, No. 2 Lincoln terrace, Miss Margaret Suck principal.

The children had their sympathies deeply stirred for the Montville young man who lost his eyesight in an automobile accident and they were glad to contribute their pennies towards his help.

The money has been turned over to The Bulletin to add to the La Flamme fund.

DEATH COMES SUDDENLY TO SENATOR FRANK B. WILLIS

The Senator, Aged 56, Was Stricken With Cerebral Hemorrhage While Attending a Political Meeting at Delaware, Ohio—Had Left the Platform and Walked to an Ante-Room, Where Death Came at 9:05 P. M.—Senator Willis Was the Opponent of Herbert Hoover in the Forthcoming Republican Presidential Primary in Ohio—Mrs. Willis Entered the Room Just as the Senator Expired.

DELAWARE, Ohio, March 30—(AP)—United States Senator Frank B. Willis died here tonight. He had been sitting on the platform in Gray's chapel where 2,500 persons, there to listen to the city's native son speak in his own behalf as a presidential candidate, when suddenly he arose, walked to an antechamber, and succumbed at 9:05 p. m.

The senator's tragic end came at the largest political meeting Delaware ever had witnessed. The whole city had turned out in homage to him. A band, a parade and red fire had been provided to make his appearance an auspicious occasion. The Buckeye Republican

(C) HENRY MILLER, WASH. D.C.

SENATOR FRANK B. WILLIS

Glee club of Columbus, on the platform was singing Farewell as Senator Willis drew his last breath.

As soon as the word of his death was voiced around the hall, the crowd became excited and left the hall hurriedly. Some, however, were so stunned by the news that they sat glued to their seats.

Police and national guardsmen forced all persons to leave the hall and made a picket line around the room in which the senator's body lay.

As Willis entered the room in which he died he turned to C. A. Jones, his secretary who accompanied him and said: "Jones I never felt this way in my life. There is something awfully wrong." With that, Jones reported, the senator staggered, grasped desperately at the wall and fell. Jones caught him just before he reached the floor. Jones said he really died then. The time was 9:09.

A physician was called from the audience who pronounced Senator Willis dead. Cerebral hemorrhage was the cause of death.

Senator Willis was just preparing to give his speech when he became ill, it was at first believed, from the gas used in the torches in the torch light parade which welcomed the senator home.

Mrs. Willis was called in as her husband was dying. She said the senator was slightly ill Thursday night and spent a restless night.

Doctors Dorrence James, D. T. McCarty, Floyd Miller, and O. W. Bonner attended him. As he was dying the senator called for his wife.

When Mrs. Willis entered the room, Jones turned to her and said: "Mr. Willis never will be with us any more. He is gone from us for all time."

He asked that the crowd disperse and leave the dead senator with relatives.

The body was to be taken to a Delaware funeral parlor tonight where it was to be prepared for burial. Whether funeral services will be held in Delaware or Galena has not been determined.

At 9:30 p. m. Mrs. Willis left the hall supported by Mr. Jones and her father, John Dustin. Her brothers, Edward, Nathan and Fred Dustin accompanied her.

Preceding the meeting tonight Senator Willis had been the guest of the Kiwanis club in the dining room of the Allen hotel.

Senator Willis' daughter did not come to Delaware to hear her father speak. She remained in Ada, where she is a professor at Ohio Northern university.

SKETCH OF THE CAREER OF SENATOR WILLIS

Senator Frank B. Willis was born December 28, 1871, at Lewis Center, Delaware county, Ohio. His education was received in the public schools of that section and at Northern Ohio university, where after graduation he served for several years as a teacher.

He took up the study of law and in 1906 was admitted to the Ohio bar. Later he served in the general assembly of his state. He entered the field of national politics in 1910 when he was elected to the house of representatives. He served in the house until 1915 and then resigned to become governor in 1921.

In the senate, he was prominent among the dry forces and as chairman of the committee on insular possessions was active in securing legislation respecting these. He also was prominently identified with rivers and harbors and shipping legislation.

Last fall he announced that he would be a candidate for the republican presidential nomination, and followed his announcement with an active campaign for the delegates of his home state.

This was complicated by the decision of Secretary Hoover, also a candidate, to enter his name in the Ohio republican preferential primaries.

Senator Willis was married in 1894 to Miss Allie Dustin of Galena, Ohio. He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Helen, who is a teacher at Ohio Northern university.

Willis was one of the few republicans in the last few decades to serve as governor of Ohio. He was elected in 1914 over James M. Cox, who in 1920 was nominated by the democrats for the presidency. Cox then had served one term, and in 1916 and 1918 he came back against Willis, defeating him in the gubernatorial contest on both occasions.

The decision of Warren G. Harding to make a fight in 1920 for the republican presidential nomination in the Chicago convention afforded Willis his opportunity to enter the senate. While the convention was deadlocked, the time for filing in the Ohio senatorial primaries expired. Harding's seat was at stake. His filing papers were at Columbus, but on the advice of his closest friends, among them Harry M. Daugherty, Harding decided to remain out of the Ohio senatorial fight.

A number of republicans had been waiting for such a decision unwilling to seek the nomination if Mr. Harding wanted it. Willis filed at the last moment, and in the following November was swept into office along with other republicans.

After his election as president, Harding resigned from the senate and Willis was named to fill his unexpired term, thus taking office before his elective term began.

In November, 1926, Willis was reelected to the senate, defeating former Senator Atlee Pomerene, a democrat and one of the government's special oil counsel.

Willis sprang into the national limelight at the republican convention in 1920 in his terse, dramatic speech with which he placed his fellow Ohioan, Harding, in nomination.

The delegates had been worn out by hot weather and long nominating addresses. Willis, big of body, strong of voice, took the platform, and wasting no words, thundered, with a broad smile:

"Come on boys and girls, let's nominate Harding of Ohio."

As senators go, Mr. Willis was young. His death came as a great shock to his colleagues. He was a born campaigner, and had invaded every nook and cranny of his home state during his years in public life.

GEORGE REMUS ADJUDGED SANE AND RELEASED

CLEVELAND, O., March 30—(AP)—George Remus, Cincinnati wife slayer, today was adjudged sane in a decision handed down by the third district court of appeals at Lima to whom the former bootleg baron had appealed for release from the Lima state hospital for criminal insane.

Only the bare announcement of the court's action came from the Allen county seat, for the entire community was cut off today by the sleet storm and blizzard which demoralized lines of communication in the northern part of the state.

Whether the decision automatically grants Remus his freedom or remains inoperative pending an appeal which the state is expected to make could not be learned, tonight, for all means of communicating with Lima had failed and could not be restored.

Remus was reported to have prepared for an immediate return to Cincinnati where he shot and killed his estranged wife, Imogene, last October, but this could not be verified.

The law gives Prosecutor Ernest M. Botkin, of Allen county, two days in which to sign the journal entry for Remus' release. The prosecutor is expected to appeal and he may refuse to sign the entry, pending the action of the state supreme court.

ENDS SPECTACULAR REP. CONTEST IN OHIO

WASHINGTON, March 30—(AP)—The death of Senator Willis brings to an end one of the most spectacular contests in the republican presidential campaign, but at the same times leaves Ohio republican politics in a tangle whose solution it is difficult to foresee.

Senator Willis and Herbert Hoover were entered against each other in the Ohio primaries to be held April 24. Under the Ohio law it is necessary for a candidate to express his willingness to enter the primary and the date for filing such expression expired more than a month ago.

Whether it will be possible to remove Senator Willis' name from the situation is for the Ohio leaders to decided. It also will mean for the senator's friends to determine whether they will now give up the campaign against Hoover and permit the delegation to go to him by default, or whether they will attempt to continue the fight in Senator Willis' name with a view to swinging the delegation to some other anti-Hoover candidate.

AT LEAST 13 PERSONS WERE INJURED IN TRAIN WRECK

LIMA, Ohio, March 30.—(AP) — At least 13 persons were injured when the Broadway Limited and a freight train collided on the Pennsylvania railroad two miles west of here, according to reports.

The two trains were said to have been derailed but no one was reported killed.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, March 30—(AP)—Police fired on a socialist demonstration and wounded four of the demonstrators. The clash came when the socialists refused to disperse. There were many minor fights in other parts of the city.

MOSCOW, March 30—(AP)—Because he spent 70,000,000 government rubles without showing results in a project to irrigate desert sands in Central Asia, M. Rikunoff has been sentenced by the supreme court to six years solitary imprisonment.

HONOLULU, March 30—(AP)—Lieut. Frank M. Strickland, army officer stationed at Schofield barracks, Hawaii, regained consciousness yesterday for the first time since he fell under a horse during a practice polo game last Saturday. Physicians said there was hope for his recovery.

ROME, March 30—(AP)—The council of ministers approved today the measure reducing to 15 lire (80 cents) the tax on tourists debarking at Italian ports. This will be collected but once, doing away with the forty lire contribution heretofore required at every port. The reform applies to passengers aboard foreign as well as Italian ships.

22 LIQUOR INDICTMENTS BY GRAND JURY IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 30—(AP)—The second major move of the government to end illegal manufacture and distribution of liquor in Chicago, with its attendant shootings and gang warfare, was chronicled today when a federal grand jury indicted twenty-two persons, including a suburban mayor and six prohibition agents.

Several of those named were also listed in the indictments returned a few days ago in which Alderman Titus Haffa was charged with violation of the dry law and acceptance of bribes.

Extortion, bribery and violation of the prohibition law were charged today in the indictments which, in addition to the mayor, Charles Thompson of Specialville, and the agents, named an attorney, a former district prohibition inspector and four druggists.

Mayor Thompson is accused of operating a syndicate in the suburb southwest of the city, controllin gthe sale and distribution of illicit liquor in that nvicinity. With the mayor were named Joseph P. Burke, an attorney, two Negro dry agents, William Jones and Horace Lyko and a saloon keeper, "Slit" Kelly.

Federal investigators said when saloon keepers refused to deal with the syndicate, Agents Jones and Lyle were called upon to raid the places. The liquor taken was stored at Kelly's place for disposal by the syndicate, while the agents took just enough for evidence.

Two other grouns are charged with operating stills. Herbert L. Rees, former chief inspector in the prohibition department is accused of accepting $50 bribe from G. E. Slayter, a druggist, who in turn is charged with offering the bribe.

Louis E. Stoeble, Jean Miller and Abram G. Shay, druggists, were also charged with bribing Prohibition Agents Harry Smith, E. J. McElroy, Jacob Maas, Edward F. Daugherty.

The indictments were a result of months of investigation by federal agents.

DEFINITE ACTION TAKEN BY PREMIER MUSSOLINI

ROME, March 30—(AP)—Premier Mussolini took definite action today on his intimation before the council of ministers last Wednesday that "because of the widespread movement the Balilla and Avanguardista organizations had given their state function, the exceptions granted in favor of other youthful organizations lose each day their reason for existing."

He submitted a decree to his ministerial council which was approved, ordering the dissolution of all organizations of Italian youth other than the Balilla and Avanguardista. When the decree becomes effective, within thirty days, the Catholics boys organizations will be eliminated.

The action of the government follows closely on the recent address of the pope before the diocesan board of Rome, when the pontiff took exception to the fascist state having complete control of the education of Italian youth, including their spiritual and moral welfare.

ALLEGED CRIMINAL WAS CAUGHT WHILE BOASTING

NEW YORK, March 30—(AP)—Just as Meyer Karp, wanted by the Boston police, was boasting over the telephone to a police detective today "You'll have to be a Sherlock Holmes to get me," the detective, with the aid of an assistant, thn and there turned Sherlock and the job was done.

Karp, a 23-year-old clerk, had been tantalizing edtectives for several days by calling them on the phone and disbarazing their ability to catch him. But today Detective Meyer kept him on the phone while another detective traced the call and arrived at Karp's telephone booth just as he was about to hang up.

New York police were not informed as to the charges against him in Boston.

LINGERIE ESTABLISHMENT WAS WRECKED BY BRIDES

SUBOTICA, Jugoslavia, March 30—(AP)—Fifty irate brides today wrecked the premises of a lingerie establishment which had gone into bankruptcy after the young women had paid nearly $7,000 in advance for their trousseaux. The directors of the concern were caught in the offices and roughly handled.

Twenty salesmen have been arrested on charges of conspiracy to defraud the brides.

CASHIER OF BANK DENIED COMPLICITY

HARTFORD, March 30—(AP)—Big, smiling, bristle-haired Raymond T. Olsen, cashier of the Plantville National bank, emphatically denied that he had conspired with Stuart R. Florian, of Southington to allow three Cicero, Ill., men to rob the bank of $4,436 last June, when called as a witness by State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn in the superior court today at Florian's second trial on the charge of plotting the bank robbery. The trial will be resumed next Tuesday morning.

Two New Air Records Were Made Friday

Americans Set New Endurance Mark—Italian Creates Speed Record.

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla., March 30—(AP)—The world's record for endurance record came back to America from Germany today when Edward Stinson and George Haldeman set a new mark here of 53 hours, 36 minutes, 30 seconds.

The new mark was one hour, 13 minutes, 53 seconds beyond the record of 52 hours, 22 minutes, 31 seconds made last August by Johann Rlatico and Cornelius Edzard, German fliers, using the Junkers monoplane, Europa.

After jockeying their single-motored Stinson-Detroiter monoplane to take every advantage of breeze and altitude, the American aviators came down this afternoon at 1:14:10, eastern standard time, with five gallons of their original 550 gallons of fuel still in the tanks. They had taken the air at 7:37:40 o'clock last Wednesday morning.

It was the second time that Stinson, veteran flier, had made an endurance record. Overjoyed at the feat, and worn and begrimed from the more than two days and nights in the air, he said simply: "Tired, yes, but happy that we were able to bring the record back to this country."

The first day the fliers experienced June-like weather but yesterday choppy air currents forced them to high altitudes to escape the bumps and conserve fuel. They had to climb higher still last night but today a brisk southwest breeze buoyed them and they took every advantage of it.

"We had rough going at times yesterday and today," Stinson said, "running into choppy winds, but it wasn't so bad." The fliers smiled out of their hotel window this afternoon when a rainstorm swept up.

"Seems the weather saved up most of its meanness until we came down," Haldeman remarked.

A great throng was on the beach when the monoplane came to earth this afternoon. Eager spectators broke through the lines of the beach patrol and wildly acclaimed the fliers.

ITALIAN ATTAINS MAXIMUM SPEED OF 350 MILES AN HOUR

VENICE, Italy, March 30—(AP)—Attaining a maximum speed of 350 miles an hour, but averaging 318.57 miles an hour, Major Mario de Bernardi, Italy's premier speed flier, set up a new world speed record today.

De Bernardi made the circuit of the regular measured course eight times at an altitude of 155 feet, and afterward flew over Venice, performing stunts. He was enthusiastically cheered by great crowds.

The aviator, who himself held the world's speed record of 296.94 miles, which he established several months ago, won the Schneider cup race in the United States in 1926. He had waited several weeks for good weather for this attempt, and finally the spring-like atmosphere today and warm sun induced him to make the test. He used a hydro-airplane specially built for speed flying, and painted entirely red.

CAUSE OF THE RISE OF MONEY RATES IN MARCH

NEW YORK, March 30—(AP)—The renewed gold export movement and expansion of bank loans were cited today by the federal reserve agent in New York as the principal factors which resulted in a continued gradual rise in money rates in March. Open market rates at the end of the month were higher than a month previous and higher than at the end of March a year ago.

The March outflow of gold exceeded that of any previous month in the history of the country, the report stated. Since the export movement began last September the United States has lost $300,000,000 of gold through export and earmarkings. One-third of the total has gone to Argentina and substantial amounts to France and Brazil. The Canadian gold movement resulted in an inflow of $20,000,000.

RECESS OF COAL INQUIRY UNTIL NEXT THURSDAY

WASHINGTON, March 30—(AP)—A dry legal discussion occupied the brief session today of the senate committee investigating the bituminous coal industry, with counsel for subpoenaed West Virginia operators and the United Mine Workers again debating the power of the committee to inspect mine account books.

This completed, the committee decided in executive session to recess the inquiry until next Thursday.

Snow and Sleet in The Middle West

Lima, Ohio, Was For a Time Entirely Cut Off From the Outside World.

CHICAGO, March 30—(AP)—Winter came back to the middle west for a rousing encore today which gave the March lion an opportunity to do a little roaring.

Weather bureau forecasters, however, indicated tonight that March's passing tomorrow will be accompanied by a lamb-like bleat, for fair skies and rising mercury were expected on the heels of the severe snowstorm which overspread the mid-section of the country last night and today.

The snow, the second of the week, and sleet in some sections, did heavy damage to wire facilities, particularly in northern Ohio, and hampered transportation from the Ohio to the Mississippi rivers.

In the Great Lakes region the snow turned to sleet which clung to telephone and telegraph lines until they snapped, and as a result wire facilities from Pittsburgh as far west as Des Moines were badly hampered.

Lima, Ohio, was hardest hit and for a time was entirely cut off from the outside world except by radio. While the city was isolated it was reported that a tornado had struck it, but this later was found to be incorrect. With telegraph facilities halted the Lima News obtained part of its information from the outside world by radio from the Associated Press, and also transmitted news of the city by radio.

Several villages in Pennsylvania were cut off from communication by the storm and many through trains both east and west out of Chicago were delayed mostly because of poor wire facilities. In Chicago the storm, like the ill wind, had its compensating features. The snow extinguished a fuse attached to eight sticks of dynamite under a downtown building.

A bright sun broke through the clouds late today, and tomorrow weather indications showed, will be fair with rising temperature throughout the entire midwest region.

BRIAND'S NOTE DELIVERED TO THE STATE DTPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, March 30—(AP)—Foreign Minister Briand's latest note in his discussions with Secretary Kellogg concerning a treaty to outlaw war was delivered this evening to the state department. Its translation was immediately begun by the state department in order that it will be available for Secretary Kellogg upon his return tomorrow from a brief rest at Pinehurst, N. C. It may be made public at that time.

The communication is in reply to the last American proposal made Feb. 28, which was that the correspondence between the two countries be transmitted to Great Britain, Italy, Germany and Japan as a basis for preliminary discussions with those nations looking to the conclusion of a multi-lateral treaty proscribing recourse to war. Intimations from Paris have been that Mr. Briand has accepted this proposal and reports from Great Britain, Germany and Japan were that these nations are interested in the discussions.

MAY CALL SEN. ADAMS IN TEAPOT DOME INQUIRY

WASHINGTON, March 30—(AP)—Senate Teapot Dome committeemen have taken under advisement the question of calling former Senator Alva B. Adams, of Colorado, and Douglas H. McArthur, former secretary to the late Senator Edwin F. Ladd, of North Dakota, for relation of conversations they had with Senator Ladd concerning efforts of Will H. Hays to stop the oil investigation in 1924.

Both Adams, who then was a member of the Teapot Dome committee, and McArthur said today that when Senator Ladd was chairman of the committee he had told them of a visit to Washington by Hays and his attempt to use a political argument on Ladd to have him join forces with other republicans of the committee to stop the inquiry, which Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, then was vigorously pressing.

MRS. LEMIRA GOODHUE IN UNCHANGED CONDITION

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 30—(AP)—The condition of Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, mother of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, who is ill at the Dickinson hospital here, remained unchanged today, her physician, Dr. J. E. Hayes, reported. Mrs. Coolidge, who came to Northampton from Washington early in the week to be with her mother, made two visits to the hospital during the day.

When Caesar Was a Boy

The forum was the common marketplace for all of ancient Rome. Today a few crumbling columns stand as mute reminders of its former grandeur.

In our present day complex civilization, marketplaces have become scattered. It is no longer possible to visit them all in a morning—or even a day.

Advertising, instead, has become the convenient forum of modern buyers and sellers. If you are considering the purchase of a new car, you scrutinize the automobile advertising. Or if it's a new talking machine or a razor you want you turn to the advertising.

Furthermore, as you look over those same pages of products, your mind is storing away for tomorrow a compact and valuable fund of information. Instinctively, you will remember those facts when you make those future purchases. Increase your store of knowledge by reading the Bulletin advertisements regularly.

Advertising has become the common market place of the 20th century.

ALL MEMBERS OF THE RADIO COMMISSION CONFIRMED

There Was a Bitter Fight in the Senate Over the Confirmation of Orestes H. Caldwell of New York—The Vote on Caldwell Was Reported to Have Been 36 to 35—There Was Little or No Opposition to the Confirmation of the Other Members.

WASHINGTON, March 30—(AP)—By a margin of a single vote—36 to 35—the senate late today confirmed the nomination of Orestes H. Caldwell of New York, to be a member of the federal radio commission, the ballot being taken after a bitter fight of more than three hours.

Then, without discussion, it completed the personnel of the commission by confirming the nominations of Sam Pickard, a Kansas democrat; Harold A. LaFount, a Utah republican, and Ira C. Robinson, a West Virginia republican. There was no roll call on these as no opposition developed.

These four commissioners, with Eugene O. Sykes, made up the commission, which, under an act recently passed, is continued for one year, and then to assume the status of a board of review with actual administration of federal radio affairs transferred to the commerce department.

However, the terms of all of the commissioners expire at the end of next February, when the president must appoint new men to compose the board of review.

The nominations of Caldwell, LaFount and Pickard, who have been serving under recess appointments have been held up for weeks because of opposition to Caldwell, which was led by Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, co-author with Representative White, republican, Maine, of the original legislation setting up the commission. Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, had charge of the forces supporting the nomination, while Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, made a personal appeal for the confirmation of Caldwell.

Dill's opposition was based largely on a letter written by Caldwell opposing features of the new radio commission act requiring a more equitable distribution of station power as between the five zones into which the country is divided.

Dill also charged that in carrying out his propaganda, Caldwell made use of a large number of broadcasting stations through which an appeal went to the people to write to their senators and congressmen in opposition to the measure.

The Washington senator declared that this alone showed the unfitness of Caldwell to administer the new law.

INDUSTRIAL SITUATION IN NEW ENGLAND IMPROVES

BOSTON, March 30—(AP)—A continuance of improvement in the general industrial situation in New England during recent weeks is noted in the monthly review of the Federal Reserve bank of Boston.

"The index of New England business activity," the review says, "advanced in February about 1 1-2 per cent from January to a level slightly below that which prevailed between March and October, 1927. The index for both January and February this year was higher than for the corresponding months a year ago.

"A distinct improvement was reported in the business activity of the entire country in February. Practically no change has taken place in the general level of wholesale commodity prices since last September, although the hides and leather group has shown considerable strength since the latter part of last year.

"New England cotton mills consumed more cotton during February than in January, although the volume was considerably less than in January or February a year ago. Production of the cotton goods was in about the same volume as in February, 1927.

"There was an increase of about eight per cent in the amount of raw wool consumed by New England mills in February, as compared with February a year ago. Activity in the Boston market, however, has been only moderate, while raw wool prices have continued to rise.

"The production of boots and shoes in New England increased in February as compared with January and during the first two months of the year production was more than 10 per cent greater than during the corresponding period a year ago.

"The value of new building contracts awarded in New England during February, although larger than during the corresponding month of 1927, declined 36 per cent from the January total of $35,975,400. Increased activity in the building industry has been general throughout the entire country during recent weeks.

"The metal and metal products industries have reported improved business over a year ago in New England cities.

"A slight increase took place in the number of wage earners employed in identical manufacturing establishments in Massachusetts, but the increase was not as large as usually occurs between January and February.

"Commercial failures in New England during both January and February exceeded those reported during these months of the previous year, both in number and in liabilities.

"Sales of New England reporting department stores in February were less than one per cent ahead of February, 1927, while preliminary reports indicate that March sales are likely to be less than those of the corresponding month a year ago. Sales of new automobiles have been larger than in January and February, 1927."

FIRE DESTROYED BUSINESS SECTION OF CRISFIELD, MD.

CRISFIELD, Md., March 30.—(AP)—With national guardsmen called out to prevent possible looting in the wake of a fire which completely wiped out the business district of six blocks and spread later to partially destroy more than 50 homes, inhabitants of this city tonight were attempting to check their losses, estimated at between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000.

One man was crushed to death when he was trapped under a falling wall and rescue workers were digging through the tangled wreckage tonight in the belief that three other persons, reported missing, had met the same fate.

Starting last night in a theater, the fire leveled every building within a six block area, and apparatus from six adjoining cities had been summoned before the flames were brought under control early today when a sudden change in the wind threatened to spread the blaze to other quarters, and as the fire licked its path over the stricken area, there remained a desolate scene of crumbled walls, twisted steel and a general mass of wreckage.

Twenty-three business houses toppled before the conflagration, and the scores of families made homeless, by the fire were cared for tonight by welfare agencies and neighbors.

WEAKNESS OF A. B. FALL INTERRUPTS DEPOSITION

EL PASO, Tex., Mach 30—(AP)—Because of the weakened condition of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, it was necessary today to interrupt the taking of a deposition from him to be used by Harry F. Sinclair in his trial on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the leasing of Teapot Dome. The hearing was to be resumed later. Plans are now to take Mr. Fall to California Sunday if Atlee Pomerene, special government counsel, finishes with the cross-examination Saturday. Mr. Fall has been urged to go to California by physicians, who believe his condition would be improved by his moving to a lower altitude.

Fall continued his story today of the leasing of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve which resulted in his being indicted with Sinclair for conspiring to defraud the government and a charge that as a cabinet officer he had accepted $233,000 in Liberty bonds from the oil man for the lease.

The story was told in the seclusion of the library of his home and his friends said it would put a new light on the famous oil land deal. His testimony, taken by Sinclair's counsel, Daniel Thew Wright, according to the story told before the hearing, was that Sinclair had accepted the lease reluctantly, after having once tossed it back to Fall, declaring he was "done with it."

Counsel for both defense and government were pushing their work of taking the deposition in the hope that it could be finished before tomorrow night as they wished to leave for Washington at that time.

Dr. H. T. Safford, personal physician to Fall, said there would be no session tonight.

BRITISH DEPORTEE HELD UPON ARRIVAL HERE

NEW YORK, March 30—(AP)—Joseph J. Conway of Brookline and Worcester, Mass., was greeted by both federal and New Jersey officers when he arrived third class on the Berengaria today as a deportee from Great Britain.

He was alleged to have jumped $10,000 bail pending an appeal of a seven year sentence for counterfeiting postal savings stamps in St. Louis in 1919—which is why Deputy U. S. Marshal Edward Runge was on hand.

He was also charged with taking $50,000 from August Dege, wealthy retired business man of Jersey City, in a confidence game in Newark in December 1926—which is why Essex County Detective Joseph Gulliano appeared to press for custody of the man.

Conway had been sentenced to three months imprisonment for attempted grand larceny in England and at its conclusion was deported. Although he claimed his name was Charles MacLeish and that he was born in Scotland, Gulliano presented affidavits showing Conway was born in Brookline and that his mother now lives in Worcester. The police said Conway has used eight aliases.

MAGRUDER FOR FURTHER ARMAMENTS CURTAILMENT

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., March 30—(AP)—Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, U. S. N., speaking tonight to the intercollegiate parley on war at Wesleyan university, pointed to armaments as the kind of international competition most susceptible to causing grave differences.

He divided the causes of war into two classes, intolerance and competition, the first spiritual and the second material. The intolerance of rivalry, of freedom of religion, of resentment against a growing and prosperous neighbor, have caused past wars, but due to education, rapid communication and transportation, thereby engendering more tolerant spirit, "it is quite probable that wars spring from intolerance will son be a thing of the past."

"More and more does one sense a will for peace by the peoples of civilized nations, and in nations where the people rule, war based on intolerance has become extinct. However, just here one must remember that today many nations are ruled by dictators, Hungary, Poland, Italy and Spain are certainly governed by autocratic power vested in one individual."

STRIKE IN A GENERAL MOTORS PLANT ENDED

SKETCH OF THE CAREER OF SENATOR WILLIS

Senator Frank B. Willis was born [illegible] 5, 1871, at Lewis Center, Delaware county, Ohio. His education was received in the public schools of that section and at Northern Ohio university, where after graduation he served for several years as a teacher. He took up the study of law and in 1896 was admitted to the Ohio bar. Later he served in the general assembly of his state. He entered the field of national politics in 1910 when he was elected to the house of representatives. He served in the house until 1915 and then resigned to become governor in 1917.

In the senate, he was prominent among the dry forces and as chairman of the committee on insular possessions was active in securing legislation affecting these. He also was prominently identified with rivers and harbors and shipping legislation.

Last fall he announced that he would be a candidate for the republican presidential nomination, and followed his announcement with an active campaign for the delegates of his home state.

This was complicated by the decision of Secretary Hoover, also a candidate, to enter his name in the Ohio republican preferential primaries.

Senator Willis was married in 1894 to Miss Allie Dustin of Galena, Ohio. He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Helen, who is a teacher at Ohio Northern university.

Willis was one of the few republicans in the last few decades to serve as governor of Ohio. He was elected in 1914 over James M. Cox, who in 1920 was nominated by the democrats for the presidency. Cox then had served one term, and in 1916 and 1918 he came back against Willis, defeating him in the gubernatorial contest on both occasions.

The decision of Warren G. Harding to make a fight in 1920 for the republican presidential nomination in the Chicago convention afforded Willis his opportunity to enter the senate. While the convention was deadlocked, the time for filing in the Ohio senatorial primaries expired. Harding's seat was at stake. His filing papers were at Columbus, but on the advice of his closest friends, among them Harry M. Daugherty, Harding decided to remain out of the Ohio senatorial fight.

A number of republicans had been waiting for such a decision unwilling to seek the nomination if Mr. Harding wanted it. Willis filed at the last moment, and in the following November was swept into office along with other republicans.

After his election as president, Harding resigned from the senate and Willis was named to fill his unexpired term, thus taking office before his elective term began.

In November, 1926, Willis was reelected to the senate, defeating former Senator Atlee Pomerene, a democrat and one of the government's special oil counsel.

Willis sprang into the national limelight at the republican convention in 1920 in his terse, dramatic speech with which he placed his fellow Ohioan, Harding, in nomination.

The delegates had been worn out by hot weather and long nominating addresses. Willis, big of body, strong of voice, took the platform, and wasting no words, thundered, with a broad smile:

"Come on boys and girls, let's nominate Harding of Ohio."

As senators go, Mr. Willis was young. His death came as a great shock to his colleagues. He was a born campaigner, and had invaded every nook and cranny of his home state during his years in public life.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, March 30—(AP)—Police fired on a socialist demonstration and wounded four of the demonstrators. The clash came when the socialists refused to disperse. There were many minor fights in other parts of the city.

MOSCOW, March 30—(AP)—Because he spent 70,000,000 government rubles without showing results in a project to irrigate desert sands in Central Asia, M. Rikunoff has been sentenced by the supreme court to six years solitary imprisonment.

HONOLULU, March 30—(AP)—Lieut. Frank M. Strickland, army officer stationed at Schofield barracks, Hawaii, regained consciousness yesterday for the first time since he fell under a horse during a practice polo game last Saturday. Physicians said there was hope for his recovery.

ROME, March 30—(AP)—The council of ministers approved today the measure reducing to 15 lire (80 cents) the tax on tourists debarking at Italian ports. This will be collected but once, doing away with the forty lire contribution heretofore required at every port. The reform applies to passengers aboard foreign as well as Italian ships.

22 LIQUOR INDICTMENTS BY GRAND JURY IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 30—(AP)—The second major move of the government to end illegal manufacture and distribution of liquor in Chicago, with its attendant shootings and gang warfare, was chronicled today when a federal grand jury indicted twenty-two persons, including a suburban mayor and six prohibition agents.

Several of those named were also listed in the indictments returned a few days ago in which Alderman Titus Haffa was charged with violation of the dry law and acceptance of bribes.

Extortion, bribery and violation of the prohibition law were charged today in the indictments which, in addition to the mayor, Charles Thompson of Specialville, and the agents, named an attorney, a former district prohibition inspector and four druggists.

Mayor Thompson is accused of operating a syndicate in the suburb southwest of the city, controllin gthe sale and distribution of illicit liquor in that nvicinity. With the mayor were named Joseph P. Burke, an attorney, two Negro dry agents, William Jones and Horace Lyke and a saloon keeper, "Slit" Kelly.

Federal investigators said when saloon keepers refused to deal with the syndicate, Agents Jones and Lyke were called upon to raid the places. The liquor taken was stored at Kelly's place for disposal by the syndicate, while the agents took just enough for evidence.

Two other groups are charged with operating stills. Herbert L. Rees, former chief inspector in the prohibition department is accused of accepting a $50 bribe from G. E. Slayter, a druggist, who in turn is charged with offering the bribe.

Louis E. Stoebig, Jean Miller and Abram G. Shay, druggists, were also charged with bribing Prohibition Agents Harry Smith, E. J. McElroy, Jacob Maas, Edward F. Daugherty.

The indictments were a result of months of investigation by federal agents.

DEFINITE ACTION TAKEN BY PREMIER MUSSOLINI

ROME, March 30—(AP)—Premier Mussolini took definite action today on his intimation before the council of ministers last Wednesday that "because of the widespread movement the Balilla and Avanguardista organizations had given their state function, the exceptions granted in favor of other youthful organizations lose each day their reason for existing."

He submitted a decree to his ministerial council which was approved, ordering the dissolution of all organizations of Italian youth other than the Balilla and Avanguardista. When the decree becomes effective, within thirty days, the Catholics boys organizations will be eliminated.

The action of the government follows closely on the recent address of the pope before the diocesan board of Rome, when the pontiff took exception to the fascist state having complete control of the education of Italian youth, including their spiritual and moral welfare.

ALLEGED CRIMINAL WAS CAUGHT WHILE BOASTING

NEW YORK, March 30—(AP)—Just as Meyer Karp, wanted by the Boston police, was boasting over the telephone to a police detective today "You'll have to be a Sherlock Holmes to get me," the detective, with the aid of an assistant, thn and there turned Sherlock and the job was done.

Karp, a 23-year-old clerk, had been tantalizing edtectives for several days by calling them on the phone and disparaging their ability to catch him. But today Detective Meyer kept him on the phone while another detective traced the call and arrived at Karp's telephone booth just as he was about to hang up.

New York police were not informed as to the charges against him in Boston.

LINGERIE ESTABLISHMENT WAS WRECKED BY BRIDES

SUBOTICA, Jugoslavia, March 30—(AP)—Fifty irate brides today wrecked the premises of a lingerie establishment which had gone into bankruptcy after the young women had paid nearly $7,000 in advance for their trousseaux. The directors of the concern were caught in the offices and roughly handled.

Twenty salesmen have been arrested on charges of conspiracy to defraud the brides.

CASHIER OF BANK DENIED COMPLICITY

HARTFORD, March 30—(AP)—Big, smiling, bristle-haired Raymond T. Olsen, cashier of the Plantville National bank, emphatically denied that he had conspired with Stuart R. Florian, of Southington to allow three Cicero, Ill., men to rob the bank of $4,436 last June, when called as a witness by State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn in the superior court today at Florian's second trial on the charge of plotting the bank robbery. The trial will be resumed next Tuesday morning.

GEORGE REMUS ADJUDGED SANE AND RELEASED

CLEVELAND, O., March 30—(AP)—George Remus, Cincinnati wife slayer, today was adjudged sane in a decision handed down by the third district court of appeals at Lima to whom the former bootleg baron had appealed for release from the Lima state hospital for criminal insane.

Only the bare announcement of the court's action came from the Allen county seat, for the entire community was cut off today by the sleet storm and blizzard which demoralized lines of communication in the northern part of the state.

Whether the decision automatically grants Remus his freedom or remains inoperative pending an appeal which the state is expected to make could not be learned, tonight, for all means of communicating with Lima had failed and could not be restored.

Remus was reported to have prepared for an immediate return to Cincinnati where he shot and killed his estranged wife, Imogene, last October, but this could not be verified.

The law gives Prosecutor Ernest M. Botkin, of Allen county, two days in which to sign the journal entry for Remus' release. The prosecutor is expected to appeal and he may refuse to sign the entry, pending the action of the state supreme court.

ENDS SPECTACULAR REP. CONTEST IN OHIO

WASHINGTON, March 30—(AP)—The death of Senator Willis brings to an end one of the most spectacular contests in the republican presidential campaign, but at the same times leaves Ohio republican politics in a tangle whose solution it is difficult to foresee.

Senator Willis and Herbert Hoover were entered against each other in the Ohio primaries to be held April 24. Under the Ohio law it is necessary for a candidate to express his willingness to enter the primary and the date for filing such expression expired more than a month ago.

Whether it will be possible to remove Senator Willis' name from the situation is for the Ohio leaders to decided. It also will mean for the senator's friends to determine whether they will now give up the campaign against Hoover and permit the delegation to go to him by default, or whether they will attempt to continue the fight in Senator Willis' name with a view to swinging the delegation to some other anti-Hoover candidate.

AT LEAST 13 PERSONS WERE INJURED IN TRAIN WRECK

GENEVA, March 30—(AP)—Gustave Ador, president of the International Committee of the Red Cross and former president of Switzerland, died tonight at the age of 82.

Two New Air Records Were Made Friday

Americans Set New Endurance Mark—Italian Creates Speed Record.

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, March 30—(AP)—The world's [illegible] endurance record came back [illegible] America from Germany today w[illegible] Edward Stinson and George Haldeman set a new mark here of 53 hours, 36 minutes, 30 seconds.

The new mark was one hour, 13 minutes, 59 seconds beyond the record of 52 hours, 22 minutes, 31 seconds made last August by Johann Risticz and Cornelius Edzard, German fliers, using the Junkers monoplane, Europa.

After jockeying their single-motored Stinson-Detroiter monoplane to take every advantage of breeze and altitude, the American aviators came down this afternoon at 1:14:10, eastern standard time, with five gallons of their original 550 gallons of fuel still in the tanks. They had taken the air at 7:37:40 o'clock last Wednesday morning.

It was the second time that Stinson, veteran flier, had made an endurance record. Overjoyed at the feat, and worn and begrimed from the more than two days and nights in the air, he said simply: "Tired, yes, but happy that we were able to bring the record back to this country."

The first day the fliers experienced June-like weather but yesterday choppy air currents forced them to high altitudes to escape the bumps and conserve fuel. They had to climb higher still last night but today a brisk southwest breeze buoyed them and they took every advantage of it.

"We had rough going at times yesterday and today," Stinson said, "running into choppy winds, but it wasn't so bad." The fliers smiled out of their hotel window this afternoon when a rainstorm swept up.

"Seems the weather saved up most of its meanness until we came down," Haldeman remarked.

A great throng was on the beach when the monoplane came to earth this afternoon. Eager spectators broke through the lines of the beach patrol and wildly acclaimed the fliers.

ITALIAN ATTAINS MAXIMUM SPEED OF 350 MILES AN HOUR

VENICE, Italy, March 30—(AP)—Attaining a maximum speed of 350 miles an hour, but averaging 318.57 miles an hour, Major Mario de Bernardi, Italy's premier speed flier, set up a new world speed record today.

De Bernardi made the circuit of the regular measured course eight times at an altitude of 155 feet, and afterward flew over Venice, performing stunts. He was enthusiastically cheered by great crowds.

The aviator, who himself held the world's speed record of 296.94 miles, which he established several months ago, won the Schneider cup race in the United States in 1926. He had waited several weeks for good weather for this attempt, and finally the spring-like atmosphere today and warm sun induced him to make the test. He used a hydro-airplane specially built for speed flying, and painted entirely red.

CAUSE OF THE RISE OF MONEY RATES IN MARCH

NEW YORK, March 30—(AP)—The renewed gold export movement and expansion of bank loans were cited today by the federal reserve agent in New York as the principal factors which resulted in a continued gradual rise in money rates in March. Open market rates at the end of the month were higher than a month previous and higher than at the end of March a year ago.

The March outflow of gold exceeded that of any previous month in the history of the country, the report stated. Since the export movement began last September the United States has lost $300,000,000 of gold through export and earmarkings. One-third of the total has gone to Argentina and substantial amounts to France and Brazil. The Canadian gold movement resulted in an inflow of $30,000,000.

RECESS OF COAL INQUIRY UNTIL NEXT THURSDAY

WASHINGTON, March 30—(AP)—A dry legal discussion occupied the brief session today of the senate committee investigating the bituminous coal industry, with counsel for subpoenaed West Virginia operators and the United Mine Workers again debating the power of the committee to inspect mine account books.

This completed, the committee decided in executive session to recess the inquiry until next Thursday.

Snow and Sleet in The Middle West

L[illegible] Ohio, Was For a Time Entirely Cut Off From the Outside World.

CHICAGO, March 30—(AP)—Winter came back to the middle west for a rousing encore today which gave the March lion an opportunity to do a little roaring.

Weather bureau forecasters, however, indicated tonight that March's passing tomorrow will be accompanied by a lamb-like bleat, for fair skies and rising mercury were expected on the heels of the severe snowstorm which overspread the mid-section of the country last night and today.

The snow, the second of the week, and sleet in some sections, did heavy damage to wire facilities, particularly in northern Ohio, and hampered transportation from the Ohio to the Mississippi rivers.

In the Great Lakes region the snow turned to sleet which clung to telephone and telegraph lines until they snapped, and as a result wire facilities from Pittsburgh as far west as Des Moines were badly hampered.

Lima, Ohio, was hardest hit and for a time was entirely cut off from the outside world except by radio. While the city was isolated it was reported that a tornado had struck it, but this later was found to be incorrect. With telegraph facilities halted the Lima News obtained part of its information from the outside world by radio from the Associated Press, and also transmitted news of the city by radio.

Several villages in Pennsylvania were cut off from communication by the storm and many through trains both east and west out of Chicago were delayed mostly because of poor wire facilities. In Chicago the storm, like the ill wind, had its compensating features. The snow extinguished a fuse attached to eight sticks of dynamite under a downtown building.

A bright sun broke through the clouds late today, and tomorrow weather indications showed, will be fair with rising temperature throughout the entire midwest region.

BRIAND'S NOTE DELIVERED TO THE STATE DTPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, March 30—(AP)—Foreign Minister Briand's latest note in his discussions with Secretary Kellogg concerning a treaty to outlaw war was delivered this evening to the state department. Its translation was immediately begun by the state department in order that it will be available for Secretary Kellogg upon his return tomorrow from a brief rest at Pinehurst, N. C. It may be made public at that time.

The communication is in reply to the last American proposal made Feb. 28, which was that the correspondence between the two countries be transmitted to Great Britain, Italy, Germany and Japan as a basis for preliminary discussions with those nations looking to the conclusion of a multi-lateral treaty proscribing recourse to war. Intimations from Paris have been that Mr. Briand has accepted this proposal and reports from Great Britain, Germany and Japan were that these nations are interested in the discussions.

MAY CALL SEN. ADAMS IN TEAPOT DOME INQUIRY

WASHINGTON, March 30—(AP)—Senate Teapot Dome committeemen have taken under advisement the question of calling former Senator Alva B. Adams, of Colorado, and Douglas H. McArthur, former secretary to the late Senator Edwin F. Ladd, of North Dakota, for relation of conversations they had with Senator Ladd concerning efforts of Will H. Hays to stop the oil investigation in 1924.

Both Adams, who then was a member of the Teapot Dome committee, and McArthur said today that when Senator Ladd was chairman of the committee he had told them of a visit to Washington by Hays and his attempt to use a political argument on Ladd to have him join forces with other republicans of the committee to stop the inquiry, which Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, then was vigorously pressing.

MRS. LEMIRA GOODHUE IN UNCHANGED CONDITION

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 30—(AP)—The condition of Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, mother of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, who is ill at the Dickinson hospital here, remained unchanged today, her physician, Dr. J. E. Hayes, reported. Mrs. Coolidge, who came to Northampton from Washington early in the week to be with her mother, made two visits to the hospital during the day.

When Caesar Was a Boy

The forum was the common marketplace for all of ancient Rome. Today a few crumbling columns stand as mute reminders of its former grandeur.

In our present day complex civilization, marketplaces have become scattered. It is no longer possible to visit them all in a morning—or even a day.

Advertising, instead, has become the convenient forum of modern buyers and sellers. If you are considering the purchase of a new car, you scrutinize the automobile advertising. Or if it's a new talking machine or a razor you want you turn to the advertising.

Furthermore, as you look over those same pages of products, your mind is storing away for tomorrow a compact and valuable fund of information. Instinctively, you will remember those facts when you make those future purchases. Increase your store of knowledge by reading the Bulletin advertisements regularly.

ALL MEMBERS OF THE RADIO COMMISSION CONFIRMED

There Was a Bitter Fight in the Senate Over the Confirmation of Orestes H. Caldwell of New York—The Vote on Caldwell Was Reported to Have Been 36 to 35—There Was Little or No Opposition to the Confirmation of the Other Members.

WASHINGTON, March 30—(AP)—By a margin of a single vote—36 to 35—the senate late today confirmed the nomination of Orestes H. Caldwell of New York, to be a member of the federal radio commission, the ballot being taken after a bitter fight of more than three hours.

Then, without discussion, it completed the personnel of the commission by confirming the nominations of Sam Pickard, a Kansas democrat; Harold A. LaFount, a Utah republican, and Ira C. Robinson, a West Virginia republican. There was no roll call on these as no opposition developed.

These four commissioners, with Eugene O. Sykes, made up the commission, which, under an act recently passed, is continued for one year, and then to assume the status of a board of review with actual administration of federal radio affairs transferred to the commerce department.

However, the terms of all of the commissioners expire at the end of next February, when the president must appoint new men to compose the board of review.

The nominations of Caldwell, LaFount and Pickard, who have been serving under recess appointments have been held up for weeks because of opposition to Caldwell, which was led by Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, co-author with Representative White, republican, Maine, of the original legislation setting up the commission. Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, had charge of the forces supporting the nomination, while Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, made a personal appeal for the confirmation of Caldwell.

Dill's opposition was based largely on a letter written by Caldwell opposing features of the new radio commission act requiring a more equitable distribution of station power as between the five zones into which the country is divided.

Dill also charged that in carrying out his propaganda, Caldwell made use of a large number of broadcasting stations through which an appeal went to the people to write to their senators and congressmen in opposition to the measure.

The Washington senator declared that this alone showed the unfitness of Caldwell to administer the new law.

INDUSTRIAL SITUATION IN NEW ENGLAND IMPROVES

BOSTON, March 30—(AP)—A continuance of improvement in the general industrial situation in New England during recent weeks is noted in the monthly review of the Federal Reserve bank of Boston.

"The index of New England business activity," the review says, "advanced in February about 1 1-2 per cent from January to a level slightly below that which prevailed between March and October, 1927. The index for both January and February this year was higher than for the corresponding months a year ago.

"A distinct improvement was reported in the business activity of the entire country in February. Practically no change has taken place in the general level of wholesale commodity prices since last September, although the hides and leather group has shown considerable strength since the latter part of last year.

"New England cotton mills consumed more cotton during February than in January, although the volume was considerably less than in January or February a year ago. Production of the cotton goods was in about the same volume as in February, 1927.

"There was an increase of about eight per cent in the amount of raw wool consumed by New England mills in February, as compared with February a year ago. Activity in the Boston market, however, has been only moderate, while raw wool prices have continued to rise.

"The production of boots and shoes in New England increased in February as compared with January and during the first two months of the year production was more than 10 per cent greater than during the corresponding period a year ago.

"The value of new building contracts awarded in New England during February, although larger than during the corresponding month of 1927, declined 36 per cent from the January total of $35,975,400. Increased activity in the building industry has been general throughout the entire country during recent weeks.

"The metal and metal products industries have reported improved business over a year ago in New England cities.

"A slight increase took place in the number of wage earners employed in identical manufacturing establishments in Massachusetts, but the increase was not as large as usually occurs between January and February.

"Commercial failures in New England during both January and February exceeded those reported during these months of the previous year, both in number and in liabilities.

"Sales of New England reporting department stores in February were less than one per cent ahead of February, 1927, while preliminary reports indicate that March sales are likely to be less than those of the corresponding month a year ago. Sales of new automobiles have been larger than in January and February, 1927."

FIRE DESTROYED BUSINESS SECTION OF CRISFIELD, MD.

CRISFIELD, Md., March 30.—(AP)—With national guardsmen called out to prevent possible looting in the wake of a fire which completely wiped out the business district of six blocks and spread later to partially destroy more than 50 homes, inhabitants of this city tonight were attempting to check their losses, estimated at between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000.

One man was crushed to death when he was trapped under a falling wall and rescue workers were digging through the tangled wreckage tonight in the belief that three other persons reported missing, had met the same fate.

Starting last night in a theater, the fire leveled every building within a six block area, and apparatus from six adjoining cities had been summoned before the flames were brought under control early today when a sudden change in the wind threatened to spread the blaze to other quarters, and as the fire licked its path over the stricken area there remained a desolate scene of crumbled walls, twisted steel and a general mass of wreckage.

Twenty-three business houses toppled before the conflagration, and the scores of families made homeless by the fire were cared for tonight by welfare agencies and neighbors.

WEAKNESS OF A. B. FALL INTERRUPTS DEPOSITION

EL PASO, Tex., Mach 30—(AP)—Because of the weakened condition of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, it was necessary today to interrupt the taking of a deposition from him to be used by Harry F. Sinclair in his trial on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the leasing of Teapot Dome. The hearing was to be resumed later. Plans are now to take Mr. Fall to California Sunday if Atlee Pomerene, special government counsel, finishes with the cross-examination Saturday. Mr. Fall has been urged to go to California by physicians, who believe his condition would be improved by his moving to a lower altitude.

Fall continued his story today of the leasing of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve which resulted in his being indicted with Sinclair for conspiring to defraud the government and a charge that as a cabinet officer he had accepted $233,000 in Liberty bonds from the oil man for the lease.

The story was told in the seclusion of the library of his home and his friends said it would put a new light on the famous oil land deal. His testimony, taken by Sinclair's counsel, Daniel Thew Wright, according to the story told before the hearing, was that Sinclair had accepted the lease reluctantly, after having once tossed it back to Fall, declaring he was "done with it."

Counsel for both defense and government were pushing their work of taking the deposition in the hope that it could be finished before tomorrow night as they wished to leave for Washington at that time.

Dr. H. T. Safford, personal physician to Fall, said there would be no session tonight.

BRITISH DEPORTEE HELD UPON ARRIVAL HERE

NEW YORK, March 30—(AP)—Joseph J. Conway of Brookline and Worcester, Mass., was greeted by both federal and New Jersey officers when he arrived third class on the Berengaria today as a deportee from Great Britain.

He was alleged to have jumped $10,000 bail pending an appeal of a seven year sentence for counterfeiting postal savings stamps in St. Louis in 1919—which is why Deputy U. S. Marshal Edward Runge was on hand.

He was also charged with taking $50,000 from August Doge, wealthy retired business man of Jersey City, in a confidence game in Newark in December 1926—which is why Essex County Detective Joseph Gulliano appeared to press for custody of the man.

Conway had been sentenced to three months imprisonment for attempted grand larceny in England and at his conclusion was deported. Although he claimed his name was Charles MacLeish and that he was born in Scotland, Gulliano presented affidavits showing Conway was born in Brookline and that his mother now lives in Worcester. The police said Conway has used eight aliases.

MAGRUDER FOR FURTHER ARMAMENTS CURTAILMENT

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., March 30—(AP)—Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, U. S. N., speaking tonight to the intercollegiate parley on war at Wesleyan university, pointed to armaments as the kind of international competition most susceptible to causing grave differences.

He divided the causes of war into two classes, intolerance and competition, the first spiritual and the second material. The intolerance of rivalry, of freedom of religion, of resentment against a growing and prosperous neighbor, have caused past wars, but due to education, rapid communication and transportation, thereby engendering more tolerant spirit, "it is quite probable that wars spring from intolerance will son be a thing of the past."

"More and more does one sense a will for peace by the peoples of civilized nations, and in nations where the people rule, war based on intolerance has become extinct. However, just here one must remember that today many nations are ruled by dictators. Hungary, Poland, Italy and Spain are certainly governed by autocratic power vested in one individual."

(Special to The Bulletin)

Peckham of Chestnut Hill, in noting their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Peckham, prominent residents of the village, entertained at a tea and collation from 4 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon, over twenty of their older friends who were unable to attend a large reception in the evening. The afternoon gathering was held in the rooms at the Liberty Hill church where Mr. and Mrs. Peckham were showered with well wishes and felicitations of their old acquaintances.

Over 80 covers were laid for the evening reception tendered the couple in the Lebanon Baptist church. Among the guests were 30 members of the Peckham family coming from Guilford, Rockville, Vernon, Hampton, Manchester, Willimantic and Wakefield, R. I. Fitting decorations of gold and white color scheme adorned the parlor and Mr. and Mrs. Peckham were seated beneath a large arch from which was suspended a huge wedding bell. Rev. A. G. Littlefield, pastor of the church acted as toastmaster for the exercises and made the presentations of the numerous and beautiful gifts. Among the gifts were some from the church, the Ladies Missionary society and their many friends. The table centerpiece was a great cake, highly decorated, given by their son Myron C. and his son of Manchester. One floral piece consisted of 50 jonquils sent by Miss Georgia Robinson of New Haven, a former pupil of Mrs. Peckham. Seated with Mr. and Mrs. Peckham and the pastor at the head of the table were Mr. Peckham's associate deacon, Mr. A. A. Boothby and Mrs. Boothby and Mrs. Peckham's sister, Mrs. William A. Watson and Mr. Watson of Guilford. Three of the reception guests had also attended the wedding half a century ago. The family moved to Lebanon when Albert was but one year old and he has remained in the town throughout the subsequent years of his life. Mary Ella Johnson was born in Richmond, R. I., in 1856 a daughter of Edmund B. and Mercy Tucker Johnson. The Johnsons purchased a farm near Liberty Hill, town of Lebanon in 1859.

Mr. and Mrs. Peckham attended the Liberty Hill school and there developed a school house romance that culminated in their marriage, March 28, 1878. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. George L. Putnam who was then pastor of the Lebanon Baptist church. There were 27 guests at the wedding ten of whom are still living. The young couple took farming as an occupation and a few years after their wedding purchased a farm which they occupied for 27 years, disposing of it about 20 years ago. They have occupied the present Peckham farm in Chestnut Hill for the past 23 years.

Both are members of the Lebanon Baptist church where Mr. Peckham has served as deacon for 30 years. Mrs. Peckham was a teacher in the Lebanon district school both before and after her marriage, completing 25 years in that service just before her 60th birthday. She has taught about 400 pupils during her educational career.

Four sons were born to them: Myron C., of Manchester; Kenneth A., of Milton, Vt., and Edmund J. Peckham of Willimantic. One son died in infancy. They also have nine grandchildren two of whom are married and residing in Manchester. Mrs. Peckham has been the alert Chestnut Hill correspondent for the Norwich Bulletin since 1917.

PUTNAM, March 30—Tournament time between the fraternal organizations of the city ended Thursday evening when the Knights of Columbus took the final contest from the Odd Fellows, by a close score of 7 to 6. The tournaments that have been in play all through the winter months have created much interest and have been closely watched by those who did not participate in any of the games. The total score for the season was 144 to 97, in favor of the Kaceys. By losing the final contest the Odd Fellows are now to pay the penalty, which will be a big supper for their conquerors, the Knights. Sidewalks on lower South Main street still remain in a dangerous condition to the pedestrians that daily pass over them. Late Friday afternoon the walk in front of the Sandolovits property had a large hole in the center of the passageway as the result of the heavy rains. At one of the recent council meetings, Dr. Bullard, who lives nearby, placed a charge before the city council for injuries sustained from a fall on this defective sidewalk. The council placed the matter in the hands of the chairman of the highway committee, who reported at a later meeting that he had investigated the matter and that the property owners were to have the matter taken care of at an early date. Many other walks throughout the city are in a dangerous condition and with the coming spring weather it seems that much improvement could be made along the streets of the city.

The continuous applications for non-resident fishing licenses continue to pour into the office of Town Clerk Henry N. Benoit. The town clerk said Friday that it appears that the out-of-the-state fishermen are planning to cast the line in the Connecticut brooks on April 1, when the season does not officially open until April 15. The out-of-state sportsmen will be on the scene to catch the season's first string before the locals get a chance to dig their worms, the way the applications for the licenses are coming into Putnam. County Game Warden J. Frederick Ash and his deputies are now on the job keeping watch for the unfair anglers who will be out before the law lifts. A letter from the superintendent of the state board of fisheries and game has been printed in other issues of The Bulletin, explaining the code of a fair fisherman who upholds the law. Warden Ash definitely stated that arrests will be made and prosecutions will follow if the fish and game laws pertaining to the opening of the season are violated.

Cultures taken by a local doctor from a patient who was thought to have had diphtheria were returned to the doctor Friday morning, stating that the swabs sent to the state department of health for test showed no symptoms of the disease. The return of this culture with the signed statement stamps out the diphtheria rumor in Putnam. The rumor gained circulation after the death of a local boy, who died suddenly before the physicians could definitely state the cause of death. It was later that the physicians who were attending the child found that the disease was not of the nature that was contained in the rumor.

The athletic association of the Belding Hemingway Silk company held a meeting Friday to discuss plans for the company's baseball team. The employes of the mill will play the national game this year. The material to fill the playing positions will be practically the same as the last year's team. Spring workouts will begin within a few days.

A late gripping touch of winter was felt here Friday when cold rains deluged the city. Late Thursday evening the disturbance started with a few minutes of heavy sleet, and with the slightly moderated temperature, changed to rain and continued to fall through the night until late Friday afternoon. The rain, although cold, was welcomed by residents of the outlying districts, to wash down the rutted roads that have been hindering transportation and travel over the country roads. Throughout the city gutters flowed fast and high throughout the day. Up until late in the afternoon the radio weather man held out no hopes for a clear week-end.

Many of the local theatre fans had a chance to hear their favorite actor or actress speak over the air Thursday evening when the Dodge brothers automobile company presented their nation-wide radio program, in which many of the movie stars voiced their opinions of moviedom in the future. In many homes in Putnam the youngster who enjoys watching Doug Fairbanks go through his famous antics on the screen was eagerly listening beside the loudspeaker to actually hear the great kids' hero's voice come into their home. Many of the radio fans in some of the localities of the city were disappointed when the reception was rendered unclear by some local disturbance that has been unable to be located by local radio dealers, and some were tearing their hair when the kid with the "one tuber" tried to tune in to get his earful of the program.

The city council will hold its monthly meeting on the first Tuesday of April, which falls on the second day of the month, and with the meeting the name of the man or probably a woman who is to fill the unexpired term of Willis B. Carroll as alderman from ward 4, on the democratic side of the council, will be made known. The democratic city committee has picked its candidate to be presented to the mayor and council to be elected to fill the vacancy, but it has been exceedingly careful that the name of the new councilor does not leak out to the public before he has been duly elected and sworn into office.

A meeting of the society of the Second Congregational church was held Thursday evening to discuss plans for the improving of several parts of the church and to talk over the plan of selling the property on Liberty street that now belongs to the church. A report of the proposed intentions was sent out to the members of the congregation at a recent service. At the meeting held Thursday it was definitely voted not to do anything towards the remodeling of the church at present and the plans were laid over to a date way in the future. The present church passed its half-century mark a few years ago.

Following this meeting, a general meeting of the Diocesan bureau was held in the Ladies of Columbus rooms. Rev. F. Coholan gave a short talk and introduced Miss Victoria A. Larmour, case work supervisor of the Diocesan Bureau of Connecticut, who explained the work of social service in a very interesting and instructive manner.

SONS OF REVOLUTION

The "Minute Man," the National Society Bulletin, for March gives the appointment of the president of the state society, George E. Godard, state librarian of Connecticut, as vice-president-general of the National society for the New England district. It also gives this state credit for the largest number of new members of any state society during the fiscal year.

Mention is also made of a present to the national headquarters building at Washington of a beautiful "Sons of the American Revolution" banner, by Compatriot Herbert H. White, of Hartford, past president of the Connecticut society. It is "just like him," to do things like that. Another meeting of the board of managers of the Connecticut society is to be held in Hartford on the 31st inst. for the election of new members.

MOOSE

EAGLES

In a statement issued Monday evening officials of Norwich aerie, No. 367, F. O. E., explain why the Eagles are championing the cause of the aged, as follows:

The Fraternal Order of Eagles is founded upon the principles of liberty, truth, justice and equality. In the application of these principles, every Eagle finds his opportunity for the "pursuit of happiness." This fraternity stands ready to champion every just cause. It helped to write the first workingman's compensation law and the first mothers' pension law, and worked effectively to make these the law of every state. Today, conscious of the tragedy of the aged poor as well as the suffering of those related to them, it is promoting with every resource at its command old age pension legislation in all the states.

The bills sponsored by the Fraternal Order of Eagles have been introduced to date in 26 state legislatures. In the states of Maine, New Jersey, New York, Texas, Indiana, Utah, Nebraska, Wyoming, and Illinois, the favorable sentiment aroused resulted in the bills being passed by one house of the legislature. The campaigns in these states are proceeding with redoubled vigor.

In California in 1925 the bill passed the senate by a unanimous vote and the house an overwhelming majority. It was subsequently vetoed by the governor.

In Washington in 1926 the bill passed the senate by a vote of 24 to 15, and the house by a vote of 67 to 26. It was vetoed by the governor.

In Nevada the bill was passed in 1923, but was repealed in 1925. A new and better old age pension law, was sponsored by the F. O. E., was introduced and passed on the heels of the repeal. It is now in operation.

In Montana, the first old age pension law in this country was passed in 1923 and is now in full, successful operation. In the years that have elapsed since it went into effect it has completely demonstrated the economy of the old age pension.

In Kentucky, in 1926 a law was introduced by Eagles and passed, giving each county the right to choose whether it would pension its aged dependent poor or maintain them in a poorhouse.

In Pennsylvania an old age pension act was passed in 1923. But because the Pennsylvania constitution forbids the granting of pensions except to those who have served with the military forces, this law was declared unconstitutional. A movement, promising success, is now under way to remove this technical objection by proper amendment to the state constitution.

Wisconsin adopted old age pensions in 1925. Here is a splendid example of the growth of old age pension sentiment. In the first year of their effort in Wisconsin, the Eagles were defeated but continued their campaign of public education. In the third year they won a decisive victory.

As a result of the investigation of the senatorial committee appointed by the Colorado state legislature to investigate the conditions of the dependent aged in the state, the committee, in its report to the legislature recommended the enactment of an old age pension law. An old age pension bill was then introduced and passed the house by an overwhelming vote and the bill was then introduced and passed the house by an overwhelming vote and the senate by a unanimous vote. Governor Adams signed the bill on March 12, 1927.

On June 1, 1927, the old age pension law passed by the Maryland state legislature and signed by Governor Ritchie on April 26, 1927, became effective.

The minister of labor for the Dominion of Canada, states: "British Columbia has always occupied the foremost position among the Canadian provinces in social legislation." It was the first province to pass an old age pension enabling act after the dominion government had passed legislation paving the way for old age pensions in the provinces. A law providing that British Columbia shall co-operate with the dominion government in providing old age pensions in British Columbia became effective on September 29, 1927. The law stipulates that the province shall pay one-half the cost and the dominion government shall assume the other half. The first old age pension in British Columbia was paid October 18, 1927.

All that is needed in any state, to secure the enactment of a law providing old age pensions, is an enlightened and awakened public opinion. The national commission of the Fraternal Order of Eagles recognizes this fact, and therefore has suggested a method for such awakening and enlightening—first, by dissemination of literature and the printing of articles in the press, and, secondly, by lectures, discussions, and personal appeals in neighborhoods and social circles. The general public as represented in other fraternal organizations, labor unions, churches, clubs and civic bodies has shown a noble desire to co-operate in the movement for old age pensions. Such organizations are grateful for so active and determined a leadership as the Eagles have shown, and the Eagles have themselves been profoundly heartened by the widespread interest in the cause, and by the readiness of legislators to support the legislation.

DANIELSON

PATRICK F. MURRAY DIES SUDDENLY OF HEART TROUBLE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, March 30—Death claimed Patrick F. Murray with shocking suddenness at 10:45 this morning at his home on Academy street. He had just returned from a shopping trip down town and complained of a severe pain in his left arm. Mrs. Murray was quick to sense that he was dangerously ill and after ministering to him hurriedly sent out a call for medical and spiritual aid. Mr. Murray was past all earthly help and died within a few minutes. Heart disease was given as the cause of death.

His death was so stunning to the members of his family and his friends here because it was not evident that he would be stricken, for he had been in his usual good health and about as usual every day. He was 67 years of age.

Mr. Murray was born in Pomfret, a son of William and Bridget Stapleton Murray, but practically all of his life had been spent in Wauregan and Danielson, though he was employed in Putnam for a number of years. He had been retired from active business for a number of years.

Few men are so universally liked as was Mr. Murray. His invariably even, kindly disposition, his charitable attitude toward life and the things of life and his love and constant consideration of his family were among the many splendid traits of character that earned for him such general esteem. His death brings a crushing weight of sorrow upon his loved ones and the feeling of a distinct sense of loss to the great numbers who were his friends.

Mr. Murray leaves his wife, who before their marriage was Miss Mary E. McBride of Wauregan, a son, Leslie, and two sisters, Misses Catherine and Annie Murray, both of Wauregan. Other relatives here are Mr. and Mrs. Martin Wolfe, Misses Emma and Margaret McBride, Michael Cronin, Edward McBride, Misses Julia and Annie Arthur, cousins, Miss Julia Murray, granddaughter, Misses Helen and Madelyn Cronin, nieces, Mrs. Annie Raymond and William Gaffney of Wauregan are niece and nephew and Mrs. John Murray of Manchester, Conn., is a sister-in-law.

Mr. Murray was a member of St. James' parish and for years held membership in Rose of Lima council, K. of C. of Danielson and in Putnam lodge of Elks.

LOCAL GROUP READY TO TAKE OVER HOTEL PLAN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, March 30—A suggestion heard this morning was that, if Landlord William S. Brown of Danielson is agreeable, and he does not care to carry out on his own account the project of building a new combination hotel-theater building in Danielson, a group of men might be formed to purchase the Attawaugan hotel site from Mr. Brown and take over, if possible, the financing proposition that has been made to him for the building of the proposed structure.

Admittedly many ifs and ands stand between this proposition and its realization, though they may not be so insurmountable as may seem at first glance. It is known that Mr. Brown has been willing to sell the hotel property upon a number of occasions within the past few years. He is frank to say he has had several offers of purchase. It is not beyond the realm of possibilities that he would sell at this time. Purchase of this property is a necessary step to carry out the building plan.

The suggestion heard this morning from a responsible quarter was that a small corporation be formed to purchase the hotel property of Mr. Brown, if the group can be assured of the same financing plan that he has been offered. This group need not number more than twelve or fifteen persons, and it has been said that it would be well to have Mr. Brown among them. This arrangement would not entail any heavy investment on the part of anyone and would eliminate any stock-selling campaign in the enterprise. Likely this proposal will get considerable attention in the not distant future, especially if it proves agreeable to Mr. Brown when put up to him in definite form.

This morning there was a hearing before Referee Louis A. Woisard in the bankruptcy case of Mrs. Jennie Goodman, who was engaged in business here under the trade name Boston store for a few months last fall and during the early part of the winter season. The liabilities were shown to be approximately $7,000, and the assets, as appraised, about $4,100. Attorney A. G. Bill was counsel for Mrs. Goodman. The offer of settlement was 29 cents on the dollar and this was accepted both the majority number and amount of claims.

Alfred Hilton, 51, a former resident of Danielson, died today at St. Luke's hospital in New Bedford. The body was brought here this evening by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy. Mr. Hilton was a native of England, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hilton, but had lived for many years in this country. Mrs. Stephen Sutton of the West Side is a sister of Mr. Hilton's. Another sister is Mrs. Howard Worthen of New London, and there is a brother resident in Canada.

Expectation that his relatives and friends would be able to produce the $8,000 bail required for his release from Brooklyn jail, where he has been held since early in the week to answer to a charge of automobile manslaughter had not been realized today by George Morel of Lowell, who was the driver of the automobile that figured in an accident near Wilsonville Monday night when Morel's father was fatally injured. Coroner Bill did not hold an inquest in the case today, but is arranging to do so in the immediate future.

This evening Secretary William C. Hunter and W. H. G. Herklots of the Danielson chamber of commerce were in Norwich to participate in a conference made up of representatives of similar organization in various eastern Connecticut towns. Various subjects of interest to communities in this section of the state were to be taken up for consideration.

A demonstration of what is being done along physical culture lines for students at Killingly high school was given this evening in the gymnasium for the benefit of all those who are interested in this phase of the school's work. William K. Schofield and Miss Rachel Barnes of the faculty had charge of the demonstration, which included calesthenics, marching, folk dances and apparatus work by boys and girls of the junior and senior high schools. All features proved interesting and instructive.

Rev. Wilfred Desmarais, who died today of pneumonia at St. Francis' hospital in Hartford, was a brother of Mrs. Peter Benac of School street, formerly of Taftville. Fr. Desmarais was ordained to the priesthood as recently as June 1925.

Miss Margaret McBride, who has been spending the winter at Bellelair, Fla., is expected to return here the first of the coming week.

Were it not for a change in the law making the opening date April 15, this year, this would be the eve of the trout fishing season of 1928.

Mrs. Rosa Warren, who showed some improvement early in the week after having been very critically ill, was reported today as not so well.

MYSTIC

Miss Jessie Croucher was given a surprise shower at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. William Croucher of Bank street, during the week. Her marriage with Melville Bradley will take place in May. DANIELSON, March 30—Death claimed Patrick F. Murray with shocking suddenness at 10:45 this morning at his home on Academy street. He had just returned from a shopping trip down town and complained of a severe pain in his left arm. Mrs. Murray was quick to sense that he was dangerously ill and after ministering to him hurriedly sent out a call for medical and spiritual aid. Mr. Murray was past all earthly help and died within a few minutes. Heart disease was given as the cause of death.

His death was so stunning to the members of his family and his friends here because it was not evident that he would be stricken, for he had been in his usual good health and about as usual every day. He was 67 years of age.

Mr. Murray was born in Pomfret, a son of William and Bridget Stapleton Murray, but practically all of his life had been spent in Wauregan and Danielson, though he was employed in Putnam for a number of years. He had been retired from active business for a number of years.

Few men are so universally liked as was Mr. Murray. His invariably even, kindly disposition, his charitable attitude toward life and the things of life and his love and constant consideration of his family were among the many splendid traits of character that earned for him such general esteem. His death brings a crushing weight of sorrow upon his loved ones and the feeling of a distinct sense of loss to the great numbers who were his friends.

Mr. Murray leaves his wife, who before their marriage was Miss Mary E. McBride of Wauregan, a son, Leslie, and two sisters, Misses Catherine and Annie Murray, both of Wauregan. Other relatives here are Mr. and Mrs. Martin Wolfe, Misses Emma and Margaret McBride, Michael Cronin, Edward McBride, Misses Julia and Annie Arthur, cousins, Miss Julia Murray, granddaughter, Misses Helen and Madelyn Cronin, nieces. Mrs. Annie Raymond and William Gaffney of Wauregan are niece and nephew and Mrs. John Murray of Manchester, Conn., is a sister-in-law.

Mr. Murray was a member of St. James' parish and for years held membership in Rose of Lima council, K. of C., of Danielson and in Putnam lodge of Elks.

LOCAL GROUP READY TO TAKE OVER HOTEL PLAN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, March 30—A suggestion heard this morning was that, if Landlord William S. Brown of Danielson is agreeable, and he does not care to carry out on his own account the project of building a new combination hotel-theater building in Danielson, a group of men might be formed to purchase the Attawaugan hotel site from Mr. Brown and take over, if possible, the financing proposition that has been made to him for the building of the proposed structure.

Admittedly many ifs and ands stand between this proposition and its realization, though they may not be so insurmountable as may seem at first glance. It is known that Mr. Brown has been willing to sell the hotel property upon a number of occasions within the past few years. He is frank to say he has had several offers of purchase. It is not beyond the realm of possibilities that he would sell at this time. Purchase of this property is a necessary step to carry out the building plan.

The suggestion heard this morning from a responsible quarter was that a small corporation be formed to purchase the hotel property of Mr. Brown, if the group can be assured of the same financing plan that he has been offered. This group need not number more than twelve or fifteen persons, and it has been said that it would be well to have Mr. Brown among them. This arrangement would not entail any heavy investment on the part of anyone and would eliminate any stock-selling campaign in the enterprise. Likely this proposal will get considerable attention in the not distant future, especially if it proves agreeable to Mr. Brown when put up to him in definite form.

This morning there was a hearing before Referee Louis A. Wolsard in the bankruptcy case of Mrs. Jennie Goodman, who was engaged in business here under the trade name Boston store for a few months last fall and during the early part of the winter season. The liabilities were shown to be approximately $7,000, and the assets, as appraised, about $4,200. Attorney A. G. Bill was counsel for Mrs. Goodman. The offer of settlement was 25 cents on the dollar and this was accepted both the majority number and amount of claims.

Alfred Hilton, 51, a former resident of Danielson, died today at St. Luke's hospital in New Bedford. The body was brought here this evening by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy. Mr. Hilton was a native of England, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hilton, but had lived for many years in this country. Mrs. Stephen Sutton of the West Side is a sister of Mr. Hilton's. Another sister is Mrs. Howard Worthen of New London, and there is a brother resident in Canada.

Expectation that his relatives and friends would be able to produce the $5,000 bail required for his release from Brooklyn jail, where he has been held since early in the week to answer to a charge of automobile manslaughter had not been realized today by George Morel of Lowell, who was the driver of the automobile that figured in an accident near Wilsonville Monday night when Morel's father was fatally injured. Coroner Bill did not hold an inquest in the case today, but is arranging to do so in the immediate future.

This evening Secretary William S. Hunter and W. H. G. Herklots of the Danielson chamber of commerce were in Norwich to participate in a conference made up of representatives of similar organization in various eastern Connecticut towns. Various subjects of interest to communities in this section of the state were to be taken up for consideration.

A demonstration of what is being done along physical culture lines for students at Killingly high school was given this evening in the gymnasium for the benefit of all those who are interested in this phase of the school's work. All features proved interesting and instructive.

WHAT AVIATION IS DOING

Establishing a new record for sustained flight is not accomplished every month but it is bound to come. Thus the accomplishment of Stinson and Haldeman comes in the natural course of events but there is never any telling who is going to be the ones to carry off the honors.

This in no way lowers the credit which belongs to the successful fliers. Stinson has been through such a battle before. This is the second record he has made so he knows the ropes thoroughly and likewise knows the importance which is attached to the flying equipment and the weather conditions.

The endurance record has gone back and forth across the Atlantic. Today American fliers hold the distinction of having stayed in the air an hour and nearly 14 minutes longer than was done by two German fliers last July or less than a year ago. Several attempts have been made in this country since the last record was established but, for various reasons, and reasons which any fliers are likely to encounter, they were unsuccessful.

The new record marks once more the progress that has been made in aviation, in flying machine construction and in the skill of the operators under such conditions as had to be faced. These are certain to continue so that though there is a record at 53 hours, 36 minutes and 30 seconds there is no telling how long it will remain or who the next record breakers will be.

What progress is being made in aviation is further reflected in the new speed record which was made by Major De Bernardi at Venice where he averaged 318.57 miles an hour and even attained a maximum speed of 400. It is difficult to comprehend, but here again there is no reason to suppose that this is the limit. Others will succeed in exceeding it.

With speed and endurance flying reaching new records the world is getting positive evidence of the steadily increasing importance of aviation and the need of communities making provision for airports or places where they can land whether on business or pleasure. Norwich has reason to give this matter early and serious consideration.

CROSSING TENDERS

Something new, in this part of the country at least, is the action taken by the Boston & Maine railroad in placing 25 of its railroad crossings in charge of a contractor. Under the arrangement the railroad undertakes to dispose of a bothersome problem, from all indications. Instead of being hampered by looking out for the details in connection with this class of work at those specified points the road leaves it to others. It isn't a case of taking its responsibility but of placing it elsewhere so far as the actual work is concerned.

How this is going to work out will be watched with keen interest by other railroads in this part of the country, if in fact they need such information. The railroad by contracting for this kind of work is relieved of the task of obtaining such employes. It must of course insist upon the efficient administration of the work and the proper protection of the crossings. There can be no such thing as the thought that there is to be any letup in the guarding of grade crossings.

It is natural to infer that as the result of the study which has been given to this matter by the railroad that it is convinced that the arrangement will be to its advantage. The contracting system has been adopted in other respects and this is but an extension of the practice on the part of this road. It might thus be expected that the road's purpose is to be relieved of certain details after the test that it has been making in other branches of the railroad service.

Just what protection the road has that the work will be carried out as expected is not known, but it is anticipated that provisions have been made for covering that point and possibly for insuring the road against inattention or lapse of service. Just where the responsibility will rest in case of accidents at such points may be a question to be solved for it doesn't appear that the road would be relieved of the responsibility of its agent in the cast of such a contract unless that is stipulated and proper financial obligations assumed.

NO GOVERNMENT OPERATION

What a fine time there will be for some if certain plans are carried out in regard to Muscle Shoals! According to the ideas which have been advanced by the house committee the plan is to have a federal commission run the plant and provide it with a fund of $10,000,000 with which to do so. That looks like handing over $10,000,000 for experimental purposes with no telling what may become of it. Running such a plant has many possibilities. It can be kept in operation whether it is done at a profit or loss. If there is a rich treasury back of it it could be maintained indefinitely without any benefit being derived from it.

Muscle Shoals could be kept under the control of the government for the purpose of having it ready for service in case the country faced an emergency and must have nitrates for explosives quickly and in large quantities. But here again there would be no economic foresight, for while such a plant might be able to turn out nitrates in sufficient quantities to meet all requirements of the government it is fully understood right now that it is possible to make nitrates by other methods than those contemplated at Muscle Shoals at a much lower figure. Thus the government would be paying for its desired product a much higher price than is necessary or warranted just for the purpose of carrying on a costly government ownership proposition.

The nitrate situation today is such that Muscle Shoals does not mean to the country what it did at the close of the war. Then it was not ready for service but it was to provide the last word in the way of a plant for getting nitrates from the air. Conditions have changed, improvements have been made and now instead of trying to fatten a white elephant congress would do a good job if it would get down to the business of disposing of the plant either through sale or lease. Inasmuch as it isn't needed for what it was intended it is time to put it to work for such purposes as it is available and under the guidance of private enterprise. The government will never get out of the plant what it has put into it, but the idea of constantly pouring more in isn't a good proposition.

THE ROBBINS CANDIDACY

By its action in giving endorsement to the candidacy of Lee Roy Robbins for the mayoralty nomination, the republican town committee has acted in a manner which will unquestionably get the endorsement of not only the republicans of the city but many other citizens regardless of party.

Mr. Robbins is no stranger here. He is a young man who has all the qualifications for the office and one which has made an excellent impression in the various political offices which he has held. He has given a good account of himself whenever the test has been applied.

As prosecutor in the city court he has administered the duties of that difficult office in a manner which has given general satisfaction.

As state senator he has given an excellent account of himself in the general assembly at the past two sessions and at both elections it was evident that he had the confidence of the residents of this district.

There are good reasons for believing that the endorsement which has been given by the town committee to his candidacy will be ratified at the caucus of the republican party. Under such a leader there is good reason for believing that he can be elected as well as nominated. With an able young man ready to take on the duties of the chief executive of the city, a young man of the best qualifications and character, he is certainly entitled to undivided support. With that provided and with the getting out of the vote the prospects are bright for republican success at the polls at the coming June election.

SENATOR WILLIS

The death of Senator Frank B. Willis of Ohio comes with a suddenness that is shocking but which may indicate the strenuousness of the campaign which he has been conducting for the presidential nomination.

Senator Willis has been a leader in Ohio politics for a number of years having not only gotten the necessary support to become governor of his state but to be elected to the United States senate. He was one of the unflinching leaders in the dry cause and the possessor of a loud and far reaching voice which required no amplification in large meeting places. He had ambitions to be president and was working at the time of his death for the state delegates to the coming republican national convention in Kansas City.

His death will remove a political figure of prominence for no matter what the cause to which he gave his support he was unceasing in his efforts, while as a public speaker whether in the senate chamber or elsewhere his stentorian voice could be heard to the utmost corners. The contest in his own state was made possible chiefly because of the fact that many Ohioans believed that his chances for the nomination were such that he would not succeed and therefore a handicap ought not to be placed upon candidates favored by many of the rank and file and who it is believed will get countrywide support. His removal terminates a hard fight and removes from the United States senate a man who it was believed could be expected to grace its halls for many years to come.

The Mexican oil controversy has at last been settled. It took longer to do it, however, than it is hoped Teapot Dome will be kept perking.

Such efforts as are being made by the Massachusetts commission on the necessaries of life to get lower prices for hard coal will not find the consumer objecting to it.

Figuring it one way the only reason Miss Bell was not lost with Hinchliffe was because she offered him only $25,000 to fly with him across the Atlantic. So far as known she still has her money and is alive.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

It is hard to realize how much is packed into those two words: "heights beyond." I shall not forget the time when I heard a public address on this topic. The speaker was not a great man and his speech could hardly claim much literary value. But there was something about it that impressed me as it evidently did the rest of his auditors. He was talking to a group of Sunday school workers at a county convention. The main thought running through his address was that however well we do in teaching the lesson and looking after the spiritual welfare of our scholars, there are "heights beyond" that we should ever strive to scale. Never be satisfied with any present attainment, for if you are there will be no burning urge for any "heights beyond." When that urge ceases, you begin to cease as far as practical influence goes. In other words, you are becoming to be a dead stick.

It was not so much what the speaker said or how he said it that made a positive impression on me and obviously on the rest of his hearers. But it was the vastly larger world he opened up before us by way of inference. Let me show, first of all, how true this is in that vast dominion known to us as the natural world. Have you ever seen the splendid view from Lanman's hill? or Lamb's hill? or Liberty hill? (If not you ought to be ashamed of yourself—provided you are not an invalid—and be forced to see the view from Jail hill). Of course if you are a lover of nature you are going to be pleased with the diversified panorama. But your view is going to be limited simply because there are "heights beyond." Were you to stand on Mount St. Elias or the Matterhorn, it would be the same. It is always true that there are "heights beyond."

Are there before us, in any human probability, "heights beyond" that have not yet been surmounted along the line of man's further mastery of disease? Have we reached the very summit of endeavor in this direction, and can calmly wait with folded arms to receive the rewards of victory? What has already been done within the last one hundred years in the conquest of human maladies certainly borders close upon the miraculous. But when the awful skeleton of cancer grins at us menacingly, and Bright's disease triumphantly waves the black flag in our faces, and while infantile paralysis claims its thousands and insanity its tens of thousands every year not alone in benighted countries but in the boasted realms of civilization, we are compelled to say, much against our desire, "No, no, the apex of medical science has not yet been reached"—there are still "heights beyond."

Are we justified in believing that there are any "heights beyond" as regards continued advancement along the line of mechanical invention and discovery? Let us admit that much has been done already in this world of activity—but has the end been reached? For a long time after man's appearance upon the earth his only mode of locomotion—apart from the use of his legs—was by using the backs of some of the lower animals. At length some bright mind invented the wheel—one of the most useful things that ever sprang from the brain of man—then logically came a vehicle drawn by an animal, which, in its various degrees of development, became one of the greatest civilizing agencies. For ages it reigned well-nigh supreme. And doubtless people said, "we have reached the zenith along this line of development." Little did they think of what "heights beyond" the world was to see in the field of locomotion!

Are we justified in feeling that there are some "heights beyond" in the realm of human government? Are we sure beyond all peradventure that democracy is the final word in this realm? We can certainly ask this question without exposing ourselves to the charge of disloyalty. To have done so once would have been regarded by some as treasonable as questioning the permanent value of the Sermon on the Mount. But the time has passed for regarding a democratic form of government as probably the final word in the world of politics. From the time when the crudest form of human government began up to the present, there has been an evolutionary process going on from within as to politics. It is probably the consensus of the largest number of intelligent people up to the present moment that a democratic form of government comes the nearest to the ideal of any form yet attempted. But the question is, has the ideal been reached?

In some quarters it will doubtless be looked upon as heresy raised to the nth degree to even intimate that there are "heights beyond" as to a larger spiritual revelation waiting for this old world of ours just as soon as it is ready to receive it, and is capable of appropriating it. Is there any solid reason for believing that man's spiritual nature is governed by laws that materially differ from those that govern both his body and mind? The average life of the human body has greatly advanced in the last one hundred years because we understand it better and take better care of it. The capacity of the human mind to discover many of the hidden things of God during the same length of time borders upon the miraculous. In view view of what a kind Creator has done for both the body and the mind, is it not likely that the spiritual is going to keep pace? Why should it lag behind? God will respond to man's searching in this direction also.

Are there any "heights beyond" as to the need of our curbing those trends that tend to lower us in the sight of God and in the estimation of our fellow men? This is a matter that comes right down to every persons' conduct. How many people who are not obsessed with vanity can honestly say that they have reached a point in living that is beyond criticism? When you meet a person who will look you straight in the eye and say without a quiver in the voice that he or she is living an absolutely perfect life, I would advise you to keep your hand on your pocketbook. Outside of an insane asylum, I have never heard a person claim this but one—a woman—and she finally landed there. I love to think that every age of the world has been passed by saintly men and women—there have been more of them than we realize, and they are the very last who would boast about it. They are the ones who see most clearly the "heights beyond."

Are there not "heights beyond" all of us in the line of larger effort to help those who are in the shadows to see more of the light? If I am dead in earnest in trying to solve this great problem of living, may I not every day help in removing the film from somebody's eye? May I not lift somebody up out of the mire? Is there not somebody who is hungry for something that I can give him better than anybody else? May I not clothe something better than the tatters he is wearing? Have I food that somebody needs and ought to have? Is there no way in life that I am morally bound to point out to somebody who is going wrong? Has not God appointed me to wipe away somebody's tears, because I have better access to him than others? Let nobody have the audacity to claim spiritual perfection who has not climbed these moral "heights beyond."

Commander Byrd Anticipates Antarctic's Hazards

Geographical features of Antarctica, the south polar continent to which Commander Richard E. Byrd will lead an expedition equipped with airplanes for exploring its vast unknown areas, are shown in this map. Amundsen, Scott and Shackleton approached from the Ross sea, which is cut off by a broad ice barrier. Byrd probably will make a similar approach, establishing his main base on the barrier itself.

NEW YORK, March 31—(AP)—Some of the difficulties confronting an airplane expedition to Antarctica, such as Commander Richard E. Byrd is organizing, are set forth in a chapter which the aviator has contributed to "Problems of Polar Research," a book just published by the American Geographical society of New York.

Reviewing the problems of exploration by aircraft in this volume by thirty-one prominent explorers and scientists, Commander Byrd refers to the experiences of his flight over the North Pole and then says:

"Apparently there would be more hazard from storms in the Antarctic regions than in the Arctic, because the spring and summer storms there sometimes reach great intensity, and not only would it be very dangerous to fly in them, but there would be a likelihood of the airplane being blown about by the winds when on the ground.

"Skis would have to be used when flying inland even in the summer, because snow seems to cover a large part of the Antarctic continent, and the land is probably too rough for landing with wheels. On the routes that may be flown across the Antarctic continent there would probably be many places where planes could land.

"It would therefore seem inadvisable to make very long flights in the Antarctic, it being more practicable, if possible of accomplishment, to advance by bases—say one base to every 200 miles. That would decrease the hazard in view of the chances of life in the interior of the Antarctic continent, it would be impossible to live off the country, and, in case of a forced landing 500 miles or more from the base, it probably would be likewise impossible for two or three men, to pull on a sledge enough food and other equipment to get back safely.

"For flying around the edge of the Antarctic continent an amphibian type of plane would be desirable."

A territory, the vast southern continent which Commander Richard E. Byrd plans to visit, is a land of mystery. Its existence was suspected by the early geographers, who placed it on their globes, and many of its outlying islands were discovered by the ocean rovers of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. The continent itself was first seen in 1820 by E. Bransfield, an Irishman in the British navy, who sighted Trinity Peninsula, Graham Land. Parts of the coast are now moderately well known, but the 5,000,000 square miles of icy interior, crossed by lofty mountains, remain in obscurity except for limited views obtained by Amundsen, Scott and Shackleton on their polar trips. The high central plateau is covered with a glacier of unknown depth.

Further along in the chapter Commander Byrd writes:

"So little of the Antarctic continent is known, that a base established anywhere on its border would, for the air explorer, be at the threshold of unknown regions. A combination of airplanes and dog teams would be preferable in the Antarctic also. Airships would be of little use on account of strong winds. So far as we know, Amundsen's base at the edge of the ice would be the best location for the main base."

Sir Douglas Mawson, the Australian explorer, believes there is much in Antarctica that may be of "direct economic value." Sir Douglas, another contributor to the book, points out that whaling in Antarctic waters is an established industry and that the penguins and seals on the coasts and in the pack-ice zone also offer opportunities for future exploitation. Coal is known to exist over a large area on the continent, he writes, while ores of many metallic elements have been found in small quantities.

"Finally," he concludes, "the Antarctic continent may have a future as a source of power by harnessing the phenomenal winds which in some area sweep down as a steady torrent from the cold ice plateau to the sea. There is some possibility, therefore, of the eventual establishment of a sparse and strictly limited population on Antarctic shores. The prospects are yet, however, somewhat remote."

YOUR HEALTH

TUBERCULOSIS OF BONES AND JOINTS.

By Linsly R. Williams, M. D., New York, Managing Director, National Tuberculosis Association.

Tuberculosis of the bones and joints is one of childhood's cruelest enemies. Not until thirty odd years ago was it recognized that spinal disease, hip joint disease, and other forms of joint diseases are all tuberculosis of the bone, caused by the tubercle bacillus. It is believed that many cases of this type are acquired through the drinking of milk from cows which have tuberculosis, and not necessarily from persons who have the disease. The decided decrease in bone tuberculosis, noticed especially in large cities, has taken place since health departments have required the pasteurization of milk.

The disease comes on gradually, and at first the symptoms are not very definite. One of the first symptoms is pain which, curiously, is not usually felt at the site of the injury. Disease in the upper portion of the spine, for example, may cause pain in the chest or abdomen, while the pain of hip joint disease is most often felt in the knee. In time the muscles become weak which, together with the child's tendency to protect the joint, results in awkwardness of motion.

The earlier tuberculosis of the bones and joints is discovered, the more certain is the cure. The general treatment is like that of tuberculosis of the lungs—rest, fresh air, and good food under the care of a good doctor. In order to keep the bone at rest, plaster casts or braces are used, and in the case of tuberculosis of the spine the back is often fixed to a special apparatus.

Parents should beware of too energetic treatment of this disease. Nothing could be more harmful than rough manipulation. Children have remarkable recuperative qualities, and if proper treatment is faithfully carried out, the disease of the bone may be arrested and the joint stiffened, because the new bone knits the ends of the old bone together, but that slight handicap is far better than continued destruction.

In certain cases the surgeon may remove the diseased portion of bone and deliberately stiffen the joint. A method of grafting new bone in place of destroyed portions has also been devised, which is very successful in special cases. A new method of treatment, which is still in the experimental stage, is exposing the child to sunlight.

The important point, however, is that tuberculosis of the bone, like tuberculosis of the lung, if detected early and given proper treatment, is curable in any climate. A better understanding of bone tuberculosis promises the hope of more favorable results and, if not a cure, at least restoration of the function of the limb.

Sunday Morning Talk

He Gave His Life

For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life.

For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved. John 3:16;17.

Can we slight or think lightly of such love? While we were yet sinners Christ died for us, the sinless One died for the sinner. Christ has redeemed us by His own blood, and so obtained eternal redemption for us. This was a stupendous work of God the Father, surpassing the creation of all suns and systems. Well might Peter call it precious, for who can grasp its cost and value? Our redemption well-nigh made bankrupt of heaven, for it demanded the most precious thing in heaven and earth, the humiliation and the life of the beloved and only begotten Son of God.

He became our sin-bearer and put away sin by the sacrifice of Himself. When we see and realize the power of the blood shed upon Calvary, and realize He died for us, let us bring it home to ourselves, make it personal, and also think upon what Christ had suffered that we might have the joy that comes from living the true life, and when done with this earthly life we may enter in through the gates into the city where all shall be joy and peace in Him who gave His life.

Must Jesus bear the cross alone, and all the world go free? No; there's a cross for every one, and there's a cross for me.

The consecrated cross I'll bear till death shall set me free, and then go home my crown to wear; for there's a crown for me.

Upon the crystal pavement, down at Jesus' pierced feet, with joy I'll cast my golden crown, and His dear name repeat.

Stories That Recall Others

Electricity In Coat.

Bobby, age five, had been left in the care of his aunt while his mother was doing some shopping.

"Why," said Bobby, "Does mother want a coat with electricity in it?"

"A coat with electricity in it," said the aunt, "surely you must be mistaken."

"No I am not," insisted Bobby. "She said she was going to buy a coat and have it charged."

Observing.

Junior age three, went to the kitchen where he found his grandpa picking a chicken. As the child watched, he noticed tha. the breast and back feathers came off easily. When grandpa started on the wings he had to jerk the feathers rather hard to get them out. The child noticed this extra exertion and asked:

"What'ch doin' now grandpa, pulling the stems off?"

"Working With God"

SCRIPTURE: Memory Verse: "To him that hath no might, he increaseth strength" (Isaiah 40:29).

Read Isaiah 40:27-31.

MEDITATION: It is said that during the construction of one of the East river bridges in New York city the engineers were baffled by an old sunken barge which lay embedded in the river bottom. Powerful engines, steel cables, derricks and rafts were powerless to remove the obstruction. A young man fresh from a technical school asked permission to try his hand. At low tide he had a large barge towed out to the sunken derelict. As the tide came in from the Atlantic, the barge rose, bringing with it the submerged wreck. "The young engineer had linked to his task the limitless power of the ocean tides." So we may link the might of God to our tasks. Whoever consecrates his life to some aim that is God's aim will have behind him the infinite might of God.

PRAYER: Almighty God, we thank Thee for the mighty forces of this world which augment our little powers and which come to the help of those who pursue Thy sacred purpose. Let this season be Thy divine help make us strong for every good work to which the day shall summon us. Amen.

SOUTH MANCHESTER PASTOR MAY COME TO NORWICH

(Special to The Bulletin)

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 30—The illness of Rev. J. H. Graham of Trinity church, Norwich is deeply regretted by his many friends at the New England Southern conference. His case has been referred to the conference board of stewards and the board of conference relations and sympathetic and generous consideration is expected.

It is now stated as a possibility, which is receiving favorable consideration by the cabinet that Rev. Joseph Cooper will be appointed to Norwich Trinity to follow Rev. Mr. Graham. Mr. Cooper has been for many years one of the outstanding preachers of the conference. His successful pastorate at Central church, Brockton for eight years 1914-22 and his pastorate of six years at South Manchester just closing which has made that church one of the most influential in the conference are among the interesting evidences that Norwich people will have cause for gratitude if this appointment is made.

BABSON REPRESENTATIVE WILL COME HERE TO AMEND RECENT SURVEY

C. W. Wallour, director of research of the Babson Statistical organization, was in Norwich Friday as a result of a letter forwarded from the local chamber of commerce, in which his attention was called to the action of the board of directors at their special meeting on Wednesday noon, at which they voted not to accept the report in its present form.

Charles W. Taggart, chairman of the industrial survey committee, with Secretary Walter H. Pilcher, entertained Mr. Wallour at luncheon and a session followed, which lasted until late in the day. The representative was told the views of the local committee and directors with regard to several important items which were not included or at least elaborated on in the survey, notably under the heading of "Transportation," the deepening of the Thames and its possible effect upon the industrial and commercial welfare of Norwich; more information on freight rates, railroad facilities; possibilities of their development; bus service, etc., were mentioned.

Also more data in regard to the composition of labor, the nationalities represented; payrolls in factories. Many other items were discussed, such as power, fuel and water facilities; our $1,000,000 investment in the new reservoir; the trading facilities and territory; quality of the stores and progressiveness of the merchants; the good roads in and out of Norwich; the table of building permits issued; cost of living comparisons with other cities; a list of available sites for new factories; a more adequate explanation of the criticism of the post office service; more specific information relative to certain institutions and clubs; more data about the climate; the Babson's opinion relative to the proposed consolidation of the city and town, etc.

It was also explained to Mr. Wallour that a feeling seemed to be prevalent in Norwich that they had magnified liabilities and had said very little about the assets. To which Mr. Wallour stated that their purpose in making a study of Norwich was to help the city to correct unfavorable conditions and he believed that if the citizens of Norwich would take to heart the recommendations of the Babson survey and were to start out to correct them, that the investment of time and money in the survey would be well expended. After the conclusion of the conference, Mr. Wallour agreed to send a representative here next week to work until the survey is put in satisfactory form for use by the local organization.

PRES. MARSHALL SPEAKS AT Y LENTEN SERVICE

Notwithstanding the inclement weather there was the usual good attendance at the Y. M. C. A. noon lenten service Friday, when the parlors were again filled with business men. James M. Morton of The American Woolen mills presided. General Secretary Edwin Hill offered the prayer, and Hugh Kinder rendered a vocal solo, and also officiated at the piano. The Hymn used was, "Under His Wings."

Before presenting the speaker, Mr. Morton said that he had been reading recently "Bunyan's Pilgrims Progress," and he was impressed with the statement that "midway up the hill of the Lord," there was a place for spiritual refreshment. Dr. B. T. Marshall of New London announced as his topic, "Taking Jesus Christ Seriously", in his dignification of the home, the church and the state. He read from the Gospel of Luke the story of Jesus at the home of Martha and Mary, and also the story of where the Pharisees came to Jesus with the question, "Is it lawful to pay tribute to Cesar?"

Dr. Marshall spoke in part as follows:

"Jesus greatly honored the home, and often sought certain homes for friendship and refreshment of spirit; he also placed emphasis on the need of being obedient to the state. If in all of our relationships we could just tune our ears, hold our memories, the words of Jesus and extract his spirit and fuse it into our characters, our judgements, and our principles, it would be the greatest thing that could happen to us.

Mary and Joseph belonged to a small sect known as "The Devout." In every church there is a very small group, who, tho they say little, would be less than one per cent. They are much in prayer; they are alert to the sense of human need; sensitive to the will of God; these are the devote in our day. Such were Mary and Joseph. What an atmosphere for Jesus to be brought up in. Jesus was very close to his father and mother; he had no pals outside. Jesus greatly respected woman, and he had a keen sense of the bond of relationships that should exist between a husband and wife; it should be an attitude of forebearance, burden bearing and beautiful faith. Jesus knew well that unless these relationships were of that sort, the home could really be a home. Jesus was natural as a home guest; with the rich or poor, he was never embarrassed. He always assumed the correct attitude to the state; to government. He paid his taxes, etc. He made much of the church; he went there to meet God, and we do well to remember that the preaching and the choir, are not the main reasons why we go to church, tho these are very valuable helps to our worship. We should go to meet God, as Jesus did, and we will always find him there. Let us know that home, and church, and state and even business have all been lifted into a new and higher realm by the influence of Jesus Christ.

Next Friday, Dr. Marshall will conclude the series.

PIANO PUPILS GIVE VERY ENJOYABLE RECITAL

The fifth of the regular recitals of the piano pupils of Miss Margarete Suck was held Friday afternoon in the schoolroom of the Norwich Private Day school on Lincoln avenue. The parents, who were present, as well as the 14 young piano students, thoroughly enjoyed listening to the many interesting selections offered, and the good singing quality of tone and the smooth scale work displayed in every pupil's numbers, were especially commented on.

Among the numbers were: Kreisler's Viennese Valse, "Liebesfreud," played by Susanne Higgins; an arrangement of the "Spinning Chorus" from the "Flying Dutchman," Wagner, played by Alice C. Higgins, and the A-flat Impromptu op. 90, Schubert, played by Charlotte Disco. The pupils who played were Mary E. Pullen, Louise Pullen, Janet Morton, Evelyn Burbeck, L. C. Maples, Marietta Vignot, Beatrice Eggleton, Dorothy Locke, Sarah Tingley, Charlotte Disco, Susanne Higgins and Alice Higgins.

TELEPHONE SERVICE EMBLEM TO JAMES T. WOODS

The annual meeting of the Morris F. Tyler chapter, Telephone Pioneers of America, was held last Wednesday at the Lawn club, New Haven, with James T. Moran, president of the chapter, and of the Southern New England Telephone Co., presiding. It brought together about 180 of the 240 telephone workers in this state who are members of the association by reason of having been in telephone service 21 years or more. During the luncheon, President Moran presented to James T. Woods of this city a 40-year service emblem, conveying to Mr. Woods the well wishes of the management and his associates. The emblem was placed in Mr. Woods' coat lapel by Miss Margaret Coyle of New London, the baby girl pioneer of the meeting.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE WILL PROBABLY BE MADE

A warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Herbert F. Ferguson, of No. 161 Broadway, probably on a charge of manslaughter, will be issued shortly, it was learned Friday night. Mrs. Ferguson was the driver of the LaSalle automobile which overturned on the military highway, near the Norwich state hospital, late Wednesday night, causing the death two hours later of Lloyd D. Hall, of No. 160 Broadway, serious injuries to his brother, Joseph H. Hall, Jr., same address, and injuries to Lieut. Day of the Submarine base and Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson. The case, following the serving of the warrant, will come up before the Norwich city court, it was also learned. The accident occurred almost on the Norwich-Preston town line.

Friday afternoon State Police Officers Webber and Busch questioned Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson at their home on Broadway and secured statements regarding the accident from both. Atty. Earl Mathewson, who has been retained by Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson, was present at the time. The nature of the statements could not be learned Friday evening, but it was understood that they were very full and frank.

It is probable that the case, when it is called in the local city court, will be continued, under bonds, pending the finding of Coroner Jeremiah J. Desmond.

The condition of Lieutenant Day, who is a patient at the Submarine base hospital, was said Friday to be bordering on the critical. He is suffering from internal injuries and had a bad day Thursday and that night his condition became worse, so much so as to cause considerable alarm.

Joseph H. Hall, another of the victims of the accident, and a patient at the Backus hospital, is said to be suffering from concussion of the brain. In addition he has a fractured collar bone and a slight fracture of the temple bone. Joseph H. Hall, father of the two young men, is on his way to Norwich from San Francisco, with another son, Philip, and they are expected to arrive here late Monday, in time for the funeral of Lloyd G. Hall, which will be held Tuesday.

LOCAL BASKETBALL SEASON CLOSES WITH N. F. A.-CRESCENTS GAME TONIGHT

N. F. A.		Crescents

Pingree, rf		rf, Yerrington
Viau, c		c, Harris
LaCroix, lg		lg, Murphy
Kelly, rg		rg, Brown

The local basketball season comes to its official ending tonight at the Y gym when the Academy and Taftville Crescents grapple in their one-game series for the town title. Both teams will use their strongest lineups and both are strongly confident of victory.

Having just completed the taking of city title away from the C. F. C. the Red and White expects its sensational winning streak, that began over a month ago will run into seven straight games. After a poor early-season, the Academy suddenly found itself about the latter part of February and since then has displayed a brand of basketball as good, if not better, than most high schools showed all year. However, tonight they are facing a team really above their class and one that has had a successful season, even though losing to the Plainfield Prep in the eastern Connecticut title series.

It will really be a "town-and-gown" affair of which much is heard and it ought to draw a capacity house. Preparations have been made for such to round out a good year at the popular indoor game for Norwich.

In the preliminary the Y Emps will meet some strong team, which has at yet not been decided.

The preliminary starts at 8 p. m. with the main game an hour later.

BASKETBALL BRIEFS

The C. F. C. played fine ball last night, according to reports, in winning over the Stonington Iron Men.

Yerrington and Pingree ought to be a big help to the Baptists from now on.

The Academy and Taftville Crescents tonight to close the local basketball year.

Two Academy players were given honorable mention on the Willimantic Chronicle's All-opponent team for Windham High. They were Les Pingree and Buck LaCroix.

A big basketball evening is slated for New London tonight to close their basketball season. Three games bringing the New London Y, Chapman Tech and Williams Memorial Institute teams into action against outside teams are scheduled.

DUWELLS TO INVITE DE MAR FOR MARATHON

With amateur boxing enjoying a temporary rest the Duwell A. A. has for the time being turned its attention to the preliminary details connected with the staging of its annual classic, the Memorial day road race. The committee to have charge of the 1928 run was appointed early in the week and immediately come forth with the announcement that the run would be over a ten mile course this year instead of five as has been the case since the run was introduced two years ago.

Last year there was some talk of increasing the distance but in hopes of encouraging local competition the committee in charge left the distance at 5 miles. However, the pack of 78 runners that answered the starters gun in 1927 had in it only five Norwich boys. Feeling that this is the limit of local competition and that the increased distance would lure a classier field of runners to Norwich The newly appointed committee first doubled the original distance before making any plans at all for the coming event.

The next step was to secure a list of the clubs in the Connecticut, New England and Metropolitan associations of the A. A. U. Invitations will be sent to several hundred organizations in the mentioned associations within the next week asking them to enter teams of runners in the 1928 Duwell run. Special invitations will be sent to Clarence De Mar, four time winner of the Boston marathon, Bill Kennedy, Connecticut A. A. U. president, "Whitey" Michalson, Frank Titgerton, winner of the 1926 Duwell race, and a number of other celebrities.

This year, the year of the Olympics, it is expected will create more interest in marathoning than was ever shown before. Although little has been said of the coming run up to the present time the Duwell officials have received a number of requests for information concerning the event from runners in both Connecticut and New York. Word of the 1926-27 runs has been passed around among the distance men of the east and people who never before had heard of Norwich are anxious to come here this year.

One of the reasons for the success of the previous runs has been the splendid array of prizes awarded the competing athletes. The prize list one of the best offered for competition anywhere has been made possible through the kindness of the various organizations of the city. The different orders donated prizes for the past two runs and they will be asked and repeat again this year. All prizes will be suitably engraved and will be inscribed with the name of the donator.

Further information relative to the 1928 road race may be had by applying to "Sport," Care of Duwell A. A.

GIANTS SCORE 17 RUNS IN ONE INNING TO BEAT CHATANOOGA

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 30—(AP)—If only the fifth inning had been left out, Chattanooga, of the Southern association, might have handed the New York Giants a trimming today.

Exceedingly docile for four innings, McGraw's hirelings uncorked a batting spree in the fifth that ended only when 17 runs had crossed the plate, the final score being 18 to 8. Darkness halted the contest in the seventh.

Those seventeen runs came within one of tying the major league record for most runs scored in an inning. In 1883, the Chicago Cugs of the old National league, scored 18 times against Detroit in one frame. The New York Yankees set the modern league record of 14 against Washington in 1920.

The Giants batted around twice as a team in the fifth today, while Art Jahn, a pinch hitter, and Ed Roush came to the plate three times. Jahn started the inning by flying out and then walked twice before the frame closed. Roush got a walk, a triple and a single in his three trips.

Three Chattanooga hurlers walked six men in the hectic session and allowed eleven hits, including triples by Roush, Ott and O'Doul and a home run by Travis Jackson.

Jack Levy and Art Johnson pitched for the Giants, the former being found for nine hits and seven runs. Johnson allowed two hits and a run the rest of the way. Score:

New York (N)—	000	000	0017	100—18	1	2
Chattanooga—	104	200	001	100—8	11	1

BROOKLYN MAKES IT THREE STRAIGHT OVER BRAVES

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 30—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers made it three in a row over the Boston Braves today, 3 to 2, but Ed. Brandt, recruit left hander for the Redskins won a morale victory by going the full route.

Brandt pitched well, allowing but seven hits over the nine innings but the Robins bunched their safeties when they were needed most. Bill Doak started for Brooklyn and gave way to Doug McWeeney in the fifth after the Braves had found him for five hits and both their runs.

Brandt struck out five men, getting Harvey Hendricks on strikes three times. Score:

Boston (N) ..	010	100	000—	2	7	0

Final Game of Season For Town Title

SPORT SLANTS

(By Brian Bell, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, March 30—(AP)—Stories that a stock market on a base stealin rampage had enriched Ty Cobb $200,000 and combined with reluctant legs to bring about hsi retirement from baseball were declared premature by the Georgia Peach at his Augusta home today.

The holder of more baseball records than any other player makes it clear that he has still enlisted with the Philadelphia Athletics for the duration of the 1928 campaign and expects to rejoin the White Elephants next week.

Ready for Season No. 24

Awaiting continued favorable reaction of Mrs. Cobb to a minor operation, Ty repeated that he had given assurances to Manager Connie Mack sthat he would play another year and was prepared for his 24th season under the big top of baseball.

His legs are given a good bill of health by the outfielder, whose stock taking has revealed them at par. He dismisses the reported clean-up in the stock market with a wish that it were true.

Cobb has seen General Motors and Coca Cola go up before when he was riding with them and much of his substantial fortune is believed to have been amassed in base-hitting stocks. The Georgian's legs are not so spry as they were a decade ago but they still will carry him reasonably close to where he wishes to go.

The player's emphatic denial that he has discarded his cleated baseball shoes as part of his useful equipment indicates that he will break some more records in 1928. He does not even have to get a base hit not steal a base to make new baseball marks. Every time he goes to bat he makes a record.

Connie Mack expects Cobb to prove of great value to the Athletics and will give him the right field assignment with several younger men available. Last season Ty hit .357 and finished fifth in the American league.

"Play One More Year"

He had determined in the winter season to retire but was persuaded by Manager Mack to "play one more year." Ty says he will go through with his contract and he should know.

Nevertheless it is a tired Ty starting out on his 24th year as a major leaguer. The years have made him weary of baseball and its traveling far from home. The game's first playing millionaire does not need the money, and he has begun to fear he may break his legs along with the records, but he is still willing to take the chance.

When he retires for good, it will be for the good of opposing pitchers who have been giving cheers as word came of his exit, only to recall them when Ty says "Not Yet."

CAMBRIDGE ENTERS OXFORD RACE AS THE FAVORITE

PUTNEY, England, March 30—(AP)—On the eve of the eightieth annual Oxford-Cambridge boat race expert opinion on the chances of the two crews seems to have settled into agreement with popular sentiment in backing Cambridge as favorite.

The Cantabs enter tomorrow's race over the approximate four-mile course with the prestige of overwhelming success since the war. Only once in the last eight years have the men of Oxford triumphed on the river. That was in 1923 when the Oxonians were stroked to victory by the American youth, W. P. Mellen, no Americans are in the Oxford boat this year for the struggle with the light blues, who now have four straight victories to their credit.

The Cambridge crew is believed to have greater power, while racing experts figure they put in greater harmony. Their individual experience and prowess also is rated slightly higher than that of the Oxonians.

Oxford has an advantage in a veteran coxswain, who knows the crooked Thames course by the sad experiences of the past two years, while Al Sulley, at the Cambridge tiller, will be in his first big race.

U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM SPENDS FIRST DAY SIGHTSEEING

MEXICO CITY, March 30—(AP)—The members of the United States Davis cup team spent their first morning in Mexico City on a sightseeing trip around the city under the guidance of Howard Kinsey, former Californian now captain of the Mexican team, and Eduardo Mestre, president of the Mexican Tennis association.

Their program includes a call at the American embassy to present their compliments to Ambassador Morrow and daily practise sessions. They intend to begin with light workouts and make them more strenuous as they become accustomed to the altitude.

William T. Tilden, captain of the team, said he expected to win the matches with Mexico, but predicted that the Americans would have to play at their best to do it.

Tilden spoke of the French star LaCoste as the best played in the world day in and day out, but added that he believed Cochet, when he is in form, to be the best player the world has ever seen.

HAHN AND CONGER WIN IN CHICAGO TRACK MEET

CHICAGO, March 30—(AP)—Two of America's middle distance stars, Lloyd Hahn of the Boston A. A. and Ray Conger, Illinois A. C. both won their events at the Chicago bankers meet at the Chicago Riding club tonight.

Hahn gained permanent possession of the bankers trophy by winning a close race in the mile run from Joe Sivak, Butler college freshman. Conger swept to an easy victory in the special 1,000 yards run. Because of a slow track neither came near breaking the world's indoor records.

The outstanding performances of the night was by Helen Filkey, who broke the women's world record in the sixty yard low hurdles, running the distance in 8 1-5 seconds, just 2-5 seconds better than the former record of Hazel Kirk of Newark, N. J.

Joe Sivak, college freshman who competed in the event unattached gave the Boston speeder spirited competition, leading nine tenths of the way. But on the final lap, Hahn sprinted, went into the lead and held it. Sivak was but two yards behind him.

The track, which is ten laps to the mile was not conducive to record breaking. It was cuppy and the numerous turns slowed the runners.

Joe Wexman, University of Chicago freshman, also running unattached, took third place. Six thousand spectators saw the race.

KID FRANCIS GETS WIN OVER PETE FIRPO AT DETROIT

DETROIT, March 30 (AP)—Kid Francis, New York bantamweight won the referee's decision over Pete Firpo in a one sided six round bout tonight.

Patsy Ruffalo, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., earned the verdict over Sammy Dorfman, crack New York featherweight in a six round semi-final.

LEO LOMSKI WINS SECOND CHANCE AT TITLE BOUT BY BEATING JOE SEKYRA

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, March 30—(AP)—A right hand that thudded steadily to the body with numbing effect and the inexperience of Joe Sekyra, curly-headed blonde youngster from Dayton, tonight won Leo Lomski a thrilling ten round battle—and the right to fight Tommy Loughran again for the light heavyweight championship.

Lomski Stronger

Sekyra could do just about as he pleased with the sturdy lumberman from Abredeen, Washington, when the going was in the open and the test was of speed, cleverness, and flashing left hands. But once inside, the cruel right hand that dropped Loughran twice in one round and numbered a half dozen of the best light heavyweights in the east, changed the whole aspect of things.

The bland pole from the tall pine country toyed with Sekyra at close quarters, taking advantage of the Dayton youth's holding to beat an unmerciful tattoo on Joe's body. Time and again, Lomski turned his foe around and smashed him on the back of the head with right hand slams that shook Sekyra to the heels. As the fight wore on, a crimson oval grew on Sekyra's body, there was a ruby patch across each set of ribs, and each additional body punch brought a wince of pain to the youngster's pinched features.

Sekyra Speedy

Although Sekyra knew no way of stopping Lowski's terrific body blows, he dazzled the Westerner with his swiftness afoot and the speed and lash of his left hand. Occasionally, Joe danced in with lashing rights to the head and a stiff right uppercut that drove the Lumbermans head back between his shoulders. But Lomski never let Joe play long at that game, however, luring his rival constantly into weakening close range battling. Sekyra's clean punching gave him an edge in three rounds. Lomski had a wide margin in the remaining seven.

Over 12,000 fans saw the show, scheduled to produce a challenger for Loughran in one of the early summer outdoor shows.

Sunny Jim Williams, a clowning Harlem Negro, kept Benny Ross, Buffalo light heavyweight, in a constant state of irritation and befuddlement, to win the eight round semi-final. Williams jabbed indiscriminately with left or right hand to Benny's huge annoyance. Neither boasted a punch heavier than a half hook. Ross weighed 175, Williams 162 1-2.

In one four round preliminary, Vinko Jakasa, of Jugo Slavia, 191 1-2, outpointed Zvonimir Matlevitch, of Wayko-Slavakia.

Jack Smith, a reformed minor league catcher who once tried out with the New York Yankees knocked out Jack Rozier, Galveston, Texas, Negro, in one round.

Smith had a nice over-hand peg that ended the festivities in 2 minutes and 35 seconds. Smith scaled 222 1-2, Rozier 228 1-2.

Preliminaries

Andy Di Vodi, New York welterweight won an eight round decision over Jimmy Finley of Louisville, Ky. Aside from a lukewarm exchange of rights to the chin, there was little action. DiVodi weighed 145, Finley 146.

In the first eight rounder, Nick Testo, of Troy, N. Y., defeated George Kid Lee of Worcester, Mass. Testo scaled 146 1-2, Lee 150 1-2.

ROGERS AND YORK TO PLAY IN GLENS FALLS FINALS TONIGHT

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., March 30—(AP)—Rogers high school, of Newport, R. I., and York, Pa., institute, will play for the Northeastern Interscholastic basketball championship tomorrow night as the result of the victories in the second night's play here tonight.

Rogers defeated St. John's Prep school of Danvers, Mass., by a score of 27 to 25, after having been at the short end of a 7-15 tally at the end of the first half. The York team had a little easier time defeating Wilby high of Waterbury, Conn., emerging from the game with a 37 to 22 score. York led all the way and was maintaining at half time, a lead of 15 to 9.

Wosenecroft of Rogers, Szeszkowski, of St. John's, and Ulrich, of York, were the outstanding players of the night. York made it fifteen straight victory tonight and St. John's suffered its first defeat this season.

Graham McNamee, radio announcer, will broadcast the final round tomorrow night from the basketball court.

The losing teams will play tomorrow night for the runners up trophy.

FRANKIE GENARO LOSES TO JACKIE JOHNSTON

TORONTO, Ont., March 30—(AP)—Jackie Johnston of Toronto, bantamweight champion of Canada, won from Frankie Genaro of New York, flyweight titleholder recognized by the National Boxing association, in a ten-round bout at the Coliseum here tonight. Genaro's crown was not at stake.

JOHNSTON, weighed 120 pounds, Genaro, 115. The American's bounding attack bothered Johnston for the first two rounds but after that Jackie shoved his left hand into Genaro's face and body, varying it with a right hook that shook Frankie badly at times. The Canadian boxer had the edge on Genaro in height, reach and weight. The American did most of the leading but was brought up short as Jackie's left ripped into his body.

In a slashing six round tussle, Tommy Mitchell of Toronto, defeated Eddie Speaks of Louisville, Ky. Clovis Durand, Montreal flyweight, won from Spider Ryan of Auburn, N. Y., in another six-rounder.

George Nichols, Sandusky, Ohio, middleweight, stopped Jack Golden of Toronto in the first round of a six round affair. The referee halted the battle after Nichols floored his opponent four times.

WHITE SOX HARD TO BEAT IF PITCHERS ARE RIGHT—SCHALK

By BRIAN BELL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

SHREVEPORT, La., March 30—(AP)—Ray Schalk has found his manager's legs and he starts his second season as pilot of the Chicago White Sox much more at ease than was the case about this time last year when he was feeling his way along.

"I am encouraged at the prospect," Schalk said. "We have a lot of speed on our club and I think it will help us make a showing.

"The pitchers look much better than they did at this tage last year and we should get some good pitching. Of course, without first class pitching we can't hope to get out among the leaders. I hope and believe, we will be a hard team to beat.

"Several of the younger players show promise of making good now and we will be better fortified against accident than we have been in the past. The players having their first trial with us have shown enough to make me think they will develop into regular players. We have not been able to see enough of them to pass final judgment but I am confident some of the recruits will stay with us right through the season.

"I hope Mostil will be able to return to us and pick up where he left off. He has worked hard to get in shape and while time only will tell how far he has succeeded, he will be given every chance and encouragement.

"The players are working hard and all our work is not done on the field by any means. We have a world of 'skull practice' at the hotel. Ed Walsh works with the pitchers, and I know no one who can tell them more than the 'Big Moose.' and Lena Blackburn never gets tired of teaching the infielders some of the tricks of the trade that will prove valuable later on.

BILLY BURKE LEADS IN NORTH-SOUTH WITH 216

By Horace Yonecar, Associated Press Sports Writer

PINEHURST, N. C., March 30—(AP)—Billy Burke, the New York professional who came into golfing fame a year or so ago by jumping from caddy master to a tournament leader, led the field today for the first 54 holes of the 72 hole north and south open golf meet, with a score of 73-69-74—216.

For today's 36 hole round, he had a 69 in the morning, three below par and a 74 in the afternoon despite a gale that made anything like par golf almost impossible.

Seven strokes behind the New Yorker came Tommy Armour, national open champion, and Tom Harmon, New York, each rounding out the day with a 223.

Bobby Cruickshank, defending champion, had an 80 this afternoon to tack to his 145 for the first two 18 hole rounds, placing him well in the rear of Burke with a 225.

BILLY BARTON BARELY MISSES VICTORY IN GRAND NATIONAL

AINTREE, Eng., March 30—(AP)—A nasty tumble with the goal in sight after all but one other horse had quit the grind today cost Billy Barton, the crack American jumper from the Blue Grass country of Kentucky, a place forever in the British racing hall of fame.

No American-bred horse ever has won the grand national steeplechase, historic grind of four and a half miles over the most treacherous of racing terrain. To Tipperary Tim, an unknown 100 to 1 shot and rank outsider, went the honor today of victory as well as of standing off the most strenuous American threat the British classic has known in its 89 years of running.

HIGH SCHOOL PROSPECTS

Westerly High

Graduation has taken an awful toll at Westerly but Coach Joel B. Sherman has hopes for another successful season. This school was state champs of Rhode Island last year, winning this honor in a post-season game up in Providence. They barely missed the championship of the eastern Connecticut-western Rhode Island league for the third straight year, N. F. A. winning its third straight title in a post season tilt.

Westerly has lost its whole infield, including a catcher and also two outfielders. Only Sawyer, star pitcher and D. Meikle, outfielder remain from last year's strong nine. There is plenty of available material from the lower classes, much of it from the freshman students.

It is quite a job to build a team around a pitcher and outfielder and prospects for as successful a year as last year's was are not bright for Westerly to the outsider. However, this team can be expected to make all kinds of trouble and even upset some of the best of them for Westerly plans heavily on baseball this year, as usual.

Westerly plans an easier schedule than last year, although meeting practically all teams in eastern Connecticut and western Rhode Island. Again, like Stonington, Westerly can expect her hardest games from N. F. A. and New London Bulkeley with a possibility of some of her own state rivals also proving a bit too hard to down.

Outdoor practice has not yet begun in earnest but this is expected to start within a few days. Westerly's season does not open until the third week in April so there is plenty of time yet.

MORE THAN 40 TEAMS TO COMPETE AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 30—(AP)—The 1928 world series of high school basketball, April 3 to 7, will see more than two-score championship fives in action at the University of Chicago in the institution's annual interscholastic tournament.

Nine times the gold basketball, emblematic of the nation title, has bounced—once to the west, once to the east, once to the south and six times in shorter hops to states in the middle west.

Sterling Morton high school of Cicero, Ills., won the tournament last year, the first time an Illinois team has been victorious since the opening meet in 1917, when Evanston took the final game.

With the exception of Illinois, Kansas is the only other state that has succeeded in winning the title twice. In 1923, the brilliant basketball team from Kansas City, Kans., carried away the honors and again in 1925 the rangy Wichita team trampled over its Oklahoma opponents in the finals.

Only three states, California, Rhode Island and Delaware, never had representation in the tournament. Last year, New Jersey and Vermont had teams in the meet for the first time. Although competing in the first two or three tournaments, Indiana high schools are not permitted to enter now due to a policy of the state athletic board.

Adding a dash of color to this year's competition, the United States Indian school of Albuquerque, N. M., will end its team to the meet. The outfit is a state champion. The Indians have players from four tribes on their team.

Several of last year's entries will be back again in the thick of the fight for the gold basketball. Leading the group is Vienna, Ga., twice state and cotton states champions. Vienna has virtually the same team that was nosed out by Morton in the 1927 play.

Winfield, twice winner of the Kansas title, again has entered with five of the eight men that composed the team that lost to Vienna in the second round last year.

WALTER JOHNSON GOES TO HOSPITAL FOR TREATMENT

WASHINGTON, March 30—(AP)—Suffering from the after effects of a severe attack of influenza, Walter Johnson returned to Washington today and was removed at once to the emergency hospital for observation and treatment.

In direct contrast with strapping, healthy Johnson who left this city to take over the management of the Newark Bears at their southern training camp, the noted pitcher 30 pounds below his average playing weight, showed visible signs of his illness. At the train he was placed in a wheel chair and then trundled to a waiting automobile in which he was taken to the hospital.

High hopes of a speedy recovery were held out, however, by Johnson's personal physician, Dr. Harry M. Kaufman.

"Walter is suffering from the after effects of the flu and the poisons which have followed along the intestinal tract and which have affected the kidneys," the physician said. "I am confident that he will come around all right and will be himself again within a few weeks."

ARNE SOUMINEN INCREASES LEAD IN COAST-COAST RACE

PALMA, N. M., March 30—(AP)—Leading the cross country foot racers across a 88-mile stretch, Arne Souminen, of Detroit, today increase his lead over the 91 other plodders left in the long trek. He covered the distance from Moriarty to Palma in 6:03:30. His elapsed time for the 959 miles from Los Angeles is 151:31:35.

Second place in today's lap went to Pat Demarr, Los Angeles, who set the pace for the major part of the day's jaunt. His time was 6:21:39. His elapsed time is 231:27:32. James Pollard, Reno, Nev., finished third in 6:24:30; his elapsed time 233:47:26.

TAMIO ABE GOES INTO FINALS AT AUGUSTA, BEATING DOEG

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 30—(AP)—Tamio Abe, Japanese national champion, won his way into the finals of the South Atlantic tennis tournament here today by defeating Johnny Doeg, Stanford university star, and a ranking American player, in a hotly contested five set match, 6-3, 10-8, 1-6, 4-6, 6-4.

Abe overwhelmed his adversary by superiority of stamina, combined with a deadly baseline attack that netted him the final.

SHARKEY SIGNS TO MEET JACK DELANEY

NEW YORK, March 30—(AP)—Jack Sharkey, Boston Lithuanian, signed today to meet Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn., in a heavyweight battle at Madison Square Garden, April 30. Delaney has not signed as yet for this bout.

This bout is expected to draw more interest than any other of the so-called "eliminations" even though both have lost in bouts recently. Sharkey lost to Blake and Delaney dropped a decision to Tom Heeney.

Sharkey will have a weight advantage over the Bridgeport Rapier that will run something like 20 pounds but his recent showings and the fact that many still believe that Delaney has the punch will probably place the odds slightly in the Park City boy's favor.

The winner of this bout will probably stand a chance of getting back into the running for a chance at Gene Tunney's crown, though nothing like this is promised in the above match. Experts only would there be a strong possibility of such an occurrence should a knockout occur in their fall next month.

Y. M. C. A. HAS PLANS OF BASEBALL LOOP

A meeting has been called for Tuesday night at the Y for the purpose of getting the views of local baseball enthusiasts on the matter of forming either a league or a strong Y team to compete in City or Industrial league that may be formed.

While it was not definitely announced, it is believed that the local Y. M. C. A. stands ready to start any movement to supply local fans with their baseball league this summer.

It is expected that the recreation commission will again foster a league and the Y seems willing to enter such a league, foregoing their plans of forming a loop in order to do so. However, should no other club desire to sponsor twilight baseball, then it appears that the Y will start the ball a-rolling.

Thermos has Meeting Monday

The Y's action in calling players together is the second announced within a few days for next week. The Thermos Bottle company's team will meet Monday night in order to formulate plans for the coming year and the Bottlers are again expected to be represented in either the Industrial league or its equivalent. Werman Shoe, another team in last year's Industrial league, is reported ready to again enter while Richmond Radiator, last year's champs are favorable.

While no announcement has yet come from the recreation commission who last year ran the Dusty league through to complete success, many fans are of the opinion that this body will again see fit to stand back of organized ball here.

Hollyhock Island, the city's new recreation center, is not expected to be in A-1 shape by spring although the baseball diamond may be ready. In that case, it would be possible to play two games nightly, one at the Academy campus, last year's scene of activity, and the other at the new field. This would not only provide baseball for two different sections of the city but would also provide more games and the subsequent better exhibitions.

Six Teams Expected

Last year's Industrial league was an eight-team affair but again Dame Rumor comes out with the announcement that this year six teams will compete for the mythical city title.

The season for twilight ball in Norwich usually opens about the middle of June so there is quite a bit of time yet, although a preliminary meeting within the near future would be a big boost for this year's league. Because of the fact that the Academy plays up until at least the first week in June and many of its players perform in the Dusty league, it is deemed best to wait until the school season closes before league ball begins.

That twilight ball is a success to Norwich and is strongly wanted by local fans can be the only inference from last year's campaign when large crowds witnessed the games at the Academy nightly and local attendance records for the after-supper play were broken a couple of times, notably in the Richmond Radiator-International Silver game when Lloyd Jarvis and Johnny Greene, Academy stars pitched against each other.

With Stonington leading, 28 to 27, and about a minute to Brown of Norwich, was fouled and made good his try, knotting the count. In the overtime Ludlow shot two baskets, one a long one and one close-up while the best that the home club could do was thrown in one of these double suckers.

Brown of the visitors led the scoring with 13 points while Dimock of the locals was next with 10 points.

PALFREY SISTERS MEET TODAY IN NATIONAL FINALS

BROOKLINE, Mass., March 30—(AP)—The Palfrey sisters, Sarah and Mianne, will meet on the covered courts at the Longwood Cricket club here tomorrow in the final round of the girls' national indoor tennis championship singles. Sarah, who is 15 and two years younger than Mianne, is the 1927 champion.

She advanced to the final round today by defeating Louise F. Packer 6-2, 6-2. The champion started serving in each of the two sets and lost the first two games before she hit her usual tennis stride. Mianne downed Virginia B. Rice, 9-7, 6-3. In the first set the games went with service until the score stood at 7-all. While leading 40-30 in the next game, Miss Palfrey smashed a shot to the left corner of Miss Rice's court for the point that gave her the lead. She took the next set for the match without great difficulty. The victory made Mianne a finalist for the third successive year.

The Palfrey sisters also advanced in the doubles division when they defeated Elizabeth Pope and Katherine Winthrop in love sets. The other pair of sisters entered in the doubles, Louise and Dorothy Harding, bowed to Virginia B Rice and Charlotte L. Miller, New York, 6-2, 6-0.

"BOSSY" GILLIS CHALLENGED TO BALL GAME BY WHITMAN

BRIDGEPORT, March 30—(AP)—A challenge was hurled at "Bossy" Gillis, mayor of Newburyport, Mass., tonight by Billy Whitman, manager of the Bridgeport Bears. Manager Whitman challenged "Bossy" to a baseball game.

Whitman in a short address at a banquet held for the bad boy mayor, said that Bridgeport would have a hustling team, and while he would not say as to pennant chances, he was certain that the Bears could lick any team put forth by Newburyport even if their famous mayor played. Mayor "Bossy" was equal to the occasion and answered that Newburyport didn't have a baseball team but if he got one up he would give Manager Billy Whitman and his Bears the fight of their lives.

ACADEMY HAS DAY OFF; WORK ON CAMPUS EXPECTED TO START

Friday was a real off-day for the Academy baseball squad, no work being held because of the inclement weather. However, it was definitely announced that suits will be given out at Monday's practice, when intensive drills will start.

Because of the vacation at the school next week, it is expected that morning and afternoon workouts or one long mid-day practice will be held.

It is expected that the campus will be put in shape shortly for the opening game, Saturday, April 14, just two weeks from today.

C. F. C. HAS THREE MORE GAMES BEFORE SEASON ENDS

The C. F. C. has at least three more games to play before calling quits on its season. Next week the local five expects to play two games, Monday with the Stonington Iron Men here and Tuesday night at Mystic against Joe Belair's Shamrocks. Another game is also slated with the Putnam Silk Sox, probably at Putnam.

Jack McVey Loses

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 30—(AP)—Frankie Schoel, Buffalo middleweight, won from Jack McVey of New York in the second round of a scheduled ten here tonight. The Negro star was disqualified for fouling.

Rogers, Thomas Perry, George T. Kapman, Dr. Edwin Whitford, Fred Roberts, Mrs. W. D. Hoxie, Mrs. Clifford W. Campbell and Misses Sally Coy, Ruth Davis and Eleanor Moore. The meeting voted to accept the bylaws as recommended by the committee. Willard H. Bacon, chairman of the committee, presided and read the articles. Attorney Harold Tanner of Providence spoke on association work and Representative C. W. Campbell reported a bill seeking tax exemption for the new organization had reached the senate. Temporary officers will be elected by the directors before the next public meeting. At that time the financial phases of the project will be considered.

Today (Saturday) is the last day for the residents of Pawcatuck in the town of Stonington for taxpaying for those who are subject to pay a personal tax have only one day in which to meet their obligation without paying a penalty. After the last day of this month a $1 penalty will be added to each tax, making the total tax $3 instead of $2.

Charles Perry and daughter, Miss C. Elizabeth Perry, returned to Westerly Friday morning on the Federal express, after several weeks' visit at Daytona Beach, Fla.

NOANK

Miss Marion McDonald had a birthday Thursday and her mother Mrs. McDonald gave her a surprise. The room was decorated with black cats and pumpkins with crepe paper on the walls. On the table was a large birthday cake with 20 candles. A chicken supper was ready and ten girls and young men were waiting for Miss McDonald to come home from work. As the clock struck 7 all the lights went out, then as she went into the parlor someone turned on the lights. She was some surprised and could not speak for several minutes. Then all gave three cheers for her twentieth birthday. All sat down to the table and the good right arm of Flash McDonald did the honors serving. Ledyard chicken from the home of Austin Lamb. Miss McDonald was given an overnight bag by the Sardine club members. Dexton Holliday made a speech as he presented the bag. Then came the birthday cake. Miss Millerd Daboll had the honor to blow out the candles in two whiffs. Mrs. McDonald cut the birthday cake. Later games were played and dancing was enjoyed to music by Rose Brothers' orchestra of West View. George Cutler played the bag pipes, one solo was "Across the Bridge in Canada," Duncan McDonald gave a down east jig like the days of '98 and an Irish folk dance was done by Mrs. J. Scott. Mrs. William Bishop told about her ride on a roller coaster at Savin Rock. If Lindbergh flies in an airplane that roller coaster is just as bad. Ice cream and cream puffs with lemonade were served. Miss McDonald received many gifts.

Fishing schooner Reliance, Capt. Grove Eldredge at the wheel came from George's banks after two weeks of fishing, with fair wind but the sea was rough and the waves breaking over the boat. But Capt. Eldredge's schooner was riding them high on the way to Fulton market, to unload the fish. Mate Thomas Carey lost his cap and pipe as the wind blew them into the ocean. Mate Carey said it was the worst storm he had ever been in, since sailing the seven seas when a cabin boy at the age of 16. Wednesday afternoon the boat made Fulton market and got rid of the first halibut taken from a Noank fishing boat. They had a catch of 13,000 lbs. of halibut and the market was high so the fish brought a good price. The boat sailed from New York to the town dock getting here Thursday noon. Supplies were put on board with 40 tons of ice. Capt. Eldredge said "You got to make money while the sun shines," as the fishermen were listening to the account of his trip. As night was coming on the Reliance was far out at sea for another trip to George's banks.

John J. Smith is confined to his home by illness.

The lobster fishermen are getting ready for the season, working on their pots and gear. The boats are being put into shape, painting and launching them every day. An old sea captain who has built pots for 30 years is at it again. He is called the champion pot maker among the lobstermen. Durwood Main said he could beat him out in 6 hours' work in a day of making pots, so Capt. Francke, the champion, took him on, with two judges standing by, O. D. Beebe and W. Stanton. Each man was going at it hard, trying to win, but Capt. Francke was using slow time, like a man who was driving two nails to the champion's one. The judges rang the bell when time was up and still they found that Capt. Francke had made 21 pots and Durwood Main had 19. So Francke is still champion among the lobstermen.

Harold Butson was in Westerly on Thursday.

Raymond Sistare has returned from a short visit in Newark, N. J.

David Main, oiler on lighthouse steamer Hawthorn has spent a few days at his home in the village.

The Methodist church was crowded Thursday evening with church members and their guests at an entertainment. The program was well carried out. Mrs. Ellery Burdick and Mrs. Johnson of Mystic put on a short sketch that gave the audience a hearty laugh. Mrs. Burdick read several short selections and there was a piano solo by Miss Elizabeth Daboll, vocal solos by Miss Irene Jenssen, violin solo, by Miss Blanche Laffague, vocal solos, William Davies and Miss Marion Durham, vocal solo, Dexter Hollard. Clifford Philips tried out something new in the music line, giving an octorena solo. The entertainment was a huge success. Candy was sold by the girls of the church, also refreshments were served.

Miss Mary Mahoney is visiting relatives in New London for a few days.

John Bracci has entered the Sea Sled plant in Groton as a deck-layer.

Mrs. John Robertson is moving her household goods from the Douglas house, Pearl street, to a tenement on Wilcox avenue.

A large force of men is busy at Freeman Rogers' boat yard, Riverside avenue, getting the boats ready for May and June. Many Groton Long Point summer resident have their boats hauled out at that yard. Foreman Orlando Clark has put away 40 boats for the winter months, making the biggest year since the yard was opened. The boat Northern Light that takes the poor little rich girls of New York around to different islands when they are at Camp Mystic for the summer was given a coat of paint and some carpenter work has been done on the craft.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

Good Lord Deliver Us

From wives who forget to powder their noses and neglect to polish their smiles,

Good Lord Deliver Us;

From wives who regale you with woes and warnings in the morning, at noon, and at night,

Good Lord Deliver Us;

From wives who compare some neighborhood Lothario with the shortcomings of their own mates,

From wives who hear burglars more than three times a week and rudely
rout you out of slumber,

From wives who knock and wives who know it all,

From wives who spend more than their husbands make,

From wives who gossip and scold,

From wives whose sweet temper and speeches are prompted by cupidity and not by Cupid,

From wives who make a man feel like a martyr instead of master of his own home.

From these and all other matrimonial misfortunes,

Good Lord Deliver Us.

INVALID COMFORTS.

Dear Social Corner Friends—As so many have sick or feeble to attend, I thought perhaps it might save both steps and patience to know of my idea. A chair may be made very convenient by placing a drawer beneath the seat, arranging it to pull out at one side. The drawer can be readily manipulated by anyone occupying the chair and it makes the infirm feel fairly independent, as many useful articles and treasures may be kept there and he or she will not have to ask for every little thing they want.

For a comfortable bed chair saw off the legs of any old arm chair, place it in the bed beside the patient after making it soft and comfortable with pillows, slide the person ill into it easily. In this way they can get no cold from draft and do not become so tired as when lifted from the bed.

I hope some of the sisters who have sick ones will try this and just see if the change is not gratifying to the patient.

Radio—You have me guessing.

Aries—In reply to your What Is Life?

To love the things we see;
The hills that touch the skies;
The smiling sea; the laughing lea;
The light in woman's eyes;
To work and love the work we do;
To play a game that's square;
To grin a bit when feeling blue;
With friends our joys to share;
To smile, though games be lost or won;
To earn our daily bread;
And when at last the day is done,
To tumble into bed.

With this I send hearty good wishes to Sisters, and to our editor.

TRUE BLUE.

ATTENDS FOUR ANNIVERSARIES.

Dear Editor and Members: I have had the pleasure of attending four of the Corner anniversaries. Club No. 5 came first on the 7th. As Ducky was the hostess and was sick and unable to attend, her helpers willingly carried out her plans, and served a bountiful dinner as usual, and about 100 partook of the delicious food. There were members from Club 1, 2 and 6 present and the program was all that could be desired.

Then on the 13th, Club 2, with Calla Lily and her able helpers served an excellent dinner to 170, the largest crowd ever in the hall, and their program was antique and very interesting, when Ready went off with the Deacon.

Club No. 1 met on the 14th. Old Sol didn't favor them as well as the other clubs, for it was threatening all day, nevertheless about 100 gathered coming from Hartford, Westerly and North Stonington and surrounding towns. Theoda at the helm and her efficient helpers, served a delicious dinner of meat pie, scalloped potatoes, etc., taping off with ice cream. The program was fine, with the country wedding. I don't know who my double might be, but I see they have me down as giving a reading that day. I never took part in anything, but to eat my share of the dinner.

Then on the 20th Club 6 celebrated their second anniversary at Westerly. Snowflake and myself had the pleasure of going with Fannie H. K. and Hubby. We entered the hall and found we were late. Y. Y. and her helpers were serving dinner to about 70, I think. The dinner was fine and an abundance. The program was all very interesting. The ladies make very good looking men, and they know where the men belong all right.

Theoda: Your letter of the 10th was right to the point. To quote the late editor's reply to an initial letter, "to those who only wish to join a club as for a pin." The distribution of pins to persons whose only interest in the Corner or to write and get a pin would not be just to constant writers and in effect would be an imposition." We are supposed to give some helpful thought or suggestion. There are scores of readers who look every week for a helpful thought and new ideas. So not to have selfish motives we must bear these thoughts in mind. While we have good social times together let's spread the good work through the Corner page. We are pleased to have new members and welcome all who care to join. The more the better. Sorry to have any drop out or lose interest.

AUNTY NO. 1.

ANECDOTES OF A MR. HULETT

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: After one writes one letter to the Corner how much easier it is to write another. I have attended two meetings since I wrote, one at the Buckingham and one of our Club 6 at Westerly. I had always wanted to see Sister Ready of wood box fame and my desire was gratified; also was glad to see Auntie No. 1 and Calla Lily, as I have been reading their letters for years.

The mention of Hulett Town in one of the recent papers reminded me of several anecdotes about one of the Huletts and thought they might be interesting to some.

It seems he made churns for people. One of his customers went to his house to get a churn he had been making. Getting no response to his rap and hearing talking within, he opened the door and went in. There on his knees was Mr. Hulett fervently praying in a loud voice. Nor did he stop as the man entered. "Have you got my churn done?" said the man. "All done but the dasher," said Mr. Hulett, and went right on praying.

This occurrence had wide spread publicity in that locality and to this day "all done but the dasher" is said when a thing is about completed. In those days temperance had never been heard of and it was common for any who wanted to, to drink liquor. The Kingsbury Tavern was quite near Mr. Hulett's house and sometimes Mr. Kingsbury would treat Mr. Hulett. He would give him a tumbler and as he began to pour would say "Say when you've got enough." When it began to run over the rim Mr. Hulett would shout When! When!

Another story about him was told me by an old lady, the daughter of William Day, a prominent man in Killingly and one of the family for whom Dayville was named.

Mr. Day was urging Mr. Hulett to vote for a certain man who was running for office. "No," said Mr. Hulett, "I ain't going to vote for him, he ain't a likely man; there ain't any likely men now and I won't vote for anybody." "O, yes there are, why you are a likely man yourself, Mr. Hulett." "Well," said Mr. Hulett, "show me another one."

I was interested to read in Betsey Bray's letter last week that she had heard the story of the Boston Tea Party from an uncle who was told it by one of those present. How much nearer the remote past seems to us by such things. I once heard Miss Leonard, the historian of Windham county, say that a historian was always glad to hear something that had come down by tradition, either something new or something that corroborated an established fact.

Greetings, Paisley! I'm glad to know who is who. Hope we meet in the not distant future.

MAY B. (Club 6).

GREETINGS FROM CATNIP

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Here I am once more. The old saying is better late than never, so I guess I am all right to answer my name this month. Rather late to say a Happy New Year. I have said it and that is all that is to it. I want to thank all the sisters for my cards and gifts that I got in December. It is rather late, but I have been half sick all winter and when I go to write there is quite a blur comes over my eyes and it bothers me to write. I hope it won't bother the dear Editor to make this letter out. I read a lovely piece in Saturday's Social Corner page about No. 2 club and it was lovely. I was half sick, but, when you explained it so nice, I could almost see it over again.

Radio: I hope I will meet you some time.

Crimson Rambler: You did not hurry me at all, and it was a pleasure for me to do it for you. Am glad you like it.

E. L. M.: Sorry I could not have been down to see you, but hope to see you at Club No. 2.

Scottie: You did your part well. Hope you won't have to carry your trumpet very long.

Whirlwind: I know I owe you a letter, but have been sick. Will do better in the future. How is your dear Mother? If I was near you, I could help you out.

Foxglove: How are you and your family? I trust they are well.

Nellie Bly: Many thanks for your kind help. It made me feel much better, but I don't feel the best yet. My best love to all the rest of our Corner sisters. If I feel real good I want to visit Club No. 5. I don't go very much and it is so nice to see your dear friends. Hoping all the sick and shut-in are well I will ring off. I think I hear someone on the line.

CATNIP.

WHY I CHOSE MY PEN NAME

Dear Social Cornerites: I see others are sending the reason of their pen names, so will send mine. I was born 'way out on the prairies of Lincoln, Neb., in the year of the terrible blizzard, that many of you easily remember. Although I was not born at the time of the blizzard, as my birthday is in August, I might have seen the light of day when a terrific sandstorm was raging.

The summers out there are dreaded nearly as much as winters as sandstorms are blinding to both man and beast.

If a person can get to one of those huge hay stacks and lie face down close to the hay he considers himself safe until the storm is over.

The animals we would not care to have as pets.

The timber wolf is a dangerous animal to meet. He is very brave in a pack, but when alone he hasn't much courage.

My grandmother had to pass by one every time she drove to town. Sometimes he was hungry and she used to buy extra meat to throw out to him, so he would not jump into her wagon.

What woman of our day would start off 20 miles to town all alone knowing she would see a savage beast every time she went back and forth? She also had to ford the Republican river. Oh! I wish I had one-half her courage. But the western women are all courageous. They must be. Back to the animals and feathered creatures. The gopher or prairie dog is often seen popping up his head from his home in the ground. One sees mound after mound in the gopher village. It is very dangerous for horses to travel among them.

The rattlesnakes are very common on the prairie. They don't mind crawling about one's house. Hot summer days my parents would see them lying on their window sill, taking their sun-bath. Of course they killed them whenever they got the chance. I have a rattle taken from a snake my father killed.

My brother had to be tied by a shore piece of clothes line, one end to the door knob, so he could not wander too far away among the sage bushes. The rattler hides underneath them and although he gives his warning by shaking his rattle, a child could not get out of his way.

There are not many birds, because there are no trees, so the wild prairie chicken is found more than any other bird. They are barred something like our Barred Rock hens.

Now to the pen name. I thought of my choice I would take for my pen name—

PRAIRIE CHICKEN.

FORSYTHIA IN BLOOM

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters, One and All: It is a long time since I have sent you a greeting, but am making a great effort to send in a few lines. I have been much interested in the various reports of the anniversary.

I am interested in the letters and enjoy them all. They are such dear friendly letters.

But to those who do not know what it means to be shutin year after year, I will say that I hope they will never know by the painful experience through which I have passed. Oh, I am so glad to see the spring; although there is no prospect that I shall get outdoors.

This is a bright spring-like day, though there are still patches of snow in sheltered places, showing that winter still lingers in the lap of spring.

But I am sure the dear little spring flowers are starting and will soon poke up their little heads and burst into bloom.

Many thanks to Aries for the pussy willows.

A few days ago a friend brought me a few shrubs of forsythia in a jar of water. In a few days it was covered with beautiful yellow blossoms which I enjoy very much.

Many thanks to Scottie for a pleasant call recently.

Thanks to Aunty No. 1 for the Corner history.

Thanks to all who have remembered me with cards and letters. I am sending many kind thoughts to all and hope they will remember me in their prayers.

I feel as if my work is nearly done and shall try to live so that when my time comes I shall be found ready and waiting.

The day is done, the night is near,
I fold my work away,
And kneel to one who tends to hear,
The one story of the day.
The old,old story now I kneel,
To tell it at thy call,
And cares grow light as I feel
That Jesus knows them all

With love and best wishes to the Editor and the whole Social Corner family.

TAKES PEN NAME FROM COOKIE

Dear Social Corner Sisters: How the wind does blow and quite chilly, too. Yesterday was such a good day. The evildiren were out most all day, but today the weather was so different only my little boy went out.

I hope all the sisters who have been ill are better.

One sister wrote asking each one to tell about her pen name. Well, mine comes from a cookie. I gave them to the children in fact all ate some and liked them very much. Therefore my name came from them.

E. L. M.: You will be surprised when you see Ina again. A good surprise, too.

Ruthina: I made your recipe for butter-scotch pie yesterday. There's only one thing about it; it doesn't last long enough in my house.

I wonder how many sisters use the crinkle cups when making cup cakes. I do and like them very much. They don't get so hard on the edge when they're not eaten right up.

I would have liked to have seen E. L. M., Lady Lou, Ruthina, Sumac and Skipper in their male attire at the last meeting.

Well, perhaps, we'll all be able to attend the next meeting.

O. D. and American Girl: How are you these days?

Kochia: I know who you are. I met you at a dance at R. B.'s in Glasgo one night about four years ago. You had wrenched or hurt your wrist at the time.

Will have to close now as supper time is here. With best wishes to the editor and all sisters.

RAVENA (Club No. 6.)

OLD FASHIONED MOLASSES COOKIES

Dear Social Corner Editor: I would like to become a member of the Social Corner and Club No. 4. I have never been to any of the meetings but hope to attend the next on April 5. I am sending a recipe for Old Fashioned Molasses Cookies: Put 1 level tablespoon lard in a cup, add 1 teaspoon soda and 2 tablespoons hot water; fill the cup with molasses. Repeat, add ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon cinnamon. Flour enough to roll. Bake in a quick oven. This makes two dozen.

Kochia: Was very interested in your last letter. Could you give me Mr. Whipple's home address

For my pen name, if no one has it, I will take

THAT'S THAT.

LETTER FROM TILDY

Dear Social Corner Members: It was with pleasure that I read a letter from May B. a week or so ago. I had looked for one for a long time and hope to see another soon. I wish that May B. would give my love to Mrs. V. and tell her that "among my souvenirs" I have a letter from her from Marysville, Kansas, written to me when I was a little girl.

Mrs. Dan: I am not sure that I do know who you are. From what you said to 1492 in your last letter about embroidering butterflies makes me think I do.

Butterfly: They say that bread is the grub that makes the butter fly. Is it true in every sense?

1492: When you read this say—"Nothing!"

Best wishes to all.

TILDY.

CLUB No. 5's MEETING APRIL 4.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It is now time for our April meeting and I hope we shall have as many of the sisters to this meeting of Club No. 5 as we had last month. We surely had a most wonderful time. Such eats! There was an abundance of every thing. I know we shall have a fine time as we always do. So come one and all and help to swell the ranks. A cordial welcome to all clubs. Best wishes.

THE GREATEST JOB IN THE WORLD

Dear Editor of the Social Corner: "A friend of mine isn't going to work any more." That was the gossip announcement that sped swiftly among her friends. She displayed a sparkling diamond ring on her engagement finger. My friend isn't going to work any more. She is going to get married.

It is that mistaken notion that is responsible for too much modern marital unhappiness. What every girl ought to know is that my friend is not going to cease working. She is only going to another job. And it's up to her to make good. The job she was working at as a stenographer at which she was earning $15 per week, she couldn't have secured — she couldn't have held without the requisite training. I wonder if my friend has any training for her new job.

It is housekeeping. And I know by experience that housekeeping is many things. It is thoughtful computation of expenditures and the laying out wisely of a family income. It is market—and shopping with a business acument that will make a wage envelope go the farthest. It is cooking, sweeping and dusting in the 90 per cent of American homes that can't afford a servant. It is sewing, darning, mending with methodical care to conserve the household equipment. And later on it is nursing and sitting up nights with children.

Do you see how vast is the wisdom demanded for success in this undertaking? And yet every day hundreds of American girls slip the wedding ring lightly beneath the engagement ring and rush in where skilled experts might fear to tread. Any man who marries ought to require of the woman he takes as his helpmeet a certificate of domestic efficiency. For whether he looks at it that way or not, and whether she knows it or not, her job is laid out for her. It is housekeeping. And to my mind it is the flimsiest fiction in the world that she's going to be supported. Every wife in the world who is honest, must work her way. My friend is going right on to earn her living, and upon her ability to do it will depend in a great degree success of the new matrimonial partnership. Of course she can shirk. She can buy expensive foods ready to serve in place of preparing them herself. She can neglect the holes in her stockings and his. And she can put into the moving picture show the money that ought to go into a bank account. But it isn't square to tackle the new job that way. And the one envelope that's shared by two, won't stand the strain. By and by the foolish little bride will be lamenting that she used to have her $15 a week to spend and now she has none. She thinks—or I think perhaps she never knew—that her new position requires that she earn by saving. Her earnest labor faithfully contributed in household affairs will count definitely in checking the outgo of the money her husband brings into the family exchequer—that's the only way to play fair in the matrimonial partnership. And it means that my friend is going right on working after she gets married. If she doesn't there is going to be trouble ahead, tears, misunderstandings and even heart-breaking unhappiness—and sometimes this may be the real reason for the final shipwreck of the home. They call it divorce. But you can put it in another way; that my friend has lost her job.

And it's all because she never was trained for it. She knows she has to take courses for stenography or for any other life-work. "Why not for this?" She must be prepared for the greatest job in the world, home-making, motherhood, etc., or she will be but a parasite living on the labor of a man whose burdens she ought to be ready to assist in sharing.

Irene: I hope you arrived at your destination safe. Found cross-word puzzle after you left.

Martha: Hope you received my package O K. Think you must have for a nice lady was the carrier.

SECOND ANNIVERSARY OF CLUB No. 6.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters—First I want to apologize for not thanking some one before for my calendar received the first of the year. Had I known the sender would have acknowledged it with a letter. While I know several will write about the second anniversary of Shore Line Club No. 6 I am going to write about it at length and hope our kind editor prints it instead of putting it in the waste basket. Several have asked me why I don't write and I to please them, also express my pleasure in being a member of the club. I read Aunty No. 1's letter about the beginning of the Social Corner page and can assure her I have had it from the beginning. I was living in Bridgeport 18 years ago and wanted some home news. I subscribed for the Courier and read the letters with much interest. Two years ago this month when I saw an invitation for all interested in forming a club to come to the home of Interested Reader and Tatting on Summit street, Stonington, I went, not knowing anything further about it. When I rang the bell, Pansy opened the door—that was surprise No. 1—got upstairs and in rushed E. L. M. and Cutie to see the late comer. I asked who else was there I knew and found Idaleane, Rebecca, Cosmos and Dorothy Bradford were eating dinner and instead of finding strangers found acquaintances. The whole dinner was furnished by Interested Reader. E. L. M. and Tatting and to them belongs the honor of starting Club No. 6. Nineteen were present. Every one but one enrolled as a member that day and a collection was taken. I gave 50c for the dinner which was worth it and the hostesses established their reputation as excellent cooks. The club has grown and each new member soon becomes enthusiastic. Most of the meetings have been held in Westerly, three have been in Mystic and three or four in North Stonington. It is time the loyal Stonington members, where it was founded, had one there. We have active members in Groton and some day they may invite us there.

Now I want to give my report of the second anniversary which surpassed the first one a year ago.

Y. Y. was hostess and E. L. M. program committee. I am sure I cannot do them justice in reporting it, but will give the principal facts and credit to those in charge and taking part.

After walking up 41 stairs I found myself in Mechanics hall and greeted by Interested Reader, who had made handsome badges of yellow and green felt with charter member on it. She pinned one on me and I was pleased to think I was one to wear them. I next discovered E. L. M. with her pretty cap and Y. Y. and her assistants, Estelle, Ruthina, Tatting, Pansy, Mooney, American Girl and Mrs. Farmer, with the same pretty caps, all made by Skipper. They were hustling to find places at the four tables, and chairs to seat them, which proved impossible. At a desk I discovered room for one more and found an office chair and those coming in later had to sit on the edge of the platform, window sills and stand up, while the others were eating. The committee saw it was necessary to provide more chairs and three dozen were rented and every one made comfortable. By actual count 73 were seated at the first tables and many at the second, making no doubt 115 present. The pots of paper daffodils for the four tables were made by E. L. M. There was an abundance of food and pretty favors, of little baskets of candy at each plate and Skipper made little carrots of cheese and parsley that were most attractive. After the hunger of all was appeased the chairs were arranged and the best program ever given was put on. Interested Reader composed a short poem of welcome and read it in her usual charming way.

The next was an original sketch written by Cutie entitled When the New Minister Came to Pokeyville, with Cutie, Tatting, Pansy and Mooney taking the parts, which proved a big hit. Two of the costumes worn had been used on state occasions long years ago. Pansy was the new minister in male attire and beaver hat. Humorous reading by Clarinda caused much laughter. B. Natural had a Cooley's Weekly printed 40 years ago last September and read from it a short essay on Man and a few items of news from various towns in the county. Some items sound like the present daily correspondent from the nearby fishing village. Dorothy Bradford who inherits much of her father's wit and genius gave a humorous reading. Pansy sang two songs that were a delight to all and shows the training her voice has received since we first met two years ago. Mrs. Wilcox was the pianist for the day.

The last number was The Springgims Sisters Give a Party. When the grand march was played E. L. M., Sumac, Cosmos, Lady Lou, Skipper and Rebe in male attire, with beards of various kinds and color, Ruthina, Frances L., Tish, Topsy, Mrs. Farmer and Pyrethum all in old style costumes, marched in and after a social time among themselves, a square dance with E. L. M., prompter, was given. Sumac, Cosmos, Lady Lou and Rebe for the gentlemen, Mrs. Farmer, Tish, Pyrethum and Topsy, aptly showed how they danced in the long ago; also waltzed, keeping the spectators convulsed with laughter. The 18 charter members, all of who mare living, have the following pen names, E. L. M., Interested Reader, Cutie, Tatting, Pansy, Skipper, Moonsy, all of Stonington; Dorothy Bradford, Clarinda, Frances L., Ruthina, Cosmos, Estelle, B. Natural were present. Idaleane was sick. O. D. had to care for her mother. Rebecca we all sympathize with in the loss of her husband, and Melissa is now living in Providence and she would have been repaid to have made the trip to Westerly for the meeting. Club No. 6, the baby, has cut its first teeth, is making good growth and bids fair to equal the others in size and talent.

We saw many friends present and had the best time of any meeting yet. We know many were prevented from coming by illness and other duties. Nancy Peck is still on the sick list and was missed. We are told a cake was sent to the Social Corner editor and the editor of the Westerly Sun. When the club meets in Mystic hope the other clubs will attend and it may be in the month of May. Succes to all the clubs is the wish of

SIGNS OF SPRING

Dear Social Corner Members and Editor: They say it's the early bird that gets the worm. As I went outdoors early Monday morning in my yard I saw as many as 20 robins hopping around looking for an early breakfast, and I also heard the peeping frogs, which say that spring must be near at hand.

On my way to work the same morning I saw an aged man come out with a little oil heater all ablaze, set it down, turned the top back and tried to blow out the fire.

Twice Twenty: Huletown is my birthplace, also schooling; many of my relatives are laid at rest on top of Mt. Mashentuck; also in the yard near the house; was also baptized in the Hulet pond.

Gardner Lake: Hope you arrived home O. K. after your day's hustle last Saturday.

Kind remembrance to all sick and shut-ins; also the members.

ARTIFICIAL FLOWERS.

A CALL FOR OLD WINTER.

Dear Social Corner Friends: I noticed in reading the Bulletin that the Social Corner had an anniversary and since I used to write occassionally thought I would tell how I chose "Winona" for my pen name.

My first letter to the corner was written from Hampton, Virginia, in January, 1919. As I gazed out of my living room window wondering what name to choose I saw the girl's dormitory named "Winona" and thought "That will be my name."

I have looked every week in the Social Corner for some of the names of early writers. Glenwood used to write often. I surely would like to see a letter from her some Saturday. I wonder if Fay Verna ever will forget some of the happy days in Salem. Was glad to see a letter recently from Papa's Boy. Does Cherisette write to the Corner now under a different name?

M. Powena: Do you remember a certain night when cherry trees were blooming and we walked from Colchester to Taintor hill in the moonlight?

And what of Jim? I notice a poem sent in by him occasionally but not so many letters. Merry Farmer's Boy and I used to have lovely times together. I am wondering if that new barn is completed.

California Pappy hasn't written for some time. Hope she isn't stuck in the mud. I want to get out her way soon.

Have been much interested in these old trails that some have written of also in the history of communities and who used to live there.

Some one told of a trip to Provincetown. That has been an objective we have tried to reach for two years. Some of our friends have advised not to go in the summertime that it could be appreciated more in the early summer or late fall.

Will close with best wishes to the Corner.

WINONA

RECEIVES CALENDAR

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I want to thank the Social Corner Sisters that sent me that pretty calendar. It is just lovely.

Unome: I thank you for those lovely apples, for I have enjoyed them. Every bite that I take I think of your kindness in remembering me.

Orlander: How are you this morning after your long ride. I enjoyed your company and the beautiful scenery. We did have a good man to drive the boss' car. We will try it again when the good old summer is here.

GOLDEN GLOW (Club No. 2)

KINDNESS APPRECIATED

Dear Social Corner Members: I wish to thank all who sent me cards and messages of cheer during my recent illness, especially those who remembered me in so many ways.

I appreciate more than words an express your kindness to myself and family at this time.

I hope some time to reciprocate your kindness

IDALEANE.

ACKNOWLEDGES GIFTS FROM MEMBERS

Kind Editor and Social Corner Writers: What a nice lot of letters in Saturday's paper. I wish to thank Joan, Crimson Rambler, Aries, Lindsay, J. E. T., Violet, N. G. A. and None-So-Pretty for all the nice birthday cards, letters and surprise packages sent me. One package, a lovely present, had no name on it. The birthday cake was lovely. Wished the ones sending it had been here and helped me eat it.

Just I.: Many thanks for card and package. The fruit cake was nice. I did not frost it. Liked it as it was better. When are you going to tell me who is who, so I can write you? Ha, ha! I guess you are like a Social Corner sister at Aunt Abby's; said she did not want anyone to know her pen name. How we all did guess! Anyway, I know your pen name and if you would mail your letters where you live and not send them to someone else to mail, I might guess right at that. I have a clue. Something you said in the last letter recalls a remark a lady made on the car to Norwich to me. Had a little one with her. Am I right?

Eliza Jane: Was glad to see your letter in the Corner page. You went to Aunt Abby's picnic on same car I did. Where are you living now?

Ormandine: I extend my sympathy to you. Sorry I did not know you before. I will write you a letter soon, as there is something I very much wish to know and think you can tell me. Yes, the place where Alden and Mary Fuller and two children, John and Sarah, lived, had a blacksmith shop. Alden Fuller ran it. When I came here, 45 years ago, he drove the star route mail from Scotland to Windham Center and Willimantic in the blizzard of 1888. Roads were impassable for a week. Alden Fuller used to take the mail and go as far as the road was open and back again until he could go through. I never want to see another such a storm as that was. The Fuller farm was sold after Mrs. Fuller died to Martha and Fred Hovey. Martha, a lovely woman, died. Then Fred sold all the farm but the house, barn, blacksmith shop and the house lot to Mr. Franciosi. The barn has fallen down now and you would not know the place now. Those little maples are lovely great big trees now, shading from the house to the road. Lovely in the summer time.

J. E. T.: When are you coming over to help put in the hay? You said you would. That load is still on the wagon as you saw it. That was my horseless wagon I use. When you help me with that load of hay,maybe you can get a job husking corn. It has been such an open winter farmers have a nice crop of corn all ripe, cut and stacked, almost fit to husk. We might have a husking bee and invite you, but I don't get any invitations—too young to go out without a chaperone, you know. You just wait until I am 18 like you. Then I can go to Sunday school, maybe, if I will keep real still and not whisper, and you don't sit side of me.

Mr. Peck: Your last letter sure would have won a prize had it been in the Social Corner page. I did enjoy reading it, and I have enjoyed all the Fort Ned and Hampton letters.

Blue Bell was born in Hampton.

Aunt Jerusha: Was glad to see your nice letter in the Corner. When you get a little older you won't feel so bashful about writing. Now you have got your courage up, write again about Hampton in days gone by.

Buffalo: You better say Hello! next time, for I know how to make up a bed and might help you. Ha, ha! Do you remember housecleaning on Oakland avenue for your mother, and how the joke got headed the other way. Oh, boy! wasn't that a surprise, though not on me. Ha, ha! I have many a good laugh over it here all by my lonesome.

Mr. Tefft: I may be wrong, but a card with that name on it led me to say what I did. Confession is good for the soul, the Good Book says, so if I am wrong, I confess. Will tell you more later. I hope you get the address you spoke of. The old Brunswick schoolhouse was sold to Philip Monty on the Henry Webb place, and the house now there was made of the schoolhouse and raised up another story. Now owned by Peter Todiff, and the Mary Avery farm is now owned by Patrick Martin and family, one of the best families in Scotland. He is a worker as well as his wife, daughter and son. You would not know Scotland Center now. Church and houses have electric lights, and many changes since you used to take the horse to the blacksmith shop there.

B. M.: I will write you soon. Have had congestion of the nerves in hand, so could not keep letters answered as I should have only for that.

Best wishes to all.

L. T. H. (Club No. 2).

READY FOR SPRING.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: I will be glad when Mother Nature spreads her hands over the brown earth and the grass is green once more and the flowers in bloom. How natural it is for the birds to go south in the fall and return in the spring!

We will soon forget the winter in the warmth and gladness of the sunshine and flowers. I once lived in a pretty valley with a tiny lake. In the summer it was beautiful.

Peggy Alder: Glad to hear you are improving. Warm weather will hasten it. I am looking forward to that myself.

Aries: I thought of you that Sunday morning. Wasn't it terrible!

L. T. H.: I thought of you too.

Ann Tenna: Hope we shall meet at some of the gatherings.

Rural Delivery: How are you this winter. Did you get snowed in?

Rural Aunty: I think we women will have to get a hustle on us. There is a gentleman aged 79 who lives in the same house I do who does his own housework, takes care of his hens and does other chores. He has colored, cut, sewed, braided and sewed 11 mats this winter. How is that! They are pretty, so.

NONESOPRETTY (Club No. 4)

HOME

Dear Sisters: I want to jot down a few lines from a poem sent me by a friend. It was printed in a paper from my old home in New York state and, knowing I was making a book of choice selections, she clipped it and sent it to me, so I am passing it on:

Is home a palace or a cot,
in city street or country spot,
I cannot tell. Why should I care?
What matters it if home be there?

Your home stands grandly on a hill,
Mine snuggles by a hidden rill;
The streaming lights afar I see;
A tiny lamp shines out for me.
Your home, my home, just anywhere,
What matters it if home be there?

How true this is! One need not be rich in order to have a real home. Just a few simple furnishings and a feeling of content goes far toward making us happy. Of course, we all have dreams of the things we should like to have, but the lack of these should not make us unhappy. I think when we earnestly desire certain things and have to earn and save our pennies to get them, we appreciate them more than if we were able to get out and buy them regardless of the cost. To plan and work for anything makes it doubly precious and worthwhile.

I presume we all have our spells of the blues and discouragements and the little worriments will crop up now and again, no matter what our home may be. But if we could just break out and sing some little ditty of cheer and try to practice what it preaches at such times we would invariably feel better almost beforce we knew it. Have you ever thought of your troubles as detour signs? Some of mine have been just that to me. I have sometimes run upon a small trouble and have been the better for having done so. It was just as plain as any detour signs you may see on the roadside. If you disregard the sign and keep going, there is trouble ahead. The thing to do is to heed the warning and look for the way back to the main course, always praying to be guided aright. We cannot expect to go all the way on our journey through life without a good many detours here and there.

But what is the use of repining,
For where there's a will there is a way;
Tomorrow the sun may be shining,
Although it is cloudy today.

And, sisters, have you ever thought how much more we women of today are getting out of life than the women of our grandmother's days did? How much we hear and read about the grand old women who are seemingly coming into their own at this late day when flaming youth monopolizes the pages of newspapers and magazines. But when a woman past the century mark goes sailing through the clouds in an airship and another drives her automobile touring the country, and many others do remarkable stunts, people are beginning to take notice. I suppose the reason women have not been recognized more in the past has been owing to their secluded lives as mothers and home-makers and rearing of large families and doing the work of the home sufficient to occupy body and brain to the utmost limit. But in this new age of inventions the burdens that women have been forced to bear have been lifted by the labor-saving inventions now found in every home, and so, rejoicing in their new freedom, no wonder they want to get in airships and sail among the clouds or drive automobiles where they will in the joy of their emancipation be free from the old conditions. No wonder old ladies wear flapper dresses and refuse to get old. A woman does not have to let her petticoat show and her nose get shiny because she has passed her 40th birthday, so she cuts her skirts off at the knees, bobs her hair, snaps her fingers and tries to dance. She knows her leg does not wrinkle like her face and if she kicks them about her sciatica will not bother her. Now I have written too long a letter, so will close by sending loving greetings to the sisters and sympathy to all the sick and shut-ins.

ZULICKA.

A SONG WANTED.

Dear Social Corner Members: I am going to ask a favor of you. Do any of you know the words of an old song by the title of "Beautiful Island o Sometime"? First verse is like this:—

Skies
There's a Beautiful Island just now in our view.
With tree always green and with skies ever blue.
Where flowers of sweet fragrance look up through the dew.
'Tis the Beautiful Island of "Sometime."

I think there are four verses and a chorus.

Arn't you glad spring is here? I am for the reason I can attend some of the socials in other places. Here is a recipe for—

Apple Sauce Cake: 1 cup sugar, 1-2 cup shortening, 1 egg, pinch salt, 1 tea spoon cinnamon, 1 clove, 1-2 teaspoon all spice, 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg. Mix and add 1 cup chopped raisins, 1 1-2 cups flour (I use bread flour), 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 1 cup of tart apple sauce with 1 teaspoon of soda dissolved and put in applesauce. Stir all together and bake in bread tin 45 minutes in moderate oven. Hope someone will try this and see how nice it comes out. I sometimes use apple sauce that has been sweetened for the table and find no difference in the result.

Why don't we ever get letters from "Thirty-two" now-a-days? I used to like her letters and miss the good ideas she used to give us.

Curt: Get busy and write a line. Wish you were going to be with us in Danielson, April 5th.

Dinner time, so will sign off.

HEARD LINDY OVER RADIO

Dear Editor and Everybody: As I date my letter (March 29), am thinking that March is fast slipping away for the year.

"Ah, March, we know thou art kind-hearted suite of ugly looks and threats, and (out of sight) art nursing violets," and March is one of the busy months of the year. I will try and make my letter a short one this time, to give the space to the many new writers that are coming in to help brighten the Corner as time goes on. I have been doing a little church work, knitting and crocheting and 101 other things, also listening in to the good things on the radio. I think there is one in every house here for miles around. I heard the pleasant voice of our Lindy from Station WBZ when he was presented with the congressional medal of honor by President Coolidge, "the highest medal our nation can bestow." I had never heard Lindy's voice before and I was bound to sit up that night. Didn't get to bed until 11 o'clock. Now I can say I have heard the voice of "Lindy of the mountains," the hero of the air. His name has been written on the sky, the performer of heroic deeds.

ANN TENNA.

OLD PILLOW CASES BENEFICIAL.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I think you are right Tafts you do not know me, for 46 years ago I was not in Canterbury. I was not even born 46 years ago. But hope I will come to know you. Do you know where E. Moulton lived. Well, Nelson Lyon used to live on the corner of the road; you know there are four corners there. Our farm was next to Mr. Moulton's and Mr. Lyon's. If you remember there was a big pond at the foot of Woodchuck hill. Well the pond was on our farm.

Will tell how I use up my old pillow cases. I make children's handkerchiefs with them and in one corner I mark the child's initial. I think it is a big saving, for you know how fast children can lose their handkerchiefs. Good luck and best wishes to all.

FORGET-ME-NOT.

HAS BATH TOWEL.

Dear Social Corner Members:: I would like to say that I have a pink and white bath towel which was left in the hall at Westerly after the meeting of Club No. 6 on March 20th.

If the owner will send me her address I will mail it or will take it to the next meeting of Club No. 6.

SKIPPER.

NOT ABLE TO ATTEND MEETING.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I was not able to attend the anniversary meeting. I wish to thank you for the remembrance I received. I hope to be well enough to be at the next meeting. My sympathy goes out to those who are in trouble. I hope those that are sick will soon be well.

EARLY BLUE BELL.

REMINISCENCES OF FORT NED

Dear Editor of Corner Page: My memory goes back with Mr. Prue, Jois, Johnny Cake and others as to Fort Ned, recalling so many that have passed on, and the pleasant times we used to have in that neighborhood, and, best of all, were united in making it a pleasant evening for one and all, when it was planned to have a dance, and many a kitchen dance that part of the town sure had as well as the Hilbert House and say how Grandpa Smith, as all called him, did enjoy dancing. He used to show the young fellows how to cut the Pigeon Wing. He and Oscar Allen were as good partners as one could ask for. I remember a Mr. Reynolds that lived up at the Horton place. He had a daughter by the name of Nellie. She married Solan Parmales. After a time Mr. Reynolds got a letter saying Solan was dead. He at once started out to their home. Upon arriving there Solan met him. "Why," he said, "I thought you were dead?" "Well," he said, "I meant I was dead broke." Guess there is more than one young man of today that has that same feeling.

I never will forget how Kira Crandall used to look as he passed our house and we used to hear him singing pennyroyal Hymns before reaching the house and would sing out to his horses get up there Polly, step up Fannie. He had a whip with a long lash over his shoulder. You

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week W. H. Bell was elected president of the Greeneville Reform club. John Cockran was elected treasurer and George Cox, secretary. Announcement was made that week the "home" of the United Workers was to be moved about the first of April from its location on Thames street to Eliza Perkins place at Norwich Town. Interesting extracts taken from the file of The Norwich Bulletin of March, 1878, are as follows:

Monday, March 25, 1878—The headquarters of Gen. Bourke will be at the Wauregan house, today, where he will be happy to meet all his friends and those who wish to consult with him on national Irish affairs. HE ISN'T CONSTIPATED ANY MORE

Thanks to Kellogg's wonderful ALL-BRAN

Mr. Grinslade wrote, of his own accord, to tell us how much he valued ALL-BRAN in relieving constipation.

June 1, 1927

"Just a few words to let the company know what Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has done for me. I was constipated for several years until I went to eating your PEP and ALL-BRAN. I am now rid of constipation and it is all due to the use of your products, and I will recommend it to anyone that is bothered with constipation."

Yours truly,
H. M. GRINSLADE,
1139 Laguna Ave., Los Angeles

Constipation is a dreadful thing. It undermines health. It steals happiness. Throbbing heads, aching backs, spots before the eyes, bad complexions are just a few of its telltale symptoms.

Don't let it get in its deadly work on you. Protect yourself now. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to prevent and relieve constipation. A health cereal—ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. Doctors recommend it. Delicious with milk or cream, or with fruit or honey added. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Use in cooking. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

pronounced it O. K. Get a dozen or more big clean corn cobs and put in cold water and boil two or three hours, adding water if necessary. At the end you have a quart of the strained liquid. Add to this two cups of light brown sugar and cook to desired syrup. I think she used dark colored cobs, but probably that does not matter.

Some of you know I love to grow plants of all sorts and have often taken to Social Corner meetings cuttings to give to other flower lovers, as I enjoy sharing good things, thereby doubling the pleasure. I shall try to do so at the April 5 meeting in D. and meet you there.

BUTTERFLIES

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Experts tell us that if we do not take an interest in the question right away, and try to do something to stop the wholesale slaughter of butterflies by naturalists, these lovely creatures will soon disappear. If we would but stop to think, most of us would rather see a gorgeous butterfly fluttering about in our garden than pinned to a board in a cabinet. Let us stop and think of this the next time we are tempted to catch one of them.

Kitty Lou: How good your letter was last week on "Why Girls Leave Home," and I know the others will say so, too. You are so good and faithful in writing every week, and I really look for your letters . I hope some time our editor will be kind and put in my poem on "Now."

MOTHER PRESTON.

FEEDING THE BIRDS

Dear Social Corner Friends: It has been suggested that each member tell why he selected his pen name. I would certainly like to know about some of them. They are so odd.

My pen name I took from a story I read years ago of Spain. It is a Spanish word of endearment, meaning darling or dearest. As my own name —given to me when I was but a day old—is Spanish, I picked another from the same language.

As I am writing my door is open wide and I can hear the bluebirds and robins whistling and singing. Tiny little birds with their bills filled with fluffy white feathers are getting ready to go to housekeeping. My big tree will be deserted. It looks like a Christmas tree now. All winter I have tied every scrap of meat, cooked or raw, fat or lean, on to the limbs. The dear little chickadees and downy woodpeckers almost light on my hand and head while I am tying the scraps to a twig.

Mrs. Dan: Why not stop in and give your greetings face to face?

Avon: So pleased to meet you in Putnam, if only for a minute.

C. M. H.: Am so sorry to hear you and Mr. are sick and suffering. Hope to hear of an improvement, and very soon, too.

Butterfly: Come again. I have something you left and I wish to return it, or I will give it to Mr. to fix my tray, which?

It is time I was about my work. Time to start the household machinery, and as there is no "self-starter" I am the "crank" that starts it humming.

MORE CANDY RECIPES

Dear Sisters: I am keeping my word and sending the other candy recipes which I promised.

Mt. Holyoke Mexican: Three cups sugar, one cup thin cream, two tablespoons butter, one cup nut meats.

Boil two cups (of the sugar,) milk, and butter. Put other cup of sugar in pan over fire, and stir to keep from scorching. When melted to a rich brown color, slowly add the first boiling hot mixture, beating all the time. Cook to soft ball stage. Remove, add nuts, and beat until creamy. Pour into buttered pan.

Barnard Peanut Butter: Two cups brown sugar, three-quarters cup milk, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-half cup raisins, one-quarter cup peanut butter, one teaspoon vanilla.

Boil sugar and milk to soft ball stage. Remove from fire, add remaining ingredients, and beat until creamy. Pour into buttered pan about an inch in depth, cool, and cut into squares.

Some other fruit may be used in place of raisins, such as crushed pineapple, or a mixture of fruits.

Pickaninny Drops: One egg, beaten separately; 2 tablespoons cream, 1 pound confectioners' sugar, 4 squares chocolate, 3 tablespoons butter, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup walnuts, chopped.

Add beaten white to yolk, sugar and cream. Beat well. Melt chocolate and butter; add to first mixture. Add nuts and vanilla. Drop by spoon upon wax paper. Shredded cocoanut may be sprinkled on top.

Candied Oranges: Peel and divide into sections, discarding white inner skin. Make syrup of 2 cups sugar and 1 cups water. Cook to hard ball stage. Dip in orange sections and drain on wire sieve to cool.

Smith College Irresistible: One pound confectioners' sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 pound unsweetened chocolate, 2 eggs, salt, 1 cup nut meats.

Melt chocolate in double-boiler. Beat eggs, add sugar, salt, then chocolate and vanilla. Mix well and add nuts. Spread in buttered pan. Smooth top. Let ripen at least 6 hours. Better at end of week.

Lemon Taffy: Two cups sugar, 4 tablespoons lemon juice, 4 tablespoons water, 2 tablespoons butter.

Melt butter, remove from heat, add sugar, juice and water, stirring until well mixed. Cook until a little dropped in cold water becomes brittle. Pour upon buttered plates and when cool pull until white and glistening. Draw into long narrow strips and cut into pieces.

ROUND ROBIN.

BAGS FOR THE BABY

Dear Sisters: In preparing the infant's layette, especially when drawer space is likely to be limited, numerous bags for various purposes should be included. As useful as such bags are, the preparation of them is often overlooked in the shower of the little garments that occupies the attention of the mother at this time. They, therefore, make most acceptable gifts for the young mother.

These handy little bags are especially appreciated when traveling with the young child. If, instead of the unpreposessing oilcloth bag, or ungainly shaped straw basket, purchased in a hurry at the last moment, there is ready for use a neat linen-covered bag to hold the diapers, the traveling mother will be sure to remember the giver with a glow of gratitude.

A good bag for this purpose is lined with oilcloth and has two compartments, separated with a double thickness of oilcloth, one for dry and the other for soiled diapers. A cord may be attached so the bag can be carried like a handbag, or it may be laid flat in a suitcase or fastened to the back of the baby's buggy.

A padded eiderdown bag, into which the nursing bottle may be slipped and kept warm for some time, is also a great convenience—even if the child is not a bottle baby. Many people give hot water to an infant in a nursing bottle.

A similar bag may be prepared to hold the tiny hot water bag for little cold feet or small stomachs that are troubled with the colic. The eiderdown is soft and warm to the touch, and the heat from within comes through very gently when laid against the tender little body. A button and a buttonhole at the top hold the bag or bottom securely in place, and the edges are buttonholed or crocheted with silk or lustre cotton in delicate colors. The bag itself is simple, being simply four oval pieces of eiderdown of the desired size, with the padding being thrust between the outer and inner layers, on either side, and held in place by being quilted to the inner covering.

A bed bag may be made of warm eiderdown, but the tiny blankets now made and sold in stores are ideal for this purpose. Little feet that wriggle and kick until the clothing and bedding are thrust aside can never work their way free of the bed bag. The small blankets are just the right size to make such a bag for a tiny baby.

Fold one of these blankets crosswise and buttonhole what were the top of it, also the bottom edges of the blanket, together with silk to match the color of the stripes. Take this buttonholed seam as the center front of the bag. Buttonhole all around the top, turn in the corners at the front of the top each side of the center front seam, and put buttonholes and buttons the rest of the way across the top at either side of the turned in part; sew or buttonhole the bottom together, a comfortable, confining but uncramping is the result. Where the infant takes cold easily, such a bag is indispensable.

For a larger child, the bag may be made of two blankets crocheted together with a slit cut in the neck for an opening. One advantage bags made of blankets have over the padded blankets of other materials that the blanket bags wash much more easily and are always soft and comfortable. If desired, buttons may be sewed to the crib mattress and corresponding buttonholes worked in the blanket bag to keep it in place.

A handy bag for tiny socks or stockings, hung in a convenient place, saves delving in drawers and boxes when such foot covering is needed. A cunning one is made of black ground, figured sateen, with a cut-out picture of a baby painted upon its outer side. When the bag is filled with tiny rolls of hose, the posture of the infant is apt to be most engaging.

This same little bag may be made of solid colored material and delightfully ornamented with a little figure of a baby worked in cross-stitch or in outline—instead of a picture. The quaint little cross-stitch figures are particularly attractive for the purpose.

A picture of a canning baby may ornament a tiny oilcloth. This is another indispensable convenience when traveling. The bag may be made simply to accommodate a sponge or a washcloth, or it may be a larger and more elaborate affair with compartments for towels, soap, toothbrush and other toilet articles.

ETHELYN

ALL CAN BE PEACEMAKERS.

Dear Social Corner Sisters—God has granted you an extra day in which to count the mercies of past years. Sum them up if you can and you will say He has given you "good measure, pressed down and running over." Surely your cup of blessing is more than full. A good way to appreciate your mercies is to think of the ills you have escaped. Every trouble, disappointment and sorrow which you have been spared is a blessing. Every calamity which has touched others and passed you by gives you reason for fresh thanksgiving, and if you were half as grateful as you ought to be you would sing for joy all day long. What if there have been shadows? Do not shadows intensify light? What if there have been disappointments? Have there not been sweet surprises as well? Don't forget the unexpected blessings that God has showered upon you every day; don't take them as a matter of course but remember they are an especial gift from Him and should be thankfully received by you though so unworthy. We are all the daily recipients of God's bounty, love and care and as such our hearts should continually praise and magnify his name.

My Father what am I that all
Thy mercies sweet like sunlight fall
So constant o'er my way?
That Thy great love should shelter me,
And guide my steps so tenderly
Through every changing day?

Blessed are the peacemakers for they shall be called the children of God. Oh, sweet mission of the peacemaker. It is blessed indeed. I think it is a natural inheritance, and yet we may all cultivate peacemaking to a certain extent. It is sometimes developed very early in a child. You have doubtless noticed several children playing together and after a time they would chance to disagree just as their elders do and perhaps angry words and tears would follow until into their midst came one sweet child who dispersed the clouds, settled the difficulty and brought a smile to every little troubled face. God bless these rays of sunlight.

Dear Lord I beseech thee to grant me this grace
That I may be welcome wherever my place.
This sweetness of manner whence discord shall flee.
Oh, grant that a maker of peace I may be;
That I too an Heavenly kinship
may claim;
A child of the King and an heir to
His Name.

MORE ABOUT WOODCHUCK HILL

Dear Social Corner Editor: By way of starting my letter I will thank the editor for the unexpected gift of the yellow slip and then I will try to give Soma a little information about the old tannery site and gravestones at Woodchuck Hill as I have heard about it. My great grandfather, James Appley, was a tanner by trade and began business over on Sugar Brook in Plainfield. I have heard that some of the vats of the old tannery were still discernible, not so many years ago. In 1771 he married Abigail Williams of Woodchuck Hill and took her to Plainfield to live, but the country was wild and unsettled with no neighbors and she was so lonely and homesick that they moved back to Woodchuck Hill. He set up a large tannery there and it is said they were buried near by. Probably the Nelson Lyon place might have been her home and the old Williams place mentioned. Her father is thought to have been Elijah Williams, but history is rather hazy on that point. It is said that at the time they lived in Plainfield the forest was full of heath hens, whose continuous calling "Do-do-do" all day long aggravated my great grandmother's loneliness and as we say now "got on her nerves." The heath hen is almost an extinct bird now, like the passenger pigeon. I have read that the government has kept some on an island, (I forget the name of it) in hopes of saving at least a few of the species, but they were fast dying off, probably not having just their native environment.

These things all happened so long ago that there can't be much left, but the site of the old tannery now, and very likely the gravestones are hardly decipherable.

It used to be quite a common thing to bury people on their own land in a private family yard, walled in from the rest of a field, and always small pox patients were buried in an isolated place away off in the field somewhere as L. T. H. says about those who died in Fort Ned. I can just remember about that time. Thanks to vaccination there are few victims claimed by it now, but it still strikes terror to the people of the land when a report of it spreads abroad and everybody takes prompt action. I call to mind a story I have heard of a young soldier of the Revolution, (I think he was one of the Williams family of Woodchuck Hill, too) who was home on a furlough and on the night before he was to leave the young folks of the neighborhood had what we would call a surprise party for him. But he felt so sick before the evening was over that he had to leave the party and go to bed. It proved to be small pox and he died and presumably was buried in the lots somewhere and naturally everyone who had been exposed was frightened half to death, but not a person who was there took the disease.

And then again the whole party would have taken it and there would have been a regular scourge and epidemic. Strange how those things work out sometimes.

Sister Barbara asks if Mr. Crandall was a relative of mine. I couldn't say that he was exactly. He was my grandmother, Burgess's second husband, so I suppose I might call him my stepgrandfather. When I remember him, which was when I was very young he was running a mill at "Mud Hole," as it was then called and living with his last wife. After her death he went to Illinois. I think somewhere in the west, anyhow, to live with some of his children and died there. Miss Prudence Crandall was his sister. I have read about her colored school enough, so that I should remember it exactly, but probably may not.

It has been recorded in history and revived at intervals in papers and magazines for years. As I recall it I think she began with a private school for white and colored girls both and public feeling being strong against mixing the races in society she finally gave that up and took only colored girls. But I believe her windows were stoned out and a good many insults hurled at her, etc. I don't remember all the particulars, but think she finally had to give up the school altogether. She finally married an old minister by the name of Philleo. Priest Philleo as popularly called, and they also went to the west and ended their days. Some one else can probably tell this better than I and you would be apt to find the whole story in a history of Windham county.

I seem to have forgotten about the Messenger family occupying the Hilbert house. Probably never happened to meet any of them, but I dimly remember the name of Obeino in connection with the paper mill.

But I think it was Mr. Peck who wrote the article where Mr. Crandall is mentioned as owning a mill there, for until I read that I didn't know it myself.

I can sympathize with Skipper's love for the Litchfield hills. Although I wasn't brought up among them, I lived for a year in Milton; about five miles west of Litchfield and the mountains. A span of the Berkshires rose up beyond us, one was tipped with white said to be snow. Away into the summer and in the fall when covered with the changing foliage they were so beautiful. On the misty fall mornings as I watched the fogs rolling up from the valley against their sides and finally vanishing, I thought of the hymn, "When the mists have rolled in splendor from the beauty of the hills." Also I thought of what the Bible says about the mountains that are "round about Jerusalem" and of Mrs. Hemans hymn of the mountaineers, "For the strength of the hills we bless Thee, our God, our fathers' God."

Give me the mountains instead of the seas, every time. They are firm and dependable and sheltering. The sea always seems cruel and treacherous even when it is smiling.

Litchfield and the surrounding country is most beautiful in fall and summer. An ideal summer place, but too bitterly cold in winter for me.

Calla Lily: It is strange what a little place this world is after all and how we are always coming across some one who knows people and places that we do. I lived in Scotland for several years, not far from the place where Joseph and Josephine Somers lived. Although I wasn't especially acquainted with them I knew them by sight.

The letter by L. T. H. was very interesting to me, as I used to know Scotland pretty well and I remember the blind man, Seth Saord. Like all the other country towns and villages, there are few left whom we used to know and "Only the lonely gravestones remain to speak for their voices dumb. Swift and harsh is the work of time, and this is the fate of men. Once they turn their backs on the scenes they love they are never the same again.

With good wishes, as always,

IOLA.

"You said a mouthful" and "Is that the best?"
"Wake me" and "Od the [illegible]
"Money is everything" "Whaddyuh know?"
"Have you heard this one?" "You get me, bo?"
They give me a pain in the neck, they do.
But this phrase brings me the greatest woe,
"I'm goin' to be perfectly frank with you!"

It means things said that shouldn't be said,
It's never a boost, but always a blow,
It's a vocal crack on a tender head,
That knocks me sprawling and lays me low;
It means that somebody's going to show
That I've gone wrong since the age of two,
And I cringe when any one starts in, "O,
I'm going to be perfectly frank with you!"

It means I'll hear that I'm badly bred,
That I'm a moron whose brains won't grow,
That I'm uncultured, uncouth, unread,
A laughing-stock to my friend or foe;
It means—well, here's where I holler "Whoa!"
Who asked for frankness, I ask you who?
I notify you, that phrase won't go—
"I'm going to be perfectly frank with you!"

L'Envoi

"Listen," "Believe me," blood will flow
If you pull that phrase on me, take my cue,
Or you'll ride to music that's sad and slow;
I'm going to be perfectly frank with you!

—Berton Braley, in College Humor

South Wind

Soft-throated South, breathing summer's ease
(Sweet breath, whereof the violet's life is made!)
Through lips moist-warm as thou hadst lately stayed
'Mong rosebuds, wooing to the cheeks of these
Loth blushes faint and maidenly—rich breeze,
Still doth thy honeyed blowing bring a shade
Of sad foreboding. In thy hand is laid
The power to build or blight the fruit of trees,
The deep, cool grass, and field of thick-combed grain.
Even so my Love may bring me joy or woe.
Both measureless, but either counted gain
Since given by her. For pain and pleasure flow
Like tides upon us of the self-same sea:
Tears are the gems of joy and misery.

—George Parson Lathrop.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Have you heard the story of the Scotchman who went crazy trying to shoot off a cannon a little at a time? —Washington Star.

Cop—Hey, this is a one-way street.
Motorist—Well, I'm going one way, huh?—Detroit News.

She—They must ask an awful lot for the rent of this house.
He—Rather! They asked for it seven times!—Answers, London.

"Marie says she believes in being young while she can."

"Oh, Marie has done better than that the past five years. She's been young while she couldn't."—Pathfinder.

"Can I write my name under the 'Received payment' on this bill?" asked the collector who likes to put things as delicately as possible."

"No, thanks," replied Brokeleigh, "I'm no autograph fiend."—Punch.

Landlord—You'll like this apartment. It's even fitted with rubber plaster.

Jones—Plastered with rubber? What's the idea?

Landlord—So nobody will get hurt when it falls down!—Exchange.

At the orchestral concert.

Mother (to small daughter who is tying a knot in the corner of her tiny handkerchief)—What are you doing that for, darling?

Daughter—Oh, mummie, I do want to remember that pretty tune!—Tit-Bits.

In the sweet silence of twilight they honeyspooned upon the beach.

"Dearest," she murmured, "now that we are married, I—I have a confession to make to you."

"What is it, sweetheart?" he asked softly.

"Can you ever forgive me for deceiving you?" she sobbed. "My—my left eye is made of glass."

"Never mind, lovebird," he whispered gently, "so are the stones in your engagement ring." — Boston Transcript.

A few weeks ago a young woman employed by an executive of a Wilmington, Del., concern, while mailing letters, removed a diamond ring and left it on her desk. When she looked for it the ring had disappeared. She concluded it might have slipped into one of the letters she had sealed and mailed. She wrote to the correspondents of the day, explaining the disappearance and asking that the ring be returned should it be found. PRICES OF STOCKS SOARED IN MARKET WITH TOTAL SALES OF 4,585,300 SHARES

NEW YORK, March 30—(AP)—In one of the most consistently strong sessions of the current bull market, prices of dozens of stocks climbed $4 to nearly $25 a share today, established about 75 new highs for the year or longer, and piled up total sales of 4,586,300 shares. The feverish bidding for shares was not checked until the final gong was sounded, and practically all the leaders at the close were at, or close under their peak levels of the day.

Radio common, charging headlong was again the individual feature, dashing past General Motors for the first time, and reaching 195 in the last transactions, a gain of 1-2 on the day, only for a moment did Radio falter in its advance, and then it dipped only a small fraction under its opening price of 173. General Motors, also gaining steadily, closed with a net gain of 7 points, at 192.

The average of 20 leading industrials was at a new high for all time, at 200.63, with a gain of approximately 4 1-2 points. This gain was all the more remarkable in that issues scoring the most outstanding advances are not included in the compilation, with the exception of Baldwin, which had a net advance of 15 1-4 points. The railroad average also reached a new peak.

Doubtless the day's enormous buying was inspired by the failure of the brokers' loans to reach the high level for all time established in February, and by Secretary Mellon's statement that the current gold movement is not likely to disturb credit conditions. Call money was marked up to 5 per cent. after renewing at 4 3-4, but the bull faction gave little heed, since the stiffening rate was attributed mostly to the usual growth in demand for funds at the end of a quarter.

The industrial and specialty groups provided the most conspicuous ground gainer. New peaks were reached, after advances of 2 to 8 points, by a long list of stocks including General Electric, Anaconda Copper, American International, Amerada Corporation Westinghouse Manufacturing and Hershey Chocolate. Wright Aeronautical responded to success of the Stinson endurance flight in Florida by zooming up 12 3-8 points to 98 1-4, drawing Curtiss Aeroplane in its wake.

Huge blocks of the low priced oils were turned over at improving prices, particularly Sinclair and Marland. Atlantic Refining reached new high ground.

The railroad group participated less spectacularly in the general rush upward, although St. Paul common spurted 4 points, while the preferred gained about half as much, both to new tops. Union Pacific reached 199 for the first time since 1909 and Nickel Plate made a new 1928 top.

Consistent accumulation continued in the public utility department, particularly among the New York Gas and Electric shares.

Brooklyn Edison went up 10 and Consolidated Gas 2 7-8, both to new highs, but the latter subsequently lost all but a fraction of its gain.

Outstanding stocks which made huge strides, but failed to break through their former peaks, included DuPont, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, Union Carbide and Adams Express, with gains ranging from 4 to 11 points.

Time money and commercial paper rates held steady after yesterday's slight stiffening.

A ten-point drop in Portuguese escudo to 4.25 cents featured the otherwise steady foreign exchange market. Japanese yen were quoted a little higher, but sterling cables held unchanged around $4.88 3-16 and French francs just below 3.93 1-2 cents.

A few changes were recorded in the principal commodity markets. Cotton and coffee prices were slightly lower and sugar futures a few points higher. Wheat prices were off a little more than a cent a bushel.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 30—(AP)—Curb market prices soared with those on the "big board" today. Trading was heavy and broad, more than 900,000 shares changing hands and the number of issues traded exceeding 600.

The feature of the day apparently was the lack of weak spots, comparatively few issues falling to move 1 to 18 upward. Every group was strong, buying support being well distributed, and those few shares which at the close showed losses were chiefly those which have been at high levels and sagged under profit-taking.

Canadian Marconi again had the largest turnover, and moved up to 8 1-4, a new high. One 25,000 share block of Spanish & General changed hands on receipt of cables suggesting a change in the control is likely and the issue moved to a new high at 5 5-8. Marconi of London also advanced.

Railroad shares were strong in sympathy with rails on the "big board" Pittsburgh & Lake Erie touching a new top at 158. Tubize Art Silk and Bohack, soaring 15 points each to new high levels, had the widest gain in the industrial list. Bancitaly continued to move up, rising nearly 6 points. Among industrials at new peaks were Blumenthal, New Most Mines, Neisner Bros., Knott, Copeland Products A and Aero Supply A and B.

Safeway Stores sagged 8 points under profit-taking. Warner Brothers Pictures, Cohn, Hall & Marx, U. S. Radiator and Safe-T-Stat also were weak.

The utilities moved buoyantly upward as a group. The new Fall River lighting issue gained more than 16 points. Massachusetts Gas rose 10 points to a new high at 122 and new peaks were registered also by American Superpower A and B, Mohawk and Hudson Power, and United Gas Improvement.

Oils and pipe lines continued to gain. Houston Gulf Gas preferred soared nearly 12 points to a new high at 118, carrying with it Penn Mex Fuel and National Transit.

Paramount-Famous-Lasky earned $12.85 a share on the common stock in 1927, with net profit of $8,057,997 after charges and federal taxes, as against $5,600,815 or $10.82 a share on a smaller amount of common outstanding in 1926. Fourth quarter earnings were equal to $2.84 a share on the common against $3.40 in the third quarter and $3.12 in the fourth quarter of 1926.

First quarter sales of F. W. Woolworth Co. are expected to establish a record of $56,800,000, surpassing the previous record for the first quarter last year by $3,700,000. The company has 107 new locations under lease for opening this year.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 30—(AP)—Continued strength of the semi-speculative issues and irregularity among the high grade mortgages characterized today's active bond market. Much of the buying of convertible issues, several of which made new high ground, probably was in the nature of overflow from the stock market, while the slowing up of leading investment issues probably was caused by the recent stiffening of time money rates.

One or two of the high grade railroads, however, made a good showing, notably Southern Railway 5s, which advanced more than a point to a new maximum. Some of the gilt-edged public utilities also moved toward higher ground, including an advance to a new year's high by Western Union 5s. Philadelphia company 5s were in supply.

St. Paul issues were again in the limelight, the adjustment 5s continuing to score in new high territory with an extreme gain of 2 points. Copper bonds were active and buoyant, new peak levels being reached by Anaconda 7s, Andes 7s and Chile 5s, all of which changed hands in large volume. Kayser & Company 5 1-2s sold as high as 121 3-4 for the first time on a turnover of nearly half a million dollars.

Further sharp recovery was made by most of the Seaboard liens, and National Railway of Mexico 4s gained a point in further reflection of improved relations between the United States and the Latin American republic.

South American issues were the star performers in the foreign group, Peruvian 7s 1-2s and Colombian Land Bank 7s attaining their best levels of the year. Other foreign bonds, in the main, were firm, but not especially active.

United States government obligations were unusually quiet.

Public offering is expected shortly of $50,000,000 American Gas & Electric company debenture 5s on a yield basis of approximately 4.95 per cent.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

GETTING IN EARLY PEAS

Green peas are one of the favorite garden crops for the home patch. Their only rival in the general affection of the gardening world is sweet corn. Peas can be grown in gardens too small to make it worth while to try to grow corn. Peas are an early crop. They must mature before hot weather. Consequently they are to be planted as soon as the soil is dry and warm enough to work. The earliest peas that can be safely planted are the smooth seeded sorts. Alaska is the old standby and later varieties are Eureka and Electric that have become popular. The smooth-seeded peas will stand cold and wet without rotting which the better quality wrinkled seeded sorts can't endure.

The smooth-seeded peas are not as of high quality as the wrinkled, but as they can be picked earlier they are highly desirable and a fine crop to precede the sweeter wrinkled kind. They can be planted about two weeks earlier. Often they can be planted in March while the wrinkled sorts cannot go into the ground until April. The best plan is to sow the peas in double rows six inches apart. It is now known that it is a waste to sow the seed as thickly as was formerly the custom. It is now found best to give each plant two inches of room instead of letting them touch. Dwarf peas are the most popular sorts and are grown almost exclusively in the small garden.

Large crops are produced by the tall growing sorts, but they must be given substantial support in the way of brush or poultry wire. Even the low growing kinds are benefited by a support to which the tendrils may attach. American Wonder and Laxtonian are popular dwarf varieties of fine flavor. Gradus is a standby of the taller sorts. It reaches a height of three feet. Telephone and Marrowfat are popular standbys in the tall sorts.

Peas like a rich mellow soil which should be kept stirred from the time they are well above the surface. A cool root run is their main requirement. Stirring the soil conserves the moisture and helps to maintain this condition.

MR. CROW ON TRIAL

Although nature lovers, who are cooperating with the Biological Survey of the united States Department of Agriculture in its banding of birds and in their subsequent recovery, are concerned primarily in establishing basic facts pertaining to the life habits of birds the information gathered is often of value in its relationships to the life of man.

The common crow presents a problem on which these bird-branding studies are beginning to cast light. Sometimes crows are responsible for serious damage and must be controlled. Here a knowledge of their food habits and of the periodic moments of individuals is required. Winter is usually the season when they are most easily destroyed. Then it becomes of importance to know whether the individuals that make up the large winter roosts are the same as those guilty of depredations on crops of the vicinity during the summer. Only after many more recoveries of banded birds will it be possible to know whether winter slaughter will protect the crops of the following season, or whether a winter massacre will merely cut down the number of the crows that would otherwise scatter to localities in which their good food habits outweigh their destructiveness.

TO HURRY ALONG RHUBARB STALKS

Here's an old-fashioned method of hurrying rhubarb along after it has started in the spring. In the climate of the Middle Atlantic and New England states many such plants are held back by cold winds and unseasonable weather. By placing a barrel over each plant, and removing the bottom they are protected from drafts and given such an advantage that stalks are several weeks ahead of the ordinary garden run.

The same principle, only using boxes or kegs, can be employed with such plants as the peony or the delphinium, and thus gain a week or two in their period of bloom.

CARING FOR SICK SOILS.

It often happens that soil becomes sick from the constant buying of garden refuse, application of chemical fertilizers, or even sometimes from the frequent application of soapsuds which in some communities are regarded as good for the garden. There are also soils, such as light and sandy ones, or low and damp ones which are naturally sour or acid. The cure is the application of lime. Lime stimulates chemical action that makes the plant food available for the roots of the plants and corrects the sour conditions by neutralizing the soil acids. Some plants require acid soil to flourish, but the great majority of both vegetables and flowered plants prefer sweet or lime soil.

Two dressings of lime during the winter season, one in the early fall and another in early spring will go a long way toward correcting the condition. The application of lime should be sufficient to give the appearance of a light snow, merely whitening the ground. The commonest means of applying lime is in the form of hydrated lime or ground limestone. More of the latter is required than of the hydrated lime.

The object of the two dressings is not to add to the quantity of the lime but merely to continue the sweetening process as the lime is leached down into the soil. A mere sprinkling of lime starts the sweetening process. Later applications serve to continue it.

It is an excellent idea to spade or plow over the land a short time after the first application of lime and then give it another sprinkling. The action of ground limestone is slower than that of hydrated lime because the particles of the latter are finer and penetrate the soil more readily. The action of the limestone is more enduring. In practice it is customary to apply half again as much ground limestone as hydrated lime.

Spading in the limestone helps the texture of the soil as it breaks up closely adhering lumps.

HYBRID OATS MAY DEFEAT SMUT.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Investigations at the Brooklyn Botanical Garden indicate that the future oats crop of this country may be hybrid, a cross between the present best producing strains and the most successful smut-resisting types.

Dr George M. Reed, plant pathologist of the institution, has developed a few varieties which appear to be highly resistant, but their yield usually is unsatisfactory. By crossing them with strains that are good yielders, although susceptible, he has obtained both resistance and production.

Last year Dr. Reed grew more than 100,000 individual oat plants in connection with his study of smut resistance. His paper on smut diseases recently was awarded the A. Cressy Morrison prize for the New York Academy of Sciences. One of Dr. Reed's most significant discoveries is the fact of the occurrence of specialized races of oats smuts, "families" of the disease which vary in their preference for different strains of oats and in their behavior under the specific circumstances.

Smut is known to almost every grain grower as a disease which converts the valuable kernels of the heads into a black, useless powder about the time of harvest. Dr. Reed says the annual toll of these diseases amounts to more than five per cent of the nation's entire grain crop, and in individual cases a farmer may find 80 to 90 per cent of his grain destroyed. Oats, barley, wheat, rye, corn and sorghum are subject to attacks.

HINTS FOR THE FARM

Burning the range is of no value in getting rid of the southern cattle ticks. It has been fully tried by trained scientists, who declare that no pasture has ever been cleaned of ticks by burning.

Alsike clover will grow under conditions more adverse than red clover and will endure more severe winters and more acid soil. This has made it possible for many farmers to use a clover in short rotation without the expense of using large quantities of limestone. In some sections where the soil has been gradually growing more acid in recent years farmers have been seeding mixtures of red and alsike clover, thus more nearly assuring a stand of clover than would otherwise be possible. If winter killing or acidity injure the red clover the alsike is likely to make up the deficiency.

Four good grain mixtures are suggested to supplement legume hay in the winter feeding of dairy heifers of six months of age or more: (1) three parts by weight of ground corn and one part wheat bran; (2) three parts ground corn, one part wheat bran, one part ground oats; (3) four parts ground corn, one part wheat bran, two parts ground oats and one part linseed meal; (4) two parts by weight ground oats and one part wheat bran.

Now is the time to look over the incubator, make sure that it is in running order, obtain necessary supplies and replacements and prepare generally for the early hatching of the chicks that will bring the early eggs next fall when prices are high.

Cousin Kinky

But other tails are put to use.
—Old Mother Nature.

"Who is Kinky the Kinkajou?" demanded Bobby Coon.

"A member of your family who lives way down in that warm country where your cousin Nosey the Coati lives," replied Scrapper the Kingbird.

"He isn't always called Kinky the Kinkajou. He has another name," replied Sunshine the Yellow Warbler.

"What is that?" demanded Bobby Coon.

"Honey Bear," replied Sunshine very promptly. "That's funny too, because he isn't a Bear at all. But I've heard him called Honey Bear ever so many times."

"But I like Kinkajou better," declared Scrapper. "You see, I've heard Nosey the Coati called Honey Bear, and when two folks are called by the same name it rather mixes things up. That's why I like Kinky the Kinkajou best."

"Has he rings on his tail?" demanded Bobby

"Does he look at all like me?" inquired Bobby Coon.

Scrapper and Sunshine laughed right out. "You never would know you were related if you should meet him," declared Scrapper. "It is hard work to believe that he belongs to the family. It really is. But Old Mother Nature says he does and that settles it. He looks more like a cat than he does like a Raccoon."

"Has he rings on his tail?" demanded Bobby.

Scrapper shook his head. "No," he replied, "there are no rings on his tail."

Bobby Coon sniffed. "I wouldn't think much of a tail without rings," said he.

"You would if you had such a tail as Kinky's," spoke up Sunshine the Warbler. "My, but that is a handy tail!"

"What do you mean by a handy tail?" demanded Bobby Coon.

"What use have you for your tail?" demanded Scrapper.

Bobby had to think a minute. "Well," said he, "it's very nice to wrap around me when I curl up for a nap in cold weather. I love to bury my nose in it. Can Kinky do that with his tail?"

"Kinky doesn't have to and doesn't want to. You have forgotten that there isn't any cold weather down there," replied Scrapper. "But he can CUT HERE ETAOIN do with that tail what you can't do with yours."

"What is that?" demanded Bobby.

"He can hang with it," replied Scrapper. "He can climb about in places you would be afraid to go, using his tail to help him hang on."

"Do you mean the way Unc' Billy Possum uses his tail?" inquired Bobby.

Scrapper nodded. "Yes," said he; "only Kinky's tail is an even better tail for that purpose. And he certainly can hang on with it. I don't see him very often, because he prefers the night to the daytime. But he certainly is an interesting fellow to see in a treetop."

"What color is he?" demanded Bobby.

"Brown," replied Scrapper. "He is brown all over—the softest, warmest kind of brown. He is brown clear to the tip of his tail. And such a tongue as he has! My goodness, such a tongue!"

"Tell me about it," demanded Bobby.

"Some other time," replied Scrapper. "I find I have an engagement now." And away he flew.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Strand Theatre

For picturesqueness of setting and costuming "Michael Strogoff" which shows at the Strand on Sunday night only, is said to be unique in film productions. Quaint Russian inns, peopled with dancers, singers and accordion players apparently just stepped out of the "Chauve Souris," wretched peasant hovels unfit for animals to live in, gorgeous state halls staged with the extravagance of an oriental potentate, and lastly, the great camp of Feofar Kahn, leader of the savage Tartars. The Kahn's harem is there too, while the Kahn himself rivals Nero in his splendor. In startling contrast to these scenes is the brilliant court ball in the Czar's palace. Here too the scene is in colors, but the colors are the soft shades of a highly civilized society. The lithe brown dancers, dressed in the costumes, which only the East could conceive, will please you, as they did the Kahn, when they dance to the music of a strange band playing on potato shaped drums. Ivan Moskin, Europe's screen idol is the leading star. See this tremendous melodrama on Sunday night at the Strand. This is absolutely one of the greatest melodramas of all time. It is stupendous in size and awe-inspiring in beauty. There is thrill upon thrill at whirlwind speed. Let nothing prevent your seeing this melodramatic masterpiece.

"Unsocial Three" is a delightfully funny comedy that will hand you some good laughs and it adds plenty of good humor to this already interesting program. The cast is clever and the story full of livewire action.

TAX COLLECTOR RICHARDS RESIGNS; IN OFFICE AT NEW LONDON 25 YEARS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 30—Allen C. Richards, for twenty-five years tax collector for the city of New London, today tendered his resignation to City Manager Holt. Mr. Richards' act resulted from the decision of the city fathers, a short time ago, to take drastic steps in collecting back taxes. As soon as the retiring collector had given in his resignation the city manager appointed Hibbard N. Alexander of the firm of White & Alexander to the position. It is understood that Mr. Richards will remain in the collector's office to assist Mr. Alexander in his new work. The appointment of Mr. Alexander to the office necessitates an additional expenditure for the city amounting to $8,000. This appropriation is pending but it is almost certain that its passage will meet with strenuous objection. Mayor May is flat footedly out in the open against it and argues that it is illegal. Mr. May's contention is that if Mr. Richards is unable to collect back taxes no one else can. Any person filling the office has only the means prescribed by law to collect from delinquents and one man can use the tools available as well as any other.

The ordinance has had its first hearing and will have its second next Monday night. The final reading will be on April 16. Should the ordinance be passed and it is almost certain to —there is intimation of a referendum.

Examinations for appointment to the supernumerary list of the New London police department will be held on April 20. Two applications have already been received. After the examination City Manager Holt will announce a list of names consisting of those who pass the highest tests and in order in which they are listed they will be selected, when openings occur.

Prize winners in the double silver medal contest held last night at Huntington street Baptist church were Francis Minson and Robert Frink. Miss Minson read the moderation bridge by Frances Willard and young Frink The Ideal City. Miss Floyda Needham won honorable mention for her reading.

The bearers were Peter Dyer, Martin Cullen, James Murphy, Joseph Callahan, Earl Kenyon and Louis Douchette. Burial was made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Marcus M. Steward, 86, died last night at his residence at Pleasure Beach, Waterford. He is survived by his wife, three sons, James, John and Charles Biltcliffe and four daughters, Miss Eva Steward, Mrs. Carroll Bliss, Mrs. William Shields and Mrs. Annie Fielder.

Mrs. Mary Payne, wife of Frank Payne of 166 Ledyard street died yesterday afternoon at Home Memorial hospital as the result of an illness contracted some few weeks ago. She is survived besides her husband by a daughter. Mrs. Payne was born in Groton, but spent most of her life in New London. She was a member of the First Baptist church, in which she was a faithful and active worker.

Luther Mands, colored was charged with breach of the peace. He was fined $10 but the execution of the sentence was suspended. Mands is a lodger at the home of Mrs. Georgie Bates, also colored and last night he and Mrs. Bates engaged in a heated quarrel, it is claimed, over the purchase of liquor. Mands, according to Mrs. Bates, became so abusive that she could not longer stand his conduct and she complained to the police. Mands was arrested by Acting Sergeant William Graham and Patrolman Dennis Murphy.

The case of Arthur Karos, State street restaurant proprietor, charged with breach of the peace, did not go to trial for Karos was not presented, nor will he be. Karos was arrested yesterday after he and a cook employed by him, Andrew Mandola, quarreled and during the argument, Karos struck Mandola.

The only other cases were two charged with intoxication. One of them, an inmate of Hillside home and partially paralyzed, was discharged and the other case was continued until April 6.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles R. B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the drivers' licenses of Irving Lipton, 283 Huntington street; John Davis, United States Coast Guard and Leon Godley, submarine base. Commissioner Stoeckel also denied the right to drive to T. R. Ward, 257 Montauk avenue.

VERDI IS FINED $200 WITH COSTS, ON TWO COUNTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, March 30—Joseph Verdi, a barber residing at 18 Brewster street, was in the police court this morning charged with violation of the liquor law on two counts, possession and keeping with intent to sell. He pleaded guilty and was fined $200 and costs. Verdi was arrested at his home late yesterday by a searching force, consisting of Detective Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh and Acting Sergeant William Graham and Patrolman Dennis Murphy. The officers have had information for a long time that Verdi was selling whiskey and wine and they found just what they expected for they uncovered liquor and wine that was stored there and for sale. It was the first time that Verdi has been arrested on this charge.

Mayor James A. May of New London delivered an interesting address before the citizenship classes at the West Side Junior high school, Meriden, last Friday afternoon, says this week's Catholic Transcript (Hartford). The mayor took as his subject, "The City Manager Plan, One of the Newest Types of Municipal Government." He contrasted the mayor council type of city government, as in vogue in Meriden, with that of the city manager plan, which is in operation in New London, and explained the advantages and defects existing in both systems. The talk was arranged by J. Ormonde Phelan, instructor in citizenship, who was a classmate of the mayor at Niagara University.

MURDERED MRS. MCGREGOR TO BE BURIED BY RELATIVES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, March 30—Mrs. Josephine McGregor, slain last night by her husband, Niels McGregor, of 148 West 142nd street, New York, when the husband awaited the coming of his wife on her way from her work on High street, will be buried in New London; today relatives of the woman made that arrangement. The father of the woman, who is employed by the Merritt-Chapman-Scott company, is in New York, but when he received a telephone message telling of his daughter's murder he announced that he would return to New London at once. Mrs. McGregor is also survived by two brothers, Gerville, with whom she resided at 95 Howard street and Amello, besides a sister, Mrs. Helen Hunt, also of this city. Her mother is residing in the West Indies. Since McGregor killed himself, after having slain his wife on Colt street, it has been revealed through correspondence which the police authorities received from McGregor that it was his insane devotion for his wife that prompted his rash act. McGregor and his wife had been estranged nine times during their matrimonial experience and the final time, the one which resulted in her coming to New London to establish her residence, brought about the double tragedy. Mrs. McGregor's father was a Scotchman and her mother was Portuguese; as McGregor was a Negro of the brown-skin type. Mrs. McGregor after her marriage realized that she had wedded a Negro and then desired to separate from her husband. Her attitude angered McGregor, who was devoted to his wife, as proved by several letters that the police and Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Cronin received from the New York man. His letters were sincere and full of pathos. He entreated the authorities to induce his wife to return to New York and continue to reside with him, but his entreaties were in vain. Finally McGregor wrote his wife a letter in which it was indicated that he was desperate and that he would take her life, but the letter did not come to the surface until after the murder and suicide. It is apparent to the police and Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman that McGregor, fully possessed of his intention to carry out the double tragedy, for after ascertaining that his wife was employed by Barney Kozakow, he went to the corner of Hempstead and Truman streets where he waited till his wife started on her walk to Howard street. When the woman was near the corner, McGregor approached and engaged his wife in conversation, presumably to entreat her to return to New York. Evidently Mrs. McGregor was blunt in her refusal to do so, for the couple had not walked more than a block and a half when they reached Colt street and it was there that he pulled a 32-calibre automatic revolver of Spanish manufacture and sent four of the bullets into the body of his wife. He then turned the weapon upon himself putting a bullet through his brain, the missle entering the skull from behind the ear. There are distinct powder marks on McGregor's neck and Mrs. McGregor's face and cheek, which shows that the shots were fired at close range. McGregor by his missives to his wife and to the police would indicate that their marital troubles were solely the result of their racial condition. Mrs. McGregor was a Catholic but the husband was not, although he had made it known that he would become a convert if such an act would result in his wife consenting to return and reside with him. Coroner J. J. Desmond will not even conduct an autopsy and before Monday probably the bodies of husband and wife will be resting in graves apart. The revolver with which McGregor accomplished his deed was of Spanish make, being of high-class manufacture. It was gold filled, with ivory handle and with an engraved design covering the entire chamber. The bullets were steel jacketed and although McGregor had put but five bullets in the chamber he carried five additional shots, which were found in his pocket.

Arnold Ballantyne, 15 Maple avenue, Montville, was in a justice court in Montville, last night charged on two counts with violation of the automobile law. He was fined $10 and costs on each count. Ballantyne was arrested yesterday afternoon by State Police Officer Johnson when the officer detected Ballantyne driving a truck without a license and with the automobile being supplied with improper markers, for the markers being used belonged to another car.

Gerald Mullaney, a federal prisoner, is locked up at police headquarters tonight, having been brought there by Sergeant Dwyer and is classed as a deserter. Mullaney will be taken to Fort Wright, Fishers Island, tomorrow and within a day or two will be given a summary court martial.

The Hartford police tonight informed the New London police that they had in their possession an automobile found abandoned on the highway since March 13 and that the car had undoubtedly been stolen and then abandoned. The auto is a Hudson, 1920 model and carries Connecticut registration, 82-757. The registration was found in the auto showing that it is the property of Pedson Carmen, 57 Bank street. The address is the Hotel Royal and Carmen has been a patron of the hotel on various occasions.

Palace Theater

The Drake and Walker big colored revue opened at the Palace theatre on Thursday, has been playing to capacity houses. This company of clever artists more than pleased the theatre going public of Norwich. Henry Drake, the chief fun maker, has proven himself a performer of merit. Mr. Drake is not alone an inimitable comedian of unusual quality but a musician of tone as well. A ten piece band is the feature attraction with the show and they are well worth the price of admission alone. Fifteen creole beauties and the dancing boys as well as the Drake brothers do some exceptionally good dancing to say the least of Ethel Walker and Jackie Mabely who captured their audience from the beginning. This company will close its engagement here today. Popular prices prevail.

Esther Ralston in "Something Always Happens" has been greatly enjoyed by all who have seen it. It is a mystery story that will keep you guessing up to the very end. Its full of thrills, but there's a laugh for every thrill and a few extra ones thrown in for good measure.

Starting Sunday, the screen attraction for three days will be "Resurrection," with Rod Rocque and Dolores Del Rio. This flesh-and-blood drama of the great Russian's immortal story grips new and greater millions through this film version. The Tolstoy story of prince and peasant, which has been read in eleven languages and acted in seven stage versions, is a throbbingly emotional narrative splendidly portrayed by Rod La Rocque and Dolores Del Rio in the principal roles.

La Rocque as Prince Dmitri Nekhludoff is well cast, and succeeds in registering his versatility as an actor in the several stages of Dmitri's retrogression and spiritual resurrection. He was particularly fine in the scene wherein the prince sits on the jury trying the woman he has desecrated himself.

Dolores del Rio, playing the role of Katusha Maslova in a film directed by her discoverer, Edwin Carewe, rises to a performance that must be listed among the finest of the year.

Breed Theatre

Ramon Novarro in the role of an adventurous Spanish don comes to the Breed theatre tomorrow night in "The Road to Romance," his latest starring vehicle for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

The film is an elaborate picturization of Joseph Conrad's famous sea story, "The Road to Romance," and provides "Novarro, in its swashbuckling hero, one of the most colorful, fiery roles of his career. As the courageous youth of an aristocratic family, he sails from Madrid for Cuba to rescue his cousin, Serafina, who is about to fall into the hands of Don Balthasar, a political rogue. It is in the days when piracy flourished upon the Caribbean and the West Indies were a hotbed of intrigue.

He is captured by pirates, imprisoned, escapes through the power of his quick wits and eventually finds the girl. The two immediately fall in love and danger and thrills follow each other in breathtaking suspense. The picture is dramatic in the extreme and boasts a love story of unusual appeal.

A remarkable cast supports Novarro, headed by Marceline Day as the charming Serafina. Roy D'Arcy plays the part of Balthasar. Other well known players are Marc McDermott, Bobby Mack, Jules Cowles, Otto Matieson and Cesare Gravina. John S. Robertson directed.

Eastern Conn. Bond & Mortgage Corp.

Since the announcement of its incorporation the Eastern Connecticut Bond & Mortgage corporation has completed its board of directors by the addition of the names of Mr. N Lorne Greig of Dayville and Mr. C. Hadlai Hull of New London, to those of Mr. Shepard B. Palmer of Norwich, Mr. William G. Park of Hanover, Mr. James L. Case of Norwich, Mr. Ward T. Alling of New London, and Mr. Guthrie Shaw of Rye, New York, the incorporating directors.

In addition, the following were invited to join the corporation in an advisory capacity, and they have accepted this invitation and comprise the local advisory board. These men will aid in making the local appraisals, informing the directors as to local conditions, and as a general representative of the company in their particular locality:

Nelson J. Ayling, Norwich; Arthur M. Brown, Norwich; Philip A. Johnson, Jewett City; Sidney H. Miner, New London; Lucius B. Crawska, Moosup; Timothy C. Murphy, Norwich; Walter F. Lester, Norwich; Nathan Belden, New London; Chas. D. Noyes, Norwich; William H. Oat, Norwich; James M. Morton, Norwich; George H. Bradford, Uncasville; Louis J. Fontaine, Baltic; Thomas Hope, Moosup; Loren E. Daboll, New London.

The Eastern Connecticut Bond & Mortgage corporation was organized by the above prominent men to fill the long felt want in this locality for standardized secondary financing on homes hoping thereby to aid the community by the establishing of a system by which homes could be bought on a basis similar to paying rent.

Up until now there has been a complete lack of uniformity of price standards in the second mortgage field which has decidedly reacted against the industry. By introducing new and approved methods, standardizing of rates providing for intelligent appraisals, approved by the advisory members, the Eastern Connecticut Bond & Mortgage corporation has made a decided step forward in improving this condition and is doing its business on a plane comparable with the best first mortgage institutions. It is because of these high standards that the above men have consented to give their assistance to this undertaking.

The corporation is organized with a capitalization of $250,000 of which over one-third has already been subscribed by the organizers and the public. Further money being necessary to take care of the continual demand for loans it has been decided to offer 400 units of stock at a price of $90 a unit, each unit being composed of two shares of 8 per cent cumulative preferred stock of a par of $25 and two shares of no par common stock.

Mortgages taken by the corporation are on homes exclusively, and business properties—land, hotels, garages, etc., are not considered. All mortgages are on the monthly amortization basis and are for a period of not over five years. These two points, added to the careful passing on of appraisals, form the strong protections by which all the mortgages are safeguarded.

The average mortgage held by the Eastern Connecticut Bond & Mortgage corporation amounts to approximately $2,500. They are principally on the homes of wage earners and salaried people. Whereas these people may have a large earning capacity, their surplus capital at the present time is small. The monthly amortization plan therefore makes this simply an installment plan of paying for them and is so arranged that the second mortgage is paid off within five years. An interesting fact in this regard is that experience shows that in nearly every case where the second mortgage has been paid off on this basis, the owner has found it so easy that he then proceeds on the same basis to pay off his first mortgage and so have his home free and clear.

It is further interesting to know that the second mortgage business is not dependent upon conditions in the financial world. Although the second mortgage business is very large in times of prosperity, experience shows that the demand for second mortgage funds is even greater in times of economic stress.

Further, that the second mortgage business is not seasonal and in fact a thorough study of conditions in other territories having companies acting similarly to the Eastern Connecticut Bond & Mortgage corporation has shown that the demand for mortgage funds has always exceeded the supply regardless of the season of the year.

First mortgages are safe not because they are first mortgages nor are second mortgages unsafe because they are second mortgages; the safety depends entirely on the amount of equity on the property securing the mortgage and the moral character of the owner and his ability to pay. By means of the associated advisory board members the risk is cut to a minimum in this local corporation.

Whereas the Eastern Connecticut Bond & Mortgage corporation is an entirely independent and locally owned and controlled corporation, business is being conducted under the "Standard System" of the Standard Mortgage Bond & Share corporation of Hartford, Connecticut who have already had a great deal of experience in setting up and operating these companies. Although the corporation is a new one, therefore, they have the experience of the Standard Mortgage Bond & Share corporation to fall back on in operating their corporation and this is considered a decided asset to them and one which should be of assistance to the local corporation.

Remember, second mortgages are the ones that are paid off first.

Moving Pictures Y. M. C. A. Sunday

At 4 o'clock tomorrow, Sunday afternoon, interesting and inspiring moving pictures will be shown. The pictures will include "Nazareth, the Boyhood Home of Jesus." This portrays the place high up in the mountains of Galilee, the town of Nazareth, where almost two thousand years ago dwelt the lad, Jesus with his mother and Father. We pause to examine the statue of Mary, outside the little church, where village women come for water as they did when Mary dwelt there. Beyond Nazareth there looms the Mountain of Transfiguration, and the spot where Jesus was baptised by John is shown; Cana, where Jesus performed his first miracle is shown.

The official motion picture of Commander Byrd's polar flight, will also be screened and this is both instructive and interesting, as well as thrilling. The triumph of the motion picture as the great and intelligent servant of mankind, and the absolute demonstration of its immeasurable value was never more dramatically made evident. A pathe review of real interest will also be shown.

A brief talk will be given during the service.

To this service, the public, except those under fourteen are invited. A free offering will be taken.

MEETING ACTS FAVORABLY TO FORMING E. C. COMMERCE CHAMBER ASSOCIATION

Unanimous endorsement of the proposal to form an Eastern Connecticut Chamber of Commerce association was voted here Friday evening at the conference of representatives from chambers of commerce in this city, Clinton, Danielson, Groton, Moosup, Mystic, New London, Niantic, Old Saybrook, Putnam, Waterford and Willimantic and the board of trade in Essex, with Executive Vice President Clark Belden of the Connecticut chamber of commerce, William F. Barber, field secretary, and Robert L. Gilbert, assistant secretary, also present.

There was an attendance of 24 at the meeting which was held at the Wauregan hotel with a supper at 6.30. Mr. Belden presided and explained the scope of the meeting, which he said was the second of its kind held in the state, the first having been in Naugatuck last fall, when the Naugatuck Valley association was formed. Its purpose included mutual acquaintance, cooperation in working out problems and the stimulation which might come from an exchange of ideas. As an instance of what might be considered, he mentioned that the Naugatuck organization had discussed stream pollution, forestry and state parks, scenic beauty, highways, textiles and publicity.

P. B. McNamara of Groton responded to an invitation to suggest something which might be of interest for such an organization to take up here by speaking of the acquirement by the state for public park and beach purposes of the Bluff Point, or Gardner tract, in the town of Groton. Now that the state has taken an option on adjoining land for an aviation field, Mr. McNamara stated that there was added reason why this Gardner property should be secured for a state reservation.

Frank P. Fenton of Willimantic supported what Mr. McNamara had said on the ground that anything which benefit a part of this section benefits the whole and he moved the formation of such an association as Mr. Belden had suggested.

The meeting passed the following unanimously:

Whereas: (1) A conference was called by the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce to consider matters of mutual interest to the communities of Clinton, Colchester, Danielson, Essex, Groton, Moosup, Mystic, New London, Niantic, Norwich, Old Saybrook, Putnam, Waterford and Willimantic: (2) We, the undersigned, met at Norwich on the evening of March 30 to discuss matters of mutual interest; (3) After a thorough discussion, we see a field of common effort for constructive accomplishment for the benefit of the foregoing communities:

Resolved, that we recommend to our respective chambers: (1) The formation of "The Eastern Connecticut Chambers of Commerce Association"; (2) The appointment by each of the foregoing chambers of commerce of its president, secretary and one other representative and a representative of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce to comprise the foregoing association; (3) The approval of this plan and the appointment of these representatives as promptly as possible by each of the foregoing chambers; (4) That the duly authorized representatives meet as soon as the foregoing chambers authorize this action and elect a president and secretary, this first meeting to be called by the state chamber of commerce; (5) That these representatives prepare a program calculated to benefit Eastern Connecticut as a whole; (6) That the Eastern Connecticut Chambers of Commerce Association place its program before each of the foregoing chambers for its approval; (7) That representatives of the association proceed to carry out as much of this program as meets with approval as soon as each chamber has acted.

It was suggested that at the next meeting of the conference a committee could be appointed to make a study of the Groton state park subject.

Later in the meeting it was voted that the representatives of the chambers of commerce secure and report by April 15 on the opinion of their organizations on the formation of this association.

It was also voted that the next meeting be in Willimantic and that State Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald be invited to speak upon the 1928 highway program for this section of the state and Senator John Wadhams to speak upon stream pollution.

President T. H. de Coudres of Putnam spoke of the necessity of being awake to counteract the efforts of Webster and Worcester, which are trying to get a federal aid trunk line run to the north of Willimantic and Putnam, although the present layout is designed to pass through these two Connecticut towns.

Secretary Earl J. Arnold of Willimantic voiced his belief that this organization could do a great amount of good, President Louis F. Beitzel of Groton advised that the meetings be held in different cities, and Vice-President W. H. G. Herklots of Danielson brought up the subject of funds in order to provide for a campaign of publicity.

Secretary C. D. Wicks of Niantic spoke of publicity booklets and the value of co-operation and Mr. Beitzel read resolutions of protest signed by 16 department heads and foremen of the New London Ship & Engine company, Electric Boat company and Vanadium Metal company against placing all government ship work in navy yards at the expense of private establishments all over the country.

After considerable discussion, it was voted on motion of Mr. Arnold of Willimantic to refer this to the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce for earnest consideration and with the approval of this body. President H. D. Larrabee of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce endorsed the protest, stating that government work represented a duplicate investment since there were private plants already equipped for this work, and he declared that this complaint of government interference with labor involved the same principle as the employment of convict labor.

Secretary George H. Garlepy of New London advocated a program of industrial expansion and said eastern Connecticut should get into line to match the intensive industrial program of western Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Secretary Walter H. Pilcher spoke along the line of supporting industries already located in a community, and Mrs. Carl C. Cutler, secretary of the Mystic Chamber of Commerce, responded in an interesting way when called upon, speaking of what is possible through co-operation.

Secretary Garlepy was asked to speak about the prospects of New London securing the four-day trans-Atlantic line. He responded by stating that there was nothing certain that could be said about it except that New London was losing no opportunity in furthering its claims to be selected as the port in this country.

The representatives attending the meeting were the following:

Firestone, Junior, now in the African jungles, today broadcasted the first message sent from the special radio station recently erected on the Firestone rubber plantation in the interior of Liberia, on the West Coast of Africa. The message was received at a similar station on the roof of the Firestone factories at Akron, Ohio.

Broadcasting by radio direct from one continent to another thus gives the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. a great advantage in developing its million acres of rubber lands that were secured from the Liberian government. Although these properties are located over 5,000 miles from the Firestone headquarters at Akron, Ohio, it will now be possible to send reports every day by radio from the Liberian plantations to Akron.

Mr. Firestone, Jr., has been in Liberia since early January and states that during the first year two 50,000 acre plantations have been laid out and that over 1,500,000 rubber trees have been planted.

Mr. Firestone has also opened trade schools for the natives, all trades being taught and thus making Liberia an increasingly important competitor of the English and Dutch rubber growers.

And now the British parliament is seriously considering the question of abandoning or at least modifying the rubber restriction policy.

When Premier Baldwin brought up the question of modifying rubber restriction in the British parliament, rubber was selling around 42 cents a pound. Within a few weeks it dropped to about 18 cents a pound. Since a variation of 1 cent a pound means a difference of over $8,000,000 a year to American rubber buyers, the decline from 42 to 24 cents a pound will mean a saving of $150,000,000 a year to America if the present price is maintained.

ADVERSE WEATHER FOR DUBLIN-NEW YORK FLIGHT

BALDONNEL, March 30—(AP)—Adverse weather in Ireland and over the Atlantic ruined Baron Von Huenefeld's hope to continue his flight from Berlin to Mitchel Field, L. I., this week. The Junkers plane Bremen was unleased today from its air field moorings, and with a full load of fuel and oil abroad was carefully rolled back into the hangar, and the fliers are not optimistic about starting before Monday.

Free State troops guarding the plane were prepared for a long siege against the weather; they had dug themselves into trenches, with a shelter overhead for protection from wind, rain and cold, which made Baldonnel field a particularly uncomfortable place in the last few days.

SPECULATIVE FAVORITES SOARED IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, March 30—(AP)—The lid was blown off the stock market today and prices of speculative favorites soared $5 to nearly $25 a share.

Nearly one hundred individual issues crashed through to new high records in one of the most tumultuous sessions of the roaring bull market which started four weeks ago today. Total sales crossed the 4,000,000 share mark for the fifth time this month but the day's total of 4,586,300 shares fell below the record breaking total of 4,762,400 established on March 27.

The averages of 20 leading industrial issues, compiled by the Associated Press, advanced nearly 5 points, crossing the 200 mark for the first time in history. The average of 20 leading rails moved up nearly a point to a new high for the year but was still nearly 5 points below the peak established last year.
